An Unusual Interview With John Galsworthy

Distinguished English Author, Now in This Country, Is Very Shy at Talking Off Hand for Publication and Calls on His "Canned" Notes to Help Him Out—But, in His Confusion, He Does Not Forget to Do a Bit of Good Press Agenting by Mentioning His Newest Book.

By ELIZABETH ESKEY,

A Staff Correspondent of the Post-Dispatch.

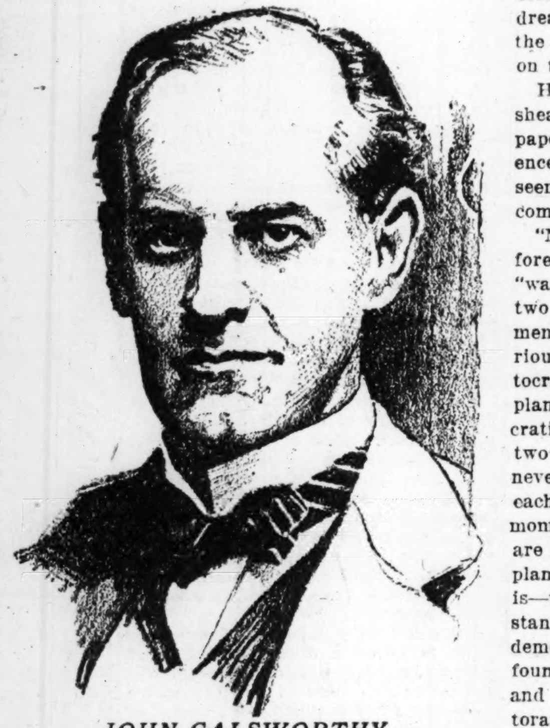
NEW YORK, Feb. 15.

JOHN GALSWORTHY sat uncomfortably among the silk cushions on a big settee in the parlor of the Hotel Chatham. His fingers played nervously with a silk tassel, twisting it about with little, futile movements of his hands. He is a long, thin, worn-looking man, with the high forehead and look of fine reserve familiar to the public in his photographs.



JOHN GALSWORTHY.

Just then his expression was a curious blend of humor and helplessness and something akin to panic.

"You know, you can't expect to 'get' me in a single interview," he said, in gentle deprecation. "You can't get anybody in a single interview. You have my books, and my books are me." This last with a fine disregard for the conventions of syntax. "Besides," he added, in an apologetic tone, "I—I express myself with very great difficulty. I"——

"But we want you to make a definition of the times for us," I persisted. "All this social, political and industrial unrest, of which the papers are now full. What does it mean? Where are we going?"

"I don't think anyone is sure where we are going," he said, with a smile. After a few moments of thought, he continued: "I suppose you want to know whether the end of all this change is going to be anarchy or a real democracy. I think"—he paused and weighed the words, and then repeated them—"I think that in England and America the end is going to be democracy.

Problem of Discontented Soldiers.

"The period we which we are entering upon is, as you say, one of many unrests, and there is no general formula to cover them. Everything is broken up. And the unrest of the returned soldier is particularly dynamic and to be reckoned with. The English soldier was not a lamb before the war. He returns a restive fellow, knowing his own mind better, and possibly his real interests less well; he will in the future play less for safety, since safety has become to him a civilian sort of thing, rather contemptible. He is going to be impatient of anything that seems to him injustice.

"In this connection, I might say that we have in England a problem that you do not have in America, in anything like so serious a form at least. The war has made a division in our population. Those who have been through the war feel in a way cut off from those who have not. However much the soldier may disguise it, he feels that he has been through a tremendous thing which the rest of the population hasn't. This divides us into two kinds of Englishmen.

"Then a special pocket of unrest is formed by the five or six hundred thousands more or less disabled soldiers. These men form, to some extent, a class apart, and it is difficult to remove their sense of this. You can give them a pension, but that doesn't equalize things. Here in America your small number of wounded will be absorbed into a large population; still, it is most important to do everything possible for these men, to remove as far as possible this dangerous clique feeling among them."

Once started, his speech flowed without apparent effort, and when he stopped I was amazed to see that his hands were trembling with nervousness. I had read of his shyness on the occasion of his last visit to America in 1912, when he came over to see the production of "The Pigeon" in Winthrop Ames' Theater. At that time he almost succeeded in eluding newspaper publicity.

Interview Embarrasses Him.

Someone once noticed the fact that when Mrs. Galsworthy is not present to lay her hand on just the proper lever, he sometimes has trouble starting the big engine of his brain.

Suddenly he arose. "If you will excuse me for a moment," he said. "I have some notes upstairs. I get so confused I don't know what I want to say."

"And do you have a photograph?" I asked.

He looked as helpless as a lost child. "I don't know. I'll ask her," he said.

"She," Mrs. Galsworthy, above mentioned, was ill upstairs with what he termed a "wretched cold." "And what dreadful pictures of her the photographers took on the boat," he said.

He returned with a sheaf of typewritten papers, and their presence in his hand seemed to give him comfort.

"Now the danger before the war," he said, "was that there were two forms of government among the various nations. The autocratic was on one plane and the democratic on another. These two never did and never could understand each other. For the moment Governments are now on a single plane. But the danger is—we have the instance of Russia—that democracy, unless it is founded on an educated and responsible electorate, is liable to fall under dictatorship. Would you like to copy this paragraph?" he broke off, holding out the manuscript.

Keeps His Interviews Canned.

As I read the trenchant sentences he sat up, with a barely perceptible stiffening, and looked out from under his forehead with a twinkle of self-satisfaction that was very comic.

"Won't you let me take the manuscript?" I pleaded.

He looked aghast. "No, indeed," he said firmly. "If you took it I shouldn't be able to say anything to anyone else." So I copied down these sentences:

"Democracy, to be worth anything, is neither government by rabble nor government by caucus. Its measure as a beneficent principle is the measure of intelligence, honesty and independence of the average voters. The voter who goes to the polls blind of one eye and with a cast in the other is not precisely the sort of ultimate power we want. Democracy, to be real and effective, must throw up into positions of administrative power the most trustworthy citizens. What can be done to insure that the average voter becomes trustworthy, honest and independent? Nothing can be done except by education—the arts, the schools, the press. If they are fine the future will be fine. If they are mean, so will the future be.

"I think there is a better chance of reaching a real democracy in England and America than in any other nations. They set more store by the independence of the individual than other nations. This independence is a part of their ingrained combativeness. If America and Great Britain will understand each other, and hold together, they may succeed in making democracy genuine for the world. If aggressive and jealous policies separate them, who can say what the future may become?"

Doesn't Forget His New Book.

"Do you think," I asked, "that this war, with its new ideals, will be followed by great poetry, as was the French Revolution?"

"The ideals are not new," he replied. "It is the spade-work needed to realize them that will be new, and, in my experience, spade-work does not inspire."

He rose and shook hands with me kindly. "Much of all this," he said, "you will find in 'Another Sheaf,' a book of mine which was published by Scribners' a few days ago. Go around the corner and get a copy of it, and use whatever you wish."

The book does indeed contain the information I had been struggling to elicit. It contains other matters also. A few paragraphs will serve to suggest some of the other qualities in the man.

Notice the unobtrusive humor in this jotting from "Englishman and Russian":

"What we ought to envy in Russians is a sort of unworldliness—not the feeling that this world is the preliminary of another, nothing so com-

'Metz a Symbol of Alsace-Lorraine's Woes'

Simonds Tells of Visit to City

The Hideous Thing That Germany, With Her Mechanically Superior, but Utterly Soulless Civilization, Is and Has Done Is Written All Over That City, Free After 50 Years of Bondage.

By FRANK H. SIMONDS,

The Post-Dispatch's Military Critic Who Is in Paris to Comment on the Peace Council Proceedings.

PARIS, Feb. 12, 1919.

AT THE moment when the peace conference is dealing with theories of world reconstruction, with the ushering in of a new world, it has been my good fortune, through the courtesy of the French Government, to see the old being restored, not in theory, but in fact, in Alsace-Lorraine, and particularly in Metz. I have seen older civilization, Latin culture, reoccupying territory lost half a century ago, returning to its monuments still undestroyed. There, and not in Paris or in London, one must look to see the effect of the recent world decision.

And in Metz even more than in any devastated area or any contested battlefield—and I have seen most of both—one feels the magnitude of the thing that was yesterday the German empire on the march, and may be the German republic on the march tomorrow. In Lille, in Douai, in cities recently relinquished after four years' occupation, signs of the German occupation are everywhere. There is the consciousness of a great and malign spirit recently exercised, but after all its stay was brief, and French life, French spirit, is rapidly reasserting itself.

I HAVE seen no such interesting or impressive city in Europe during the war or in the world before as is Metz today. Hating the German thing all my life, I have never understood it half as well as in this tragic town recalled from the grave, still incredulous of its deliverance, hope and fear still struggling, a prisoner newly come from an underground cell after half a century of torture. And you have the sense in Metz that Germany may come again. The very solidity of his buildings, the very extensiveness of his constructions, foster the illusion. It was not the military caste or the imperial master who worked here; it was the race, expressing its purpose relentlessly and with absolute confidence. Rome restored the barriers of the Rhineland against these same barbarians, but they passed it still again. You have the sense of two civilizations in lock at Metz, of the German once more in retreat, but still resolved in his inscrutable heart to return to conquer, imprison and tyrannize again.—FRANK H. SIMONDS.

But in Metz it is different. It is rather like an arm, long bound, restrained in a plaster cast; the familiar difficulty of first movements, the excruciating pain, the uncertainty of control—all are to be seen in this Lorraine town. Metz is a living part of France again today, but it is yet suffering from long restraint. Its life reopens, but with great difficulties.

Metz in 1870 and Now

Yet it is not the material side of the German occupation that one must first observe. Here 50 years ago was a little city as French as Tours or Orleans, a garrison town with a history going back to Roman times, with forts dating from Vauban. In its population there was not a German and there had not been for centuries. In 1870 Metz was a sleepy little French town, politically and economically nothing, militarily important, because, like Verdun, it covered the road to the heart of France. Out of this calm Metz waked in 1870, for those terrible days when Bazaine blundered and one of the finest armies France ever possessed was thrown away, or rather permitted to die of inanition; and then the German came pouring in by all roads, north and south, west and east, and bringing with him his familiar "green map" and learned professors with their musty documents to prove that Metz was German land, while the soldier came to enforce argument with the guns recently laid upon Paris.

And now, after half a century, the story of German occupation lies open to the traveler. More than this, there is disclosed clear and unmistakable evidence of what the German meant to do to all of us in time, perhaps still means to do, for in Metz as nowhere else in all his conquered lands the German expressed his soul, or his lack of soul; his materialism, his doctrine of mechanical efficiency. Poor, half-strangled, totally suppressed Metz is just beginning to peer out from the darkness of 50 years of German domination, to supply enduring evidence of what the German means. If you would understand him altogether, go to Metz. The whole story is there.

Station Suggests St. Louis

And this is the story as you will find it. Remember Metz of 1870, a little French town huddled about its charming cathedral, leaning on the banks of its Moselle canals, picturesque, quaint, insanitary, impregnable to progress or the new doctrine of efficiency, beautiful alike in site, in surroundings, beautiful itself as all French provincial towns are, but beautiful with the spirit and atmosphere, which came up in remote times from the Mediterranean.

Now, by contrast, the traveler who comes to Metz finds this: First of all, he arrives at the railroad station which, to the American, will suggest St. Louis or Kansas City, the union station of any one of our great American cities, stretching block on block, in towering and colossal ugliness, a station adequate for the needs of a city of half a million inhabitants, bestowed upon a town of little more than 50,000.

And mile on mile, in all directions, behind the facade of a structure done in the familiar armory architecture of the latter period of William McKinley, stretch endless tracks and structures, all colossal, and a vast creation surmounted by a statue of Roland, bearing the personal features of the recent German Governor.

From the station one comes into a broad avenue leading in all directions, an avenue flanked by still other colossal buildings, hotels, postoffice, banks, all in the same heavy, beetle brown, impressively ugly style we know as modern German. But each building, each broad avenue, hideous in itself is an unmistakable monument to German efficiency and the totality of effect is unescapable. It is as if the German had resolved that the mass of buildings should as a chorus exclaim to the visitor, "Damn you, stop! You must see that Metz is German, that Germany is greater than everything else."

I do not know any words that I can use to give the effect, the startling, almost terrifying, completeness of this first effect. Neither Hamburg nor Berlin nor Munich would seem half as defiantly German as Metz seemed from the railroad quarters, seemed from the region of the new town, where the German had thrown down the walls of Vaubon, leveled bridges, swept off all familiar landmarks and erected monument after monument to the great German god of efficiency.

To be sure the Frenchman has come back, even in these regions. In a most dreadfully impressive avenue, with its rows of goose-stepping German mansions, until recently the home of German Generals and Colonels on the retired list, who came to Metz to grow old amidst proud reminders of conquest by sword and by stone, in this avenue, which yesterday bore the name of Kaiser Wilhelm II, derived from a statue now disappeared, the French have hung a sign, "Avenue Marshal Foch." But the touch of irony is slight. One feels rather sorry for the Marshal in such a strange street. And beyond the railroad quarter, by avenues which narrow as they advance, one marches to a broad square, where, in lineliness, Marshal Ney for half a century has listened to German bugles and reviewed German regiments, until the happy hour still recent when Marshal Petain took his stand beside his great predecessor and reviewed the French army returning to Metz. So far the German hand is everywhere, the German mailed fist unmistakable, in barracks, in buildings, in streets.

More Defiantly, German Than Berlin

But across the square France begins again. One plunges into familiar, narrow, winding streets, set around with an architecture of Verdun or Toul, sights and even smells of France. I know of no more sudden shock—for a mile from the station to the monument Germany, nothing but Germany—then of a sudden one crosses a frontier, as impressive as the canyon between Mentone and Italy. Following the narrow, winding streets, one arrives in a moment in the main place, and above one in all its delicate and graceful tracery rises the Metz Cathedral, as beautiful as any cathedral in all France, and as French as Rheims was, or Amiens, remains and there in an instant is the contrast—the railroad station with its towering and flaunting ugliness, the German quarters, with their spacious hideousness, and at the other end of Metz the Cathedral, in its typically French square, with all the charm, the simplicity, the inconsequence, the appeal to the senses which are reached by the beautiful as contrasted with the challenge of the brusque, imperious, dominating part of the German world behind. I wish I could make clear how much of all the story of the German idea, the German purpose, is revealed, forced upon one, by a simple promenade from the Metz depot to the Metz Ca-

What Our Negro Soldiers Did in the Great War

Ninety-Second, Trained at Funston, Went Into the Hottest of the Argonne Fighting on Nov. 10 and Gave Fine Account of Itself—Croix de Guerre for an Entire Colored Battalion.

WASHINGTON, Feb. 15.

IT is now possible to take stock of the conduct of our negro soldiers in the war and report from the official records their notable work and heroic achievements. The total number of negro combat troops sent to France was 42,000. It is of primary interest to St. Louisans that the only negro division that went over intact was the Ninety-second, trained at Camp Funston and consisting in part of St. Louis and Missouri drafted men. It was commanded by Major-General Charles G. Ballou. The company commanders were all negroes, and the field officers all white.

In addition to this division, four regiments of the Provisional Ninety-third Division also went over. These units are, of course, all exclusive of the thousands of noncombatant negro units that were sent to France to serve in pioneering and engineering work.

Negro troops fought valiantly at Chateau-Thierry, Soissons, on the Vesle, in Champagne, in the Argonne, and in the final attacks in the Metz region. The entire first battalion of the 367th Infantry—"Buffaloes"—was awarded the Croix de Guerre for heroism in the drive on Metz. Most remarkable of all, they received their baptism of battle in this attack, at the start they won honors which veterans of many conflicts have failed to capture.

"Stars and Stripes'" Tribute to Negroes

"PROBABLY the hardest fighting done by any Americans in the final hour was that which engaged the troops of the Twenty-eighth, Ninety-second, Eighty-first and Seventh Divisions of the Second American Army, who launched a fire-eating attack above Vigneulles just at dawn on the 11th. It was no mild thing that last flare of the battle, and the order to cease firing did not reach the men in the front line until the last moment, when the runners sped with it from fox hole to fox hole."

In previous engagements of the war, for distinguished service, three negro regiments as units were awarded the Croix de Guerre, which bestows on each member the right to wear the coveted badge. When the fighting stopped the negro troops were nearest the Rhine.

Negro as Individual Fighter

Not until now has the story as a whole of the part played by our negro troops in France been available. To describe the colored man as a fighter in a war which, because of the terrible weapons used, called for more pure nerve than any other war, three ways present themselves: to show the negro in individual exploits, then in a regiment, engaged separately with white troops, and finally, to show him in a battle in a division entirely composed of men of his own race.

Here is an individual exploit:

The 368th Infantry, colored, fought in the Argonne. It became necessary to send a runner with a message to the left flank of an American firing line. The way was across an open field swept by heavy enemy machine gun fire.

Volunteers were called for. Private Edward Saunders of Company I responded. Before he had gone far a shell cut him down. As he fell he cried to his comrades:

"Someone come and get this message. I am wounded."

Lieut. Robert L. Campbell of the same company sprang to the rescue. He dashed across the shell-swept space, picked up the wounded private, and, with the Germans fairly hailing bullets around him, carried his man back to the American lines.

For the valor shown both were cited for the Distinguished Service Cross, and Lieut. Campbell, in addition, was recommended for a captaincy.

Another single detail, taken from this same company:

John Baker, having volunteered, was taking a message through heavy shell fire to another part of his line. A shell struck his hand, tearing away part of it, but the negro, unfaltering, delivered the message.

He was asked why he did not seek aid for his wounds before completing the journey.

"I thought the message might contain information that would save lives," was the answer.

Under the same Lieut. Robert L. Campbell, a few negro soldiers, armed only with their rifles, trench knives and hand grenades, picked up from shell holes along the way, were moving over a road in the Chateau-Thierry sector. Suddenly their course was crossed by the firing of a German machine gun. They tried to locate it by the direction of the bullets, but could not. To their right, a little ahead, lay a space covered with thick underbrush; just back of it was an open field.

How Negro Outwitted Germans

Lieut. Campbell, who knew by the direction of the bullets that his party had not been seen by the Germans, ordered one of his men, with a rope which they happened to have, to crawl to the thick underbrush, and tie the rope to several stems of the brush; then to withdraw as far as possible and pull the rope, making the brush shake as though men were crawling through it. The purpose was to draw direct fire from the machine guns and, by watching, locate its position.

The ruse worked. Lieut. Campbell then ordered three of his men to steal out and flank the machine gun on one side, while he and two others moved up and flanked it on the other side.

The brush was shaken more violently by the secret rope. The Germans, their eyes focused on the brush, poured a hail of bullets into it. Lieut. Campbell gave the signal. The flanking party dashed up; with their hand grenades they killed four of the boches and captured the remaining three—also the machine gun.

In the larger bodies of colored troops, from the regiment to the division, the participation of the negro soldiers naturally divides itself into two parts on account of the way they were sent over. The negro division, composed of drafted men, did not get into action until right at the last, but individual regiments did. The four regiments that went over first were composed of old National Guard units recruited up to the required quota. These were the 369th, 370th, 371st and 372d Infantry Regiments, afterward organized into the Provisional Ninety-third Division. Until just before the last days of the fighting, however, they were brigaded separately with French troops. Three of these regiments, the 369th, the 371st and the 372d, have received the high honor of the Croix de Guerre from the French Government for distinguished service. Sixty-one officers and men of the 370th have been similary decorated.

Here is the fighting record of one of these regiments, sandwiched among the French forces—the 372d. It was the first to go over. Practically all its line officers, as well as privates, were colored.

They arrived in France on April 14 and went into training with the French on April 28. On June 6 the 372d was sent to the trenches just west of Verdun occupying the famous battle-swept Hill 304 and sections at Four de Paris and Vauquois. On Hill 304 thousands of French and German soldiers had fallen as the battleline swung back and forward, and that this hill was given to the negroes to hold shows that as soldiers they had already won the confidence of the French.

The regiment's first engagement was in the Champagne sector, with Montoir as its objective. Here came the real test; the colored men were eager to get into the fight. They cheered and sang when the announcement came that their chance had arrived—but the question was: back of their enthusiasm had they the staying qualities drilled into European troops through centuries of training in the science of warfare?

The answer was that some of the heaviest and most effective fighting of the day was done by the negro regiment. From June 6 to Sept. 10 the 372d was stationed in the bloody Argonne Forest. On the night of Sept. 25 they were summoned to take part in the Argonne offensive and were in that terrific drive, one of the decisive engagements of the war, from Sept. 26 to Oct. 7. In the nine days' battle the negroes not only proved their fighting qualities in an ordeal such as men have rarely been called upon to face, but these qualities, in deadly striking power and stubborn resistance in crises, stood out with such distinction that the regiment won the coveted Croix de Guerre.

Took 600 Prisoners in Day

During the battle they aided in capturing 600 prisoners, 15 big guns, 20 minenwerfers, rounded up an enormous amount of engineering material, large supplies of artillery munition, and brought down three German airplanes. For these achievements they were at once cited for bravery and efficiency in the General Orders issued by their French commander. The casualty list of the 372d in this and the previous fighting carried 500 names of men killed, wounded and gassed.

Another regiment's record—that of the 369th, formerly the Fifteenth New York, commanded by Col. William Hayward, ex-Public Service Commissioner—reflects as high a credit on the soldierly qualities of the negro race. The 369th was in the Champagne offensive as a part of the Fourth Army, commanded by Gen. Gouraud, a few miles west of the Argonne Forest. These are Col. Hayward's own words describing the drive that tried out his men:

"At 5:25 a. m. the assault was launched, an assault that kept assaulting so far as our division was concerned for 12 days, in which we crossed rivers, captured towns, cut and climbed through acres and acres of barbed wire entangle-

LETTERS FROM THE PEOPLE.

In Defense of Ulster.

To the Editor of the Post-Dispatch.

Archbishop Glennon Sunday evening at the Coliseum, speaking in behalf of Ireland, said that "20 per cent of the voters in Ireland at the last election had a very good reason for voting as they did." Their reason, he continued, for doing so, was "due to the fact that they were sent over in the days of James First to seize Irish land and keep Ireland down, and they have succeeded so well that they like their job and hope England can continue to protect them."

It is certainly a long cry from the reign of James First or James the Secnd, and if the Archbishop thinks that either of these gentlemen "merely sent the ancestors of the 20 per cent over to Ireland to keep Ireland down," he had better refer to history. Did the Archbishop ever hear of the "Solemn League and Covenant of 1643?" the "Great Act of Attainder of 1689," and the great discovery which was made in the year 1678? It was just through such a period as these dates indicate—in a period, mind you, that tried brave men's souls—that the progenitors and fathers of that race comprising the 20 per cent of Ireland's population, were forced to leave everything they held dear and take refuge in Ulster, Ireland, where they could worship God as they pleased. They have tried ever since to do so and have been successful. They have been blessed with abundance of everything that is good. They are horny-handed sons of toil, those men of Ulster, those forebears of a race that has won distinction in every clime, and if ever a class of people had good reason to be heard that 20 per cent has reason to be proud.

These 20 per cent of Ireland's population are happy, prosperous and contented. The province of Ulster, Ireland, where this 20 per cent (more nearly 25 per cent) live and love, pays approximately three-fifths of Ireland's bills, manufactures three-fourths of Ireland's exports (they manufacture in and around Belfast alone enough linen to supply all human kind). The little schoolhouse sits on every hillside and the barefoot boy lives life to the full. I could sit to break of day and talk of old Ireland—its hawthorn and its honeysuckles. I can even yet almost hear the lark's sweet song, and when evening embers turn from red to gray, the soothing song of a passing nightingale has a pathos all its own.

But hark! that discordant strain breaks in once more. What does the rest of Ireland want? Is it a fight to the finish? Then, on with the dance. The rest of Ireland is jealous of Ulster's prosperity. Do they want to participate as unproductive factors in the profits of an industry made secure through years of honest toil? What do they want? They have the same freedom and elasticity of action Ulster has, and no country under God's happy skies is more prosperous and has more freedom than the citizens of Ulster, Ireland. What do they want? What obscure motive is behind it all? Is it any wonder England maintains an army in Ireland? England doesnt' do it just because she wants to; it costs money to maintain an army. The reason is that [illegible]0 per cent of Ireland wants to jump on the other 20 per cent and take everything they have! England can't stand idly by and watch anything like that happen any more than we could eternally permit such a thing to happen in Mexico. This thing happened in Ireland before—several times—the big guy (so to speak) tried to wipe the little fellow off the earth, but in each case brain and brawn combined won out and the big fellow got the worst of it. This kind of thing has been going on in Ireland for ages—they seem to be born that way—the big guy is everlastingly kicking. If he isn't blaming the little fellow in Ulster he is blaming England for permitting the little fellow to exist. Now he's in politics and wants home rule, and what the "divil" he expects to do with it when he gets it is more than we can tell. The trouble with the big guy is this—he has had home rule and everything else and doesn't know it.

TATE.

Compulsory Leveling Down

To the Editor of the Post-Dispatch.

What is Bolshevism? Will someone analyze it and explain in a few words what it really is? I am a poor workingman myself and am always on the lookout for any betterment.

But Bolshevism seems to me to be an undercurrent of unrest in the masses of the people, especially among the uneducated or unthinking people, who would change all present laws and abolish the rights of capital (of course, there is some injustice in any human system of government) and in its stead every poor, and even worthless, person would have a sort of common share or God-right in the earth's abundance.

The production and distribution of the earth's products will be only a minor arrangement—when everybody will be interested in getting his share of what the other fellow produces.

We will all then be so busy, and so happy, we won't have time to work!

THE MAGNA CHARTA OF NATIONS.

The London Daily Express aptly designates the constitution of the League of Nations as the "Magna Charta of Nations." Its purpose is to guarantee peace, but the foundation of this guarantee is justice in international dealings. The method by which peace is to be assured is the protection of nations in their rights and against aggressive injustice.

The constitution is not alone a guarantee of peace through the organized co-operation of nations, but it is more—it provides for international co-operation for the common good of mankind. It embodies ways and means for all nations of good will to work together not only for international harmony on a basis of right and reason, but for the betterment of industrial and social conditions the world over. It touches the rights of men within nations and their harmonious and profitable relationships as well as the rights of nations and their amicable and equitable settlement of disputes. The President rightly called it a "humane document," "designed to purify, to rectify, to elevate."

As the beginning of an international organization, definitely designed and pledged to promote equity and good will in international dealings and to create ethical standards among nations, the document, with the aim it embodies, has an importance second to none in the history of mankind. It marks an epoch pregnant with promise and possibility of human progress and of benefits to mankind.

The constitution has the merit of elasticity. It defines the broad principles and practices which will govern the nations in the league. It defines purposes, but in its plans to carry out these purposes there is ample opportunity for development in the future and for the application of the lesson of experience and the enlightenment of applied equity to international problems.

In setting up a tribunal and legal processes for the adjudication of national disputes, it offers weak nations a refuge from injustice and the rule of might. It offers strong nations of good will a method of arbitrament which will be a bulwark against aggression and devastating war.

The constitution, happily, rejects an international armed force for the policing of the world. It provides for the exhaustion of peaceful methods of enforcing decisions of court and international law through severance of diplomatic relations and economic blockades. Armed force is a last resort and nations are free to decide whether the menace of war justifies their employing physical force to crush war at the beginning.

The greatest force, however, which the constitution invokes for the success of its purpose to establish justice and maintain peace is publicity. The elimination of secret treaties and agreements, through provisions for the publication of all treaties and agreements, and of all causes of dispute, will bring into operation an irresistible moral force, working for equity and peace. On every agreement and issue between nations there will be an appeal to public opinion. The peoples will be taken into the confidence of Governments, and international controversies will be open for public discussion. The books of diplomatic negotiations will be issued before, not after, war is declared, and the plain people of the nations will pass judgment upon questions of international equity and of war and peace.

The greatest moral force in the world will support the great moral purpose of the league to establish justice and avert war.

It is inconceivable that intelligent men would stand against the objects of the league. Its purposes and policies appeal to all men of good will. The methods proposed may offer room for constructive criticism, but not for destructive opposition. They are, in the main, sensible and effective, and avoid opposition based upon the fear of entangling alliances and compulsion in the use of armed forces.

Nothing but such a gigantic and ruinous struggle as that through which we have passed could have brought the nations at the peace table to this great resolution and effort to end wars. In the realization of this long-deferred expression of the will of civilized men and the fruition of their aspirations, the war, vast as its cost in blood and treasure was, may prove a blessing.

It is for the American people to decide whether, having entered upon the momentous task, we shall draw back; whether, having assumed responsibility for ending this costly war, we shall shirk responsibility for achieving the ends for which we fought. Shall we drop our task at the threshold of its accomplishment, let the blessing fail and the curse remain? Shall our sacrifices and the sacrifices of the world go for naught? It is unthinkable that we should fail in the sacred mission upon which we sent our crusaders across the sea to face death.

ONE INDUSTRY'S PEACE READJUSTMENT.

How one important industry approached the problem created by transition from war to peace has interest and instruction. Almost with the signing of the armistice it decided that the way to resume the peace status was to resume. This was the motor car industry, which had devoted so large a percentage of its productive resources to the supply of extraordinary war needs.

November was not ended before leading motor car institutions decided that change from war economic conditions would proceed much more slowly than many supposed. They went forward on the theory that labor would be entitled to war wages until living conditions changed and that adjustment in the price of materials would be gradual. It followed that there also could be no abrupt price reduction in the price of finished cars to the public. Announcement that no reductions barring minor exceptions, would be made during the first half of the year removed cause for suspense or waiting. The market was stabilized. The public, which had long been waiting for cars, was given no invitation to defer for further weeks its purchases.

How the policy has worked out is shown by one index which it is easy to grasp: The Post-Dispatch prints today more automobile advertising than it has ever printed in one issue in the industry's years of greatest activity in time of peace, more than was ever before printed in one issue of a St. Louis newspaper. One of the largest auto shows ever held here begins tomorrow. While some more conservative industries have cautiously hesitated, waiting to see what would happen, the motor car men have gone ahead. The fact that they already are handling a huge business has its lesson.

A FRIVOLOUS OBJECTION.

There may be objections to the proposed division of objects of taxation between State and local authorities, but one is not that such a plan is an advance toward the single tax. General property is to be the source of revenue, exactly as at present, but the proceeds are to be reserved for the local authorities. The State is to obtain its revenue from special taxes on incomes, corporations, licenses, etc., which, of course, is a further departure from the single tax principle, contemplating a tax on land alone.

THEY WAIT FOR RE-ENFORCEMENTS ON THE VAGA.

From the New York Sun.

THE news from the Archangel front is that the American and allied troops have beaten off the Bolsheviki from the village of Vistavka, while the Bolshevik attacks along the Pinega River have forced the defenders back, although the town of Pinega, which is held by our soldiers, had not been assaulted up to the time the dispatches now before us were filed. The situation on the Vaga and the Dvina is thus described:

> The recent defeat of the enemy on the Vaga, together with his failure on the Dvina, typify the spirit of the American and other allied troops, who are fighting with the utmost determination to hold their positions until re-enforcements can reach them.

The Bolshevik forces have suffered in morale as a consequence of these setbacks, but they are "constantly being re-enforced, and while their offensive has been temporarily checked, there are indications it will be renewed when fresh battalions reach their line." The Bolshevik troops facing the Americans include Chinese and Manchu units, which have been held in reserve, but are expected to take part in the fighting at any time.

Thus the Americans and the allies are "fighting with the utmost determination to hold their positions until re-enforcements can reach them," while the Bolsheviki are getting up fresh troops; and Arthur J. Balfour, in an interview in Paris admitting that the Russian situation is "most disquieting," has said:

> As to military intervention on a large scale, it is not to be thought of.

If military intervention on a large scale is not to be thought of, why not withdraw the soldiers now in Archangel? They are manifestly too few in numbers to hold the positions they were assigned to; they have been obliged to fall back before the Bolsheviki; their strength is not sufficient to add to our prestige politically or in a military sense.

Bolshevism and Hunger.

From the New York Evening Post.

WHEN it is asked what chance there is of a genuine Bolshevik outbreak in the United States, it is well to stop and consider what started up the Bolsheviki in Russia. The main cause was misery. The compelling force was hunger. A correspondent of the Manchester Guardian recently interviewed in Zurich one of the most venerable Socialists of Europe, Hermann Greulich. He is 76 years old, and was a friend of Marx and Engels. When his view of affairs in Russia was sought, he declared that "Bolshevism is not a cause; it is only an effect, the effect of hunger." "The Bolsheviks seem to think only in terms of land, and to forget that with the problem of the land goes the problem of the people who are on it. It is not Socialism, at any rate not scientific Socialism, to solve one problem by creating another." "Europe and the world in general has nothing to fear from Bolshevism, but everything to fear from hunger." "The Bolshevik army is the army of the despairing."

Such words from such a source are worth more than a whole book of Lamentations from prophets of evil. The question of the Bolshevik peril in this country resolves itself into the question of land-ownership and work and wages and food and clothes in this country. We have not the soil to grow Bolshevism. The weeds of it which may appear here and there can scarcely survive except as carefully potted and sighed over in our Soviet drawing rooms.

PANETELA.

YES, Luella,
Things are going
Very nicely
On the whole,
Nothwithstanding
There are people
Human progress
Can't console.
Mr. Wilson's
League of Nations
Groweth like
The sturdy oak,
And the yowling
Of his critics
Has become
A sort of joke.

After all
The intimations
As to some folk
Being cracked,
Lo, our dearest
Aspiration
Is about
To be a fact.
Just exactly,
As the gunman
One time yielded
To the cop,
So the brandishing
Of firearms
By the nations
Is to stop.

After this,
My little girlie,
When a Kaiser
Howls for blood,
All the rest
Of us shall simply Push his face
Down in the mud.
There we'll let Him gug and guggle
'Til his wicked
Hopes expire,
Just exactly
As the custom
Is to isolate
A fire.

True, it has
Its inconvenience
Disconcerting
To us all;
But the past,
If once relinquished,
Scarcely may Expect recall.
All of us
Are sick of seeing
Who can tote
The biggest guns,
And we have
Our object lesson
In the Military Huns.

That is all,
My sweet Luella;
While the Senate
Bays the moon,
Let us all
Acclaim the vision
Giving us
So great a boon.
All we care
About is whether Old man Mars
Is getting his,
And as far
As one can follow
What is happening,
He is.

A good many people are asking why more of those now protesting against prohibition did not speak out before it was too late. That is a pertinent question. The answer to it is this: The intellectuals of the country, whose voices are now beginning to be heard in the land, have every sympathy for the principle of liberty involved in prohibition, but they have no sympathy for the way in which the liquor business has been conducted. As long as to say what they thought served the political saloon and the power of liquor to control not only government, but even courts of law in innumerable communities, these people were for the most part silent. Once the danger of that passed, they began to say what they thought. How bad the situation had become was proven by the silence of those who express us, notwithstanding a principle very dear to them was to be violated. It was a bitter choice. What they are trying to do now is to keep the Puritans from misunderstanding what happened and believing that we want to be made good all around by the same legal process.

The presumption that while few of us have any money we are abundantly supplied with Liberty Bonds probably induced this sign on Market street:

Sir: I have recently returned from France, and am discharged from the service. Just outside of Camp Merritt, N. J., which was our stopping place after debarkation, there is displayed very conspicuously a sign hanging over a cemetery and reading:

> Welcome Home Boys

Some people are very unintentional.

AFTER AWHILE.

AFTER awhile—the moment comes, dear heart
When we must part,
Forth from the portal of life's harmony.
After awhile—thine eyes I love must close
Their lids as a rose
Before the wind's chilled symphony of Death.
After awhile—I'll be alone, sweet love,
Then from above
Thou'lt gaze upon my strife most pityingly.
After awhile—there'll be another grave
Where willows wave
In tireless sighs and glooms processional.
After awhile—comes the eternal hour
When souls re-flower
Like softer petals at the day-dawn smile.
After awhile
Mine unforgotten lips of love will rise
To kiss thine eyes
Enriching in the dews of Paradise.

Next Congress Expected to Give the Country a Budget System of National Finance

For First Time Since Efforts to Get It Began, Political Expediency as Well as National Interest Will Be in Its Favor.

By a Staff Correspondent of the Post-Dispatch.

WASHINGTON, Feb. 15.—It looks now as if the next Congress may give the country a budget system of national finance. Political expediency, as well as consideration of the national welfare, is turning the thoughts of Republican leaders in that direction.

For a long time both parties have favored (on paper) putting the business of the Government on a business-like basis. Nearly everybody is for it—on paper. But both parties have consistently balked at bringing in a concrete proposal that would take away the power from the various committees of Congress that now control appropriations and thereby hold a whip hand over the executive departments.

Taft wanted a budget system and failed to get it. Wilson has failed to date. Neither party, when in power, has cared to surrender any of its prerogatives—and there is no prerogative so highly valued as that of tightening or loosening the purse strings as individual senatorial interests or the "good of the party" dictates.

Entire Lack of Co-Ordination.

There are 29 different committees of Congress that report bills affecting the finances of the Government. Each of the committees works independently of the others. There is utter lack of co-ordination.

Under the budget system the finances of the country would be considered as a unit; a business program for the year would be mapped out, and every one would know at all times the state of the nation's financial health.

It is suggested by Senator Kenyon of Iowa, one of the leading advocates of the system, that Cabinet members should be given a place on the floor, as in Great Britain, so that they could be questioned as to the estimates for their departments. At present there is no responsibiltiy with the President or his Cabinet, all measures being prepared in detail by the legislative branch.

Besides unifying the system of expenditures, a budget system would provide for a method of accounting by officers who are not connected with the department spending the money. Under the present plan, or lack of plan, the auditing is done by the department itself.

Sherley Favors Budget System.

It is possible that a step toward the adoption of a budget system will be taken this session. Representative Sherley of Kentucky, chairman of the House Appropriations Committee, wants some provision for a budget made and may seek to get the necessary legislation attached as a rider to one of the several big appropriation bills that are pending.

In this effort Sherley has the approval of the President, who cabled to him the other day that he hoped the movement would succeed. But the time is too short to do much before the present session expires on March 4.

Then the Republicans will come in. Hope for the budget lies in the fact that political expediency will square with the national interest. War has piled up a staggering total of expenditures. The Republicans will make retrenchment one of the main planks of their 1920 campaign. In no better way can they give evidence of their good faith than by providing for a business-like system of finance. And the Democrats, being no longer in control of the committees, will have no occasion for selfish objection.

Altogether, the prospect, judging from recent speeches by Republicans in the Senate—speeches by such leaders as Penrose and Smoot—sounding the keynote of "economy," looks good for the budget. Moreover, the three avowed candidates for the speakership of the House, Representatives Mann, Gillett and Fess, are all out in favor of the scheme.

Democratic Support.

On the Democratic side, Senator Thomas of Colorado is one of the leading advocates of retrenchment. He said the other day that if all the bills calling for appropriations were considered favorably, the result would be that every year as much money would be voted as the aggregate wealth of the United States.

"I am satisfied," said Senator Thomas, "that if the Senator (the Senator to whom his remarks were addressed) will take all the bills introduced by everybody since the commencement of this Congress, he will find that the total sum they propose to appropriate very largely exceeds the cost of the war."

It is the little foxes, said the Senator, that spoil the vines.

Thomas wound up with a plea for the budget, saying the difficulty in the final analysis is with the people.

"When," he said, "they really do demand economy, and demand it in such a way as to impress their Representatives and Senators, they will get it. They will never get it until they do, and not then unless a budget system is adopted whereby the estimates and appropriations may go together, when members of the House and Senate shall be deprived of their present privilege of offering bills carrying appropriations of large sums."

Debts and Prospective Loss of Revenue Are State Problem

By a Staff Correspondent of the Post-Dispatch.

JEFFERSON CITY, Feb. 15.—Debts of approximately $400,000 which have accumulated during the first two years of the Gardner administration, and which must be met by appropriations by the present Legislature, are beginning to cause some concern to State administrative officers because of the fact that annual revenues of $1,500,000 from State liquor licenses will cease July 1, and the Legislature so far has taken no steps to provide revenue to replace it.

Slowness of the Legislature in facing the financial problem of the State, which includes a correction of taxation inequalities, is attributed largely to lack of forceful leadership in the administration and in the Legislature.

The Governor suggested a plan for collection of State revenues from corporations, increased income tax and increased inheritance tax. It met with much favorable comment among legislators, but they lost interest when the Governor left Jefferson City soon after making the suggestion. On his return several days later, he virtually abandoned the plan upon finding there was some opposition to it among the Republicans in the House.

It now seems certain that there will be no separation of sources of State and local revenues, at least, by the present Legislature, and that about all that will come from the Ways and Means Committees will be bills for increases in income and inheritance taxes. That these can be increased sufficiently to meet the loss in liquor revenue is seriously doubted.

Left-Over Debts Paid.

According to experts in the State Auditor's office, the financial condition of the State is not all that one might be led to believe from the Governor's message to the Legislature. Through the increased taxes the Governor was able, during the past biennial period to pay off approximately $2,250,000 of debts left over from the Major administration, but to do so he dipped into funds which properly were applicable to other purposes, and as a result December bills aggregating between $150,000 and $200,000 could not be met Jan. 1, and the holders will be required to wait until May or June for their money.

These include teachers at the State University and employes at many other State institutions, as well as numerous business houses from which the State made purchases during the month.

Under the Missouri financial system, any money in the general revenue fund Dec. 31 may be paid out in January and succeeding months to meet expenditures incurred prior to Jan. 1, but no money received later than Dec. 31 can be used to meet those expenditures until it has been appropriated by the Legislature.

The appropriation bills seldom are passed until the last days of the session. On Dec. 30 last the total in the general revenue fund was $954,826.11. On Dec. 31 the Governor caused a total of $476,979.39 to be taken out to finish the payment of the old debt. Other expenditures reduced the fund to $100,175.69 at the conclusion of business that day, and that was the total available to meet the December bills, which came in Jan. 1.

It was paid out, but fell short of meeting the bills by nearly $175,000. Other deficiencies which accumulated during the two years brings the total of old debts which must be met up to nearly $400,000, the auditor's experts say.

Big Loss in Revenue.

Such a deficiency under ordinary circumstances would cause no concern, but with the loss of $1,500,000 a year in revenue, and the fact that for nearly six years no State institutions have had new buildings and only the most necessary repairs on old buildings have been made, creates a different situation this year.

It was believed following the adjournment of the last Legislature that the creation of a State Tax Commission had solved the State's financial problem in that the commission would cause property throughout the State to be assessed at its actual value. Political influences, however, prevented the assessments of the Tax Commission from being put into effect, the members of the State Board of Equalization exercising an arbitrary power and reducing the assessments.

The Governor had the choice of abandoning the Tax Commission or of using the power of his administration to save it with the prospect that the next State Board of Equalization would accept its recommendations. He chose the former course and in all probability the commission will be abolished within the next month or two. The House engrossed the Tax Commission repeal bill with only one dissenting vote.

Chairman Bowker of the Ways and Means Committee has admitted that the comprehensive suggestions of the Governor for separation of sources of revenue have virtually been abandoned. He is working on bills which he says he believes will provide better machinery for the collection of the income and inheritance taxes and which will increase these taxes.

It has been some years since there has been enough heart in the social world to celebrate Washington's birthday, but this year "The Father of His Country" will come into his own again and numerous entertainments are scheduled for next Saturday. Several clubs will give celebrations and the unique one will be the dinner dance at the St. Louis Country Club. The women are requested to wear costumes of our Colonial period and the men may appear in costumes of any period. The decorations and favors will also be in the Colonial design. The costumes of the time of Washington's day are indeed picturesque and with their fichued bodices and wide flowing skirts form a direct contrast to the hobble-split variety of the present day. No doubt this function will go down in the history of the club as among its most brilliant and unparalleled affairs.

The Sunset Hill Country Club will have a formal dinner dance in honor of the day, the Bellerive Country Club will also have a dinner dance as its tribute to the memory of Washington. The Riverview Club will have the same and at the Liederkranz Club, besides the dinner dance, there will be a program of dances and songs.

The Racquet Club will have its entertainment two days in advance of the others. It will be a dinner dance and will be the first affair that this club has given since the war ended. So the coming week gives promise of a form of gaiety that has not been witnessed in the social realm for some time.

THE only large wedding for the week so far scheduled is that of Miss Alice daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Charles P. Ladd of 4345 McPherson avenue who will become the bride of Emrich Schwaner, son of Mr. and Mrs. F. C. Schwaner of 5189 Cabanne avenue on Tuesday. The ceremony will take place in the Second Baptist Church, the Rev. Dr. William Bitting officiating, and will be followed by a large reception at the residence of the bride's parents. Miss Ladd will have her sister, Miss Dorothy Ladd, as maid of honor, and the bridesmaids will be Misses Martha Gerhart and Elizabeth Udell. Little May Brant, daughter of Mrs. Henry Brant of Qunicy,, Ill., and cousin of the bride-to-be, will be flower girl. The best man will be Armand Emrich of Evansville, Ind., cousin of the bridegroom, and the bride's brother, Harry Ladd, will be one of the groomsmen. Mr. Schwaner will take his bride south for their honeymoon and on their return they will reside temporarily with his mother at 5189 Cabanne avenue. Miss Ladd is a graduate of Hosmer Hall and Mr. Schwaner was educated at Smith Academy and Missouri University.

A MARRIAGE of St. Valentine's Day was that of Miss Ann Rice to Percy M. Ludlow which was celebrated quietly Friday morning at 10:30 o'clock at the Emmanuel Episcopal Church in Webster Groves, with the Rev. Courtney Jones officiating. None but members of the family and a few close friends were present and after the ceremony a wedding breakfast was served at the home of the bride's mother, Mrs. B. M. Rice of 5418 Cabanne avenue. On account of mourning in the bridegroom's family everything was arranged very simply.

The bride's brother, Jack Rice, gave her in marriage; J. P. Finkenauer attended Mr. Ludlow. The bride has just returned from a visit to Mobile, Ala. She is quite talented in a literary way, a number of her poems having appeared in print. She has only lived in St. Louis for the past few years, having come from the southwestern part of the State.

Mr. Ludlow resides in Webster and is a well known member of the Algonquin Club. After a honeymoon trip the couple will be at home temporarily at 825 Big Bend road, Webster.

AN interesting engagement announced last week was that of Miss Irma Anne Niedringhaus of 6364 Washington boulebard to Harold Franklin White of Burlington, Vt. Miss Niedringhaus is the daughter of Mrs. Anna and the late Theodore W. Niedringhaus. She is an accomplished vocalist and a graduate of the Perry School of Oratory and Dramatic Art. Mr. White has just been discharged from the Officers' Training School at Camp Grant, Ill., and is the son of Mrs. Alice White of Burlington, Vt.

AN interesting engagement announced yesterday was that of Miss Virginia Burke, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. James J. Burke of 3705 Humphrey street, to Frank E. Murphy of California. The news was disclosed at a luncheon given at Hotel Statler for 25 guests. Miss Burke is a graduate of Loretto Academy and a talented musician. Mr. Murphy is an alumnus of Leland Stanford University, a member of the Sigma Chi and Alpha Kappa Kappa fraternities, and is at present completing a course in medicine at St. Louis University. No date has been set for the wedding.

THERE promises to be a great outpouring of society at the Coliseum Saturday night for the municipal athletic carnival that is to be given by the Municipal Athletic Association.

This is the second annual athletic meet that the Association has fathered, and society was remarkably well represented at the first. Many of the participants in the twenty or more standard athletic events that will be contested are college or high-school boys of prominence, in an athletic way and otherwise, and mothers, sisters and sweethearts are ever anxious to be on hand to exult with the victor or sympathize with the vanquished after the tape has been breasted and the swift patter of the rubber soles dies out on the wooden floor.

Mrs. Nelson Cunliff, who is chairman of the women's organization committee, yesterday announced the following list of patronesses who will occupy boxes at the carnival: Mmes. Joseph R. Barroll, L. M. Ottofy, Lee Van Cleve, T. M. Meston, T. W. Garland, Charles Nagel, Isaac Hedges, Howard Watson, C. B. Lord, Charles W. Holtcamp, Herbert L. Parker, Clinton Fisk, John Gundelach, Calvin Miller, H. J. Pettengill, W. E. Rolfe, H. C. Waldman, Baxter Brown, E. J. Snowden and Misses Agnes Brennan and Frances Chappel.

Ladies' and Children's Panama, Leghorn and Straw Hats cleaned and pressed like new. J. J. Ryan, 617 Lucas av.—ADV.

THE Junior Players will give two fairy plays at the Artists' Guild Theater on Friday evening, Feb. 28, and Saturday matinee, March 1. "Little Bridget" and "White Magic," both by Netta Syrett of Little Theater fame. So enthusiastic were the comments on the first performances of the Players that no doubt crowded houses of children will see the coming plays. Perfection of stage setting and costumes and delightful musical features will add to the program which also will include the balcony scene from "Romeo and Juliet," by Verna Casseely and Maury Tuckerman.

The Board of Directors of the Junior Players feel that there will be hearty support of this unique organization when the public appreciates that it means serious training of clever children in dramatic art, who will be the means of affording much pleasure to other children through their performances. Clark McAdams is president of the board of the Junior Players, Miss Thekla Bernays, vice president, and other members are: Mrs. David O'Neil, Miss Alice Martin, Miss Marguerite Breen, Miss Cooding, Mrs. Dan Sykes, Joseph Solari, George Blackman, Orrick Johns, Laurence Ewald, Gustavus Tuckerman.

ONE of the projects calculated to make for a bigger St. Louis that will be launched this week is the establishment of a vocational trades school for women, which will be taken up at a luncheon to be given at Hotel Statler on Washington's birthday.

The invitations, which were sent out last week under the joint names of the Board of Religious Organizations and the Women's Clubs of St. Louis, reached some 200 guests, members of the various boards of the educational institutions of the city.

Luncheon will be served at 1 o'clock. Dr. David Snedden of Columbia University will present the subject, and women of national prominence in the conduct of trade and vocational schools for girls will participate in the discussion.

Among the prominent women who will act as hostesses at the luncheon are included Mmes. Elias Michael, Louis J. Brooks, David McWilliams, Frank Blelock, Charles P. O'Fallon, N. A. McMillan, Theodore Benoist, Joseph Calfee, A. E. Reton, W. H Hudson, J. L. Mauran, A. E. Mooney, W. H. Goldman, M. A. Goldstein, F. H. Keck, George Gelhorn, Ernest Stix, G. D. Merner, Hugo Meunch, Edmund F. Brown, Harvey G. Mudd, F. H. von Windegger, Clay E. Jordan, Fannie Bonner Price, A. H. Sippy, John Haskell, John W. Day, A. A. Tucker, Sam McPheeters, Charles M. Rice, Dan C. Nugent and W. C. Bitting; and Misses Emma Taussig, Mary Mills, Helen Clapp, Matilda Gecks, Nettie Richards, Corinne Fuller and Eunice Smith.

Invitations are out for a bridge luncheon which will be given jointly by Mrs. John P. Higgins and Mrs. W. L. Kline at the Westmoreland Apartments, on Monday afternoon, March 3. The luncheon will be a second edition of the delightful affair the same women gave last year and which was so thoroughly enjoyed by the 100 women who attended.

The proceeds of the entertainment will be given to the post-war fund of the St. Louis Chapter of the United Daughters of the Confederacy. Luncheon will be served at 1 o'clock and cards will commence at 2 o'clock.

Mrs. Philip N. Moore and Mrs. Lon O. Hocker, St. Louis women, who received invitations to the Washington (D. C.) victory dinner on Thursday, were unable, because of press of more urgent business of national and civic import, to attend. Mrs. Moore is touring the Middle West with former President William H. Taft and his party of speakers in connection with the mid-West congress for a league of nations, while Mrs. Hocker's close association with the management of Friday night's victory ball at Hotel Statler led her to decline the invitation with regrets.

AN event which it is expected will bring out a large and fashionable audience is the semi-annual concert to be given by the Morning Choral Club on Tuesday evening, at the Odeon. This is the twenty-eighth season of this club and there are 110 singing voices in the membership. Raymund Koch, baritone, who is a protege of Schumann-Heink and of Stracciari and Grant Schaeffer, the American composer, will be the soloist. An all-American program will be presented. Mr. Koch is destined for grand opera, but is giving a concert tour at present. He has been stationed at the Great Lakes Training Station.

Mr. and Mrs. Russell W. Elam are now settled in their new home at 1372 Montclair avenue. Mrs. Elam was until Dec. 5 Miss Inez Valle, daughter of Mrs. Sarah Valle of 5827 Ridge avenue.

The Eighth District Press Committee, comprising the chairman of the Press Committees of all Eighth District Federated Organizations, met at the Statler Hotel, Monday morning.

The following officers were elected: Chairman, Mrs. C. B. Bromm; vice chairman, Mrs. J. A. Parker; recording secretary, Mrs. Lizzie Drey; corresponding secretary, Mrs. Josephine McKean.

Mrs. A. E. Reton, president of the Eighth District, was present and

During the war period the government requested that corsets should not be aggressively advertised, that is, to stimulate demand.

Redfern Corsets were not so advertised.

Yet, during that period there was a remarkably increased demand for Redfern Corsets.

This is not evidence against advertising, but it is conclusive evidence that the women of America, confronted by the question, "In what corsets, at moderate cost, may we look best, feel best and work best?" intuitively turned to Redfern—

EVERYONE SHOULD DRINK HOT WATER BEFORE BREAKFAST

Wash away all the stomach, liver and bowel poisons before putting more food into stomach.

To feel your best day in and day out, to feel clean inside; no bile to coat your tongue and sicken your breath or dull your head; no constipation, bilious attacks, sick headache, cold, rheumatism or gassy acid stomach you must bathe on the inside like you bathe outside. This is vastly more important because the skin pores do not absorb impurities into the blood while the bowel pores do, says a well-known physician.

To keep these poisons and toxins well flushed from the stomach, liver, kidneys and bowels drink before breakfast each day, a glass of hot water with a teaspoonful of limestone phosphate in it. This will cleanse, purify and freshen the entire alimentary tract, before putting more food into the stomach.

Get a quarter pound of limestone phosphate from your pharmacist. It is inexpensive and almost tasteless, except a sourish twinge which is not unpleasant. Drink phosphated hot water every morning to rid your system of these vile poisons and toxins; also to prevent their formation.

To feel like young folks feel; like you felt before your blood, nerves and muscles became saturated with an accumulation of body poisons, begin this treatment and above all, keep it up! As soap and hot water act on the skin, cleansing, sweetening and purifying, so limestone phosphate and hot water before breakfast act on the stomach, liver, kidneys and bowels.—ADV.

Not Enough Men for these $5,000 Positions!

An Important Call for Traffic Men by the President of the American Commerce Association.

CHICAGO, ILLINOIS.

I am writing this letter as a last resort to see if we cannot secure more men willing to qualify for positions paying up to $10,000 a year. These positions are open in the traffic field. And the shortage of traffic men is greater today than ever before. About 60,000 big business corporations need expert traffic managers. Boards of Trade, Chambers of Commerce, State Railway and Public Utility Commissions need Traffic Secretaries and Experts. Half a million smaller shippers must employ consulting Traffic Managers who will direct the work of five to a dozen concerns. There are tens of thousands of Assistant Traffic Managers needed in large Railroad, Industrial and Association Traffic Departments.

There are probably not enough qualified men in the whole United States to meet the needs of a single large industrial center, and save the millions of dollars wasted through lack of technical knowledge. It is estimated that over a hundred thousand more competent traffic men are needed at once.

A traffic man recently saved his concern $24,000 on shipments from C. F. A. territory to their new plant in Chattanooga. Another saved $9,751 in shipping 66 carloads in two weeks. Another saved $36,000 by applying a differential rate on 1,500 cars from Pittsburgh to Canada.

Competent traffic men can name their own salary. Mr. Wanamaker, without experience, after training for traffic work through a practical plan established by approximately 200 traffic experts, was assisted to a position paying $3,000 annually. Mr. Waterfall, with experience, gets $19,500 per year. Mr. McEwen, directing Tank Car shipments, receives $24,000 a year. Traffic Efficiency Experts saved a Detroit automobile concern $640,000 in ten months.

Traffic men are paid large salaries because they make large profits for their employers.

Heretofore, there has been no simple way to master the details of traffic management. Realizing the crying demand for trained traffic experts, and seeking relief, the American Commerce Association offers to give men the training required to make them competent to handle the problems of most economical distribution. The training is given by mail and can be studied in spare time, at home. Though the most complete and thorough training is given, the Course is remarkably easy to master, and through the Association costs but a few cents a day.

It is impossible to go into details in this letter, but the Association has published a remarkable book for free distribution which explains everything in detail and tells how anyone may quickly learn the new profession of traffic management. The possibilities in this field today—great as they are—are nothing compared to what they will be a year from now. If you are at all interested in getting into this highly profitable field, paying salaries of $2,500, $5,000, and more, be fair to yourself and write for the remarkable book now offered free by the Association.

In writing, please state whether you are a beginner or whether you have had previous traffic experience, and give your present age and occupation. Address, American Commerce Association, Dept. 402, 206 S. Wabash Ave., Chicago, Ill. (American Commerce Building.)—ADVERTISEMENT.

LUXEMBURGERS WILL VOTE ON FORM OF RULE

Dr. Dillon Describes Abdication of Young Duchess and Present Situation.

By Dr. E. J. Dillon,
A Special Correspondent of the Post-Dispatch.

(Copyright in Europe by the London Daily Telegraph: Copyright in the United States and Canada by the Philadelphia Public Ledger.)

PARIS, Feb. 11.—The Grand Duchy of Luxemburg, which, with the approval of the amiable young Grand Duchess, was used as a German Province during the war, is now about to determine its own future by general elections. Soon after the armistice, the Grand Duchess was given to understand the advisability of abdication by a resolution on the part of the Legislature to suspend her constitutional functions and meanwhile the republican party proclaimed the fall of the monarchy and the establishment of a democratic republic.

From an influential citizen of the Grand Duchy I received a detailed account of the abortive revolution and of the regret that its success was, in his judgment, foiled by the intervention of the French troops of occupation. What really happened, as I know from absolutely trustworthy sources and largely confirmed by the admissions of my Luxemburg informant, was this:

The leader of the republican party, having concerted with several other republicans on Jan. 7 and 8, decided to avail themselves of the general discontent of the population with the Grand Duchess to involve the dynasty and the regime in her unpopularity and establish a republican form of government. Beyond that, they did not see their way, some being in favor of close economic relations with Belgium and others of annexation to France.

French General Informed.

On Jan. 9 the chiefs of the party informed the French commander, Gen. de Latour, that a public meeting would be held in the grand square where the project would be submitted to the people, after which the chamber would be notified. Lest order should be disturbed, republicans would guard the grand ducal palace, Government buildings and the legislative chamber.

Meanwhile the state army, consisting of 190 men and a band of 50 musicians, locked themselves in the barracks, excluded their own officers and appointed a Sergeant as their dictator. The French General permitted the public to the meeting, which had rushed into the hall without formalities, and the new form of Government, republican, was proclaimed and the republican chiefs began to discuss a new Constitution with the usual features of Soviets which are now becomeing the political fashion in Europe.

Street oratory exceeded the limits of domestic problems and contained strictures on the army of occupation. The troops then mingled into the limbo of things that might have been.

The next day the French General, at the request of the Speaker of Parliament, provided a French guard for the chamber and the palace, also for the principal intersections in the city, whereupon the republicans protested that this was an encroachment on their right to arrange their internal affairs and that the establishment of a republic had been violently hindered by the French.

Republicans Indignant.

The republicans are indignant that their well-laid scheme went wrong owing to French intervention. The French General pleads it was his duty to maintain public order and to comply with the request of the chamber for protection. The fact is, that republicans in Luxemburg form a small minority of the population, between 7 and 15 per cent all told.

Two days after this manifestation, the Grand Duchess, anxious to save her dynasty and to enable her sister to ascend the throne, abdicated, and things have gone on smoothly ever since. But the Grand Duchy cannot stand quite alone indefinitely. It may and perhaps will retain political independence, but it must enter into close relations either with France or with Belgium.

The inhabitants are Catholics, and although they cherish great affection for the French people, they are still more devoted to their religious convictions and are desirous of enjoying religious liberty as they understand it. This liberty they find interpreted by Belgium exactly as they construct it themselves. This and other circumstances may be decisive in swaying their choice.

The French Government has behaved admirably throughout these incidents and, generally, has left the Luxemburgers to act in accordance with their own interests or wishes. It is believed the coming elections will be unfavorable to the reigning Grand Duchess and the dynasty, but I am not quite sure of this, because the Catholic majority were not dissatisfied with the rule of her predecessors, who made it their first care to gratify all reasonable demands of that party which speaks in the name of an overwhelming majority of the population.

I am enabled to state positively that the present Grand Duchess has not yet been recognized by the French or by any other Government for reasons which lie on the surface

Address on Fish Colors.

The February meeting of the St. Louis Natural History Museum Association, at 8 p. m. Wednesday, at Central Library, will be addressed by Dr. Albert D. Kuntz, assistant professor of biology at St. Louis University, on "Adaptive Colors and Color Changes in Fishes." The lecture will be free to the public.

Fashion Forecasts a Suit Season

WAIT, say the wise designers, "and you will see more Suits worn this Spring than in several seasons, for suits are to be the smartest fashion."

From the moment the first suits began coming in, the styles, the materials and the fine tailoring confirmed this report. All signs point to a season of suits.

One or two of the newest points noticed are suits with embroidered tricolette vests—or suits trimmed with elaborate embroidery, and suits trimmed with black braid in scores of different ways.

The Suit pictured is of navy blue gabardine and shows how effective black silk braid is when combined with black embroidery.

Another suit is of navy blue tricotine, with a black silk braid oval motif about the lower edge of the box coat and skirt.

A velour check suit in black and white is trimmed with braid and buttons. The skirt buttons all the way down the front.

Prices are from $35 to $125.

The Ways of Frocks for Spring

CHARMING ways have these Spring frocks—soft, clinging, draped ways, and crispy, rustling taffeta ways—surely frocks were never lovelier. Frocks for you to wear when shopping, or for luncheon and for afternoon or evening affairs, are shown in the Costume Salon.

There are distinctive models of taffeta, Georgette crepe, crepe meteor, satin foulard, tricotine, Paulette and serge. The designers have created many original trimmings that lend individuality to each frock. Colors are black, tan, henna, Copenhagen, taupe and gray.

One of the loveliest Frocks is of pompadour chiffon in the glorious shade—Victory red—with the design in beige color.

Another of the new Frocks is of smoke gray chiffon with the long tunic beaded in round coral beads. The girdle is of gray velvet.

Following the lines of the Russian blouse suit, a Frock of brown Paulette is wonderfully attractive. The vest and pockets show blue and green bead motifs.

CARSON DECLARED TO BE LOSING PRESTIGE

Ireland Declared to Be Drifting Under Present Policy Toward Seeming Disaster.

By JAMES M. TUOHY,
A Staff Correspondent of the Post-Dispatch and New York World.

Copyright, 1919, by Press Publishing Co. (New York World.)

DUBLIN, Friday, Feb. 14.—Ireland appears to be steadily drifting toward disaster. The platitude which constituted the only reference to the country in the King's speech at the opening of Parliament expressed the Government's inertia. Premier Lloyd George's refusal to discuss Ireland at all furnished the clew to the Cabinet's state of mind. Sir Edward Carson is the "hidden hand" that rules the Government's policy in Ireland.

Sir Edward has lost prestige and influence in Ulster in the last two months and has alienated the most powerful and influential southern Unionists. The first blow struck at his autocracy in the leadership in north Ireland was during the general election, when labor opposed his right and the right of his nominees to voice its claim. His arrogation of the leadership of organized labor in Belfast, with the purpose of forming a new Unionist labor party, was bitterly resented.

The election contest intensified the industrial revolt against him. His play with the prejudices and passions of the Orange working classes in Belfast, and throughout the north, gave him most of his power, but his influence in that connection may now be accepted as broken.

Carson is keenly conscious of his fall from grace among his own admirers and knows that one thing alone can restore him to favor, and that is proof of the correctness of his attitude by demonstrating the disastrous disloyalty of the Catholic and Nationalist majority.

Government's Policy.

The Government's delay in releasing the political prisoners is due to the working of this policy. Lord French, the Lord Lieutenant, and the Irish executive have reason to know that the revolutionary section of the Sinn Fein republicans propose reprisals—which will probably take the form of outrages against Government property and persons for the continued imprisonment of their leaders without trial.

A few weeks ago there was in Ireland the extraordinary diplomacy that found the Lord Lieutenant in negotiation with Sinn Fein headquarters for the maintenance of peace and order in Ireland. On the understanding that the leaders would use their influence with the turbulent rank and file to prevent an open conflict with authority. Lord French pledged himself to obtain their release. His recommendations, backed by his own personal representations, were turned down by the Cabinet.

Bonar Law, then acting as Premier, was one of the stalwarts who declared for no compromise. In that stand the relations of Bonar Law and Sir Edward Carson are apparent in the light of Carson's present policy.

Lord French has now issued an ultimatum to the Government bidding the Ministers choose between the release of the prisoners and his resignation. In this, he has the backing of the Chief Secretary, Sir Ian Macpherson and of former Chief Secretary Shortt, now the Home Secretary. The Cabinet can hardly force its own embarrassment by Lord French's resignation and the Carsonites may suffer a temporary reverse.

Release of Prisoners.

It is certain that the release of prisoners will be followed by drastic measures against the farcical Republican Parliament with the object of forcing a conflict.

The announcement that Leon T. O'Reilly has sought a personal interview with President Wilson in Paris as the accredited representative of "the provisional Government of the Irish Republic," has caused astonishment and resentment in Dublin.

O'Reilly, recently elected Sinn Fein member of Parliament from Dublin, went to Paris as the representative of the Lord Mayor for the specific purpose of discussing with the President the question of a visit to Ireland and receiving the freedom of Dublin. O'Reilly, however, in his communication requesting an interview with the President, says he is in Paris as the authorized representative of the Sinn Fein republic to demand its recognition by the nations of the world. Incidentally, he says, he was appointed to inquire about the Lord Mayor's invitation to the President.

His insistence on his first mission is accepted as making it impossible for the President to receive him in any capacity, and it is felt that the dignity of the Irish capital and the national feeling it represents have been lowered.

The Lord Mayor of Dublin is placed in a humiliating position and it is expected that he will publicly disavow any knowledge of O'Reilly's intention to abuse the purpose of his visit to Paris.

The President's action will not be taken advantage of by the Sinn Feiners to stir up an anti-Wilson sentiment in an effort to cover O'Reilly's blunder. Whatever, O'Reilly's claims as the representative of the Irish republic may be, he went to Paris on a passport obtained after describing himself in the application for it as a British subject.

DRAMA and MUSIC EVENTS FOR THE WEEK

NEW THOMAS PLAY, 'THE COPPERHEAD,' MONDAY

Lionel Barrymore in Chief Role —Otis Skinner in "Honor of the Family."

This promises to be a red-letter week in the theatrical calendar. To the Shubert-Jefferson tomorrow night comes Augustus Thomas' virile drama of patriotism, "The Copperhead," with Lionel Barrymore in the first role; and on the same night Otis Skinner, whom many consider America's foremost actor, will appear at the American in a revival of his masterly portrait of Col. Philip Bridau in "The Honor of the Family," adapted from the fascinating Balzac novel, "La Rabouilleuse" ("The Crayfisher").

The theme of "The Copperhead" was suggested by a story written by Congressman Frederick Landis of Indiana, brother of Judge Keneshaw M. Landis. The title of the story was "The Glory of His Country." The play was produced in New York last year, and was hailed as the climax to date of Thomas' stage successes. It gains local interest from the facts that Thomas is a former St. Louisan, and that a salient incident of the plat revolves about Capt. Nathaniel Lyon's historic march to capture Camp Jackson, the Confederate stronghold, at Grand avenue and Lindell boulevard, at the beginning of the Civil War.

The chief character of the play is Milt Shanks, an Illinois backwoodsman, a man of the breed of Abraham Lincoln. The first act reveals the exterior of Shanks' farmhouse in 1861. The uncouth pioneer characters are painted against a background of sturdy, invincible patriotism. Father Abraham's "one hundred thousand strong" are about to march; Shanks refuses to go, although his slackness means that his 16-year-old son will have to join the army. Shanks has earned the opprobrious title of "Copperhead" because of his apparent sympathies with the South. His supposed services as a spy for the Confederacy result in his being sent to prison for two years.

The Outcast Rehabilitated.

The second act shows the same scene in July 3, 1863. Joey Shanks, the son, fighting bravely in the army, has learned, his letters show, of his father's disgrace, and his heart is broken. Shanks, pardoned by the Governor, returns to his home as an unwelcome visitor. His family and his neighbors despise him. News comes of Joey's death. Milt tries to comfort his wife.

"Fer Gawd's sake!" she cries. "Milt Shanks, dont' tech me! Yer' unclean, yer' unclean!"

The second part of the play takes place 40 years later. Shanks is 76 years old, white and bowed. He still lives in the same house, filled with so many bitter memories. He is ostracized by the aged veterans of the war, the Grand Army men, and also by all the townsfolk whose memories date back to the '60s. Living with him is his grandaughter, the only surviving member of the family save himself. To protect her happiness in love, the old man finally reveals his secret—that he joined the "Copperheads" at the direction of Abraham Lincoln, to watch over their plans and reveal them to the Federal Secret Service. The recitative in which Milt tells how, at the White House, Lincoln gave him this terrible assignment, has been praised as one of the most moving things that has come from Thomas' pen.

Barrymore, who created the role of Shanks, is said not only to act the homely part, but to live it, in every gesture, inflection and glance. He will be supported, it is promised, by a competent company, with Bertha Mann as leading woman.

Skinner, who was most recently seen here in the Tarkington play, "Mister Antonio," has not played "The Honor of the Family" in St. Louis for nine years. His part is that of a swashbuckling survivor of the Napoleonic wars, "a Mephistopheles on horseback," as Balzac termed him. His uncle's fortune, which should fall to his mother, is about to be seized by "La Rabouilleuse," an adventuress, and her paramour, Max Gilet, a second Napoleonic officer, and a desperado as rascally as Bridau himself. The battle between these two well matched scoundrels is won by Bridau's cooler head, nimbler wit and more ruthless will. The Bridau of the play is considerably idealized above the one of the novel.

"Maytime" Comes Next Week.

The leading woman of the company is Ruth Rose, and others in the cast are Evelyn Varden, Margaret Clavert, Robert Harrison, Alexander Onslow, Harry Burkhardt, George E. Riddell, Walter F. Scott, Thomas Donnelly, Herbert Charles and Marshall Birmingham.

The attraction at the Shubert-Jefferson next week will be "Maytime," acclaimed as the most successful and melodious of musical comedies, which ran 16 months in New York and six months in Chicago. The magician, Thurston, will hold forth at the American during the same week.

The headliner at the Orpheum this week is a melodrama, "On the High Seas," with Robert Holden and Bennett Johnstone in the chief parts. The scene shows an American ship, the captain of which, in the power of a German secret agent, is compelled to use his craft as a supply vessel for enemy submarines. A shipwrecked wireless operator, picked up at sea, succeeds in bringing about the capture of the spies. Other items will be Mary Davies and Walter de Leon in "Behind the Front;" Walter G. Kelly in his time-honored sketch, "The Virginia Judge;" Doll Connolly, in songs, and Al Herman, in blackface cut-ups.

The Columbia bill this week is headed by a skit, "A Day at the Races;" at the Grand will be "The Rainbow Revue;" at the Garrick, Joe Cook in his one-man vaudeville, will lead off during the first part of the week; the Standard will offer the "Parisian Flirts" troupe, and the Gayety will present "Mollie Williams' Own Show."

NEWLY ORGANIZED GROUP OF GRAND OPERA ASPIRANTS

Many of Them Are Italians and They Will Appear on the Evening of Feb. 24.

A newly organized group of St. Louis aspirants towards opera, many of them Italians, will make its first bow in a concert at the Odeon, on the evening of Feb. 24, for the benefit of the Italian War Relief fund.

The most ambitious part of the program will be the presentation of the second and third acts from Donizetti's "Lucia di Lammermoor." The cast announced is as follows: Ashton, Bartolomeo Quero; Lucia, Minerva Thomsen; Ravenswood, Salvatore d'Agostino; Alisa, Anna Franzen-Collina; Raymond, Henry Bourne; Bucklaw, Carlo Cappelli; and Norman, John Berezowski.

The program will begin with a patriotic tableau, and the succeeding numbers will be an Italian ballet scene, selections from Verdi's operas, and the overture to "La Forza del Destino." The organization has taken the name of the St. Louis Italian Grand Opera Company. The director is L. M. Molino.

FLORENCE HINKLE SYMPHONY ORCHESTRA SOLOIST.

FLORENCE HINKLE WILL BE SYMPHONY SOLOIST

For Orchestral Program Director Zach Lists Two "First-Time" Numbers.

Instead of Mme. Ernestine Schumann-Heink, who canceled her engagement on account of voice fatigue from singing overmuch at cantonments, the Symphony Orchestra will present as its soloist at the regular concerts this week Miss Florence Hinkle, American concert soprano, who is the wife and pupil of Herbert Witherspoon, basso of the Metropolitan Opera Company, and one of the most successful vocal teachers in New York.

Miss Hinkle has never sung in opera, but her offerings here will be operatic selections—"Caro Salve," from Handel's "Atalanta," one of the numbers sung by Mme. Galli-Curci at her recent St. Louis recital; the famous "Dove sono," from Mozart's "Les Noches di Figaro," and the well-known "Depuis le jour," from Charpentier's "Louise."

The orchestral program will include two "first-time" numbers. They are the Symphony in B-flat Major, Op. 20, by Ernest Chausson, a pupil of Cesar Franck. Chausson was born at Paris in 1855, and was killed in a bicycle accident about 20 years ago. The other new piece is the "Rococco" Suite by Louis Victor Saar of Chicago, which was programed two weeks ago, but put over until the present. The entire program for Friday afternoon and Saturday night is as follows:

Symphony in B-flat Major, Op 20 —Chausson
I—Lento: Allegro vivo; Preso.
II—Tres lent.
III—Anime: Grave.
(First time.)
Arias with orchestra—
(a) "Caro Salve," from Handel's "Atalanta."
(b) "Dove Sono," from Mozart's "Les Noches di Figaro."
Suite, "Rococco" .................. Saar
(First time.)
Aria with orchestra—
"Depius le jour," from "Louise" —Carpenter
Overture to "Ruy Blas" .. Mendelssohn

The "Pop" Program for Today.

Attendants at the popular concert this afternoon at the Odeon will have their first opportunity to make the acquaintance of the folk-music of the Armenians, the oldest Christian nation in the world, and the victim of centuries of oppression and massacre. Its native tunes will be expounded by Haig Gudennian, violinist, himself an Armenian, who, as soloist, will give a series of his own arrangements and compositious. The program follows:

Overture to "Phedre" ...... Massenet
"Baba-Yaga," Tone Picture after a Russian Fairy Tale, Op. 56 .. Liadow
Violin solos with Piano—
(a) "Miserere" .. Gudenian-Dubois
(b) "Cradle Song of Eghine" —Gudenian
(c) Dance, "Le'po'Le'le" .. Gudenian
Fantasie from "Samson et Dalila" Saint-Saens
"Nutcracker" Suite, "Casse-Noisette," Op. 71 .............. Tschaikowsky
Violin solos with piano—
(a) "Alaguiatz" ("Love Song") —Gudenian
(b) "Arabian Song" ...... Gudenian
(c) "Greek Dance" .. Father Choisy
Second Hungarian Rhapsody ... Liszt

Gudenian was born in Constantinople 31 years ago, and was a pupil of Cesar Thomson and Sevik, teacher of Kubelik. He is in St. Louis in the interest of the drive for the benefit of the Armenian and Syrian Relief Fund.

Plan for Pilgrims' Tercentenary.

Henry Van Dyke, author and former United States Minister to the Netherlands; Dr. A. Lawrence Lowell, president of Harvard University, and Arthur Lord of Boston, president of the Pilgrim Association, will be the speakers at the annual banquet of the New England Society of St. Louis, at the University Club, Tuesday evening, Feb. 25. Plans for the Pilgrim Tercentenary in 1920, marking the 300th anniversary of the landing of the pilgrims at Plymouth Rock, will be discussed by Lord.

THE PLAYERS TO PRESENT "THE HARLEQUINADE" TUESDAY

It Will Be First Time It Has Been Produced on Any Stage.

The Players will present for the first time on any stage "The Harlequinade," at the Artists' Guild Theater, Tuesday evening, Feb. 25. It is by Dion Clayton Calthrop and Granville Barker, and is produced by permission of Barker. Clarence Stratton has the direction of the play, which is entitled "An Excursion," with the explanatory phrase, "How in any excursion you get into all sorts of odd company."

"The Harlequinade" is said to be a delightful bit of clever dialogue with a vein of satirical whimsicality. It tells the story of the search of a lover for his true mate throughout many centuries of history and many peoples. The five scenes range from the Banks of the Styx with a company of ancient gods, to an ultra modern theater at Ninty-ninth street, New York, and includes an Italian garden of the Renaissance period and an English country home in the eighteenth century.

During the whole play, little Alice, an English girl, and her worldy uncle sit at one side of the stage and comment on the progress of the play, thus making a play within a play. Stage settings and lighting effects will be on the usual scale of the Players' productions. The cast will consist of members of the Players.

METZ TELLS STORY OF ALSACE-LORRAINE'S WOES, SAYS SIMONDS

thedral. The story of the German conquest of Lorraine is all written there. You can feel, hear, when the German came he had "I will take this wretched little provincial French town, and I will make it a world city. I will give it avenues and parks and public buildings. I will bring it material prosperity and miserable inhabitants; these inferior and inefficient creatures will worship me through my work."

Land Groans With German Monuments.

And year after year you can mark this progress, as you tell the age of an oak by its circles. The French inhabitants crept back further and further into the heart of their old town, rallied about the cathedral as a broken regiments rallies about its colors. German magnificence left the French heart cold, German buildings drove the French structures from the face of the earth, German officers crowded French men and women into the streets, the city grew and flourished, but the German never came at the heart of the French.

Yes, year by year the French disappeared. The old died and their bodies and the bones of their ancestors were borne across the frontier, to be buried in French soil. Young men, as they reached military age, fled across the frontier to wear the French uniform. There were 50,000 French in Metz when the German came; there were less than 20,000 when he left, and year by year the German officers, professors, soldiers and merchants flowed into Metz. They walked its streets with the abiding sense of being conquerors and each year on the anniversary of the battle of 1870, the town was flagged and filled with Germans, come to celebrate the conquest.

Beyond the city, on hills toward France, where great battles were fought, the Germans filled the fields with monuments; the earth fairly groans under the burden of lions and tigers and Princes and Generals, all testimony to the superior German greatness, each monument, like buildings on the square, instinct with the true German spirit of essential ugliness as undeniable efficiency.

"We are a superior race." This even the German graves on the battlefield seem to clamor forth.

Everything Expresses German Conquest.

Even the more the German did; they began the task of restoring the Cathedral, and on the portal they placed figures of the prophets and one has the face of William the Second, although it purports to be a representation of the prophet Daniel. This restless desire to express their pride finds no more significant expression than in this restoration of the ancient Cathedral, restoration expressed in the features of the Kaiser; and the French returning, have so far spared this statue, contenting themselves with only chaining its hands. It is a pretty jest and —yet one feels the enduring strength of the German thing, which defies humor, wit, common sense, lies, superior to all our western standards.

But perhaps the supreme German achievement is the mighty esplanade they constructed along the banks of the Moselle, an avenue with something of the magnificence of Riverside Drive, lined with statues of their heroes, bearing the portentous name of Merovingian Avenue, and providing the conquerors with an opportunity to look out toward the forts which they had constructed to look out over the conquered land. All in all everywhere one has a sense of this German determination to express his conquest, his gospel of blood and iron, the advance guard of his efficiency in everything he built. On the esplanade the French return is commemorated by a simple, satisfying symbol. From a commanding eminence the equestrian statue of William I, conqueror of Metz, surveyed the countryside, looking menacingly out toward France, and when the French came back they overturned the statue and on its pedestal put a plaster monument of a Poilu, a squat-bodied, thick-legged, broad shouldered soldier of Verdun, and beneath it wrote this legend: "On les a." "We've got 'em."

Streets Overflow With French Soldiers.

So much for Metz on the material side. One must see it to understand. There is nothing quite like it in Europe or the rest of the world. It was a bit of oldest France when the German took it. He surrounded it with his monuments, he weighed it with his chains. Two civilizations, two ideas, two races cry out against each other at every turn. Strasburg was a city of its own sort, neither French nor German, taken by arms first, but won to France in long decades of occupation, married by her own consent to France after the revolution, but Alsatian always, possessed of her own soul and retaining it. Metz was French or nothing, and the burden of its agony is written in every corner.

And today it is France again. Streets are overflowing with blue-clad soldiers. French bugles sound in streets, on the forts far above, along the hills toward France the tricolor flies. The German packed his trophies of Gravelotte to carry home, but his departure was too rapid, and they remained behind. He has left behind him thousands of Germans who linger to attest their desire to become French, and grovel where they used to strut and domineer; but still sometimes in a corner whisper that Germany will come back with the next war five years later and darkly threaten punishment to fall upon these people who welcomed the French.

Metz Like an Emerging Prisoner.

If it only were possible in a way to picture, to represent the sense there is everywhere in Metz, of the terrible and evil thing that has just vanished, which is hardly gone beyond the near hills; what for nearly 50 years ground and crushed and mutilated monuments and temples, the spirit which was in monuments, temples and human beings. Metz with all its French soldiers, is like a prisoner, emerging from a dungeon, still blinking in the new-found light. Liberty, freedom, civilization, as we know it, has begun again, but it goes heavy footed, still with a sense of chains only yesterday removed.

Down in Paris I find my American associates beginning to talk, they say the German organization functioned even in its final stage of dissolution, German order still prevails on the Alsace-Lorraine railways, while in France all is confusion. The German had a way about him; he was a master of organization; you feel the instinctive American appreciation of it. But in Metz, the other side leaps to your sight. Efficient, yes; master of machines, yes; but with all his machine and his efficiency he made only enemies and misery. Up on the plateau by Gravelotte there stands a pathetic Russian prison camp. Thousands of forsaken Russians lived and labored there, starved and died. They, too, were administered by the German machine, and their bones are scattered over all the hills. That camp, like the railroad station and parks, is a symbol, a monument of German efficiency.

The odd thing about Metz, too, is that for once—and I do not recall that it has ever before happened in history—a mechanically superior civilization, a better material organization, has failed, lost out, had to give place to an older and less effective order.

The answer is simple. The materialism was too gross, the power too brutal; it crushed the soul with the very burden of its colossal works and it has failed. France is beginning again in the middle Moselle, French spirit, French civilization—you have a very odd but cumulative sense of France itself flowing back to what was anciently undisputed French soil.

But again and again, in Metz, I had the feeling that it was only in

Doctor Tells How To Strengthen Eyesight 50 per cent in One Week's Time in Many Instances

A Free Prescription You Can Have Filled and Use at Home.

Philadelphia, Pa. Do you wear glasses? Are you a victim of eye strain or other eye weaknesses? If so, you will be glad to know that according to Dr. Lewis there is real hope for you. Many whose eyes were failing say they have had their eyes restored through the principle of this wonderful free prescription. One man says, after trying it: "I was almost blind; could not see to read at all. Now I can read everything without any glasses, and my eyes do not water any more. At night they would pain dreadfully; now they feel fine all the time. It was like a miracle to me." A lady who used it says: "The atmosphere seemed hazy with or without glasses, but after using this prescription for fifteen days everything seems clear. I can even read fine print without glasses." It is believed that thousands who wear glasses can now discard them in a reasonable time, and multitudes more will be able to strengthen their eyes so as to be spared the trouble and expense of ever getting glasses. Eye troubles of many descriptions may be wonderfully benefited by following the simple rules. Here is the prescription: Go to any active drug store and get a bottle of Bon-Opto tablets. Drop one Bon-Opto tablet in a fourth of a glass of water and allow to dissolve. With this liquid bathe the eyes two to four times daily. You should notice your eyes clear up perceptibly right from the start, and inflammation will quickly disappear. If your eyes are bothering you, even a little, take steps to save them now before it is too late. Many hopelessly blind might have been saved if they had cared for their eyes in time.

Note: Another prominent Physician to whom the above article was submitted, said: "Bon-Opto is a very remarkable remedy. Its constituent ingredients are well known to eminent eye specialists and widely prescribed by them. The manufacturers guarantee it to strengthen eyesight 50 per cent in one week's time in many instances or refund the money. It can be obtained from any good druggist, and is one of the very few preparations I feel should be kept on hand for regular use in almost every family." It is sold in St. Louis by Enderle, Johnson Bros., Pauley, Judge & Dolph, Wolff-Wilson and other drug stores.—ADVERTISEMENT.

such circumstances that my American compatriots, like myself, could feel accurately what this German menace was which threatened all of us with material organization and spiritual death, with admirably organized towns and city blocks and parks, which, while taking away our western traditions of liberty, sought to reconcile us not gently but violently, by the very size of its construction and the horse power of its machines.

Be German or Die.

You can see how the soul of this little French town was crushed out just as were the Russian prisoners up on the hill. You must be German or die; there was no room for anyone else. The same spirit stirred here in 1870, flamed all over Belgium and Northern France in 1914; but in Metz you felt you had resurrected the German strain; some of the things which lately terrorized the world were conceived here. Here the German for 50 years gloried in the power to tyrannize, abuse, persecute; his material atrocities of the late war were the natural evolution of his spiritual atrocities of half a century. What he did to the soul of Messin he did to the body of citizens of Louvain and to a score of French cities.

I have seen no such interesting or impressive city in Europe during the war or in the world before as in Metz today. Hating the German thing all my life, I have never understood it half as well as in this tragic town recalled from the grave, still incredulous of its deliverance, hope and fear still struggling, a prisoner newly come from an underground cell after half a century of torture. And you have the sense in Metz that Germany may come again. The very solidity of his buildings, the very extensiveness of his constructions, foster the illusion. It was not the military caste or the imperial master who worked here; it was the race, expressing its purpose relentlessly and with absolute confidence. Rome restored the barriers of the Rhineland against these same barbarians, but they passed it still again. You have the sense of two civilizations in lock at Metz, of the German once more in retreat, but still resolved in his inscrutable heart to return to conquer, imprison and tyrannize again. The story of Metz is the story of Alsace-Lorraine for half a century, of Belgium and the north of France for four years and a half. This, you realize in Metz as nowhere else, the German meant to do to Paris and to London—in time his eyes would have turned to even wider horizons. He fell short of Paris, he never approached London, but in Metz he has had his full will for half a century and the thing that he is in this world is written in every material thing, it is written on the face of every French citizen of Metz.

Watch the Product, Not the Machine

Shall we build walls strongly against the later coming of the Hun or shall we Americans be tempted by the glitter and order, superficial but expressive of his system, seeing only the machine and not the product revealed in Metz?

Atrocities! No one could see Metz and not realize that the same race which wrought here was bound to commit atrocities. Nor could one see Metz and not feel that the power, the force, behind the rule that did its work here would turn it to a new attack in its own time.

Meantime—it is my final impression—despite snow and cold, hardships of food and transportation, one has a sense of spring in Metz, a sense of the beginning of the new season; there were smiles on haggard faces, there were everywhere signs of deliverance; part of France has joyously completely returned to la patrie, statues of the German Emperor and his Marshals are gone from their pedestals; they no longer looked hatefully to France which survived in 1870; on the contrary, now, after his long vigil, he still faces fearlessly eastward towards Germany and the poilu on his boche emplacement sets his face toward his fatherland and seems to be calling back long departed exiles to "Pays Messin," no longer with the mournful "Quand meme" of the past, the watchword of hope in defeat, but with the new message —"On les a"—"We've got 'em."

mercial; but the natural disposition to live each moment without afterthought, emotionally."

A passage from "France, 1917, 1918," will serve to show the warm humanity.

"If I were asked for a concrete illustration of self-respect, I should say—the French woman. It is that particular kind of self-respect, no doubt, very much limited to this world; and perhaps beginning to be a little bit frayed. We have some French women at the hospital, the servants who keep us in running order, the dear cook, whom we love not only for her baked meats, proud of her soldier son, once a professor, now a Sergeant, and she a woman of property, with two houses in the little town; patient, kind, very stubborn about her dishes, which have in them the essential juices and savors which characterize all things really French. She has great sweetness and self-containment in her small, wrinkled, yellowish face; always polite and grave, she bubbles deliciously at any joke, and gives affection sagaciously to those who merit it."

This comment on rag-time music is not without its significance:

"Judging by its popularity, one would think it must be a splendid discovery; yet it suggests little or nothing but the comic love making of two darkies. We ride it to death, but its jigging, jogging, jumpy jingle refuses to die on us, and America's young and ours grow up in the tradition of its soul-forsaken sounds."

'BLOCK PARTY' NEXT SATURDAY

Affair Will Be on Flad, Between Thirty-ninth and Lawrence.

Liberal supplies of refreshments are promised all who attend the "block party" on Flad avenue, between Thirty-ninth and Lawrence streets, next Saturday evening. Returned soldiers, sailors and marines will be the guests of honor, but the public is invited and may expect to be well entertained, according to Mrs. J. M. Hutchinson of 4021 Flad avenue, in charge of arrangements.

Five hundred packages of cigarettes have been donated for the party, as well as 500 pounds of frankfurters and other things. Dancing will be held in the yard of the Sherman school or in the building, according to the weather. A number of convalescent soldiers from Jefferson Barracks are expected to attend. The party will last from 7 to 12 p. m.

WHAT OUR NEGRO SOLDIERS DID TO WIN WORLD WAR

ments, stormed bluffs, ridges and hills for 14 kilometers, all the way facing stubborn and terribly effective artillery and machine gun fire.

"When we crossed the Dormois River, where it widened into a swamp, the boche was shelling industriously, and it looked like a hailstorm on the surface of the water. I saw shells break from concussion when they hit the water the same as on the ground. Much of the time we had to lean over and shout into each other's ears to be heard.

"At the end of 12 days we came out with our division, what was left of us, which included 20 officers."

At the very last the 369th won another distinction. The following is from the Stars and Stripes, the organ of the American troops in France:

"The furthest north at 11 o'clock (when the armistice went into effect) on the front of the two armies was held at the extreme American left, up Sedan way, by the troops of the Seveinty-seventh Division. The furthest east—the nearest to the Rhine—was held by those negro soldiers who used to make up the old New York Fifteenth, and have long been brigaded with the French. They were in Alsace, and their line ran through Thann and across the railway that leads to Colmar."

New Negro Division Fights.

Next, to see a negro nivision in action:

The Ninety-second Division was composed of the 183d Infantry Brigade, consisting of the 365th and 366th Infantry Regiments and the 350th Machine Gun Battalion; the 184th Infantry Brigade, composed of the 367th and 368th Infantry Regiments and the 351st Machine Gun Battalion; the 167th Artillery Brigade, consisting of the 349th, the 350th and the 351st Artillery Regiments; and the 340th Machine Gun Battalion, the 317th Trench Mortar Battalion, the 317th Engineers' Regiment, the 317th Engineers' Train, the 317th Ammunition Train, the 317th Supply Train, the 317th Train Headquarters, the Ninety-second Military Police Company; the 317th Sanitary Train, comprising the 365th, the 366th, the 367th, the 368th Field and Hospital and Ambulance Companies, 600 of the officers of the division were negroes.

Soon after the Ninety-second was thoroughly organized it took over the Marbache sector. Here their activity in trench raids on the Germans earned from the Germans the name of "Black Devils." By these raids they drove the Germans north beyond Erehaut and Voivrotte to Cheminot Bridge. In the hope of putting a check on these attacks the boches tried to destroy the bridge and flooded the country.

Up to this time the Ninety-second had never been in a battle. The only regiment in it that had seen a big engagement was the 368th Infantry, which took part in the action in the Argonne Forest. The division's chance came in the drive on Metz. They were notified at 4 o'clock Sunday morning, Nov. 10. The motto, "See it through," of the "Buffaloes," the 367th Infantry, trained at Camp Upton, echoed through the whole division.

They "Saw It Through."

They began their advance at 7 o'clock from Pont-a-Mousson. Before them was a valley commanded by the heavy guns of Metz and by nests of German machine guns. The negroes seemed to realize that here for the first time was the great opportunity to show their mettle—that for the first time they were going to battle as a division. A sense of race solidarity possessed them, uniting their purpose as no amount of drilling could, and they were literally a terrible foe as they plunged forward to Preny. So rapidly did they advance that the list of casualties, considering the rain of shells, was small. Their objective for the day was Bois Frehaut. Picked Moroccan and Senegalese troops of the French, striking for the same point—in an odd competition of colored races on this day—were the first to arrive. The Germans, seeing what was up, were pounding Bois Frehaut with a heavy fire. It became too hot for the Moroccans and the Senegalese. They were forced to retreat.

Were our colored fighters really going to "see it through?" Thefight was now getting hotter and hotter, for the Germans were bringing their full resistance to bear. The Fifty-sixth Regiment was forced to withdraw, but not until after they had stood up and borne a heavy loss. The First Battalion of the "Buffaloes," commanded by Maj. Charles L. Appleton of New York, with colored company commanders and Lieutenants, was called upon to hold the Germans at bay while the hard-hit Fifty-sixth retreated. Here, in confronting the enemy with an iron resistance, the "Buffaloes" won their Croix de Guerre.

A little later Bois Frehaut was taken by the Ninety-second. The Germans directed against the place a more murderous fire, but there was no driving out the colored men.

Numerous officers and privates of the Ninety-second were commended for meritorious conduct by General Orders. During the final engagement of the war the negro division held the line of Vandieres-St. Michel-Xon-Norry. The Ninety-sencond suffered a total of 1478 casualties.

CHINESE TO ADDRESS "AD" CLUB

Dr. Chao-Hsin Chu Coming From San Francisco.

Dr. Chao-Hsin Chu, who was private secretary to former President Feng Kou-Chang of China and now Chinese Consul-General at San Francisco, will come to St. Louis next Tuesday as the guest of the Advertising Club to point out to business men the advantages of extending their trade in the far East. He will speak at the luncheon of the club at the Statler on "Trade Co-Operation Between the United States and China."

While here Dr. Chao-Hsin Chu will visit big manufacturing plants. His object in keeping in touch with the manufacturers is to suggest that Chinese raw materials be used, that manufactured products be increasingly demanded by Chinese markets and that American capital be invested in Chinese manufactories.

is a musical instrument of the phonograph type. It is not simply an improved phonograph; it is entirely new in principle and construction. You will hear for the first time vocal and instrumental music so naturally re-created that it will bear comparison with the original. Here is a phonograph that proves its perfection.

Your home will not be complete without an Edison—satisfy the music hunger of your children by giving them real music, not an imitation.

Thomas A. Edison originated this marvelous phonograph. It represents quite a number of patented inventions, covering a five-year period of experimentation. Do you think Mr. Edison would have placed it upon the market unless it was a decided improvement on existing phonographs? The New Edison is the wonder of music lovers, because Mr. Edison has revolutionized the art of eliminating that artificial phonograph tone.

This Pretty Girl Tells How She Defies Age by Using Ordinary Oatmeal to Beautify Her Complexion

According to Mae Edna Wilder, the "wheels of time" may be turned backward if a little common sense is used in taking care of the skin. Like everything else, the skin needs food, care and attention. The pores, to do their work properly, should be kept open and scrupulously clean. After being thoroughly cleansed they should be fed, to nourish and bring to the skin that beautiful, youthful appearance every normal woman craves. Miss Wilder, though well past the time of life when most complexions fade, is famous for her beautiful complexion, and when asked how she retains her youthful appearance said:

"It is a simple process to appear youthful. No one comes within ten years of guessing my age. Here is my secret: Go to any grocery store and get 10 cents' worth of ordinary oatmeal. Put a small quantity of the oatmeal in a bag of cheesecloth about the size of your hand. Drop on or into the bag 10 drops of derwillo, which can be obtained at any up-to-date drug store, dip in warm water and use as you would a wash cloth. Wash your face, hands, arms, neck and shoulders, night and morning. Let it remain on the skin for a minute, thus allowing the pores to absorb the food value of the oatmeal. Wash off with warm water, rinse with cold water and dry thoroughly. Then apply derwillo. This is very important. In a short time your skin will undergo a marvelous change. A rosy hue mounts the cheeks, and a baby softness comes to the skin. The very first application will convince you that this combination is a most effective one for beautifying purposes. It is especially recommended for freckles, tan, sunburn, wrinkles, large pores, rough skin, as it freshens and beautifies the complexion and makes rough, red hands and arms smooth and white. It gives the skin the appearance of youth, and whatever success I have had in preserving my complexion I attribute to derwillo and oatmeal. Every woman, no matter what her station in life, can well afford to spend five or ten minutes night and morning in caring for her complexion. There is not enough money in the world to cause me to neglect mine. I have known women over fifty to follow this method and frequently pass for forty. Women thirty years of age look like girls in their teens. Just cut this out so you won't forget it; try it for a week, and at the end of that time you will thank me for publishing my formula."

MAE EDNA WILDER

NOTE—To get the best effect, be sure to follow the complete instructions given above. You have only to get derwillo and oatmeal. You need nothing else, and it's so simple that anyone can use it, and so inexpensive that any woman can afford it. Derwillo can be obtained in this city from department stores and all up-to-date druggists, including Wolff-Wilson, Judge & Dolph, Johnson Bros., Enderle, and Pauley Stores.—ADVERTISEMENT.

STRAPHANGERS EAGER SIGNERS OF RECALL BLANKS

NOT ONE REFUSAL WAS ENCOUNTERED

Reasons Expressed for Belief That the Mayor Should Be Removed From Office for His U. R. Deal.

The more the straphangers are canvassed with petitions for the recall of Mayor Kiel, for his mill tax and franchise agreement with the United Railways Co., the easier the job of getting signatures becomes. This is the experinece of a number of those who are circulating petitions. The chief difficulty in getting straphangers to sign is not in persuading them, but in keeping lead pencils sharpened as fast as the signers wear out or break off the points.

Thirty-four signers, and none who refused to sign, were found by a canvasser who was accompanied by a Post-Dispatch reporter yesterday. The expressions gathered by the reporter were:

Thomas Flaherty, 4421 Penrose street: By all means, recall the Mayor for his underhanded deal with the United Railways. He did not live up to his promises to the people.

L. Marchildon, 4023 Nebraska avenue: I don't believe in "public be damned" policies.

B. A. Hill, 5212 Blow street: The deal was rotten.

Ignace Trost, 3632 Tholozan avenue: The United Railways seems to own the city hall. It is up to the straphangers to save the city.

J. L. Tucker, 3504 Franklin avenue: Signing for the recall is the best way I have of expressing my opinion of the deal.

Edward M. Downey, 3526 Vista avenue: The Mayor betrayed the people.

J. W. Lewis, 711 North Eighteenth street: It was a secret deal, and for that reason, if for no other, I am against it.

Frank Kopac, 1012 Geyer avenue: It is time to show some of these city officials that they are working for the people and not for the United Railways.

Louis Banholzer, 3923 Weber road: It was no compromise. It was a complete surrender to the United Railways.

P. H. Hackett, 4019 Cottage avenue: What did the people get out of it? Nothing.

E. L. Mitchell, 1701 South Ninth street: The Mayor did something he had no right to do, and he did it in the dark.

J. A. Kraus, 3649 Koeln avenue: We helped to finance the war because it was our war. Why should we help to finance the United Railways? We want service, not watered stock.

H. O. Maschmeier, 4224 Prairie avenue: The deal was a surrender of the rights of the people.

J. F. Van Lear, 4616 Natural Bridge avenue: I am opposed to the deal because it was not, in my opinion, a good bargain so far as the people are concerned.

J. O. Mittrucker, 5506 Alcott avenue: The Mayor should be recalled. The deal with the United Railways proves he is not the right man in the position he holds.

J. Baumer, 1423 Montclair avenue: The deal was no good.

John F. McMurty, 110 North Fourteenth street: The deal guarantees the strap-hanger nothing.

C. Sundermann, 3405 Eads avenue: Kiel had no right to take the mill tax and franchise litigation from the courts, without binding the street car company to live up to its end of the agreement.

Frank Slovack, 1705 Carroll street: The Mayor's agreement was a mere scrap of paper, with reference to the collection of the mill tax.

Nick Treis, 625 Soulard street: The United Railways got everything. The people got nothing.

Frank Wagner, 1443 Billon avenue: I am against the deal because it does not insure better street car service.

B. B. Dosenbach, 1203 Missouri avenue: The people were misrepresented.

James Brennan, 4772 Labadie avenue: The deal was not a good one for the people.

P. J. Tobin, 3420 Eads avenue: The referendum petition that was stolen by the United Railways burglars should have been a warning to the Mayor.

A. J. Heimer, 1124 Kentucky avenue: Kiel showed himself too liberal with the people's rights.

W. A. Cooseman, 2927A Rutger street: The Mayor made a bad job of it and the people are the losers.

E. C. Burgh, 3305A Utah street: No one has explained how the deal benefited the straphangers.

Ernest Leblanc, 4209 Lexington The people should show him what they think of his action.

A. Shumate, 3725A Louisiana avenue: The United Railways wants too much. The Mayor seems willing to give them what they want.

Chester Abel, 2855 St. Vincent avenue: The people want better service and cheaper fares. They Mayor did not get either.

M. Raicus, 4058A Evans avenue: I am not in favor of the deal.

Henry Cordes, 4100 Michigan avenue: The Mayor went over the heads of the people. He had no right to do what he did.

A. Peterson, 2567 Warren street: The Mayor did not live up to his pre-election promises.

Slayer of Husband Gets 10 Years.

By the Associated Press.

POPLAR BLUFF, Mo., Feb. 15.—Mrs. Laura B. Stout, charged with the murder of her husband, George C. Stout, on April 17, 1917, was last night found guilty and sentenced to 10 years in the penitentiary. The slain man had only one arm and one leg.

"Mother and Her Pets Love Candy Cascarets"

Careful mothers know that Cascarets in the home means less sickness, less trouble, less worry, less cost. When one of the kiddies has a white tongue, tainted breath, sour stomach or a cold, a Cascaret quickly and harmlessly works the poisons from the liver and bowels and all is well again.

TO MOTHERS! While all children detest castor oil, calomel, pills and laxatives, they really love to take Cascarets because they taste like candy. Cascarets work the nasty bile, sour fermentations and constipation poison from the child's tender stomach, liver and bowels without pain or griping. Cascarets never disappoint the worried mother. Each 10 cent box of Cascarets contains directions for children aged one year old and upwards as well as for adults. —ADV.

Girl With $13,000 Held.

By the Associated Press.

POUGHKEEPSIE, N. Y., Feb. 15.—Bessie Endner, 18-year-old daughter of a Brooklyn shipbuilder, was arrested here today with $13,000 in her possession, at the request of the Brooklyn police, who charged that she fled with the weekly payroll of her father's force. With her was held William Johnson, 21. The local police said the girl declared she and Johnson were married several days ago and that she committed the theft on Feb. 4.

AGED SLAYER OF NEIGHBOR GETS TEN YEARS IN PENITENTIARY

John Eberly Convicted of Second-Degree Murder by Jury in Court at Clayton.

John Eberly, 72 years old, of Washington Park, St. Louis County, was found guilty of murder in the second degree in the Circuit Court at Clayton yesterday, after the jury had deliberated on the evidence 18 hours.

Eberly was sentenced to 10 years in the penitentiary. He was convicted of having killed his neighbor, David Tucker, 45, with a pocketknife. Tucker's wounds were inflicted Oct. 5 last, and he died on Oct. 26.

Eberly introduced testimony tending to show he wounded Tucker in self-defense. The two men had been involved in a neighborhood controversy for more than six months. When the verdict was read Mrs. Tucker swooned. Eberly filed notice he would appeal to the State Supreme Court.

NEW REGULATIONS FOR SURETIES PUT THREE ON SHELF

Judges of Five St. Louis Courts Adopt Rules to Safeguard State Against Inadequate Bonds for Offenders.

FOLLOWS INQUIRY INTO PROFESSIONALS

Bondsmen Hereafter Must Reside in City and File Sworn Statement on Location and Value of Realty.

Five Judges, representing the criminal divisions of the Circuit Court and the Courts of Criminal Correction, met in the chambers of Circuit Judge Garesche, in the Municipal Courts Building, yesterday afternoon and drafted regulations designed to prevent bondsmen, whose character or real estate holdings do not provide adequate safeguards for the State, from signing bonds for offenders hereafter brought before the local courts.

The conference, which was held following a three weeks' investigation of qualifications of professional bondsmen dealing with the courts here, was attended by Circuit Judges Garesche, Taylor and Calhoun, and by Judges Miller and Krueger of the Courts of Criminal Correction. Assistant Circuit Attorney Baer also was present.

Three Lose Privileges.

The new regulations became effective immediately and resulted in three professional bondsmen being denied the privilege of signing further sureties. Two of them, Sam Weisman, a tailor, and Louis Seidel, a butcher, were barred temporarily because they are represented on more bonds than the value of their real estate justifies. The third, George J. Dominick, was informed that he will not be recognized as a bondsman because his qualifications are not sufficient.

In the future all bondsmen must reside in the city and each will be required to file, with the clerk of the Court for Criminal Causes, a sworn statement setting forth the location and value of all real estate owned. These statements will then be compared with the records of the office of the Recorder of Deeds for verification.

No bondsman will be deemed qualified if the real estate owned by him is incumbered in any way, or whose real estate holdings are not found sufficient to afford the State ample protection in the event of forfeiture. Bondsmen who falsely claim ownership of any property will be prosecuted for perjury.

Clerks to Check Bonds.

Arrangements have been made to have the clerks of the various courts carefully check the number and amount of all bonds accepted. No bondsman will be permitted to sign more bonds than the value of his real estate holdings justify. When each bondsman reaches his proper limit he will be barred from signing additional bonds until, by cancellation or otherwise, he reduces the number outstanding.

In cases of forfeiture where no payment has been made to the court, the bondsman will be permanently barred from acting as surety for offenders appearing in the local courts.

The following schedule, showing the minimum bond to be required for various offenses, was adopted, and hereafter will be in effect:

Robbery in first degree, $3000; burglary in second degree and larceny, $1800 to $2000; carrying concealed weapons, $800; grand larceny of automobile, $2000; larceny from person (picking pockets), $1500; grand larceny, other than automobiles, $800.

Assistant Circuit Attorney Baer was instructed by the conferees to draft a bill making all bonds a matter of public record and liens on the real estate of bondsmen. This bill will be presented to the Legislature for passage.

McTague in a New Role.

McTague has opened a cafeteria in the Maryland Hotel, on Ninth between Olive and Pine. This convenient and spacious restaurant has been changed into a cafeteria where the choicest of foods are ready for immediate service from 7 a. m. to 8 p. m. every day including Sunday. At this splendid new restaurant good wholesome food may be had at popular prices made possible by cafeteria service. You have but to pass down Pure Food Lane and select the foods which appeal to you. You will find hundreds of tempting dishes well prepared that smack of the chef's art. It is an ideal place to breakfast, lunch and dine. We cordially invite all who appreciate good wholesome food and quick service to come to the Maryland Hotel Cafeteria where the quality of food excels, but the usual popular cafeteria prices prevail. Ladies downtown shopping will find the Maryland Hotel Cafeteria a restful place to lunch. James H. McTague, President. Edward W. Dunn, Manager.—Adv.

Gen. Wood Returns to Business.

WASHINGTON, Feb. 15.—Major-General Robert E. Wood has been relieved as Acting Quartermaster-General at his own request and will return soon to business in New York, which he left to join the army when the United States went to war. He is succeeded by Brigadier-General Harry L. Rogers, until recently chief Quartermaster of the Expeditionary Force.

WHY IRELAND WANTS A REPUBLIC NOW INSTEAD OF HOME RULE

"ENVOY" OF PROVISIONAL GOVERNMENT TO THE U. S. PRESENTS SINN FEIN CASE

"Sincerity of the Powers Championing Self-Determination for All Peoples on Trial," Writes Dr. Patrick McCartan, in Plea for Freedom for Erin.

WHAT is going to be the Peace Conference's attitude toward Ireland's demand for separation from England is a question which has come to be recognized to be of almost paramount importance in so far as any lasting program of world peace is concerned. And yet, although so much depends upon its correct and tactful solution, comparatively few Americans have given themselves the trouble or, indeed, have had an opportunity, to inform themselves of just what is involved in this perplexing problem.

No one, perhaps, in this country is better qualified than Dr. Patrick McCartan to make this demand for Ireland's freedom. Doctor McCartan is the envoy of the provisional government of Ireland and one of the Sinn Fein leaders who were recently elected to the Irish Parliament.

Last New Year's eve he published a proclamation announcing to Irish citizens resident in the United States the result of the election of December 14 (the count being officially completed December 28), by which Ireland had "exercised her right of self-determination," and decided negatively on the question of, "Shall Britain continue to occupy Ireland?"

More recently he addressed a memorandum to the same effect to Secretary of State Lansing and the envoys of other governments, and desired them to taken notice that "the Irish nation, therefore, does not recognize His Britannic Majesty as King of Ireland. The United Kingdom of Great Britain and Ireland is at an end. The republic of Ireland denies the right of any foreign government henceforth to enter into negogiations or arrangements concerning the Irish people with the government of His Britannic Majesty."

Doctor McCartan was one of those who were proscribed after the Easter week revolution in 1916 and had to go into hiding to escape being locked up or perhaps even executed. Strange to say, his hiding place was almost always in the houses of Unionists, as those Irishmen are called who do not desire to sever ties with England.

"I was safe with them," said Doctor McCartan, "because no matter what their political creed may be, their hearts always beat true for those who are willing to do and die for Ireland." Had my hiding place been discovered, those who harbored me would undoubtedly have been severely punished. They knew this. In one case they even shielded me by denying that I was in the house while the police were going through it from cellar to garret."

Since coming to the United States, he has been living in Philadelhpia.

By Dr. PATRICK McCARTAN, F. R. C. S.
Envoy of the Provisional Government of Ireland.

"THERE are 5,000,000 arguments against the establishment of an Irish republic, and each of these has a rifle in his hands." So spoke an officer of the British army at a public meeting during the election campaign in Ireland. This officer expressed in a nutshell the attitude of the British militarists regarding the issue in Ireland. He also brought into bold relief the line of demarkation between the old and the new world order.

Nowhere in the world today is the issue between militarism and pacifism more clearly defined than in Ireland. The immediate result will be the acid test of the sincerity of those Powers which during the last four years of carnage loudly championed the right of all peoples peacefully to determine their national destiny. For more than a year Ireland has been demanding the right of self-determination. To minimize that demand the English Premier made a gesture to the conscience of the world by appointing a "convention," ostensibly to determine the fate of Ireland.

"That "convention" partly served the purpose for which it was intended. For a time it deceived the friends of liberty in England and in other countries not familiar with the real conditions; it deceived but few people in Ireland. This fact was demonstrated by the success of the republican candidates at the by-elections, held while the "convention" was sitting. These successes indicated the political outlook of the Irish people, but they were not conclusive. The general election on Dec. 14 was welcomed in Ireland because it afforded an opportunity of giving the world convincing proof of the determination of the Irish people to assert their independence. The dice were loaded against the forces of Irish liberty, but the people were confident. The conditions prevailing in Ireland prior to election are briefly described by James O'Mara, who was one of the successful candidates, in a letter which appeared in the Irish Independent, Dublin, Nov. 21 last. It is as follows:

Ante-Election Trobules.

Sir—I desire to call public attention to the fact that the Government already has arrested without charge and in succession three Sinn Fein directors of elections: (1) Sean Milroy, in Cavan, on May 17; (2) Daniel MacCarthy, in Dublin, in September, and (3) Robert O'Brennan, at these offices, today.

Each arrest has naturally caused some disorganization, but the cause of Irish independence will not be stayed or broken by such tyranny. Men have been and will be found who will fill the vacant places.

It may, however, be of interest to Irish voters and to the world outside Ireland to point out that in addition to these assaults on the machinery, by which Sinn Fein endeavors to secure self-determination at the coming general election the Government now detains in jail:

1. The president of Sinn Fein.
2. One of the two vice presidents.
3. The two treasurers.
4. The two secretaries
5. All but one or two of the members of the late standing committee, except those for whom warrants are issued, but not yet executed.
6. And if our candidates are elected at the coming general election 34 constituencies will be represented by men in jail, six by men evading arrest, four by men in the United States of America.
7. In addition, hundreds of workers, local election directors, agents, organizers, etc., are detained, some without trial and some on long sentences for "crimes" which even the English Government has only recently invented.

JAMES O'MARA,
Sinn Fein Director of Elections,
Pro Tem.

"The Republic of Ireland."

The issue was put clearly though briefly before the voters, as can be seen from advertisements which appeared in the Irish daily press. Here is a typical sample:

"Better Silence than Mutilated Statements." E. De Valera, Lincoln Jail, Nov. 29, 1918.

"Vote for Separation from England." (As passed by censor).

The result was officially announced on Dec. 28, and showed that virtually three-fourths of the people voted for "Separation from England."

By this act Ireland severad all political connection with England as completely as Norway severed connection with Sweden. The republic of Ireland is, therefore, today a reality, and rests not on bayonets and machine guns, but on the good will of the people.

The republic has no force to defend it but the moral force of the Irish people and of the people of an awakened world. If allowed freely to develop tiwhout the interference of the armed forces of a foreign Power or Powers it will be a triumph for humanity. If in its infancy the republic should be drowned in blood, as the words of a British Cabinet Minister seem to forecast, militarism shall again have triumphed over right, and the vaunted new world order will be proved a Government hoax.

Ireland's demand for recognition as a republic is today a puzzle to many people who have heard of nothing for half a century but a request for home rule. To understand present conditions in Ireland it is necessary to review the happenings in Ireland during the last 20 or 30 years.

Under Parnell the energies of the whole people were thrown into the good agitation movement. People eagerly read the political speeches of their representatives, but little else. There was no deep thinking. Agitation was the watchword on every tongue. Few books were published and fewer perhaps read. The intellect of the nation was chloroformed. The ballad singer seemed to be the sole characteristic survivor of a people that glorified her bards and poets. The general attitude of the public to authors was aptly described by Richard Dalton Williams thus:

"Hang the bard and slay the punster,
Throw all rhyming to the deuce;
Take a business trip to Munster,
Shoot a landlord, be of use."

After the overthrow of Parnell there was political chaos, but the intellect of the country recovered from its stupor. The various would-be political leaders indulged in vulgarities, which they seemed to consider correct political criticism. From this the intelligent element of the nation recoiled. Cut voluntarily adrift from the political squalor around them, the intellectuals applied themselves to study, and as a result the number of books published began steadily to increase. Even the great mass of the people lost interest in political speeches, and the spectacle of numbers of farmers congregating to listen to someone reading the newspapers, which was common during the leadership of Parnell and Biggar, was no longer to be seen.

The union of the political factions under the leadership of the late John Redmond failed to attract the intellect of the country, for even then vulgarities did not cease. The thinkers and writers were to be found in the Gaelic League, which, though it had a modest origin in a small room in Dublin, soon grew to be a powerful and influential organization. It was nonpolitical and as an organization never took part in politics. The young men who attended the Gaelic League classes did more than learn the Irish language.

They began to read the history of their country, which was denied to them by the educational system prevailing. Soon a band of thinkers existed in every part of the country. The people began to learn something of their country's achievements during its independence, and to nurse hopes for a great future. The influence of the Gaelic League spread to the schools and colleges. One of the founders of the league, who played an important role in the developments preceding the establishment of the republic of Ireland, who now plays a leading part in the councils of that republic, and who will likely be Minister of Education in the Government the republic is about to organize, is Prof. Eoin MacNeill.

From Parnell to Redmond.

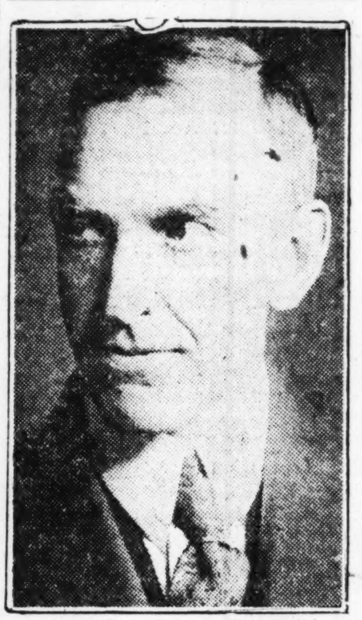
Besides the Gaelic League, other vital forces in Ireland remained outside Mr. Redmond's political movement. These forces had fewer adherents than the Gaelic League, but did more than the league to destroy Mr. Redmond's influence and to challenge the supremacy of his party. The chief among these was the Irish Republican Brotherhood, or Fenians. They were originally organized by James Stephens and known by both names. The failure of their movement in 1867 and the land agitation did much to diminish their numerical strength, but they were never completely exterminated. Thomas J. Clarke, who was executed after the revolution of 1916, for instance, was a member before 1867, and died a member of the supreme council. In fact, he was the guiding spirit in the movement for several years before the revolution. Several men who had worked with him in the organization prior to the Parnell movement were in prison or internment camps after Easter, 1916.

When Parnell started on his career as leader he made an agreement with the Fenians. This in Fenian circles was known as the "New Departure." The man who did most to bring about this alliance between constitutionalism and revolutionism was John Devoy, at present editor of the Gaelic American, New York. He was severely criticised by some of his comrades, who were mere revolutionists, but Devoy was a statesman. Had a situation arisen in Parnell's time such as occurred in 1913, Devoy's policy would have been completely vindicated. According to the terms of the alliance Parnell was not to say or do anything which would tend to undermine the movement for absolute independence. When asked, therefore, if Ireland would be satisfied with home rule, Parnell replied, "No man can set limits to the march of a nation." Parnell to his death was true to the terms of the agreement.

SAYS ONLY A REPUBLIC WILL SATISFY IRELAND



Patrick McCartan

When Mr. Redmond became leader he was approached by the Fenians, who wished a similar alliance. Redmond replied in a speech to the students of Cambridge University: "The separation of Ireland is impossible, and, if possible, undesirable." The Fenians therefore decided they could not support him. Mr. Redmond widened the breach by thanking Queen Victoria for allowing Irishmen in the English army to wear the shamrock on St. Patrick's day, "in recognition of their valor, no matter on what field of battle it had been displayed."

Parnell used the Fenians as a big stick to make English statesmen toe the line. He threatened them that if they did not deal satisfactorily with him "they would have to deal with sterner men, who would use sterner methods." Redmond vainly did all in his power to break the big stick which Parnell had used with such effect.

Vitrtually all members of the Fenians, or, as they were more commonly called in recent years, Irish Republican Brotherhood, were members of the Gaelic League. In fact, they were the backbone of the organization. To a certain extent they leavened the whole movement with their ideals. But a more potent factor even than the I. R. B. in spreading the doctrine of an independent Ireland was the paper edited by Arthur Griffith, the author of the Sinn Fein policy.

With William Rooney and Mme. Maude Gonne MacBride, he took over a little paper published in Belfast by Ethna Carbery (Mrs. Seumas MacManus) and Alice Milligan, a Tyrone Presbyterian. The ballads of Rooney and the terse prose of Griffith soon made the United Irishman a favorite with the Gaelic Leaguers and the members of the I. R. B. Though comparatively a small paper, it was the best from the national and literary point of view published in Ireland since the days of the Nation, of Gavan Duffy, Thomas Davis and J. B. Dillon, and of the short-lived United Irishman, which sent John Mitchel in chains to the penal colony of Van Dieman's Land.

Organizing Sinn Fein.

Griffith was a relentless critic of the Irish party and the policy of parliamentarianism. Week after week he exposed the fallacies in their purpose and ridiculed their platitudes and tactics. While still new in the movement, I remember him noting the fact that Redmond made a "telling speech on the floor of the House," but, he added, "the Stock Exchange was not affected and the channel fleet is still afloat." After a time many of the readers desire more than destructive criticism. He referred them to other nations, such as Italy, which had achieved independence. Revolution was out of the question, he was told, but he pointed to the success of Francis Deak in Hungary after the failure of revolution under Kossuth. He then published in his paper a series of articles entitled the "Resurrection of Hungary," and these were republished later in pamphlet form and had a wide circulation. In 1905 he published another series entitled "A Sequel to the Resurrection of Hungary—a Parallel for Ireland." These were also republished in pamphlet form as "The Sinn Fein Policy."

The new policy attracted the attention of so many that a convention was summoned in November, 1905, when the Sinn Fein organization was founded. The organization spread until clubs existed in virtually every county in Ireland, but it failed to attract the peasantry in great numbers. Its members in rural districts were confined to the members of the I. R. B. Some of these even feared it because they blamed the "New Departure" for virtually destroying their organization, and because they dreaded all movements savoring of constitutionalism. Yet the organization grew, and in 1907 Charles J. Dolan, member of Parliament for North Leitrim, created a sensation by resigning his seat and announcing his intention to contest it on the Sinn Fein ticket. Though he polled a large vote, he was defeated at the election. As a result the Liberals again took up the home rule cause and by dexterous juggling with it were able to deceive the Irish people until Easter, 1916.

The Sinn Fein.

Sinn Fein as a political organization gradually dwindled after the British Liberals, with promises of home rule, assumed office. The central branch in Dublin remained in existence, but it concerned itself chiefly with a co-operative bank, which had been started in the heyday of the movement. The Irish party considered the policy discredited, and hence later, to discredit the Irish Volunteers, they always spoke of them as the Sinn Fein Volunteers. After the revolution the Irish party discovered that they had thus identified the volunteer movement with Sinn Fein in the eyes of the mass of the people.

In December, 1910, an Ulster Unionist conference decided to establish a fund for the purpose of purchasing arms to defeat home rule. Irish Freedom, of which I was then editor, commenting on this, said: "The leaders of the English Conservatives who know that home rule in the sense of an Irish Legislature with any real powers, is as distant as the moon, have determined to raise the home rule bogey in England in order to help them fight the Liberals there; and, therefore, the word has been passed on to their henchmen in Ireland, the leaders of the Irish Unionists, and hence the rank and file of the Irish Unionists are to be stirred up to the fighting pitch against their own countrymen.

"Arms are to be stored and a martial atmosphere sustained. Good! Oh, nobility and gentry, farmers and shopkeepers and artisans, men of property and men of no property in that part of Ulster which is afraid of the rest of Ireland, we drink a health to your arming! May you get arms, plenty of them, good and cheap, and may you get men to use them and may they make as good use of them as did your forefathers, who took up arms 130 years ago. See ye to it that the arms are properly and safely stored; that is, that they are intrusted to somebody who will give them up to you when wanted, for the arms you purchase to fight the land-grabbing Papists will be used, if they are used at all, for quite a different purpose! Surely the spirits of the volunteers must have grinned at the solemn heartiness with which £9000 were subscribed in a twinkling for the defense of Ulster against the Irish nation; for the maintenance of that union with England against which they strove, against which, with any other leader than Charlemont, they would have fought. Even so, 130 years ago did they arm and organize to preserve Ireland in the British Empire and prevent the French from making her a free nation. And behold, arms turned them into men and made them realize that they were Irishmen and that the country which bred them and to which they owed allegiance was Ireland and not England or the British Empire.

"They made her legislature, monstrosity though it was, a free and independent legislature; and had they not been cursed by Charlemont's leading and Grattan's meddling, would have made the Duke of Leinster first president of the Lrish republic or ruler of a revised monarchy. History has a fashion of repeating itself, and we welcome with a shout this revival of public arming in Ulster. One hundred and thirty years ago it began also in Ulster, but it did not end there; it only ended where the four seas of Ireland stopped it. It will spread again, my merry hearts of Ulster.

Volunteers in Arms.

"Arms then, Unionists of Ireland, and keep your powder dry. We have no fear of your making a shameful use of your weapons. And by and by, when the time comes, we will stand shoulder to shoulder, remembering Orr and Tone and Emmet and all other true hearts who worked and died that our common country might live."

The arming again ended only where the four seas of Ireland stopped it. An article by Prof. Eoin MacNeil appeared in one of the Irish-Ireland weeklies in October, 1913, advocating the organization of a volunteer force on the lines of the Ulster Volunteers. The article was a surprise, as most people regarded MacNeil as a student of history, who would take no part in any movement not purely intellectual. The article was discussed by Thomas J. Clarke, Bulmer Hobson, a Belfast Quaker, and The O'Rahilly. MacNeil was asked if he meant what he wrote, and he replied in the affirmative. The result was a public meeting to organize the volunteers, which the largest hall in Dublin was unable to accommodate.

Prof. MacNeill, the historian and student, was placed at the head of the organization, which spread like a prairie fire over the country. Drill instructions were scarce, but Dublin was fortunate in this respect, for a boys' military organization had been in existence there for three years and these boys became very useful in the new movement.

Countess Markievicz had anticipated even the Unionists of Ulster and had organized the boys of Dublin in Na Fianna Eireann. It was a military organization, of which the Countess herself was president. The boys were taught military tactics and went through all the training of an ordinary army. The Countess believed that if the boys of Ireland were taught the use of arms, they would acquire and use them to good purpose some day. She and her boy soldiers threw themselves heart and soul into the volunteer movement, and during Easter week these boys, some of whom were under 14, proved worthy of their leader. They were and are—those of them who are alive (for Seaghan Houston and Conbelt, who were executed, were of their number)—proud of her and she proud of them.

The Irish party at first tried to discourage the movement, but they soon saw that course was futile. They then attempted to secure control and partly succeeded. Their interference resulted in splitting the Volunteers. One section followed Prof. MacNeill

Beauty of Design Quality of Tone

THE BRUNSWICK satisfies the most discriminating taste. It combines the finest craftsmanship of master cabinet workers with the genius of a great idea — The Brunswick Method of Reproduction. See and hear The Brunswick, and you will agree with us. Its appearance caused a sensation in musical circles, and marked a new epoch in phonograph building.

The Ultona

The Brunswick Method of Reproduction enables you to play all records as they have never been played before. Now you can select the best from the lists of all the great record-makers.

Two unique features distinguish The Brunswick Method of Reproduction — the Ultona, an all-record player, and the Brunswick Amplifier.

By a simple turn of the hand the Ultona is ready to play any make of record. It presents the proper needle, diaphragm and weight. Whatever the record requires—steel needle, diamond point or sapphire ball — the Ultona has it.

The Brunswick Amplifier

The Brunswick Amplifier is a scientific tone-chamber. It is built, like the sound board of a piano, entirely of wood. Through the Amplifier the tone waves are developed according to true acoustic laws. It eliminates all the usual metallic sounds, for not a particle of metal is used in its construction.

Any dealer will gladly demonstrate The Brunswick for you. Its harmonious lines, its beauty of finish and clarity of tone will delight you.

JUST THINK OF CADOMENE

When You Find You Are Losing Out in the Game of Life.

Worn-Out, Nervous Men and Weak, Bloodless, Anaemic Women Have Found New Strength and Health in Taking Cadomene Tablets.

A well-known writer on physical culture says: "You cannot run a high-powered engine without fuel. You cannot get much speed without plenty of steam. You cannot get up much steam without plenty of coal and a perfectly working furnace (body). Similarly, in your own case, the internal "works" must be sound and working properly."

That tired feeling—do you know what it means? It means that digestion and nutrition are lacking. It means that your blood and nerves are impoverished. It means that slow but sure decline in your vitality will surely ensue and real sickness will overtake you, unless you bestir yourself in overcoming the weakness of the organs responsible. This is not written to frighten. In reality it expresses logical facts. Cadomene Tablets, the favorite prescription of a great physician, are made, and sold by druggists for people who need help for nature's forces, owing to ignorance, neglect or dissipation of one kind or another. Every package is guaranteed to please or money back.—ADV.

WHY IRELAND NOW WANTS A REPUBLIC, NOT HOME RULE

and the other Mr. Redmond. The members of the Irish Republican Brotherhood, Na Fianna Eireann, and members of the Gaelic League, who did not belong to either, made up the Irish Volunteers under MacNeill. These were referred to by the Irish party as the Sinn Fein Volunteers.

Prior to the outbreak of the war, the aim was to have a military force which could eventually be taken over by the "Government" under home rule, sham though it was. With a central authority in Ireland backed up by a military organization, it would soon be an easy task to secure more than a sham home rule. But as Sir Roger Casement wrote, "the war upset all our plans."

The Irish Volunteers were governed by a central council and the majority of that council were members of the Irish Republican Brotherhood. Some of them, like Padraic Pearse and Seaghan MacDermott, were members of the supreme council of the I. R. B. The idea of fighting Ulstermen never entered their heads. They realized there was but one enemy in Ireland, and it was not Ulster. Padraic Pearse was director of the organization, and that gave him control of the whole machinery.

The Citizen Army.

The labor organization had also a military force called the Citizen Army, of which James Connolly was leader. Through the influence of Thomas J. Clark, Connolly had been sworn into the I. R. B., and by this means there was complete harmony between the two public organizations and the secret organization. A military council was established, on which all were represented, and of which all the men who signed the proclamation of Easter Monday. 1916, were members. Its function was to draw up military plans for the revolution. This military council was also secret, and the plans were given only to the commandants in each district of the country. All admitted that Connolly was the best military man among them. He had been in South America, saw revolutions there and learned from them. He believed the revolution would end in complete success.

It was not so with Pearse; he believed that sacrifices was necssary to purify the public life of the country. He believed a fight was essential, but agreed with the others that if possible it was better to wait until peace was about to be declared, so that Ireland might be regarded as a belligerent. If, however, the British Government threatened conscription or the arrest of the leaders it was decided to strike. Pearse entered the revolution of 1916 believing as he made a character in a little play say: "One man can free a people as one Man redeemed the world. I will take no pike, I will go into the battle with bare hand. I will stand up before the Gall (i. e., the foreigner) as Christ hung naked before men on the tree.

Probably Connolly entered it repeating to himself the lines wrtten by Countess Markieviez's sister, Eva Gove Booth, which are: "A desperate hope, by desperation led, shall triumph in the strong name of despair. For the Great Cause, in honor of the dead charge once again; now follow ye who dare." The dream of Padraic Pearse has been realized. The public life of the country has been purified by his blood and that of his comrades, and as a result Ireland has set her teeth.

The leader of Ireland today, Prof. Eamon De Valera, was little known outsde Gaelic League circles in Dublin. He threw himself into the volunteer movement and worked in it with characteristic energy. He was the most capable officer of the organization, and the best fighting was done by the men under his command. He escaped the firing squad because even England got frightened at the world's reaction to the English blood lust in Ireland before it became his turn.

The New Leader.

Instead of going before the firing squad, he was sent to penal servitude for life, but was released with the others in June, 1917. Before his release he was nominated to contest East Clare on the Sinn Fein ticket. On the way from prison he told the writer that he was not a politician and knew nothing of politics. He wanted his name withdrawn. On reaching Ireland he was swept into leadership almost before he realized the fact. He is a tall, athletic man, bright-eyed and quick in his movements. In conversation ideas come from him like bullets from a machine gun. No doubt he has before this realized that he was not requested to become a politician, but to continue to be a patriot.

All the new leaders in Ireland today are men who, through the educational influence of the Gaelic League, have become saturated with the heroic tales of Ireland's past. As Sir Roger Casement wrote: "A people bred on such soul-stirring tales (those of Finn and Oscar, of Diarmid and Grainne, of Deirdre and the Sons of Usneach, of Cuchulainn the Hound of Ulster) linked by a language the most expressive of any spoken on earth in thought and verse and song with the very dawn of their history, wherein there moved, as familiar figures, men with the attributes of gods—great in battle, grand in danger, strong in loving, vehement in death—such a people could never be vulgar, could never be mean, but must repeat, in their own time and in their own manhood, actions and efforts thus ascribed as a vital part of their very origin. Hence the inspiration that gave the name of Fenian, in the late nineteenth century, to a band of men who sought to achieve by arms the freedom of Ireland. The law of the Fenian of the days of Marcus Aurelius was the law of the Fenian in the reign of Victoria; to give all—mind, body and strength of purpose—to the defense of his country, to speak truth and harbor no greed in his heart."

It is this spirit which inspires the young Irishmen, whom English-appointed Judges sent to prison, to rejoice in their sentence and to sing in open court, "The felon's cap's the noblest crown an Irish head can wear," or "Soldiers are we whose loves are pledged to Ireland."

The republic of Ireland may be suppressed by the might of militarism, but it will live in the hearts of its citizens and will again spring up triumphant, if even one Irishman survive.

How Any Woman Can Remove Hairy Growths

(Beauty Culture)

It is not longer necessary for a woman to visit a beauty specialist to have superfluous hairs removed, for, with the aid of a plain delatone paste, she can, in the privacy of her own home, remove even a stubborn growth in a very few minutes. The paste is made by mixing some water with a little powdered delatone. This is applied to the hairs and after 2 or 3 minutes removed and the skin washed, when it will be left clear and hairless. Be sure you buy real delatone.—ADV.

For Constipation! Physic Purge or Laxative?

Everyone now and then becomes constipated, and millions are chronically in that condition. The perplexing question arises—what to use.

Purgatives and cathartics are drastic and usually cause a reaction. Saline waters are rapid in action but do no more than empty the bowels.

Just as certain an effect, and certainly a much more pleasant one, can be obtained by the use of a combination of simple laxative herbs with pepsin sold by druggists under the name of Dr. Caldwell's Syrup Pepsin. It acts gently, without griping. It is an especially ideal medicine for children, women, old people and others who find purges too powerful.

Only a teaspoonful is required, and by morning the movement is free and complete. A bottle in the house is insurance for the whole family against constipation, indigestion, headaches, flatulency and other digestive ills.

The druggist will refund your money if it fails to do as promised.

PRICE AS ALWAYS

In spite of greatly increased laboratory costs due to the War, by sacrificing profits and absorbing war taxes we have maintained the price at which this family laxative has been sold by druggists for the past 26 years. Two sizes—50c and $1.00.

"What Will Save His Hair?" Quick Action Needed

But It Can Be Done Says Man of Much Hair Knowledge—A Simple Inexpensive Home Treatment

Thin-Haired Men Urged Not to Delay. Parisian Sage Is Just What Is Needed.

Thousands of men and women are growing hairless every day and don't know the reason why. This is indeed a pity, says a specialist, because loss of hair usually comes from neglect.

Few of us get bald in a day, and we all have ample warning when our hair is thinning out.

Parisian Sage is a most efficient hair invigorator, but to immediately stop any further loss of hair and quickly start a new growth, it must be rubbed into the scalp so the starved hair roots can really absorb it and get the vital stimulation so badly needed. You will surely be delighted with the first application, for your hair and scalp will look and feel 100 per cent better.

Parisian Sage is not expensive. It's a scientific preparation that supplies all hair needs—a clean, non-sticky, antiseptic liquid that is sold at drug and toilet counters everywhere with guarantee to give you perfect satisfaction or money refunded.

Good-looking hair is half the battle in any man's or woman's personal appearance. Neglect means dull, thin, lifeless hair and finally baldness, while a little attention now insures thick and lustrous hair for years to come. No matter what your hair troubles, try a Parisian Sage massage tonight—you will not be disappointed.—ADVERTISEMENT.

D. S. C. FOR ASSISTING WOUNDED UNDER FIRE

Navy Hospital Apprentice Fought With Marines in Battle of Argonne.

William V. Nolte, 20 years old, a hospital apprentice in the navy, nephew of William J. Nolte of 5619 Maple avenue, has received the Distinguished Service Cross for his work with the Marine Corps, to which he was attached in military operations in France last October.

The citation in his case, which was made public yesterday by the War Department, is as follows:

Hospital Apprentice (first class) William V. Nolte, United States Navy, attached to Fifth Regiment, United States Marine Corps. For extraordinary heroism in action near Blanc Mont, Oct. 4. Apprentice Nolte rendered exceptional assistance to his wounded comrades by continually giving first aid to them under machine gun fire. Lillie B. Nolte, mother, St. Louis, Mo.

William J. Nolte said that the young man's mother had married a second time, and that he did not know where she lived. He received a letter from Nolte recently in which the sailor told of his experiences in land fighting, saying he had gone over the top five times and had never been hurt. He said he was in the latter part of the Argonne-Meuse fighting, up to the time of the armistice. At the time of writing he was in Luxemburg, on his way into Germany.

Nolte formerly attended the Dozier School and the night school of Central (now Roosevelt) High School. He later worked as an office boy for the Shapleigh Hardware Co., and he enlisted in the navy two years ago, two months before the United States entered the war.

Four Missouri men are named as recipients of the D. S. C. in the following citations, appearing in the same list:

Gunnery Sergeant Milton R. Scott, Company A, Fifth Regiment, Marine Corps. For extraordinary heroism in action near St. Etienne, Oct. 4, 1918. After being severely wounded, Sergt. Scott continued to assist in consolidating the position of his platoon, later placing himself in an exposed position in order to gain good observation for sniping enemy machine gun positions. Rovilla Scott, mother, Lamont, Mo.

Pharmacist's Mate (first class) Roland R. Jamison (deceased), First Battalion, Fifth Regiment, United States Marine Corps. For extraordinary heroism in action near St. Etienne, Oct. 4-5. Regardless of his personal danger, he repeatedly exposed himself to machine-gun and shell fire to give first aid to the wounded in the open. Edward W. Jamison, father, Hermitage, Mo.

Hospital Apprentice (first class) Absalom F. Bear, United States Navy, attached to Fifth Regiment, United States Marine Corps. For extraordinary heroism in action near St. Etienne, Oct. 4. During a heavy bombardment Apprentice Bear went to an advanced observation post, dressed the wounds of a comrade and conducted him to the rear. Absalom Bear, father, Iberia, Mo.

Corp. Billie W. Belt, Company B, 314th Motor Supply Train. When an enemy shell struck a truck loaded with gasoline, killing two men and wounding several others, Corp. Belt rushed to the burning truck, in spite of the danger from the exploding bidons of gasoline, pulled one of the men from beneath the burning truck and extinguished the flames on his clothing. He then returned and attempted to rescue another man, but was unable to do so. Mrs. Martha Belt, wife, Windsor, Mo.

Two Illinois Men Cited; One Was Killed in Action.

Citations of two Illinois soldiers for extraordinary heroism in action, announced yesterday, with the award of the Distinguished Service Cross, are:

Private Herman Forth (deceased), medical detachment, 341st Machine Gun Battalion. For extraordinary heroism in action in the Bois de Barricourt, Nov. 2. Private Forth, in the face of enemy machine-gun fire, went to the aid of two severely wounded soldiers, carried them into a shell hole, dressed their wounds, and, while endeavoring to get the blankets from the packs of the wounded men, was struck in the head by a machine-gun bullet and instantly killed. Mrs. Dora A. Forth, mother, Wayne City, Ill.

Sergt. Robert Barnes, Company L, 370th Infantry. For extraordinary heroism in action near Mont de Sanges, Sept. 19. After starting on a mission to reconnoiter the front lines of the enemy, Sergt. Barnes received wounds which proved serious. Disregarding advice to return, he continued collecting valuable information, which was submitted to his company commander through a member of his patrol party. Josie Case, mother, 526 East Harrison street, Danville, Ill.

Reduction Sale

We mean business—we intend to "Clean House" in the most thorough manner. No one stock favored over another. The Blue Pencil has done its work in whatever lines any reduction is advertised. Prices cut squarely in two in many instances; the cut still deeper in other instances

WE GIVE EAGLE STAMPS

In some cases we refrain from stating the "Original Price," because the reductions would scarcely be believed possible. We must make room for new Spring and Summer lines—that is the gist of the whole matter. Sale starts tomorrow morning, and after you read the items here enumerated, you will agree that this cleaning should be a rapid one. Besides those here mentioned, there are many other lots sacrificed that are not advertised.

TELLS HOW TO STOP A BAD COUGH

Surprising results from this famous old home-made syrup. Easily prepared and costs little.

If you have a severe cough or chest cold accompanied with soreness, throat tickle, hoarseness, or difficult breathing, or if your child wakes up during the night with croup and you want quick help, try this reliable old home-made cough remedy. Any druggist can supply you with 2½ ounces of Pinex. Pour this into a pint bottle and fill the bottle with plain granulated sugar syrup. Or you can use clarified molasses, honey, or corn syrup, if desired. This recipe makes a pint of really remarkable cough remedy. It tastes good, and in spite of its low cost, it can be depended upon to give quick and lasting relief.

You can feel this take hold of a cough in a way that means business. It loosens and raises the phlegm, stops throat tickle and soothes and heals the irritated membranes that line the throat and bronchial tubes with such promptness, ease and certainty that it is really astonishing.

Pinex is a special and highly concentrated compound of genuine Norway pine extract, and is probably the best known means of overcoming severe coughs, throat and chest colds.

There are many worthless imitations of this mixture. To avoid disappointment, ask for "2½ ounces of Pinex" with full directions and don't accept anything else. Guaranteed to give absolute satisfaction or money promptly refunded. The Pinex Co., Ft. Wayne, Ind.

Drive the Liquor Habit From Your Home

Can Be Done Secretly

Physicians and druggists unhesitatingly recommend Tescum Powders for the liquor habit in any form. They quickly destroy the craving and make whisky and other alcoholic beverages repugnant. Druggists will tell you Tescum is selling better than any other remedy for the liquor habit. There is a reason for this. It is because it gives better satisfaction. One physician says: "I can stand in the door of my home and throw a stone into a neighbor's yard to whom I gave Tescum powders for drunkenness, and he was completely cured. Have also cured a large number of other patients." A druggist reports: "Tescum is having an enormous sale. It gives excellent satisfaction." A lady recently wrote: "I have used Tescum on my husband secretly and he has not taken a drink in three months." Another lady says: "I only wish I had known of Tescum before." Here is another who has tried it: "After taking two boxes of Tescum I did not crave liquor." Another writes: "I don't think it expensive at all. Just think of the thousands of dollars he has spent for whiskey. The few dollars I spent for Tescum has been worth thousands." Here is an extract from another letter: "I sent a box of Tescum to my friend, Mrs. C. M., for her to try on her husband. Hope she will be as successful as I have been, for it's wonderful. I will never tell my husband what cured him." And so on it goes, one enthusiastic report after another. If you have a relative or friend who drinks just try it for a few weeks and note the marvelous change. They will soon complain that drink does not taste the same, and in a short time they will stop altogether and never know the reason why.

NOTE.—A leading druggist, when shown the above article, said: "Yes, Tescum is a very remarkable remedy for the drink habit. It is harmless, wonderfully effective and is having an enormous sale. I advise every one who wishes to destroy the liquor habit to give it a trial." You take no risk with Tescum, as it is sold in this city under a steel-bound money-refund guarantee by all druggists, including Enderle, Johnson Bros., Pauley and Wolff-Wilson.—ADV.

TRY THIS IF YOU HAVE DANDRUFF

There is one sure way that never fails to remove dandruff completely and that is to dissolve it. This destroys it entirely. To do this, just get about four ounces of plain, ordinary liquid arvon; apply it at night when retiring; use enough to moisten the scalp and rub it in gently with the finger tips.

By morning, most if not all, of your dandruff will be gone, and three or four more applications will completely dissolve and entirely destroy every single sign and trace of it, no matter how much dandruff you may have.

You will find, too, that all itching and digging of the scalp will stop instantly, and your hair will be fluffy, lustrous, glossy, silky and soft, and look and feel a hundred times better.

You can get liquid arvon at any drug store. It is inexpensive, and four ounces is all you will need. This simple remedy has never been known to fail.—ADV.

Woman Not Worried Over Food Shortage

"I have lived on toast and water for over 6 months, and have been scarcely able to eat anything for the past year. I began suffering from stomach trouble and bloating 5 years ago. A friend recommended Mayr's Wonderful Remedy, and since taking 6 doses I feel I am entirely restored; even cabbage does not hurt me." It is a simple, harmless preparation that removes the catarrhal mucus from the intestinal tract and allays the inflammation which causes practically all stomach, liver and intestinal ailments, including appendicitis. One dose will convince or money refunded. # FIRST ST. LOUISANS HOME FROM PRISON CAMPS IN GERMANY

LATTER DESCRIBES ACTS OF CRUELTY

They Attended Same School, Practiced Profession Here, but Met for First Time After Capture.

Capt. John F. Hardesty, of 3206 California avenue and Lieut. Harold A. Goodrich, 17 East Lockwood avenue, Webster Groves, medical officers who were attached to the British army, are the first St. Louisans to return home from German prison camps. They were captured in the great German offensive that began last March 21, and spent nine months in Germany, during which time Capt. Hardesty lost 3 pounds in weight.

The officers are visiting their parents, Capt. Hardesty at Winfield, Mo., 60 miles north of St. Louis and Lieut. Goodrich at New Haven, Mo., 67 miles west of here. It was at those places that they related their experiences to Post-Dispatch reporters.

They were scantily fed; were permitted to send only two letters and four postcards a month, and were not allowed to criticize their treatment in letters. Goodrich described instances of actual intentional cruelty which he said he saw perpetrated on other prisoners.

Their Daily Rations.

Their rations consisted of two bowls of soup and a fifth of a loaf of bread a day, and Lieut, Goodrich brought back with him a day's raton such as was issued to prisoners. It was about the height and width of an ordinary small loaf of bread, and the slice was about an inch thick. Although as dark as chocolate, the sawdust in it was visible, and Lieut. Goodrich said he had frequently found chopped straw in it. When fresh, it was about the consistency of putty, he said, the principal ingredient being potato flour.

While Hardesty and Goodrich had attended St. Louis University at the same time; had practiced medcine in St. Louis during the same period, and had been attached to adjacent British divisions in France, they met the first time in a prison cage back of the lines. They were together only a short time, however, being sent to different camps, over their protests, and have not seen each other since.

Lieut. Goodrich was captured on the afternoon of March 22, when the Germans filtered around the first aid post he commanded, and surrounded it. He was sent first to Rastatt, then to Karlsruhe, and finally to Goettingen, where he remained from June until his release, Christmas eve.

"We did fairly well with the Red Cross packages that came regularly to us," Lieut. Goodrich said. "With a number of British, French and Russian officers. I worked in a hospital for sick prisoners. We bribed the guards, some of whom were easily bought.

"One guard brought me fruit regularly, and kept me supplied with double rations of fuel, for which I gave him one cake of soap a month. A sagacious Tommy could virtually buy his way out of Germany with one cake of soap. A package of cigarettes also was good for many favors."

Lieut. Goodrich said one German military police Sergeant frequently would get a quantity of decayed potatoes and scraps from the kitchen, and throw them to the imprisoned privates, to watch them scramble for them. One gathered a handful of such scraps said Lieut. Goodrich and was boiling them in a washpan in the barracks when the Sergeant entered, knocked him down and trampled him, declaring he had stolen them.

Russian Clubbed and Kicked.

"I also saw a Russian private knocked down with a club and kicked and beaten unmercifully because he tried to slip a turnip from a sack he was carrying to the commissary, "Lieut. Goodrich said." Many officers saw this, as it took place in the street, at Goettingen."

He told of the systematic persecution inflicted on an East Indian Sergeant who refused to read books of German and anti-British propaganda, with a view of returning to India to preach insurrection. This Sergeant told the commandant, Goodrich said, that he would not betray his country regardless of what punishment was inflicted on him.

"Men who didn't get Red Cross packages were in a pitiable plight," he went on. "Frenchmen and Russians would go hunting, with stones, for cats and hedgehogs, and some of them told me they had even eaten mice.

"When the German regiments came marching home after the armistice, the people of Goettingen erected a triumphal arch, with the inscription: 'Welcome to Our Undefeated Heroes.' The troops were jaunty, and a Canadian who watched the parade with me remarked:

ECZEMA, RISINGS OLD SORES, ITCHING SKIN

Bumps, Pimples, Bone Pains, Cured by Prescription C-2223

Stop Paying Out a Lot of Money for Expensive Trips and Get Well at Home at Slight Cost. Great!

Many, many sufferers from impure blood will be glad to know that they can now get Prescription C-2223 at any of the home prescription druggists. It is all prepared, and so don't cost much. Dose is indicated on bottle, so you can easily cure yourself at home. C-2223 is liquid, and taken internally purifies and enriches your blood, sending a flood of pure rich blood to the skin surfaces, joints and every part of the body. Pretty soon the itching stops. Eczema and old sores, pimples, risings and bumps are healed. Bone pains and rheumatic aches are stopped, your skin takes on the glow of perfect health. It would cost a good deal to consult a specialist, but you can get his prescription at little cost, by asking for Prescription C-2223. It also drains out of your system all the uric acids and impurities that cause all the sores and humors, pains and aches of rheumatism.

NOTICE!

If your own druggist can't supply you give his name and write to C-2223 Laboratories, Memphis, Tenn.—ADV.

Do You Leave Ashes in Your Furnace All Winter?

Then Why Neglect the Ashes of Food in Your System?

The food you eat leaves ashes which nature intended to be removed just as you remove the ashes from your furnace. This "food ash," when allowed to remain in the bowels, clogs the system and causes most ills. Do not ignore the demand your body makes to correct this evil. Schoenfeld's Kidney and Liver Tea will correct it. A 25c package purchased from your druggist saves many dollars in Doctor's bills. It is pleasant to take and acts smoothly and persuasively without griping.—Adv.

The seven rooms now occupied by ticket offices in that building will also be used by the roads having offices located elsewhere. Six of them will be ticket and information offices, and the room heretoforeo occupied by the Canadian Pacific will contain accounting, joint telephone and information bureaus. The operation of the consolidated offices will be under one suppervisory head with an organization to adequately meet the needs of the public. One of the roads will act as a clearing house for the payment of bills, etc.

Mother! A Child Doesn't Laugh and Play if Constipated.

If tongue is coated, breath feverish and stomach sour, give "California Syrup of Figs."

Mother! Your child isn't naturally cross and peevish. See if tongue is coated; this is a sure sign its little stomach, liver and bowels need a cleansing at once.

When listless, pale, feverish, full of cold, breath bad, throat sore, doesn't eat, sleep or act naturally, has stomach-ache, diarrhea, remember, gentle liver and bowel cleansing should always be the first treatment given

Nothing equals "California Syrup of Figs" for children's ills; give a teaspoonful, and in a few hours all the foul waste, sour bile and fermenting food which is clogged in the bowels passes out of the system, and you have a well and playful child again. All children love this harmless, delicious "fruit laxative," and it never fails to effect a good "inside" cleansing. Directions for babies, children of all ages and grown-ups on bottle. Remember name "California."—ADV.

RACHMANINOFF COMING IN RECITAL, MARCH 4

Yes, It's "the" Rachmaninoff—the One of the C-Sharp Minor Prelude.

The legions of pianists and piano students who have played the Prelude in C-sharp Minor by Sergei Vassilievich Rachmaninoff will have an opportunity of seeing and hearing in the flesh the composer of this world-pervading piece, when he appears in a piano recital at the Odeon, on the evening of March 4.

This is the most important musical announcement of the season, for the great Russian, in addition to being a virtuoso pianist of the first rank and an orchestral conductor of renown, is held by many to be the foremost smyphonic composer alive today. His massive Symphony in E Minor, No. 2, was performed at the Symphony Orchestra concerts of Dec. 6 and 7 last.

Rachmaninoff was born in 1873 and began his musical studies at the age of 9, at the Conservatory at Petrograd. At the age of 18 he was awarded highest honors for piano playing at the Moscow Conservatory, and a year later won the gold medal of honor with his one-act opera, "Aleko," with a libretto after the poet Pushkin. Then he traveled for many years as a concert pianist, visiting the United States in 1909.

Gaining fame as a conductor of rare ability, he became for a time first conductor at the Imperial Theater in Moscow. After four years he resigned to devote all his time to composition, and settled in Dresden. There the war found him, and he was compelled to return to Russia. The revolution there drove him into exile and his whereabouts for several months were a mystery. At one time his name was one of the three or four prominently mentioned among possible successors of Dr. Karl Muck in the directorship of the Boston Symphony Orchestra. Rachmaninoff suddenly turned up in New York a few months ago.

His works include three operas, two symphonies, a symphonic poem, "The Island of the Dead," which has been played here at Symphony Orchestra concerts; three pianoforte concertos, and numerous smaller works, among which the Prelude, mentioned above, has made his name a household word. The program for his concert here, which will mark his first visit to this city, has not been announced.

FIRST ST. LOUISANS HOME FROM PRISON CAMPS IN GERMANY

" 'Looks like we must have lost the damn war.' "

Capt. Hardesty's Experienced.

Capt. Hardesty was captured in virtually the same manner as Goodrich—by the place being surrounded when Germans penetrated the lines on either side. He was taken first to Denain, then to Rastatt, thence to Karlsruhe, and finally to Villengen the permanent camp.

While at Karlsruhe, he said, he and other officers were questioned repeatedly, particularly about the number of Americans in France. The questions, he said, would be about like this:

"How many Americans in France?"

"I don't know," (Which was quite right.)

"Come, come now; how many are there?" and the questioner would persist until finally the prisoner answered:

"Oh, about four or five million."

They also were asked, he said, "why didn't America mind its own business and stay out of the war."

"Villingen was not so bad," Capt. Hardesty said. "There was a canteen where enormous prices were charged and where we could buy dried fruit. Sometimes there would be moving picture shows of German industries and what Germans called comedies. They were more like tragedies.

Made to Change Letter.

"But we enjoyed them. Anything that relieved the fearful monotony was enjoyable. By July the Red Cross packages began to come from Berne, and after that the food question was not so bad. One time when I had stated in a letter that I was starving—which I was—the commandant called me up and made me delete it before the letter could go."

Both officers learned of the armistice the day it was signed. There was considerable grumbling by the people, they said, and fears were expressed that the allies would impose harsh terms.

Capt. Hardesty was sent to Switzerland, thence to London, and reached New York Jan. 16.

Experiment in Gun Making.

By the Associated Press.

TROY, N. Y., Feb. 15.—An experiment in gun making which, if successful, will save the Government thousands of dollars, was made at the Watervliet arsenal today when a 36-foot tube, all rifled and ready to be operated, was shrunk into a 12-inch gun. The shrinking of a finished liner marks a new feature in the making of heavy ordnance and experts at the arsenal say they believe the experiment was a success.

Training in Citizenship Talk.

The third lecture of a series on training in citizenship, "The Executive Branch of the Government," will be given by Mrs. O. T. Johnson before the Business Women's Equal Suffrage League at the Central Library, Thirteenth and Olive streets, at 8 p. m. Wednesday. There will also be a mock primary election with 21 candidates and three tickets, preparatory to a mock election to be held in April, all with a view of teaching political methods to prospective electors.

Now for That Sale of 1-5-0-0-0 Pairs of Women's Hosiery

That Will Sell at Prices Surprisingly Low—This Occasion Representing Our Greatest Effort

FOUR of New York's hosiery wholesaling concerns co-operated to make this one of the most tremendous selling events that any St. Louis hosiery department has experienced. Of course we cannot think of advertising their brands to sell at such very low prices, especially when their co-operation made these low prices possible. But the buying public will recognize the makes on sight—and the buying public, just as alert in recognizing extraordinary hosiery offerings such as these, will take full advantage of the opportunity and supply their hosiery needs for a year to come.

Every pair of Silk Stockings in this wonderful sale is of the full-fashioned variety—but we must pass on—read the following descriptive matter:

DRESS WARM AND KEEP FEET DRY

Tells Rheumatism Sufferers to Take Salts and Get Rid of Uric Acid.

Rheumatism is no respector of age, sex, color or rank. If not the most dangerous of human afflictions it is one of the most painful. Those subject to rheumatism should eat less meat, dress as warmly as possible, avoid any undue exposure and, above all, drink lots of pure water.

Rheumatism is caused by uric acid which is generated in the bowels and absorbed into the blood. It is the function of the kidneys to filter this acid from the blood and cast it out through the pores of the skin as a means of freeing the blood of this impurity. In damp and chilly, cold weather the skin pores are closed, thus forcing the kidneys to do double work, they become weak and sluggish and fail to eliminate this uric acid which keeps accumulating and circulating through the system, eventually settling in the joints and muscles, causing stiffness, soreness and pain called rheumatism.

At the first twinge of rheumatism get from any pharmacy about four ounces of Jad Salts; put a tablespoonful in a glass of water and drink before breakfast each morning for a week. This is said to eliminate uric acid by stimulating the kidneys to normal action, thus ridding the blood of these impurities.

Jad Salts is inexpensive, harmless and is made from the acid of grapes and lemon juice, combined with lithia and is used with excellent results by thousands of folks who are subject to rheumatism. Here you have a pleasant, effervescent lithia water drink which overcomes uric acid and is beneficial to your kidneys as well.

IF THE WORLD KNEW THIS

Much Suffering Would Stop. Tells of a Home-Mixed Medicine for Colds, Coughs, Bronchitis, Etc.

The Blackburn Products Co.

Dear Sirs—As I was mixing some more of the Mentho-Laxene in syrup this morning I could not help but wonder if you really knew what a wonderful cold remedy it is, even if you do put it up.

Last Fall we were really worried about my husband, as he had tried so many remedies, and the doctor did not help him at all, when one day he happened to read an ad of your Mentho-Laxene and he said: "I will give it a trial, then give up I guess if it doesn't help me." But, can you believe it? He began to feel easier right away, and long before the first bottle was gone he was all over his terrible cough, and by taking a little when feeling hoarse just a little we both have warded off every bit of colds and coughs since, until Monday of this week he got his feet so wet and by night he coughed again quite badly, but this morning he was o. k. again.

This is 3:00 p. m., so you see how quickly it worked.

We have gotten ever so many others to use it by giving them a sample of ours.

This is just a line to tell you how grateful we both are to you and your remedy.

Yours truly,
MRS. GEORGE E. GATES,
334 N. Hickory street,
Owosso, Mich.

NOTE: Mentho-Laxene is sold by all good druggists everywhere. A 2½-oz. bottle of the concentrated essence makes a full pint of the most effective cold and cough medicine. Directions and guarantee of satisfaction accompany each bottle.—ADV.

HOW TO SAVE ON SHOES

"Out of curiosity I tried a pair of Neolin Soles," writes W. P. Macartney of St. Louis, "and today, after five months of hard service I fail to notice any real signs of wear on them."

This statement points the way to real economy in shoes. What your shoes cost, by the year, depends largely on how the soles wear and Neolin Soles do wear a very long time. Moreover, they are exceedingly comfortable and waterproof—scientifically made to be exactly what soles should be and so worn now by millions.

They are available everywhere on new shoes and for re-soling. They are made by The Goodyear Tire & Rubber Company, Akron, Ohio, who also make Wingfoot Heels, guaranteed to outwear any other heels.

He Quit Tobacco

This veteran, S. B. Lamphere, was addicted to the excessive use of tobacco for many years. He wanted to quit, but needed something to help him.

He learned of a free book that tells about tobacco habit and how to conquer it quickly, easily and safely. In a letter he writes: "I have no desire for tobacco any more. I feel like a new man." Others report similarly. Wonderful for cigarette and pipe habit and chewing.

Anyone desiring a copy of this book can get it free, postpaid, by writing to Edward J. Woods, TB-27, Station F, New York City. You will be surprised and pleased. Look for quieter nerves, stronger heart, better digestion, improved eyesight, increased strength, longer life and other advantages if you quit poisoning yourself with nicotine. In three days you can be rid of the addiction—then become robust, add solid flesh, become a man among men.—ADV.

JUDGE GOES TO JAIL FOR LOVE OF COUNTRY

Refused to Order Tax Levy to Pay Bonds of Railroad That Was Never Built.

SPRINGFIELD, Mo., Feb. 15.—Another chapter of the famous Dallas County bond case was recorded when John S. Evans, former Judge of the County Court of Dallas County, who had refused to order a tax levy by Dallas County to pay a Federal Court judgment in favor of holders of bonds issued for the building of a railroad which was never built, surrendered to serve a jail sentence for contempt.

Several days ago, when the St. Louis Circuit Court of Appeals affirmed a sentence of Judge Arba S. Van Valkenburgh of Kansas City, remanding Judge Evans to jail for contempt of court, Judge Evans' bondsmen notified him of the Appellate Court's decision, and without any delay he came to Springfield to submit himself to the United States Marshal.

United States Commissioner A. L. Arnold, not having heard anything of the court's decision, directed Deputy Marshal W. T. Brown to take the prisoner to Kansas City, where he was to be confined under the original order of Judge Van Valkenburgh. Judge Van Valkenburgh sent the prisoner back to Springfield to await the mandate of the higher court. Officially Judge Evans probably would not have been confined until the St. Louis court mandate had been received in Kansas City and transmitted to the prisoner by the court officers. But Dallas County is taking no chances on losing a $10,000 bond which was made to insure that Judge Evans would surrender himself if the Circuit Court of Appeals affirmed Judge Van Valkenburg's order, and accordingly Judge Evans is a prisoner in jail here.

History of the Case.

In 1871 Dallas County, with other Missouri and Kansas communties, saw visions of tremendous industrial development and when strangers appeared with a "pen and paper" railroad from St. Louis to Fort Scott, Kan., Dallas County voted $235,000 bonds as a bonus to the promoters.

The road (the "Laclede and Fort Scott") was never built, and Dallas County's "paramount issue" was born when the first interest payment fell due. In all political campaigns, candidates for county judgeships have cried: "We will refuse to pay the bonds." After election successful candidates have gone to the hills to avoid taking action.

The bonds eventually went to an Eastern capitalist, who resumed the litigation of his predecessors to collect interest. Judgments had been entered into from time to time in Federal Court. By 1911 the principal and accrued interest had reached $1,023,000, payment of which would take 18 cents on every dollar of valuation in the county, it was said. The judgments now total more than $2,700,000.

A judgment was obtained and the Federal Court directed the Dallas County Clerk to call a special election to vote bonds to pay $70,000 of the interest. With that action, the county clerkship was added to the list of recluse officialdom of Dallas County.

The lowest compromise that has been hinted at was 15 cents on the dollar. Judge Van Valkenburgh, in passing sentence on Judge Evans, in April of last year, suggested a settlement on this basis would cost the county $405,000. The Court for three successive years ordered the $70,000 levy, but it was disobeyed each year by the County Court. David L. Yost of Pittsburg, Pa., is one of the principal bondholders. Yost at one time offered to settle on a basis of 18 cents on the dollar. The county unofficially by a committee of citizens offered $200,000. This offer was rejected.

Posses on the Trails.

Finally efforts to serve summons on the jurists were redoubled. Posses of deputies from the United States Marshal's office in motor cars rolled along the trails through hills and woods. Others, disguised as fishermen and hunters, trekked through the thickets and along creeks without success. After Judge Van Valkenburgh issued an order of contempt against the three Dallas County Judges last March, Judges Monroe Quigley and J. E. Thomas sought the safety of the woods.

Judge Evans' arrest was effected by a midnight raiding party of six Deputy Marshals from Kansas City. Two were stationed near the home of each of the County Judges. Judge Evans was located in the garret of his home and he volunteered to come down when a search was threatened. He was taken into Federal Court, where he refused to agree to a bond levy, and was sentenced to six months in jail for contempt.

At the time of Judge Evans' arrest his attorneys stated that he stood between "love and duty." His duty was to issue the tax. His love for his people, it was said, forbade him from making the assessment. Dallas County has fought judgments of this kind for 40 years. The cases were first tried in the State courts and the county won every contention. In the Federal Court the bondholders have been able to secure judgments but no method of enforcing payment has been evolved.

Judge Evans is now out of office and therefore has no power to act on the tax levy. Meanwhile Dallas County is without that railroad.

Sample Spring Suits

—as well as several hundred other garments, purchased from a number of the country's leading makers at remarkable concessions

Monday begins the most important apparel sale of the year. This unusual event is one that is expected and eagerly awaited by many discriminating dressers, and we have exerted unusual efforts to assemble a representative collection of the new Spring modes. Monday the women who attend this sale will find undoubtedly the most complete collection of Spring Suits shown this season. These we have divided into two large groups, and offer them at savings that will be of interest to every woman in St. Louis.

Women's & Misses' Suits

Values Up to $37.50

Handsomely tailored garments in the box-coat effect, and many variations of the same. Some loosely belted, others partly or fully belted, but in every instance retaining the straight-line silhouette. Some have vests, others novelty collars with tie fastenings. Braid predominates as the trimming motif. The skirts are perfectly plain and narrow. Materials include serges, poplins and Poiret twills. Sizes for women and misses.

BUT 10 STATES WITHOUT COMPENSATION LAWS

Six New States Adopted Plan in Last Two Years—Greatly Reduces Litigation.

Correspondence of the Associated Press.

WASHINGTON, Feb. 14.—Steady progress of the movement to compensate for industrial accidents without suits to prove the negligence of the employer is noted in a bulletin issued by the Bureau of Labor Statistics, showing that six new States adopted compensation legislation in 1917 and 1918, and that only 10 states of the union have not accepted the principle.

"The day seems not far distant when the obsolete system of damage suits and charges and counter-charges of negligence and contributory negligence will no longer be used in the disposition of industrial injury claims," the bulletin says.

Fear that such legislation would entail undue burdens on industry was said largely to have been eliminated as a result of satisfactory experience under compensation laws and because of it becoming better understood that the laws do not cause injury losses, but only distribute the burden of them on the industry as a whole, instead of on the weakest element of the system—the injured worker. This realization has opened the way for amendments liberalizing the awards allowed.

Advances noted in the bulletin are the shortening of the waiting time, for which as a rule no compensation is allowed and the increase of the allowance of medical and surgical aid. A notable departure in this connection is the provision of the Washington statute for local funds, supported and administered by employers and employes jointly, for the more effective and equitable administration of medical benefits.

Among important court decisions on the laws was cited the Supreme Court ruling which denied the application of State compensation laws to employes of interstate carriers.

The states which have not adopted the principle of industrial compensation are North Dakota, Missouri, Arkansas, Tennessee, North Carolina, South Carolina, Mississippi, Alabama, Florida and Georgia.

WAR DEPARTMENT RULING ON SOLDIER WEARING UNIFORM

Gen. March Issues Instructions Regarding Both Officers and Enlisted Men.

The War Department has issued the following order in reference to the wearing of uniforms by discharged soldiers:

Jan. 25, 1919. Circular No. 43.

"Wearing of uniform by discharged soldiers."

"Present law authorizes a discharged officer or soldier to wear his uniform from the place of discharge to his home, within three months of the date of his discharge from the service. Thereafter the officer may wear his uniform only upon occasions of ceremony.

The enlisted man must return his uniform within four months of date of discharge; but can wear it only as stated above.

"An act is now before Congress, which if passed, will authorize enlisted men to keep the uniform which they are permitted to wear home, and to wear that particular uniform only, provided some distinctive mark or insignia, to be issued by the War Department, shall be worn.

"It will thus be clearly seen that neither under existing or proposed law will a discharged soldier be permitted to wear uniforms made by civilian or other tailors. They may legally wear only the particular uniform which they have been permitted to retain.

"Commanding officers of camps, posts and stations will give the widest publicity to this information, both among the soldiers of their commands and in the local press. No person will be permitted to solicit orders for, or deliver uniforms to soldiers about to be discharged. Persons or concerns persisting in selling uniforms to such soldiers, after having been warned not to do so, will not be permitted to come on or do business on the reservation.

"By order of the Secretary of War.
"PERCY C. MARCH.
"General, Chief of Staff.
"Official: P. C. HARRIS,
"The Adjutant-General."

ZIONIST MOVEMENT EXPLAINED

Federal Judge Mack of Chicago Predicts Exodus From Poland.

Federal Judge Julian W. Mack of Chicago, head of the Zionist Organization of America, spoke Friday night at the Sheldon Memorial on the movement fostered by the organization to repopulate Palestine with Jews. He took occasion to deny that the scheme is intended to drive Jews away from their American homes or homes in other nations.

"It is not a movement to drive anyone from anywhere or to anywhere," he said. "There will be plenty who have so long been oppressed in other lands and who, finding immigration doors to America closed, will welcome the opportunity to gather back to the holy land. Not, however, as a place to crawl into to pray and to die, but to live and work for the betterment of the land from which their stock sprung."

Judge Mack predicted that the greatest exodus of Jewish people would be from Poland and Galicia. He claimed that the Russian revolution had given freedom to the Russian Jews.

Prof. Nipher to Speak.

Prof. Francis Nipher of Washington University will read a paper on "Graphic Methods of Algebra" at the meeting of the St. Louis Academy of Science, at 8:15 p. m. tomorrow, at the academy building, 3817 Olive street. The results of the recent election of officers will also be disclosed. The public is invited.

Mighty Poisons Accumulated Through the Winter Months Mean Disaster and Disease.

Says Rid the System With Sulpherb Tablets Easily.

Springtime always brings with it joy and distress. The distress is in the form of catarrh, neuralgia, rheumatic pains, constipation, inactive kidneys and usually a feverish, sluggish lethargy that is hard to throw off.

Do you remember how grandmother fed you sulphur and molasses every spring to purify the blood? It was a good, old-fashioned, but nauseous remedy. Now you can take sulphur, cream of tartar and herbs in tablet form. A better remedy, easy and pleasant to take is Sulpherb Tablets. Sold by all druggists. A laxative, blood purifier of unequaled merit for those who are constipated and suffering in any way from such pent-up poisons. Each package is guaranteed to give wonderfully satisfactory results. Be sure you get Sulpherb Tablets (not sulphur tablets).—ADV.

WILL PUSH BILL FOR TUBERCULOSIS SOCIETY

Plans Made to Have Laws That Will Protect Unhealthy in State.

The St. Louis Tuberculosis Society, at its annual meeting Friday, passed a resolution to take immediate steps to get a bill through the Legislature giving the State Board of Health powers to enforce its mandates, and create an organization that is a health agency in fact instead of in name only. This action was taken at the urgent suggestion of the society's medical director, Maj. L. P. H. Bahrenburg, chief surgeon of the United States Public Health Service for the district of Missouri.

The society will send a representative to Jefferson City to work for the passage of a bill already introduced, and will endeavor to enlist other health organizations throughout the State.

Missouri is one of the few states in the Union that has no real State Board of Health, Maj. Bahrenburg said, and is behind even the so-called frontier states in this respect. He urged that the society work for a State Health Board that will have power to act and not be merely a medical licensing board, as is the present one.

Protection in County.

"By far the greater portion of the States," said Maj. Bahrenburg, "the rural sections, are without any except the most rudimentary health protection. The health protection provided for the cities is, therefore, endangered by communication between city and country districts—the return of city dwellers from their vacations in the country, and by travel.

"The State Board of Health does not even possess the authority to declare such infectious diseases as smallpox, cholera, typhoid, typhus and tuberculosis to be communicable, nor to require physicians to report the occurrence of these diseases in their practice. Therefore, except in the areas covered by municipal ordinance, there is nothing to safeguard the public against the spread of these diseases.

"Because Missouri does not possess a State Board of Health with the requisite powers this State has not been able to use the $35,808 allotted her from the congressional appropriation last spring to fight the venereal diseases brought to light in drafting men for the army, and the money still lies in the Federal Treasury and must remain there until the Legislature gives the health board the same powers possessed by health boards in other states.

"Another example of the unfortunate results attending this lack of power on the part of the State health organization came pointedly into view during the influenza epidemic. Rural communities which were sorely stricken, and from which the majority, if not all, of the physicians had been drawn into the army and navy, were obliged to rely upon the United States Public Health Service for medical aid, since the State Health Board never had been empowered by the Legislature to meet such an emergency.

Hampered by Lack of Rules.

"Not only that, but it proved extremely difficult to discover just where the greatest distress existed, as physicians were not obliged to report influenza as a communicable disease. Consequently, in many communities to which Federal help finally was sent, it was found the people were dying in large numbers without medical or nursing attention."

Reports of the officers and committees of the Tuberculosis Society were given at the annual meeting and a board of directors elected. The financial statement showed the 1918 receipts were $48,607, as against $9450 in 1911, with expenditures $61,858 in 1918 and $10,215 in 1911. The 1918 deficit is $13,251.

SPECIAL EXHIBIT FOR THREE DAYS AT JEFFERSON MEMORIAL

Historic Documents in Connection With Sons of the Revolution Meeting to Be Shown.

A special exhibit of historic documents and relics has been prepared at Jefferson Memorial, to be shown there for three days, beginning Friday of this week, in connection with the annual meeting of the Sons of the Revolution, to be held in this city next Saturday. The exhibit, as a memorial of the American Revolution, is regarded as one of the best and most complete ever assembled in this part of the country.

It consists among other things of revolutionary war pension lists, portrait engravings, letters and official documents of historic figures of the Revolution, many of whom were St. Louisans active in the historical incidents of the foundation and early years of this city.

The exhibit is displayed in three covered cases, and among the most interesting articles shown are a pair of gloves, a fan, a badge and an invitation card used in the ball, April 29, 1825, in honor of the Marquis de Lafayette.

There is also an autographed portrait engraving of Gen. Lafayette, autographed portrait engravings of some of the signers of the Declaration of Independence and hundreds of other relics, heirlooms and reminders of historic events. The Cadle Memorial Library, owned by the local branch of the Sons of the Revolution, is a part of the exhibit.

85 PER CENT WOUNDED WENT BACK TO DUTY

Official Figures Made Public Last Night Show a Variance With Previous Reports.

WASHINGTON, Feb. 15.—More than 85 per cent of those thus far named in the official casualty list as wounded have returned today. This statement is made in a summary of listed casualties to date, which accompanies the casualty list given out by the War Department tonight.

The summary, as in some previous weeks, shows figures which are widely at variance from those of a week before, with the additions and deductions of the week taken into account.

The official figures are:

|---|---|
| Killed in action | 31,369 |
| Died from wounds | 13,041 |
| Died of disease | 19,374 |
| Died from accident and other causes | 2,816 |
| Total deaths | 66,600 |
| Missing in action (not including prisoners returned) | 7,783 |
| Wounded | 173,766 |
| Total casualties | 248,149 |

The number of wounded announced last Sunday was 159,279. In the week the regular lists have added 7661 to this number, and lists of corrections have added 302, making a total of 167,242.

Explanation of Table.

The number shown above, therefore, represents the addition of 6524 wounded whose names have not been listed within the week. The number of missing, on the other hand, is 2838 less than the method of computation from last week's table would show, but this is probably explained by the statement that a large number of returned prisoners have also been deducted. The number of deaths given above is close to the figures indicated by last Sunday's count and the subsequent lists, so that the variances are in the wounded and missing. The total shown by computation is 244,202, or 3947 less than the official number given above.

Marine Corps Casualties.

The Marine Corps' latest casualty total is 5706, of which 2235 are deaths. Combining this with the new official army totals, the aggregate of casualties listed to date appears as 253,855, of which 68,835 are deaths.

The list given out tonight shows only 183 army casualties, of which 29 are deaths. Names from Missouri and Illinois, outside of St. Louis and Chicago and adjoining places, are:

Missouri.

Wounded severely—Bugler Glenn E. Stanfield, St. Joseph; Leslie Hader, Higginsville; David Lawler, Plattsburg.

Illinois.

Died from accident or other cause—Corp. Steve Santeronos, Joliet.

Wounded severely—Sergt. Harold Harr, Rockford; Sergt. Ulysus McDougal, Danville; John Grivetti, Granville; Rudy May, Nashville; Floyd Pester, Manhattan.

Twenty-Seventh to Sail in March.

WASHINGTON, Feb. 15.—Gen. Pershing notified the War Department today that the Twenty-seventh (New York National Guard) Division, would leave Brest for home on vessels sailing March 2, 3 and 4. Six big transports have been asigned exclusively to bring the New York troops home. They are the Leviathan and Agamemnon, two of the largest in the service, the Mauretania, Harrisburg, Louisville and Pannonia.

The Doctor's Advice

by Dr. Lewis Baker

The questions answered below are general in character, the symptoms or diseases are given and the answers will apply in any case of similar nature.

Those wishing further advice, free, may address Dr. Lewis Baker, College Bldg., College-Elwood streets, Dayton, Ohio, enclosing self-addressed stamped envelope for reply. Full name and address must be given, but only initials or fictitious names will be used in my answers. The prescriptions can be filled at any well-stocked drug store. Any druggist can order of wholesaler.

Run Down writes: "Is it possible to find a medicine which by its tonic or nutritive powers will bring the glow of health and ambition back to a man who has everything in the world but health and happiness? I am dull, forgetful, despondent, trembling, short of breath and suffer more or less with pain in spine and back of head."

Answer: Your condition indicates the need of a strong, harmless tonic nutritive to restore nerve equilibrium, which in turn fortifies and strengthens the organs of nutrition, thus vitalizing the blood and promoting new cell and tissue to take care of the waste forces. Three-Grain Cadomene Tablets, packed in sealed tubes with full directions, are recommended in all such cases.

Mrs. F. writes: "My husband is surely afflicted with some kidney disease. He has become weak and suffers with headache and pains in his back and groins. Pains are like rheumatism. His ankles swell and his feet seem to be tired all the time. Some days he has chills and no appetite. Please prescribe."

Answer: The symptoms indicate derangement of kidneys and should not be neglected. I would advise Balmwort Tablets, a compound well suited to such cases. Obtain in sealed tubes with directions for home use.

Otello writes: "My hair is combing out, my scalp itches and dandruff is much annoying, and I want something to cure these conditions."

Answer: For hair and scalp troubles I have never found anything to equal the beneficial results of a thorough treatment of Plain Yellow Minyol. It is cooling, cleansing and invigorating, and thousands now use it regularly as a hair and scalp tonic.

Grace writes: "Two years ago I used your great prescription for kidney trouble, and it wholly overcome the trouble. I want medicine now for constipation and impure blood, for I am a sight with pimples that make big, lumpy sores."

Answer: I would advise the taking of Three-Grain Sulpherb Tablets (not sulphur) for several months to purify the system.

Mother writes: "Can a sufferer from bronchial trouble be relieved? Doctors do not seem to help me; what would you suggest?"

Answer: To relieve chronic cold, sore throat, bronchitis, I would advise the use of Concentrated Essence Mentho-Laxene. Purchase this at any drug store in 2½ -oz. packages and mix according to directions given on bottle, and you will very shortly be relieved of all bronchial trouble. This will not only relieve but will correct, and is very pleasant to take.

NOTE: For many years Dr. Baker has been giving free advice and prescriptions to millions of people through the press columns, and doubtless has helped in relieving the illness and distress more than any single individual in the world's history. Thousands have written him expressions of gratitude and confidence similar to the following:

Dr. Lewis Baker, Dear Sir:—I am glad I was recommended to your prescription for medicine. I was pretty well run down, nervous and loss of ambition; felt tired all the time; could not sleep, loss of appetite. I find Three-Grain Cadomene Tablets are helping me very much. I was writing to my sister about my run-down condition and she advised me to take your prescription of medicine, for she was as bad as I was and the Cadomene built her nerves up and also restored her health. I am more than thankful, etc. Yours truly,

GEORGE SCHILLO,

ADDED REASONS FOR U. R. RECEIVER FILED

Counsel for Seaman Allege Reissue of Bonds Paid for and Payments on Mill and Other Taxes.

Additional reasons for the appointment of a receiver for the United Railways are outlined in a supplemental petition filed in the District Court yesterday by Charles W. Bates and Ephrim Caplan, counsel representing John W. Seaman, a United Railways stockholder, and the original petitioner for a receivership. The motion states that the matters referred to had come to the knowledge of the petitioner since the filing of the original application.

First, it is alleged that $265,000 par value of the $3,500,000 par value of the bonds of the company have been taken up and paid by the company, and, notwithstanding that they should have been canceled, they have been reissued, and are being used by the company in extending the payment for the entire issue of the company's Union Depot bonds, entailing upon the assets of the company the obligation to pay the $265,000 par value of said bonds twice.

The second reason set forth is that the company has paid to the city of St. Louis $248,962.02 on a judgment for taxes against the St. Louis Transit Co., and had further agreed to pay a judgment in favor of the city against the St. Louis & Suburban Railways Co., and the St. Louis & Meramec River Railroad Co. for taxes amounting to $76,045.64, and has voluntarily confessed judgment in favor of the city for mill tax amounting to $2,320,276.28, although the company had expended large sums of money in defending suits to collect the tax.

It also is alleged that the company is operating at a loss, and that last year its deficit was more than $400,000, according to its recent financial report to stockholders. The company's assets are continually being wasted under the present management, it is alleged, and a receiver should be appointed to prevent further waste.

Former United States Senator Mason, Pioneer in Pure Food and Drugs Legislation, Father of Rural Free Delivery System

Says Nuxated Iron

Increased His Power and Endurance So Much, That He Feels It Ought to Be Made Known to Every Nervous, Run-down, Anaemic Man, Woman and Child

What Senator Mason Says

Chicago, Ill.

Gentlemen:

I have often said I would never recommend medicine of any kind. I believe that the doctor's place. However, after the hardest political campaign of my life, without a chance for a vacation, I had been starting to court every morning with that horrible tired feeling one cannot describe. I was advised to try Nuxated Iron. As a pioneer in the pure food and drug legislation, I was at first loath to try an advertised remedy, but after advising with one of my medical friends, I gave it a test. The results have been so beneficial in my own case I made up my mind to let my friends know about it, and you are at liberty to publish this statement if you so desire. I am now 63 years of age, and I feel that a remedy which will build up the strength and increase the power of endurance of one at my age should be known to the world.

Yours very truly,

Wm. E. Mason

Senator Mason's statement in regard to Nuxated Iron was shown to several physicians who were requested to give their opinions thereon.

Dr. Ferdinand King, a New York Physician and Medical Author, said: "I heartily indorse Senator Mason's statement in regard to Nuxated Iron. There can be no strong iron men without iron. Pallor means anemia. Anemia means iron deficiency. The skin of anemic men and women is pale; the flesh flabby; the muscles lack tone; the brain fags and the memory fails, and often they become weak, nervous, despondent and melancholy.

Dr. James Francis Sullivan, formerly Physician of Bellevue Hospital (Outdoor Dept.), New York, and the Westchester County Hospital, said: "Senator Mason is to be commended on handing out this statement on Nuxated Iron for public print. There are thousands of men and women who need a strength and blood builder, but do not know what to take. In my own opinion, there is nothing better than organic iron—Nuxated Iron—for enriching the blood and helping to increase the strength and endurance of men and women who burn up too rapidly their nervous energy in the strenuous strain of the great business competition of the day."

Former Health Commissioner Wm. R. Kerr of the City of Chicago says: "I have taken Nuxated Iron myself and experienced its health-giving and strength-building effect, and in the interest of the public welfare, I feel it my duty to make known the results of its use. I am well past my threescore years, and want to say that I believe my own great physical activity is largely due today to my personal use of Nuxated Iron. From my own experience with Nuxated Iron, I feel it is such a valuable remedy that it ought to be used in every hospital and prescribed by every physician in this country."

While former Health Commissioner Kerr is not himself a physician, still his experience in handling public health problems must give his opinion more than ordinary weight.

Dr. Schuyler C. Jaques, Visiting Surgeon of St. Elizabeth's Hospital, New York City, said: "I have never before given out any medical information or advice for publication as I ordinarily do not believe in it. But in the case of Nuxated Iron, I feel I would be remiss in my duty not to mention it. I have taken it myself and given it to my patients with most surprising results. And those who wish quickly to increase their strength, power and endurance will find it a most remarkable and wonderfully effective remedy."

Iron is absolutely necessary to enable your blood to change your food into living tissue. Without it, no matter how much or what you eat, your food merely passes through you without doing you any good. You don't get the strength out of it, and as a consequence you become weak, pale and sickly looking, just like a plant trying to grow in a soil deficient in iron. If you are not strong or well you owe it to yourself to make the following test: See how long you can work or how far you can walk without becoming tired. Next take two five-grain tablets of ordinary Nuxated Iron three times per day after meals for two weeks. Then test your strength again and see for yourself how much you have gained.

MANUFACTURERS' NOTE—Nuxated Iron, which was used by Senator Mason, with such surprising results, and which is prescribed and recommended above by physicians, is not a secret remedy, but one which is well known to druggists everywhere. Unlike the older inorganic iron products, it is easily assimilated, and does not injure the teeth, make them black, nor upset the stomach. The manufacturers guarantee successful and entirely satisfactory results to every purchaser or they will refunde your money. It is dispensed in this city by Judge & Dolph Drug Co., Wolff-Wilson Drug Co., Enderle Drug Co., Keiffer Drug Co., Johnson Bros.' Drug Co., Pauley's Drug Store Co. and other druggists.

From the Congressional Directory published by the United States Government—"Wm. E. Mason, Senator from Illinois, was elected to the 50th Congress in 1857, to the 51st Congress in 1891—defeated for the 52d Congress 1892—elected Senator to the 55th Congress in 1897 to 1903."

Senator Mason is now congressman from the State of Illinois.

Senator Mason's championship of Pure Food and Drugs legislation, his fight for the rural free delivery system and his strong advocacy of all bills favoring labor and the rights of the masses as against trusts and combines make him a national figure at Washington and endeared him to the hearts of the working man and the great masses of people throughout the United States. Senator Mason has the distinction of being one of the really big men of the nation. His strong endorsement of Nuxated Iron must convince any intelligent thinking reader that it must be a preparation of very great merit and one which the Senator feels is bound to be of great value to the masses of people everywhere, otherwise he could not afford to lend his name to it, especially after his strong advocacy of pure food and drugs legislation.

ST. LOUISAN TELLS OF CAMOUFLAGE SECRETS

Lieut. J. D. Bridge, Home, Describes How U. S. Artillerymen Screened Their War Operations.

Lieut. John Dwight Bridge, the first St. Louisan to return home from service in the camouflage section of the American forces overseas, is visiting his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Hudson E. Bridge, at their home, 23 Westmoreland place. While an art student in New York he joined the camouflage company when it was being recruited and was sent to France in January, 1918.

"The idea that camouflage consisted of a pot of paint and a bag of sly tricks is all rot," Lieut. Bridge said to a Post-Dispatch reporter yesterday in describing the work. "It was chiefly the art of making artillerymen keep under the trees as they brought their guns up, and preventing them from leaving tracks for enemy airmen to photograph. There were no paint pots, but there was a lot of hard work."

There were 700 camouflageurs with the American army in France, 250 of whom were recruited in this country and the remainder of whom were drawn from the ranks in France.

Had to Select Gun Positions.

A very important duty, Lieut. Bridge said, was selecting positions for batteries. After last July, orders were issued that the camouflage section should choose all battery positions.

"Camouflage depended for existence almost entirely on trees," Lieut. Bridge continued. "Its purpose was limited almost entirely to concealing gun positions. We would put up a scaffold with poles, cover it with chicken wire, on which the colored burlap was stretched. This burlap was all colored in the camouflage factory at Dijon, where 300 French girls worked at it.

"The spot would be slected among a clump of trees, and the burlap made to look, from above, like foilage. If there were no trees, camouflage was entirely useless. The idea that camouflage could be put up to resemble trees, when there were no trees around, is all wrong.

"After the structure was up, the artillerymen would dig their emplacements. Meantime, our own airmen would photograph the place, and if there were any defects, they would be remedied. The camouflage officer then marked off a trail over which the artillery was brought up, the purpose being to have it follow a path of which the tracks would not be visible.

"We had to watch the artillerymen as they put the guns in, to keep them from leaving tracks all around. There was one camouflageur in charge of screening each battery, and the actual work was done by artillerymen, under his direction.

"The burlap was colored so as to resemble trees and the ground, in a general way, although there were no pictures of trees, or anything else, painted on it. It also was pierced with large, uneven holes, in order to make dark shadows appear on it. A flat, even surface will show up on a photograph from an airplane like a roof, no matter what color it is painted.

"The Germans were very adept at camouflaging, especially in carefully selecting their gun positions.

"There was one Major in our army who said he didn't believe in camouflage, and thought it was all foolishness, so he aligned his battery out in the open. He had been there about 12 hours when one of his guns was put out by a shell; then he removed them. It was following that incident that the order was issued making camouflaging obligatory."

Bridge went to France as a Sergeant. He was commisioned a Second Lieutenant on July 1, and promoted to First Lieutenant in November. He intends to return soo to his study of portrait painting, in New York. He is 25 years old.

Genoa Streets Traversed by 332d Infantry Decked With Flowers.

By the Associated Press.

GENOA, Italy, Feb. 15.—The 332d Regiment of Infantry has arrived here from the Italian front. The streets through which the soldiers passed were decked with flowers and crowded with cheering throngs, who threw bouquets to the passing troops. Italian troops which lined the streets presented arms as the Americans marched by.

By order of the military commander in Genoa, the American soldiers will be entertained as guests at the Hotel Miramare until they sail for New York.

Free Yourself of Rupture Without Pain, Operation or Loss of Time

FOR the benefit of readers we take pleasure in publishing our Brooks offer to save all who are ruptured from wearing painful makeshift trusses that do not cure.

The Brooks Appliance Co. glady sends their remarkable patented Appliance ON TRIAL to prove that it holds the rupture back, keeps it in place, prevents it coming down or slip ping out and finally assists Nature to heal up the rupture.

No man or woman ever can look and feel his or her best while suffering the torment, pain and discomfort of rupture.

Every day that you suffer from rupture—every hour of truss torture that you endure—after you read this page is your own fault.

For many years we have been telling you that no makeshift truss will ever help you. We have told you about the harm ill-fitting trusses are doing. We have told you that the only truly comfortable, sanitary and scientific device for holding rupture is the Brooks Rupture Appliance.

Now we offer to prove it to you, entirely at our risk. We will send you a Brooks Rupture Appliance on trial. If you really want to be rid of your rupture fill out the coupon below and mail it today.

Instead of wearing a steel spring or inflexible harness, try the velvet-soft Brooks Appliance.

Instead of the old hard or stuffed pad, use the soft rubber automatic air-cushion of a Brooks Appliance.

The Brooks Appliance clings to you without force and you are hardly conscious of its presence. But above all else, it HOLDS always.

Within an hour after you receive the Brooks Appliance, if you take advantage of this remarkable trial offer, you will throw away your truss forever.

Over 685,000 People Have Accepted This Offer. Why Not You?

Doesn't that prove that the Brooks Appliance is not an experiment but a positive success—that it does all we claim for it? Among these 685,000 men, women and children there must be hundreds whose condition was identical with yours. Can you afford not to investigate and satisfy yourself when it costs you nothing to prove what the Brooks Appliance will do for you?

This wonderful device is a triumph of scientific and mechanical genius, the outcome of more than 30 years experience, and the results accomplished by its use are little short of miraculous.

Mr. C. E. Brooks, Inventor of the Appliance. Mr. Brooks cured himself of rupture over 30 years ago and patented the Appliance from his personal experience. If ruptured, write TODAY to the Brooks Appliance Company, Marshall, Michigan

Many hundreds of physicians and surgeons recommend the Brooks Appliance and condemn makeshift trusses as more harmful and dangerous than any other method of retaining and treating rupture. Thousands of people have written us testifying to the amazing results they have secured from this great invention. Many of these people live right in your vicinity and we will be glad to send you copies of their thankful letters if you will ask for them when you write.

Men, Women and Children Find the Brooks Appliance Equally Effective.

No matter if your rupture is old and severe or only recently developed, no matter if you are young or old, you should not fail to profit by this No-Risk Trial Offer.

No other rupture support, truss, lock, device, pad or plaster is offered to the public under so broad a guarantee of satisfaction.

If for any reason whatever you do not wish to keep the Brooks Appliance after you try it, send it back. You don't have to give any reason. You are to be the sole judge. There will be no argument, no dispute or misunderstanding.

Ten Reasons Why You Should Accept This Offer.

1. It is absolutely the only Appliance embodying the principles that inventors have sought after for years.
2. The Appliance for retaining the rupture cannot be thrown out of position.
3. Being an air cushion of soft rubber it clings closely to the body, yet never blisters or causes irritation.
4. Unlike ordinary so-called pads, it is not cumbersome or ungainly.
5. It is small, soft and pliable, and positively cannot be detected through the clothing.
6. The soft, pliable bands do not give the unpleasant sensation of wearing a harness.
7. Nothing to get foul; it can be washed without any injury.
8. There are no metal springs in the Appliance to torture one by cutting and bruising the flesh.
9. All materials are the very best that money can buy, making it a durable and safe appliance to wear.
10. Our reputation is so thoroughly established and our prices so reasonable, our terms so fair, that you should not hesitate to send the free coupon today.

WILSON ASKS CONGRESS TO DEFER DEBATE ON LEAGUE UNTIL HE RETURNS AND EXPLAINS ITS TERMS

Will Lay It Before Foreign Relations Committee at White House Dinner, Feb. 26

PAID CANVASSERS ARE CIRCULATING RECALL PETITIONS

Civic League Takes Step to Save City a Special Election—Solicitors Asked to Apply for Work Today.

PLAN FOR RECALL VOTE ON APRIL 1

Downtown Office Will Be Open Today and Solicitors Will Stand at Street Car Transfer Points.

In an intensive drive for signatures to the petitions for the recall of Mayor Kiel, for his mill tax and franchise agreement with the United Railways Co., the Civic League yesterday, for the first time, made use of paid canvassers. Five cents a name is the rate of pay, and a want ad, appearing in today's Post-Dispatch, says that capable men can make $3 to $10 a day in this work.

Men are wanted this morning to work today in the residence districts, and tomorrow both downtown and in the outlying sections. Petition blanks will be supplied to them at the headquarters of the Citizens' Referendum League, 607 Pontiac Building, Seventh and Market streets, which will be open today.

Louis F. Budenz, secretary of the Civic League, in explaining the decision to employ paid canvassers, said:

Why Step Was Taken.

"In order to save the city the expense of a special election, which would cost about $75,000, the Civic League has decided to spend the money needed to get a sufficient number of signatures in time to place the recall proposal on the ballot at the regular city election April 1.

"We have been told that it would be necessary to file the petitions Tuesday, in order to accomplish this result. The canvass has been progressing very satisfactorily for several days, and there is no doubt that we would have enough names in a week or two, with the work of volunteer canvassers. Perhaps we would have had enough by Tuesday, but we do not wish to take chances on this.

"We think it proper that those who give their entire time to this work should be paid."

The charter requires that petitions shall have the signatures of 20 per cent of the registered voters to obtain a recall election and further requires that this 20 per cent shall include 20 per cent of the voters in two-thirds of the city wards. This means that the canvassers must get 20 per cent in 19 wards, and enough more in these wards and the other nine wards to make up 20 per cent of the entire number of voters.

A force of clerks at Civic League headquarters yesterday checked up the signatures to petitions which have been brought in, with a view particularly to finding out how they are divided among the wards, and what wards, if any, should be especially canvassed for additional signatures. The Citizens' Referendum League did similar work.

To Continue Canvass.

Budenz estimates that 34,000 to 35,000 signatures, according to their distribution by wards, must be obtained in order to make the petitions sufficient. If the distribution by wards should prove to be very uneven, a larger number would be needed.

If the effort to get the recall proposal on the ballot for the April election is unsuccessful, Budenz said, the canvass will be continued, and the petitions will be filed when sufficient signatures have been obtained, thus making a special election necessary. In that event, he said, the Civic League will have made an effort to save the city this expense, and will feel that it is not to blame for the cost.

Some of the canvassers of the Referendum League will stand at street car transfer points today, soliciting signatures.

DARDANELLES OPEN; TRADE WITH TURKS MAY BE RESUMED

Bulgaria and Black Sea Ports Opened to Commerce Under Certain Safeguards.

By the Associated Press.

WASHINGTON, Feb. 15.—For the first time since the outbreak of the war the Dardanelles have been opened to commerce, and trading between America and the Turkish empire and Bulgaria permitted.

Announcement was made tonight by the War Trade Board that the Supreme Economic Council in Paris today had authorized resumption by the United States of trade with those countries, and had opened also to American trade all ports on the Black Sea.

The board's announcement made clear that in those regions which have been under enemy domination—Turkey and Bulgaria—arrangements would be made by the Associated Governments to insure that this resumption of trade would not lessen the effectiveness of the present blockade of the Central Powers.

This action, the statement by the board said, marks the most extensive opening of territory to trade since the signing of the armistice and was taken in "accordance with the desire of the board to open increased fields of our commerce, with the purpose of restoring trade to conditions more nearly approaching normal."

With the opening of the Dardanelles and the Black Sea, Rumania becomes accessible to commerce and relief measures for Armenia and all of South Russia will be facilitated.

America never declared war against Turkey or Bulgaria, and it was pointed out that this fact made possible this action without awaiting the framing of the treaty of peace.

Resumption of trade with Mesopotamia, Syria and Palestine was announced recently, and today's decision means the entire territory embraced within the boundaries of the Turkish empire as it existed on Aug. 1, 1914, is now open to commerce.

MISSOURI FURNISHED 128,544 MEN TO ARMY; WAS 8TH STATE

Table Shows New York Was at Top of List With 367,864—Nevada, 5105, Last.

By the Associated Press.

WASHINGTON, Feb. 15.—A table showing the number of men furnished to the army by each State during the war was made public today at the War Department. New York led with 367,864, and Nevada stood last with 5105 in the total of 3,757,624 men obtained by draft, voluntarily enlistment, or through the National Guard. The men actually furnished ran very closely, the table shows, to the obligation of the States making their quotas proportionate to their population. The figures are compiled up to Nov. 11.

The States furnished the following numbers of soldiers:

| | | | |
|---|---|---|---|
| New York | 367,864 | Mississippi | 54,295 |
| Pennsylvania | 297,891 | S. Carolina | 53,482 |

| Kansas | 63,428 | Delaware | 7,484 |
| Arkansas | 61,027 | Nevada | 5,105 |
| West Virginia | 55,777 | | |

The total of 3,757,624 included also 16,538 from Porto Rico, 5664 from Hawaii, 2102 from Alaska, 255 from the Philippine Islands, 1138 not allocated and 1499 accredited to the American expeditionary force comprising men who joined the army in Europe.

2,000,000 BOOKS TO OUR ARMY ABROAD, 650,000 SINCE NOV. 11

Demand for Technical Volumes Heavy in Connection With Trade Schools.

By the Associated Press.

NEW YORK, Feb. 15.—The American Library Association has shipped to soldiers overseas more than 2,000,000 books—650,000 of them since the signing of the armistice—it was announced here today.

The demand for technical works, used in connection with the schools established by the army education commission is heavy, the statement said 300,000 such volumes having been forwarded to France in the past three months to meet the needs of men preparing themselves for reentrance into civil life.

HOTEL JEFFERSON CARD GAME RAIDED, SIX MEN ARRESTED

WIVES OF LOSERS MAKE COMPLAINT

Supposed Promoter Escapes Through Over-Eager Reply to Inquiry as to "Anything Doing?"

Hotel Jefferson, the management of which lately protested against members of the police gambling squad "snooping" in its corridors, was the scene of a raid at 5:15 last evening, in which six men were taken from a room on the fourth floor, and in which the usual accessories of a well-conducted poker game were seized as evidence. The six men will appear in Police Court tomorrow morning on a gambling charge.

Police Lieutenant Stinger, who made the raid with the help of two men, said he had received complaints from women whose husbands had lost large sums of money, in one case $400, in week-end games at different hotels. He said he received information that a man named Swain was conducting these games, at a profit of $100 or more to himself each time, that the last game was at a smaller downtown hotel, and that the Jefferson had been selected for yesterday's game, which was intended to run through last night and well into today.

Found Outfit in Regulation Form.

Stinger and his men waited outside the room until a man came out and then they entered. They found six players around a table, with cards and chips disposed as is customary in poker games. One man had removed his coat, vest, collar and tie. He is designated in the police report as Charles Showl, butcher, of 1431 Wright street, a name which does not appear in the City Directory. He had $21.

The others, as their names and occupations are given in the police report, and the money found on each, are: Fred Andris, salesman, 5764 De Giverville avenue, $68 cash and check for $56; Emil E. Cohn, salesman, 3703 Washington boulevard, $7; Louis Rosen, salesman, Birmingham, Ala., $5; Robert H. McDonald, salesman, Tulsa, Ok., $63; Sol Loeb, "from somewhere in Indiana," $91. They obtained a bondsman soon after being taken to police headquarters. The out-of-town men are guests at the Jefferson.

"Nothing Doing" With Swain.

Stinger related that as he was about to leave the hotel room the telephone bell rang, and a voice said: "This is Swain. Anything doing?"

"Sure," replied Stinger, "come right up here." His eagerness must have betrayed his motive, for the man at the other end said, with a laugh, "Nothing doing, Stinger." Lieut. Stinger said that while Swain seemed to know him, he had not the pleasure of Swain's acquaintance.

One of the men arrested said he knew nothing about Swain, but that the room was used at the invitation of a traveling salesman living in Webster Groves, who left shortly before the raid. He also said that the game in progress at the time the police detail entered was not poker, but pitch. If this defense is taken to court, the Judge may have to decide whether poker chips belong in a game of pitch. Stinger thinks they do not.

MASKS OF U. S. PEACE ENVOYS

By the Associated Press.

PARIS, Feb. 15.—The United States Government has ordered that life masks be made of every member of the American commission to the peace conference. This work will be done by Lieut. Tian T. Schwartz, E. T. Nugent and Miss Eleanor C. Allen.

The masks, which will be made by an entirely new process, will require from 20 to 30 minutes to complete. Some French statesmen already have had masks made.

GERMANS SAID TO HAVE SUSPENDED SPA NEGOTIATIONS

Reported to Have Complained Allies' Armistice Conditions Are Too Severe.

By the Associated Press.

GENEVA, Feb. 15.—The Swiss Telegraph Agency received a telegram from Berlin this morning stating that the German armistice commission had suspended negotiations with the allies at Spa because they considered the new allied conditions too severe.

The Germans, according to the telegram, continue to complain against the British blockade, and future controversies are predicted over the occupation of the Rhine towns, the expulsion of undesirable Germans and the lack of railway transportation.

Germans Required to Cease Offensive Against Poles.

By the Associated Press.

BASLE, Feb. 15.—The armistice has been extended indefinitely according to a Treves dispatch to the Havas Agency. The Germans are required to cease their offensive against the Poles and carry out the previous terms of the armistice until completed.

"CANNED BLOOD" SAVED LIVES OF MANY AMERICAN SOLDIERS

Fluid Was Stored on Ice and Used in Emergency Cases Requiring Transfusion.

By the Associated Press.

WASHINGTON, Feb. 15.—Use of "canned blood," one of the remarkable developments of war surgery, was described today by the Surgeon-General's office for the benefit of the families of hundreds of soldiers whose lives were saved by blood transfusion.

One of the heaviest causes of death among wounded soldiers is hemorrhage. Immediately after the United States entered the war the medical department began organizing to reduce the number of fatalities from this cause and large numbers of medical men were put in training under the direction of Col. Walter B. Cannon of Harvard University.

Development of the use of "canned blood" was a direct result of war conditions. During a heavy attack it was imposible to arrange for transfusions direct from persons, so the fluid was drawn previously, stored on ice, then used in emergency cases.

"By these methods many men were returned to the families who in previous wars would have lived but a few hours," the department's statement asserted.

FRENCH PRESS IS FAINT IN PRAISE OF LEAGUE DRAFT

BETTER SETTLEMENT VAGUE AND NEBULOUS

Journal Doubts Potency of Moral Force as Only Restraint Upon Humiliated Germany.

By the Associated Press.

PARIS, Feb. 15.—Comment in representative French newspapers on the constitution of the League of Nations as presented at yesterday's plenary session of the peace conference reveals little enthusiasm over the shape the project has taken. The Figaro says:

"The commission, on the initiative of its illustrious chairman, President Wilson, wisely decided not to ravish tomorrow from the eternal, and confined itself to making safe the present. The mystic Society of Nations has, then, become a league of the five great Powers which beat Germany and which, having conquered, mean to consolidate both victory and peace. A close alliance will result between the United States, England, France, Italy and Japan."

The writer, Alfred Capus, editor of the Figaro, says in addition, that "the future is opened to a better settlement, but that naturally is as yet vague and nebulous."

Position of the French.

The Journal, one of the most widely circulated newspapers here, says: "While all are speaking of fraternizing and eternal peace, the French people cannot lose sight of reality, and reality in the vicinity of 70,000,000 humiliated Germans shuddering under merited punishment. It is half of Europe in chaos. When we are evoked, amidst such perspective, the seductive idea of disarmament, it is our duty to ask plainly where are the guarantees and what is the force which will shelter us from the reaction of tragic surprise. To these questions a careful reading of the projected statutes of the Society of Nations and the eloquent speeches made at the conference bring but one answer: Moral force."

"Pertinax," in the Echo de Paris, ends a long article by saying: "We are forced to conclude that the 26 articles bring us no security. Until they are changed we can sacrifice nothing of our means of defense to them."

Socialist Paper's View.

The Socialist newspaper Humanite is even less pleased. Deputy Marcel Cachon writes in this publication:

"It is impossible to conceal the impression of disillusion that first examination of the long convention makes on us. It is clear to the dullest that we are far from President Wilson's first proposals. We find in the document neither the general spirit of President Wilson's messages nor the necessary clear information as to the composition of the society and the role it is to play. The project cannot in any way command the support of democrats and peoples' parties, which placed such hopes in the idea of which Mr. Wilson constituted himself an eloquent defender."

London Papers Hail It as Most Memorable Document in History.

By the Associated Press.

LONDON, Feb. 15.—The London newspapers generally praise the draft of the League of Nations. Many hail it as the most important and most memorable document in history and congratulate the framers, especially President Wilson.

The morning newspapers express satisfaction over the "sound start" made, though several point out that considerable work has yet to be done before the ideals of the league can be fully realized.

A few provisions are criticised, namely, the omission of a provision for a "general conference" as included in the League of Nations plan of Gen. Smuts. In deploring the absence of this feature the Manchester Guardian, long a champion of the league, says:

Notes One Defect.

"We stand a good chance of getting the League of Nations run, not by the peoples, but by officials. * * *

PRESIDENT SAILS FROM BREST ON GEO. WASHINGTON

Assistant Secretary Roosevelt, Ambassador Francis and Son and Congressmen Members of the Party.

21 GUNS FIRED AS WILSON EMBARKS

Dreadnought New Mexico and Torpedo Boats Accompany Liner in Misty Weather.

By the Associated Press.

The President is expected to return to France early in March.

The President arrived at Brest from Paris at 10:30 o'clock and went direct to the dock, where he embarked on a French gunboat, which took him and his party to the George Washington.

The President was received at the Brest arsenal by Admiral Moreau of the French navy, Gen. Helmick, the Military Commander of Brest, Charles M. Schwab, and civil officials. There was no ceremony, except for handshaking and a salute of 21 guns, which thundered forth as soon as the President embarked on the gunboat.

All Ships Fly U. S. Flag.

From the railroad siding to the dock were drawn up a battalion of American soldiers, and a French marine band played "The Star-Spangled Banner" as the gunboat left its moorings. All the ships in the harbor displayed the American flag and all traffic was suspended while the President's party was transferred to the George Washington.

A French naval escort, consisting of the cruiser Condo and several torpedo boats, acted as a guard of honor for the George Washington.

This escort, with the American battleship New Mexico, will accompany the President out to sea and then return. The New Mexico had as companions four American torpedo boats. Georges Leygues, the French Minister of Marine, and Andre Tardieu, French High Commissioner to the United States, accompanied the President on board the George Washington to bid him goodbye.

Franklin D. Roosevelt, American Assistant Secretary of the Navy, arrived in Brest shortly before the President boarded the George Washington, and was taken aboard the liner on special naval craft. The weather was misty with a moderate temperature.

When the President alighted from the train he was smiling. He shook hands with Admiral Moreau, Gen. Helmick, Admiral Halstead and Schwab. The President talked for a few minutes with Schwab. Mrs. Wilson smiled as she followed the President and received from M. Leygues a handsome bouquet of flowers.

Mrs. Joseph Lewis of Cincinnati presented the President with a bouquet of violets, which he accepted with a bow.

Francis Member of Party.

After exchanging greetings, the President stood on the gunboat and waved to the crowds on the dock and those assembled on the embankmants high above the quay. The mistiness of the weather hid the gunboat from sight soon after it left the dock, but the President continued to wave his hat and smile as the boat headed toward the George Washington. The President was accompanied on board the gunboat by Ambassador and Mme. Jusserand and by Representatives Helvering, White and Norton, who have been in France for several months. David R. Francis, the American Ambassador to Russia, and his son and daughter-in-law also were members of the party.

The President spent just 15 minutes at the quay. He passed along the line of those assembled to greet him and shook hands with each one. Reaching the end of the line he beckoned to Mrs. Wilson to come. He descended the stairs to the deck of the gunboat and then assisted Mrs. Wilson to descend.

On the arrival of the presidential

Wilson's Parting Message to France Says He Will Return

By the Associated Press.

BREST, Feb. 15.

PRESIDENT WILSON'S statement to France on leaving for America today said:

"I cannot leave France without expressing my profound sense of the great hospitality of the French people and the French Government. They have received and treated me as I most desired to be treated, as a friend, a friend alike in spirit and in purpose.

"I am happy to say that I am to return to assist with all my heart in completing the just settlement which the peace conference is seeking, and I shall carry with me during my absence very happy memories of the two months I have spent here.

"I have been privileged to see here at first hand what my sympathies have already conceived—the sufferings and problems of France—and every day has deepened my interest in the solution of the grave questions upon whose proper solution the future prosperity of France and her associates and the whole world depends. May I not leave my warm and affectionate farewell greetings."

PRESIDENT NAMES H. C. WALLACE TO SUCCEED SHARP

First Act on Boarding Ship, Which Heads for Southern Route in Fair Weather.

By the Associated Press.

ON BOARD THE U. S. S. GEORGE WASHINGTON, Feb. [illegible] by wireless.—President Wilson [illegible] nominated Hugh C. Wallace of Tacoma, Wash., Ambassador to France, to fill the vacancy caused by the resignation of William Graves Sharp.

This was the first official act of the President on his homeward journey. The President also dispatched telegrams arranging for brief ceremonies in connection with the speech which he expects to make at Boston on Feb. 24.

President Wilson spent the day resting from the strenuous exertions which marked his last few days in Paris.

The steamer is heading for the southern route, in fair weather. The escorting French warships signaled farewell soon after leaving Brest and the United States dreadnought New Mexico, and several destroyers will be the escort of the George Washington until the Azores are reached. At the Azores the ship will be met by numerous American destroyers and convoyed home.

Despite the hard work which he will engage in during his brief stay in the United States, the President is already planning to begin the return journey to France immediately after the adjournment of Congress. It is expected that he will select a successor to Thomas W. Gregory in the attorney-generalship of the United States before the ship reaches home waters.

TACOMA, Wash., Feb. 15.—Hugh Campbell Wallace, nominated Ambassador to France today by President Wilson, for many years has been prominent in the politics of the Democratic party and is Democratic national committeeman from Washington.

Wallace, who spends much of his time in Washington, D. C., a close friend of President Wilson, often has participated in confidential conferences at the White House. Soon after this country entered the war he was sent to London by the President on a personal mission. The only public office he ever held was receiver of public moneys for [illegible] by appointment of President Cleveland, 1885-86. Wallace, a native of Lexington, Mo., celebrated his fifty-sixth birthday this week. His wife is a daughter of the late Chief Justice Melville W. Fuller of the Supreme Court.

NEGRO REFORMED BY DUD SHELL

Discards Bones When German Explosive Falls Near Him.

Special to the Post-Dispatch.

NEW YORK, Feb. 15.—Lieut. Leon Cadore, Brooklyn baseball club pitcher, who was with the negro fighters of New York's old Fifteenth Regiment in France, told this story when he arrived here.

One day a German high explosive shell hit French soil about 10 feet from a six-foot negro private, but proved to be a dud. The negro, waiting and expecting the shell to explode, reached in his pocket, drew forth a pair of dice, threw them on the ground and exclaimed: "After this Ah leads a different life."

GOOD REASON FOR EACH ARTICLE AND PHRASEOLOGY, THE PRESIDENT CABLES

He Invites Leaders to White House to Discuss Each Article of Constitution and Foreign Affairs Committees Will Dine There Feb. 26.

POINTS TO WORK OF MANY NATIONS

Senator Poindexter Attacks Disarmament Arbitration and Munitions Sections — Democratic Senators Commend the Covenant.

By the Associated Press.

WASHINGTON, Feb. 15.—President Wilson today cabled a request to the Foreign Relations Committees of Congress to defer debate on the constitution of the proposed league of nations until he had an opportunity to go over it, "article by article," with the members.

"There is a good and sufficient reason for the phraseology and substance of each article," declared the President in his message, transmitted through Secretary Tumulty.

Members of the Senate and House committees will dine at the White House Feb. 26, two days after the President is expected to land at Boston. This early meeting was interpreted as evidence of the President's determination to get the details of the new world federation for peace before Congress as quickly as possible.

The cabled invitation did not name a date for the conference, but almost immediately the time was announced, and this was taken to mean that the President would proceed here direct from Boston after an address in that city.

Wilson's Cable to Leaders.

The President's message, dated Paris, Feb. 14, follows:

"Last night the committee of the conference charged with the duty of drafting a constitution for a league of nations concluded its work and this afternoon, before leaving for the United States, it is to be my privilege and duty to read to a plenary session of the conference the text of the 26 articles agreed upon by the committee.

"The committee which drafted these articles was fairly representative of the world. Besides the representatives of the United States, Great Britain, France, Italy and Japan, representatives of Belgium, Serbia, China, Greece, Rumania, Czecho-Slovakia, Poland, Brazil, Portugal, actively participated in the debate and assisted materially in the drafting of this constitution. Each article was passed only after the most careful examination by each member of the commitee. There is a good and sufficient reason for the phraseology and substance of each article. I request that I be permitted to go over with you, article by article, the constitution before this part of the work of the conference is made the subject of debate in Congress. With this in view, I request that you dine with me at the White House as soon after I arrive in the United States as my engagements permit."

Chairman Hitchcock Pleased.

Chairman Hitchcock of the Senate Foreign Relations Committee expressed much gratification when advised tonight of President Wilson's

PRESIDENT WILL LAND AT BOSTON, WILL SPEAK THERE

Cables Tumulty He Will Arrive Feb. 25 and Speech Is Expected to Cover Work of Conference.

CITY PREPARES FOR ELABORATE RECEPTION

Army and Navy to Take Part in Welcome and Parade Will Be Given if Wilson Consents.

By the Associated Press.

ATLANTIC CITY, N. J., Feb. 15.—In a cablegram received today by Joseph P. Tumulty, secretary of the President, who is staying at a hotel here, President Wilson announced his decision to deliver an address at Boston immediately upon his arrival in this country.

The George Washington bearing the President and Mrs. Wilson, will make port at Boston on the return trip to America and is expected to arrive about Feb. 25.

By the Associated Press

BREST, Feb. 15.—When President Wilson left here today for the United States, it was announced that he would land in Boston on Feb. 25, where he was expected to make an address which would cover the work performed at the peace conference.

It was said it was most probable the President would make another speech before returning to Washington.

Address Will Cover Work Done at the Conference.

By the Associated Press.

BOSTON, Feb. 15.—A welcome awaits President Wilson at Boston in keeping with the international importance of the mission from which he will return on Feb. 25. The compliment paid the city by the chief executive aroused instant enthusiasm of Mayor Andrew J. Peters, whom the Associated Press dispatches today brought the first assurance of the acceptance of the invitation extended the President through the State Department several weeks ago to set foot first on the soil of the Bay State when bringing home first-hand reports of what had been accomplished at Paris.

The further announcement that the President would make a notable address here promised even more than had been hoped for. The Mayor and his staff already have arranged a tentative program. The reception probably will be on a grand scale, and somewhat spectacular.

The army and navy will, it is expected, play a prominent part, and there may be a parade if this be not objectionable to the President. It is anticipated thousands will flock to Boston from throughout New England, and, while delegations from Washington and elsewhere are expected. It was thought likely the Governors of all New England States and their staffs would be on hand.

The George Washington is longer than any steamship that has ever entered this port. She is slightly under 700 feet, or 30 feet longer than the former Hamburg-American liner Amerika, which made regular trips here before the war, and her gross tonnage of 25,570 is nearly 3000 tons in excess of that of the Amerika.

Commonwealth Pier, in South Boston, where the former German liner docked, is about 1200 feet long and the channel is of sufficient depth, officials say, to float the George Washington without difficulty. Pier officials, immediately upon hearing that the vessel was coming here, began arrangements to handle her at South Boston.

party on board the George Washington, there was little formality except for hand shakes with M. Leygues and M. ## USE COCOANUT OIL FOR WASHING HAIR

If you want to keep your hair in good condition, be careful what you wash it with.

Most soaps and prepared shampoos contain too much alkali. This dries the scalp, makes the hair brittle, and is very harmful. Just plain mulsified cocoanut oil (which is pure and entirely greaseless), is much better than the most expensive soap or anything else you can use for shampooing, as this can't possibly injure the hair.

Simply moisten your hair with water and rub it in. One or two teaspoonfuls will make an abundance of rich, creamy lather, and cleanses the hair and scalp thoroughly. The lather rinses out easily, and removes every particle of dust, dirt, dandruff and excessive oil. The hair dries quickly and evenly, and it leaves it fine and silky, bright, fluffy and easy to manage.

You can get mulsified cocoanut oil at most any drug store. It is very cheap, and a few ounces is enough to last everyone in the family for months.—ADV.

Bourgeois' Speech Giving French Stand on League

Declares There Was Complete Unanimity, Though He Suggests Plans to Give Greater Security.

PARIS, Feb. 15.—In presenting the views of France regarding the covenant of the league of nations at yesterday's plenary session of the peace conference, Leon Bourgeois, French representative on the commission, whic hframed the covenant, spoke as follows:

"I rise to express the deep satisfaction of all, and of France more than any other country, because she is among the countries who have most suffered, to see the unity of our wills and of our hearts in a passionate adhesion to the principles of the league of nations. That act of faith we shall do in a spirit of cordiality and good will that has been that of the committee. Under the eminent chairmanship of President Wilson the committee has worked with all their hearts to attain this great object.

"Lord Robert Cecil has said we now present to the conference and to the world the result of our work, but we do not present it as something that is final, but only as the result of an honest effort, to be discussed, and to be examined not only by the conference, but the public opinion of the world.

"We have been unanimous in proclaiming these principles, and we have felt the force of these principles so much that we have no doubt that a strong light will penertate even into the darkest parts, that the light radiating from those principles will find its way into lands that seem to be the least open to it.

System of Guarantee.

"But it is not enough to proclaim such great principles. We must organize a system of guarantee and a system of action, both judicial and practical. The plan laid down is a clear and simple one. There is a council, where all the states are represented equally, each having only one vote, and there is an executive committee, which is constituted on a different principle. But even in this case, where it has been found necessary for purposes of action to give five votes to the larger Powers, the principle of equality has been secured by giving as much as four votes to the smaller states. Respect for the decision given by that body will be assured by definite rules, the violation of which shall be considered as an act of war against all the contrading states. If one state—it may be the smallest and most remote of all the states—is attacked without justification, then the whole of the League of Nations is being attacked and will resist.

"But we must go further. In order to secure the execution of international sentences, there must be a limitation of armaments. This has been the wish of the world for a great many years. What was formerly so difficult has today become possible. Our victory has made it possible because it has enabled us to disarm the barbaric force that was in the way of such an improvement.

"That limitation must be such that no state can be capable of privilege against the will of the law of nations, but at the same time, each state should be strong enough to contribute to the force that will enable the League of Nations to impose its will. There has been unanimity upon all these points.

"There are one or to points upon which I wish particularly to insist, because they are connected with dangers that may be of special moment to some of us, dangers that may arise not equal for all.

Countries With Special Dangers.

"There are special dangers for countries like France, Belgium, Serbia and the new states that are in the stage of formation in Central Europe. It is necessary to give them special guarantees, and this has been recognized by the committee, when its states that special account should be taken of the geographical situation of, and the mode of application to each state in the scale of armaments. Where the frontiers are more exposed it must be possible to have stronger systems of defense, and possibly also, greater armaments.

"That is all right, but there is no doubt that it will put on the shoulders of the nations that happen to be in the most difficult position a special burden.

"It will hamper them in the peaceful competition that is the life of the world.

"And here, again, two practical questions must be put. To give all nations necessary security, the principle of the limitation of armaments must not only be executed, but executed very fast. It has been said—and no one has said it more forcefully than President Wilson, that modern war has become a war of material, that in such a war as the one we have just seen, and such as we hope never to see in the future, what has triumphed has been science turned into barbarism.

"Now, it is necessary for us to control the war industries all over the world. The nations who are the contracting parties of the covenant pledge themselves mutually to communicate to each other full information about their armaments and their means of production. This is a very good plan, with which I am particularly satisfied.

"At the same time, I propose an amendment which I think I ought to mention. I thought it would be necessary to institute a permanent organization for purposes of inspection, and that amendment was not at the moment embodied in the text. We have accepted the text as it is before you, and we now mention that amendment. It is because, as the whole scheme is going to be discussed by the world, it is better that all the points that have given occasion for important observations should be mentioned.

"Here is a second point. Take a state that violates the international covenant. This state is supposed to be in a state of war against all the members of the league, and all are prepared to compel it to execute its obligations. But war is not something that can proceed at once, especially when the question is how to bring together forces belonging to states which are very different from each other and may be at the four corners of the world. Each nation will have to wait in order to act until a certain proceedure is gone through and until for each particular nation a vote has been taken by its Parliament and so on. This means time and delay.

Action in Case of War.

"And, supposing that there is on the part of the aggressor a will to precipitate a situation, then we must provide for the possibility. For this purpose it would be desirable to have all the means of resistance studied, and concerted action prepared before the occasion arises. This would be the best check against any ill-design.

"If the would-be aggressor knows that resistance is fully prepared against any action such as he contemplated, then he will be restrained. Where, on the other hand, he knows that no such preparation exists and that sudden action on his part would encounter no prepared and well-thought-out resistance, perhaps he would not be restrained, and it would be extremely dangerous

"If you do not wish the terrible ordeal through which the world has passed renewed in the future, we ought to have a permanent organization to prepare the military and naval means of execution and make them ready in case of emergency.

"Complete Unanimity."

"This has been objected to by some of the members of the committee, because it involved some difficult constitutional problems. This is why we have agreed to the text without that amendment, but we think the principle of that proposed amendment ought to be put before public opinion at the same time as the scheme to which we have agreed.

"I hope that no one, either here or anywhere in the world, will be mistaken about my intention. I will not say, and I have not said, a word that could weaken the feeling of our complete and hearty unanamity. We have acted with one heart for the triumph of the cause which is that of our confidence in the cause of right against violence, the cause of right against might. We believe that this scheme that is now before us is an excellent one. We believe in its virtues and its possibilities. The observation we have made on some points will, we hope, be of some value in the further discussions, since we are at the begining of the execution of the whole plan.

"Now we must, at the end, express our deep gratitude toward our colleagues, and our deep gratitude toward President Wilson, who presided over our labors in such a competent way and with such high spirit, and we wish still more to express the sincere wish of France to see that the great pact becomes, possibly with some improvement on the two points I have mentionad, the law of nations."

Premier Orlando's Speech.

Premier Orlando, speaking for Italy, said:

"Our task, gentlemen, was one of incomparable difficulty. We were faced with two absolute principles, the conciliation of which would seem to be logically impossible—on the one side the sovereignty of states, admitting of no limitation, and on the other, a limit imposed upon the action of states, so that rights might be conciliated and so that the liberty of states should not include the liberty of doing wrong.

"Now we have been able to conciliate these two principles on the basis of self-restraint. The Governments have recognized that limit, and they will make it effective in each case, as there will be the overwhelming pressure of the public opinion of the world.

Committee's Work Demonstration.

"I do not forget the possibilfty that such a scheme has been the object of attacks by skeptics, some of them, according to their temper, in sorrowful tones, others in an ironical mood. I will answer them, as the Greek philosopher did, when the reality of movement was denied in his presence and he answered by rising to his feet and walking.

"The possibility of collective international action has been demonstrated by the work of our committee itself.

"We reached our agreement after periods of suspense and reflection. Then we felt that something was growing and ripening, as a grain in the earth, and what has taken place at this time and will take place in the future is but an example of how that idea can work in its reality in a tangible form. If that idea is going to be transformed into a reality, it is because of the generous and occult influence of all the blood that has been spilt, of all the terrible bereavement of the whole world."

Japanese Delegate's Address on League of Nations.

Baron Makino, the head of the Japanese delegation, at the plenary conference yesterday, said:

"I beg to add another voice to echo the congratulatory speeches that have been made on the presentation of a document which is, perhaps, the most important document that has been compiled by man. The great leaders with staunch purpose have personified this great movement, a movement involving intricate problems of divers nations, and they deserve the gratitude of their fellow men for successfully piloting to this advanced stage a most effective instrument for the maintenance of the peace of the world. Their names will be written indelibly on the pages of history, and that will be the grateful acknowledgment of humanity for their labor."

PAPE'S! BREAKS A BAD COLD—TRY IT

Use Pape's Cold Compound to cure colds and grippe in few hours—No Quinine.

It is a positive fact that Pape's Cold Compound taken every two hours until three consecutive doses are taken will end the Grippe and break up the most severe cold, either in the head, chest, back, or stomach or limbs.

It promptly relieves the most miserable headache, dullness, head and nose stuffed up feverishness, sneezing, sore throat, running of the nose, mucous catarrhal discharges, soreness, stiffness, and rheumatic twinges.

Get a small package of "Pape's Cold Compound" from your druggist and take it with the knowledge that it will positively and promptly cure your cold and end all the grippe misery; without any assistance or bad after-effects and that it contains no quinine—don't accept something else said to be just as good. ## FRENCH PRESS IS FAINT IN PRAISE OF LEAGUE DRAFT

The defect is one which cannot be overlooked, and when President Wilson comes back from America we trust that the constitution of the league may be subjected to a somewhat searching revision."

But apart from this the Guardian finds that the document corresponds with all the hopes that have been founded on it.

It says that the draft covers not only the question of boundaries, but also of religious liberties and local autonomies and declares that the care of backward nations is a matter which cannot be neglected "and it comes naturally within the province of the league."

"Will Put an End to War."

The majority of the evening papers also join in praising the document. The Evening News calls it "the great charter which will put an end to war." The Star says: "We rejoice exceedingly, for here, at last, we have the magna charta of mankind, the covenant o fhumanity."

The Evening Standard says:

"M. Clemenceau once told his fellow delegates that every morning he said to himself: 'Georges Clemenceau, thou believest in a league of nations'. The text of the covenent published today will go far to destroy a lack of faith more stubborn than the French premier's.

Germany Must Come In.

The Westminster Gazette in an article under the caption, "The United States of the World," says:

"Some even of the warmest supporters of the league of nations will admit that their expecetations were too low, in the face of the momentous document published today with America, Britain and France going hand in hand and imperative circumstances driving them to produce a scheme which is clear and bold in outline and which if adopted in anything like its platform will put all international politics on a new basis and give us the beginning of the United States, not of Europe, only, but of the world."

PRESIDENT ASKS CONGRESS TO DEFER LEAGUE DEBATE

plans for consultation with the Senate and House committees.

"In this matter, both Democratic and Republican members of the committees will be able to exchange views with the President," said Hitchcock. "He will come fresh from the scene, with impressions and, very probably, information which will be of immense value in a consideration of the league's constitution. I think the conference will be of great value."

Senator Hitchcock said he was ready to meet the President's request for postponement of discussion until after the White House conference. He said he knew of no plans by Democratic Senators to discuss the subject at present.

Democratic and Republican leaders indicated that both parties were inclined to respect the President's wishes in the matter of debate, although it was said some members might desire to express their views forthwith. It had been expected that there would be general discussion of the league today, but only brief reference was made to it during consideration of the rivers and harbors bill.

Senator Lodge of Massachusetts, the Republican leader, who will become chairman of the Foreign Relations Committee in the next Congress, is looked to for an expression of his party's attitude, but declined to comment. Upon Senator Lodge's request the text was put into the Congressional Record. The Massachusetts Senator promptly agreed when Senator Pittman of Nevada asked that the President's address in presenting the document be included.

Slight Reference in Senate.

Reference to the league was made on the floor of the Senate during the day by Senator Williams of Mississippi, Democrat, who said while it had been criticised as visionary, it appeared the most practical thing to meet the situation.

Declaring that some sacrifices must be made, he questioned the propriety of aiming general criticism at the President in attacking the league. Opposition to the President's plans had developed chiefly, he said, from the radical element, women whom he called "bonfire burners" and "a few Senators and Congressmen."

Senator Cummins of Iowa, Republican, interrupted the Mississippi Senator to say he, too, favored a league of nations.

Poindexter Attacks Plan.

Vigorous attack upon four articles of the league's constitution—those providing for disarmament, arbitration, supervision of the munitions trade and for mandatories of foreign countries—was made by Senator Poindexter of Washington, Republican, in a statement tonight. He declared the disarmament and munitions trade paragraphs were unconstitutional, the arbitration provision "unconscionable" and the clause for mandatories and others abhorrent.

Regarding the eighth article of the constitution of disarmament, Senator Poindexter said:

"This provision transfers to the league the sovereignty prerogatives of fixing the relative and absolute size of the armies and navies of the several countries. The provision is unconstitutional and an impairment of the sovereignty and independence of this country. There is no power in the President, nor in the Senate, nor in Congress itself, nor in all combined, to transfer in this way the sovereign power of the nation."

Referring to press reports of adoption by Germany of an army conscription policy, Senator Poindexter deplored disarmament while Germany was taking military measures of her own.

Article 12 of the constitution, providing for arbitration and suspension of war for three months after the league acts, Senator Poindexter declared, "would put under the control of foreign powers every question which might affect our independence, safety, honor or existence."

"It is unconscionable and the American people will never understandingly ratify it," he said, "and if ratified it would never be and could never be kept in the face of an attack upon our vital interests."

Munitions Plan Assailed.

Declared unconstitutional Article 18 for supervision of nations, munitions trade, Senator Poindexter said:

"Furthermore, it is abhorrent to the self-respect of the United States and a surrender of our sovereignty. It cannot be suppesed that the United States has reached such a condition of imbecility that it must have a guardian appointed for it to control its international and domestic affairs. It is curious that such a proposition should even receive consideration."

Article 19, providing for mandatories over foreign countries, Senator Poindexter said, would require use of American naval and military forces in various parts of the world at enormous expense and possible loss of life.

"We are not called upon," he said, "by any obligation as a nation to assume such duties, and it is even doubtful whether there is any sive desire anywhere in the that we should so impose upon the affairs and peoples of continents. It is abhorrent traditions of the nation and flict with the century-old policies herited from Washington, M and other statesmen."

Senators Pittman of Nevada Ransdell of Louisiana, Democ were outspoken in approval of league.

Pittman Commends Draft.

"The President has won the gr est diplomatic victory recorded history," said Senator Pittman, m ber of the Senate Foreign Relati Committee. "He has overcome cynical diplomat, the skeptical sta man and the hopeless materiali Words and technical construct matter little. The world has solem ly agreed upon the true principles justice and right, and laid the fou dation for universal peace. Our pe ple will know the way to sustain agreement."

"The League of Nations provid in the charter reported yesterday the allied conference," said Sena Ransdell, "will prove the great agency for world peace ever devi by man. It is filled with many w provisions. A most hopeful sign that it was reported by the unan mous vote of representatives of the 14 nations participating. So provisions may require change, b the general plan is correct and very remarkable."

The Show's Only New Car

Don't Fail to See and Ride in It

The Essex—$1395

Has Economy of the Light Car; Comfort, Performance and Endurance of the Costliest

The most interesting exhibit at the automobile shows this year is the one new car—the Essex.

Its coming has been looked forward to for more than a year.

The announcement awakened a new interest in motor cars. Hundreds of thousands have already seen and ridden in it. Dealers have had to establish waiting lists for buyers as deliveries cannot be made as promptly as everyone wants them.

The Essex possesses the riding qualities and endurance, the elegance and refinement, that have been the exclusive attractions of large, costly cars.

It does not cost much to buy or to maintain an Essex.

You Should Not Only See It—You Should Ride in the Essex

As you view the various exhibits at the automobile show, you will see the cars you already know. A few changes in body designs perhaps, but nothing of importance mechanically has been produced during the past year.

The Essex, therefore, is the distinctive car, for it is new in name, type and value.

It is light in weight. It has the qualities, economy and low operating cost that make the light, cheap car attractive. It has the easy riding qualities and the performance and the long endurance, as well as the refinement of appointment of large and costly cars.

Rattles and squeaks which cause cars soon to grow old are not so likely to develop in the Essex. Its frame is as rigid as a bridge girder. Every wearing part is adjustable.

Everyone who attends the automobile shows should arrange to ride in the Essex. It rides so easily you won't be reminded of every cobblestone.

Its First Year's Production Is a Second Year's Car

When the Essex was put on the road last year its builders knew there need be no haste in getting into quantity production. So the engineers had months to refine and to develop it. The result is equal to that which comes to a car in its second year, after all the annoyances and discrepancies, so common to a first year production, had been completely eliminated.

Its dealers, through long association with fine quality cars, are leaders in their respective communities. You will find Essex dealers in every important automobile distributing and selling center in the world.

Go Straight to the Essex Dealer And Say You Want a Test Ride

If you don't get an opportunity to ride in the Essex during the show, then go to the nearest Essex dealer and arrange for a ride. Nearly every Essex dealer now has his first cars. They are all alike. Any one will make good. And you should know what the Essex can do.

This invitation is to everyone. Nothing helps the Essex so much as to have people ride in it. We know what you will say. It will be what hundreds of thousands are already saying.

RANTZAU RESISTS DEMOBILIZATION OF GERMAN ARMY

Foreign Secretary Tells Assembly Allies Are Attempting to Settle Peace Questions in Armistice.

AGAINST GIVING UP INDEMNITY AND LAND

Condemns French Plan to Incorporate the Saar Basin and Wants Part in Colonial Management.

By the Associated Press.

BASLE, Switzerland, Feb. 15.—Count von Brockdorff-Rantzau, German Foreign Secretary, discussing Germany's foreign policy in the new National Assembly at Weimar yesterday, declared he had resisted and would continued to resist allied attempts to make Germany demobilize all her military forces.

The task of the German nation as regarded foreign affairs might be summed up, he said, under two heads, first, ending of the state of war; second, establishment of normal relations with other peoples.

"Unfortunately," he continued, "Germany's voluntary disarmament has not softened our enemies, who recently attempted to settle, on the basis of disarmament, questions undoubtedly appertaining to the peace conference. I have repulsed and will continue to repulse these attempts looking to the dissolution of all our old military forces and the substitution of new republican troops for our old peace army, which could be used in the East.

Kaiserism's Aims Renounced.

"Germany has shouldered the consequences of defeat and is determined to observe the conditions agreed upon with her adversaries. These conditions imply the complete renunciation of the political aims of the old Germany. We are ready to accept restrictions upon our sovereignty, the compulsory submission of our differences with other states to an international court of arbitration and the renunciation of our armament, if our old adversaries and future neighbors submit to the same restrictions."

The Foreign Minister acknowledged that the stand taken by Germany at the conference at The Hague regarding these two fundamental questions had constituted a grievous mistake which the entire German nation would have to expiate today. He added that this admission in no way implied an avowal that Germany had caused the world war. He urged in strong terms that no war indemnity should be paid and that no territory should be ceded to the victors. He continued:

"If we rebuild what has been destroyed by us in territories we occupied we will do so by our free labor. We protest against the slavery now being imposed on German prisoners of war.

Must Not Be Political Peace.

"Our adversaries owe their victory in large measure to a war, not military but economic. It follows, therefore, that the final peace must not only be a political peace, but to a large measure an economic peace. We hope, therefore, that the decisions of the Paris economic conference will be abandoned. Any differential treatment, even of a temporary nature, of Germany in the domain of commerce and transport would not be acceptable to us."

The Foreign Minister said that the Germans needed to revise their notions regarding German commercial policy, which, he declared, had been associated with narrow and bureaucratic views in the Foreign Ministry. He said it was his intention to introduce experienced business men into the ministry. Freedom of trade, the Minister added, had freedom of the seas as its essential condition, and as far as Germany was concerned, this point in the program of President Wilson was of the highest importance.

"Moreover," the Foreign Minister continued, "Germany cannot enter a league of nations without colonies. We approve the plan of international control over tropical colonies on the condition that all the colonial powers also submit to this proposal and that Germany receive her approximate proportion of colonial products.

"On the other hand we must expect to lose some valuable portions of our national territory. I refer to Alsace-Lorraine. Violence now is being done to the rights of the present population of Alsace-Lorraine where the French troops of occupation regard the country as definitely conquered and are driving out or arresting all those elements in whom they see an obstacle to their imperialistic designs. They are also suppressing the rights of the people to use their own language by forcing them to adopt the French tongue."

"From the fact that the peace conference has come to no definite conclusion regarding the fate of Alsace-Lorraine, we draw the conclusion that we are competent to intervene in favor of its rights so that it's voice may be heard in the determination of its destiny."

Takes Up Lorraine Question.

Count von Brockdorff-Rantzau condemned the alleged French plan to join the Saar territory to Alsace-Lorraine and compared it "to the old German expansionist aims upon the Longwy and Briey basins." He considered it undesirable that Germany and France should continue to regard themselves as hereditary enemies, adding:

"The peace conference will have the task of creating guarantees which will have the effect of making such a state of things appear nonsensical, but let no one try to snatch from us portions of our national territory which we regard as of vital importance."

In appealing for a united Germany, and the reunion of Germany and Austria, the Foreign Minister said:

"If we now find each other again we shall only be correcting the mistakes made at the time the empire was founded. The peace conference will assuredly not refuse its sanction to the rectification of this mistake of the past. Henceforth we must protest against any violence being done to Germans and to Austrians who are, so to speak, our fellow countrymen.

ILLITERACY HALTS PROGRESS OF 'SAFETY FIRST,' BUREAU SAYS

House Committee Informed As to Need for $12,500,000 in Teaching Foreign-Born Citizens.

By the Associated Press.

WASHINGTON, Feb. 15.—Members of the House Education Committee, considering a bill to appropriate $12,500,000 annually for work in co-operating with the states to educate native illiterates and aliens who cannot speak English, were told today that the Bureau of Mines has progressed to such a point in its safety movement that further improvement will be difficult unless foreign-born workers are taught the language of the country.

Herbert Kauffman, special assistant to the Secretary of the Interior, presented statistics showing that 62 per cent of miners employed in this country are of foreign birth and that many thousands of them cannot read safety instructions or understand directions spoken in English. They were declared to be a menace in an industry which annually kills an average of 3200 men and injures 300,000, or one-third of the total employed.

There are said to be 8,592,000 illiterates and persons unable to speak English in the United States.

Income Tax Blanks Will Be Mailed Out Tomorrow

Every Single Person Making $1000 a Year and Every Married One Making $2000 Must File a Return.

Official blanks on which income tax returns for 1918 must be made have been received from Washington by Internal Revenue Collector Moore, and they will be mailed out tomorrow and Tuesday.

Every unmarried man or woman who has an income of $1000 a year or more and every married man with an income of $2000 or more must make a return on or before March 15, and one-fourth of the income tax must be paid at that time. The remainder is due in quarterly installment, payable June 15, Sept 15 and Dec. 15.

If any payment is not made when due, a penalty of 5 per cent of the amount due will be incurred and the entire unpaid balance will also become due 10 days after demand is made for it by the collector. The entire amount of the tax may be paid in cash March 15, or any balance after a first installment may be paid at any time.

The tax this year will be three times as large as last year, the rate being 6 per cent as compared with a tax of two per cent on 1917 incomes.

Exemptions Allowed.

A married man is entitled to $200 additional exemption for each child less than 18 years old or for each dependent relative who lives in his household. This clause as to dependent relatives differs from that in last year's law, which did not specify that the dependent relatives must live in the taxpayer's household to make entitle to exemption.

A married man with an income of $3000 a year and having five children, for example, will be entitled to an exemption of $2000 as a married man and an additional $200 for each child, making a total additional exemption of $1000. He will not be required to pay an income tax, but he must make a return showing his income and exemptions. The only ones exempt from making returns are single persons with incomes of less than $1000 a year and married men with incomes of less than $2000. One source of income which is not taxable is pay, not exceeding $3500, for the year, for active service in the military or naval forces of the United States.

Every source of income must be reported. In addition to military and naval salaries, other exemptions are as follows:

Exemptions on Bonds.

Gifts (not made as a consideration for service rendered) and money and property acquired under a will or by inheritance (but the income derived from money or property received by gift, will, or inheritance, is taxable and must be reported).

Interest on bonds and other obligations of the United States issued before Sept. 1, 1917, and on such bonds and other obligations issued since that date, provided your holdings do not exceed the exemptions allowed by law.

Interest on bonds and other obligations of United States possessions (Philippines, Porto Rico, etc.).

Interest on bonds and other obligations of states, territories, political subdivisions thereof (such as cities, counties and townships), and the District of Columbia.

Interest on Federal Farm Loan bonds.

Proceeds of life insurance policies paid on the death of the insured.

Amounts received by the insured under life insurance, endowment and annuity contracts, provided such payments do not exceed the premiums paid in. The amount by which the total payments that have been received exceed the total premiums paid in is income and and must be reported in Schedule G.

Amounts received from accident and health insurance and under workman's compensation acts plus the amount of any damages received by suit or agreement on account of injuries or sickness.

The provisions as to Government bonds issued before Sept. 1, 1917, exempts bonds of the First Liberty Loan. At the office of the Internal Revenue Collector yesterday it was said that recent orders from the Treasury Department had been construed as exempting from taxation the interest on all second and third Liberty Bonds where the individual holding is less than $5000 and all fourth Liberty Loan bonds where the individual holding is less than $30,000.

Return From Children.

A parent must add to his return all income earned by his minor children, whether they are partly dependent on him. Another feature of the law is that a minor between 18 and 21 years old may make a separate tax return if his income is more than $1000, if his parents make an affidavit that he is self-sustaining and not dependent on them. He is then classed as an "emancipated minor" and taxpayer.

Surtax Charges.

Those whose income amounts to $4000 or more, over and above their exemptions, must pay 12 per cent on their taxable income. Thus a married man with a gross income of $6000 a year would have an exemption of $2000, but would pay 12 per cent, or $480, on the net $4000 income.

On net incomes above $6000 there is a surtax which starts with a 1 per cent additional tax for the first $1000 in excess of that amount and increases by gradation until an income of more than $1,000,000 a year pays a surtax of 65 per cent. An income of exactly $1,000,000 would be taxed $640,000.

NO SOCIALIST TICKET AT CITY PRIMARY, BOARD RULES

Party Failed to Poll Enough Votes in Last Mayoralty Campaign to Comply With Ordinance.

The Board of Election Commissioners yesterday ruled that there could be no Socialist ticket at the primary election on March 7 because the party polled only 3311 of the 121,315 votes cast at the last mayoralty election. The ordinance provides that no candidates of a party which fails to poll at least 3 per cent of the total ballots cast at the previous election can file for nomination. The ruling also will exclude Socialist candidates from filing for positions on the Board of Education.

Election Commissioner Dempsey, who dissented to the majority opinion of the board, said that Socialist candidates may be voted on at the spring election if the party files petitions with the names of 1000 voters. William M. Brandt, secretary of the St. Louis Socialist party, said that steps to circulate these petitions would be taken at once.

USE OF TANKS URGED IN CLEARING MISSOURI LANDS

Federation of Commercial Clubs Will Make Proposition to Government.

The use of military "tanks" in clearing cut-over land in Southeast Missouri will be proposed to the Government at a convention of civic and commercial organizations, women's clubs and agricultural associations next Wednesday at Poplar Bluff, Mo., according to James A. Houchins, president of the Missouri Federation of Commercial Clubs.

Hundreds of these tanks are now idle in America and overseas, Houchins said. They are powerful machines, and can be readily used as stump-pullers. With a number of these tanks the work of clearing an 80-acre tract could be carried on rapidly, he says.

An extensive program covering the growth and development of Southeast Missouri has been arranged.

Mrs. Sarah E. Parrish Will Filed.

The will of Mrs. Sarah E. Parrish, 78 years old, who died Feb. 6 at her home, 6135 Kingsbury boulevard, was filed yesterday. She left her household goods to her daughter, Mrs. Elizabeth K. Southward; $5000 to her grandson, Dudley Southward, reduced to $3500 a $4500 note held against her brother, George Kingsland, and put the residue of her property in trust of Kingsland and the Mississippi Valley Trust Co. for the benefit of her grandson. She was the widow of William D. Parrish.

INQUEST HOLDS 3 FOR MURDER IN SALOON KILLING

Bartender Charged as an Accessory—Slain Man Was to Have Testified Concerning How He Was Robbed.

BROTHER-IN-LAW IS ONE OF TRIO HELD

Patrolman Testifies He Heard Threat to Kill Discharged Soldier by Relative Arrested After Holdup.

Harry McHugh of 5734 Garfield avenue; Hugh McFarland of 1518 North Spring avenue, and Thomas J. Murray of 3961 Lucky street, were charged, by the verdict of a Coroner's jury yesterday, with the murder of John D. Conley of 4036 Easton avenue, a discharged soldier, who was shot to death Friday morning as he sat in a saloon at Easton and Warne avenues.

McHugh, at the time of the killing, was under a charge of stealing $7 from Conley in a Sixth street saloon, and the case was to be heard in the Court of Criminal Correction yesterday morning. McHugh appeared for his trial, and was then arrested for the murder, of which he professed to know nothing.

McFarland is a brother of Mrs. Conley, widow of the murdered man, who also left two children. Murray was in the saloon when Conley was killed.

Harry Lusby, bartender in the saloon, was held by the Coroner's jury as an accessory after the fact. He and the three charged with the murder were held without bond. The grand jury will take up the case Wednesday.

Dayton Numbers of 4511 Margaretta avenue, a partner of Conley in an automobile repair shop at 4415 Natural Bridge avenue, testified that Conley had told him of threats which had been made in an effort to keep him from testifying against McHugh.

Conley Was Threatened.

Last Wednesday, Numbers testified, two men called at the shop and one of them held a whispered conversation with Conley. Numbers testified that after the men had gone, Conley said: "He told me that if I did not lay off I'd be sorry; he said they'd get me, but I'm not afraid of the whole bunch." Numbers identified McHugh as the man he had seen in conversation with Conley.

Patrolman Peter McCann, who walks the beat around the repair shop, also testified to having seen McHugh at the shop. The following day, he testified, Conley said he would not go to Warne and Easton because of threats which had been made against his life.

Patrolman Behnken testified that he was on desk duty at Central Station, Feb. 1, when McHugh, McFarland and a third man were brought in on a charge of having robbed Conley in a cafe at Sixth and Market streets. There was much abusive talk, and McFarland said to Conley: "You owe me some money and if you don't pay me I'll kill you.' "

Slept Above the Saloon.

Further testimony was that McFarland slept in a room above the saloon the night before the killing; that he was in the saloon when Conley's body was being removed; and that McHugh was seen at Easton and Vandeventer avenues at 9:30 a. m., a half-hour after the killing.

McHugh, who testified, said he was waiting for a Wellston car, to go to court for his trial, and that three men told him there had been a killing at the saloon, and advised him to keep away. "Conley and I were good friends," McHugh insisted. "I bought him some gasoline the day before he was killed."

McFarland declined to testify. Murray testified that he was in the saloon, but had nothing to do with the killing. Lusby, the bartender, testified that McFarland was not in the saloon at the time of the killing, but was upstairs.

WILL PLAY COMPOSITION HE BELIEVES CAME BY TELEPATHY

Theme Comes to Charles Kunkel in Letter From Trenches Telling of a Dream.

At the third of the free concerts given by Charles Kunkel, pianist and composer, at the Wednesday Club Auditorium Friday night, he will play in public for the first time a composition which he believes was communicated to him by telepathy.

He relates that during last spring a friend, a young American Lieutenant serving in France, lay wounded in a hospital. He wrote to Kunkel that on three successive nights he had dreamed of composing music, which he regretted his inability to jot down when he awakened. He described minutely the subjects of which he had dreamed.

On the three identical nights Kunkel himself, he said, had dreamed of writing music, and had written it down on awakening. He found that the "program" of his work coincided strikingly with the description given by the Lieutenant. The composition is in four parts—"Dream Mazes," "Music Box," "Home, Sweet Home," and "Finale Triomphale." Kunkel will be assisted by Miss Cecile Hunleth, soprano.

SEALED VERDICT RETURNED BY JURY IN MACAULEY CASE

Finding After 35 Minutes, in Action Against Famous & Barr Company to Be Opened Tomorrow.

ASKS FOR $500,000 FOR FALSE ARREST

Judge Pollock Instructs Jury That Case Hinges on Responsibility for Taking Plaintiff Into Custody.

The jury in the case of Alexander P. Macauley, Canadian mining broker, who is suing the May Department Stores Co. (Famous & Barr) for $500,000 damages fo ralleged false arrest and pernicious prosecution, growing out of his mistaken identity for "Christmas" Keough, notorious forger of travelers' checks, after an attempt had been made to cash a worthless traveler's check at the store the evening of Dec. 30, 1916, returned a sealed verdict at 5:40 p. m. yesterday, which will be opened in the Federal Court tomorrow mornin. The jury was out only 35 minutes.

The testimony in the case was virtually finished Friday afternoon and the arguments of attorneys before the jury began yesterday morning and lasted all day. Judge John C. Pollock, sitting for Judge Dyer, instructed the jury that the case hinged entirely on whether Macauley was arrested at the instance of an employe of the company, or whether the arrest was made by a private detective agency or by St. Louis detectives of their own volition. Judge Pollock informed the jury that the costs of the case to the plaintiff probably would not exceed $10,500. One of Macauley's contentions was that he had expended large sums of money in clearing himself of the imputation that he was the forger, Keough.

Arrest Charged to Employes.

In summing up the evidence, Macauley's attorneys argued that employes of the Famous & Barr store had been perniciously active in bringing about Macauley's arrest, and prosecution before the grand jury, which indicted him, and contended that F. C. Jackson, credit man of the store, was the man who first identified Macauley as the one who had attempted to pass the worthless check for $200, which was drawn on a Toronto bank.

They maintained that Jackson had gone with an operative of the Burns Detective Bureau, Jan. 3, 1917, to the Hamilton Hotel, where Macauley lived with his wife and son, and there identified him as the man who had proffered the check in payment for a $79 purchase of furs, and the attorneys called attention to the testimony of their client and his son, in which they asserted Jackson pointed to Macauley and said: "That's the man; arrest him." They argued further that Jackson and other officials and employes of the store again identified Macauley at police headquarters as the man who proferred the check.

Attorneys for the defense argued that it was not the activity of Jackson that brought about the arrest of Macauley; that Jackson, instead of pursuing Macauley, had been requested by the private detective to go to the hotel to see the man under suspicion, and that Jackson expressed the conviction that Macauley was the man who presented the check, but did not suggest or order his arrest; that the arrest was made by Detective Sergeant Hannegan, now Chief of Detectives, on information from the Burns agency that Macauley had been properly identified as the man wanted.

Attorney Lon O. Hocker, for the defense, attacked the credibility of the witnesses for the plaintiff, and characterized the statements of certain witnesses, who had testified that they heard Jackson say Macauley was the man wanted and that he, Jackson, was going to order his arrest, as false, and made for the purpose of creating a cause of action.

Notable for Mistaken Identity.

Macauley's arrest was one of the most remarkable cases of mistaken identity in police records. For several days while he was in custody repeated assertions were made by the police, drawn from deductions and comparison of Bertillon measurements, that he was "Christmas" Keough, so-called because he passed worthless checks around Christmas time.

Early in the trial of the case Macauley made his chief points. Testifying in his own behalf, he told of his arrest by Hannegan at the Hamilton Hotel, as he left the dining-room after breakfast, and of subsequent events at police headquarters, where he was made to face persons, including Jackson, for identification as a forger, and how he was stripped of his clothing, measured and his photograph taken and placed in the rogues' gallery.

He also pointed out that he had been confined in jail several days before obtaining release on $10,000 bond, and said he had expended his entire bank account of $36,000 in defending his character following his arrest.

Depositions taken in Toronto, to show him to be of good character, were introduced at the trial and his son, Alexander P. McCauley Jr., and daughter, Mabel, corroborated his testimony in which he established an alibi for the time the worthless check was profered at the store.

Jackson Adheres to Belief.

For the defense, Jackson testified that a man tried to pass a worthless check at the store about 6 p. m. of Dec. 30, 1916, and that he notified the Burns Detective Bureau of the incident, and later went to the Hamilton Hotel at the request of a Burns operative and there identified Macauley as the man who proffered the check. Jackson stated positively in court, few days ago, that he still believed Macauley to be the man, btu denied that he had ordered or suggested Macauley's arrest.

Chief of Detectives Hannegan testified he arrested Macauley on his own responsibility as a police officer when Jackson had identified Macauley.

Police records showed that Macauley had once previously been arrested in St. Louis—Sept. 7, 1891, on a charge of vending lottery tickets under the name, "A. P. Macauley, alias James C. Wilson," but there was no record of a prosecution of the case.

Macauley instituted a suit for $250,000 against the Stix, Baer & Fuller Dry Goods Co., and suits against several newspapers on charges growing out of his arrest on the worthless check charge. The trial of the Stix, Baer & Fuller suit was begun jointly with that against the Famous and Barr Company, but was thrown out by Judge Pollock when Macauley failed to make a case against the former company.

PAID CANVASSERS ARE CIRCULATING RECALL PETITIONS

Kiel and his mill tax and franchise agreement with the United Railways Co. This makes 26 unions refusing to concur in the action of their central body. Although three weeks have passed since the Central Trades indorsed Kiel, the locals, representing the rank and file of labor, continue to discuss the action and in nearly every instance vote against the central body's action.

Tobacco Workers' International, Local No. 140; Garment Workers, No. 26; United Brotherhood of Maintenance of Way and Railroad Shop Laborers, No. 224, met Friday night and disapproved the Central Trades' action. Ammonia Workers, No. 15,526, at a recent meeting, also opposed the central body on this question.

There were about 1500 members at the tobacco workers' meeting, held at Compton Hall, Park and Compton avenue, according to George W. Balz, secretary-treasurer, who gave out a statement of what occurred at the meeting. Balz said that besides condemning the Central Trades indorsement of Kiel, the members by unanimous vote, decided to encourage the entire membership of the local, which is about 2500, to sign the petitions for the recall of Kiel, "as a warning," the resolution said, "to others that the rights of the people are not to be used to fulfill pre-election promises."

Balz added that the tobacco workers were entitled to 14 delegates to the Central Trades, and that 10 of them had attended the meeting three weeks ago when the central body indorsed Kiel and had voted against the indorsement. Local No. 140 is the largest tobacco workers' union in St. Louos.

The garment workers' local, composed of 102 cutters, by unanimous vote also opposed the indorsement of Kiel by the Central Trades, and the ammonia workers, at their last regular meeting, did likewise, and also went on record for Kiel's recall. The railroad shop laborers took similar action at a meeting Friday night, and also demanded, by a vote of 50 to 3, that Kiel be recalled.

LIEUTENANT WHO FELL IN BATTLE OF CANTIGNY

LIEUT FRANK J. CROAK

LIEUT. CROAK KILLED IN BATTLE OF CANTIGNY

Parents Receive Word of Death May 28—Lieut. L. M. Ball Wounded.

Lieut. Frank J. Croak, 28 years old, of A Company, Twenty-eighth Infantry, was killed in action on May 28 last, in the Battle of Cantigny, according to an offical notification which was received yesterday by his parents, Mr. and Mrs. M. E. Croak of 6127 Kingsbury avenue.

This announcement ended, for Mr. and Mrs. Croak, a period of anxious inquiry which began last June, when their son's letters, which had come regularly every week, ceased to arrive. The Red Cross Cross, the Knights of Columbus and the Y. M. C. A. aided in the inquiry, but no official word came until a month ago, when it was announced that Lieut. Croak had been missing since May 28. This left the hope for a time that he might have been made a prisoner or might have suffered shell shock.

Lieut. Croak was a former student of St. Louis University, and was in the clothing business with his father before entering military service. He obtained his commission in the second officers' training camp at Fort Sheridan, and went overseas in January, 1918.

His younger brother, Corporal J. Ed Croak of the 128th (St. Louis) Field Artillery was gassed last summer, but has since recovered.

Leo W. Devereaux, a member of a replacement unit, is missing in action since Oct. 26, according to a notification to his mother, Mrs. Catherine Devereaux of 5077 Wells avenue. He was formerly a newspaper reporter, being employed on the St. Louis Star at the time when he entered the service. He was drafted last spring, after unsuccessful attempts to enlist in different branches of the service.

Herman Voeliner of D. Company, 130th Machine Gun Battalion, who was officially listed as missing in action, has written to his mother, Mrs. L. Nottebrock of 400 Vulcan avenue, under date of Jan. 19, that he was wounded and gassed, but had recovered.

Only two St. Louis names appear in the official casualty list given out by the War Department for publication today. They are:

Wounded severely—Lieut. Logan M. Ball, 4374 Washington avenue; Corp Cornelius Tucker, 2323 Eugenia street.

Ten St. Louisans Wounded, 13 From Missouri, at New York.

Ten St. Louis soldiers were in a consignment of convalescent wounded who have just arrived in New York, according to a dispatch, and who have been sent to Debarkation Hospital No. 5, at Lexington avenue and Forty-fifth street, New York.

The St. Louisans are: Sergt. Lyle B. Godbey, Machine Gun Company, 354th Infantry, 1730 Nicholson place; Corp. Ivan Newberry, F Company, 138th Infantry, 5594A Wells avenue; Walter F. Grierson, A Company, First Engineers, 4205 Evans avenue; William Handlan, H Company, 354th, 3856 Maffitt avenue; Edwin B. McCuddy, Medical Department, 5921 Garfield avenue; George Mohr, E Company, 426th Telegraph Battalion, 1822 Warren street; Paul J. Richards, F Company, 138th, 7466 Wise avenue; M. C. Watson, I Company, 138th, 1931 Marcus avenue; Leon M. Loulware, K Company, 167th Infantry, 4375 Laclede avenue, and John Bowman, I Company, 304th Pioneer infantry, 947 West Cabanne court.

GIRLS' TRADE SCHOOL HERE TO BE PLANNED

Establishment Expected to Result From Vocational Education Society Convention.

The twelfth annual convention of the National Vocational Education Society will take place at Hotel Statler Thursday, Friday and Saturday. Educators, civic workers and manufacturers will attend.

Plans will be discussed for the establishment in St. Louis, at the close of the convention, of a girls' trade training school, where it is planned to teach commercial dressmaking, millinery and cooking. The school will turn out qualified hat trimmers, modistes, dressmakers, department store buyers and chefs.

The idea, civic workers say, saw its inception when great numbers of women were thrown into the industrial world during the war. Material will be on exhibit during the convention formerly used in connection with United States army trade tests.

Maj. Arthur D. Dean of the Surgeon-General's Department of the army will address the opening session of the congress on "Lessons of the War." Prof. Uel W. Lamkin of the Federal Board of Vocational Education will speak on industrial and agricultural education in Missouri.

It is expected that many members of the faculty of the University of Missouri will attend.

CAPT. BARTLETT'S PLANS FOR FLYING OVER NORTH POLE

He Expects to Accomplish Feat Some Time Within Six Weeks of Arctic Summer, Beginning in June.

HAS NO FEAR OF LOSS BY MISHAP

If Forced to Descend He Will Depend on Powerful Wireless and Reserve Planes to Effect Rescue.

By Leased Wire of the New York Bureau of the Post-Dispatch.

NEW YORK, Feb. 15.—Capt. Robert A. Bartlett, who accompanied Admiral Peary on his successful North Pole expedition, is making aeroplane flights daily, both as pilot and observer, in preparations for his attempt to explore the North Polar regions by aircraft.

The Captain plans to undertake this hazardous adventure in the early summer. He expects to "jump off" at Capt Columbia, Peary's last land base, next June. If everything goes well, he will fly to the pole, gather data there and fly on, nearly straight across to Cape Chelyuskin on the Siberian shore. He was ready to do it two years ago, but then the requisite "sinews" weren't forthcoming. Now to all appearances they are.

But the pole flight, the most spectacular of the Captain's plans, is really no more than an incident of the project before his purposed expedition, according to an interview he has just given to a staff writer for the Sun. What interests him, and with him scientists and engineers and the public-spirited laymen who know and back him, is the exploration of a million uncharted square miles of the earth's surface. Only one-seventh of it is accurately mapped, and that another seventh, including this million square miles of the Arctic, isn't mapped at all.

Plan for His Mother Ship.

Capt. Bartlett will use an improvised wooden ship of the type of Nansen's Fram and Peary's Roosevelt (the Karluk was of a different model, vulnerable to ice), as the mother ship of his airplanes and balloons. He will have six weeks of the mild polar summer for his preliminary work, including the cross-pole flight. The unknown Arctic's boundaries roughly form a stupendous triangle. Its angles are Capes Columbia and Chelyuskin and Wrangel Islands, northeast of the Bering tip of Asia. Only Peary, dashing to the pole and back, has penetrated this triangle to speak of, and the pole and Peary's route are both in its Columbia-Chelyuskin side. Stefanson's party with the ill-fated Karluk nibbled just inside the Columbia-Wrangel line. The rest is virgin.

Bartlett will set to work from Etah, Greenland. Instead of waiting for the summer to open a passage for his ship to Cape Columbia he proposes to get there quickly with his secondary airplanes, which are to carry the material for his airplane base on the cape. He will then be ready to start with his big plane for the pole and beyond, and he means to have a second base at Chelyuskin—its establishment being the solid reason for the cross polar flight—and, meanwhile, to have a third established on Wrangel.

Will Remain at Work a Year.

From these three his own party and the auxiliaries will command the unknown triangle. They intend to put in a solid year of exploratory work at least.

It was the unknown triangle on which Stefansson, with Bartlett for captain of his Karluk, had designs. He rather expected to find a new Arctic continent, something in the nature of another and remoter Greenland. Capt. Bartlett is without such expectation. Islands, he says, are the largest new landfalls he figures on. He hopes to map them, but especially to get the ocean bottom sounded and mapped, and, above all, sampled with dredges. It holds riches of flora and fauna for the biologist, he says. His parties will gather specimens.

Of the details of his equipment he is telling very little just now for general publication. For instance, he does not care to say what make of planes he will use, or what type, dimensions, speed and freight lift his principal one is to be and have. This is because his project is internationally known and rival explorers and airmen and aviation societies plan to try to beat him and America to it. Let them, he says, and good luck to them, and may the best expedition win. But he means to win himself!

"I've noticed in my experience that the fellow who wrote those lines about the owl had it right. You know—

"'A wise old owl sat on a tree.
The less he said the more he saw.
The more he saw the more he knew.'

"I'm taking a leaf from the owl's book at present.

His expedition will be called the Roosevelt Memorial Expedition. His ship, built to his order, will be the Roosevelt II. The captain knew the Colonel well and used to visit him at Oyster Bay. The captain was the Colonel's kind of a man and the Colonel the captain's.

Associated with Capt. Bartlett are Admiral Peary, Henry A. Wise Wood, Henry Woodhouse, Admiral Fiske, John Hayes Hammond Jr., Rear Admiral William N. Little, Prof. Charles L. Poor, Col. E. Lester Jones, Charles Jerome Edwards, Maj. Cushman A. Rice, Maj. J. C. McCoy and the others of the Executive Committee of the Aero Club of America. In fact. Peary means to go along, part of the way at least, and to make his headquarters at Etah.

Capt. Bartlett's Associates.

During six weeks or more of July and August the temperature in the polar regions is seldom below 60 on the comfortable side of zero. Where land is uncovered—and a great deal more is uncovered than people suppose, who conceive of the Arctic as one vast, unbroken white desert—birds sing and flowers bloom and game is to be had for the shooting. In view of all this, and of the knowledge that has gone into the Roosevelt memorial expeditional plans and preparations, men who understand these matters are saying unreservedly that at least the summer work, including the cross-pole flight, stands to be done successfully.

He was asked by the Sun writer what would become of his big planes crew in case of hopeless trouble bringing them down half way from anywhere.

"Our ships and our planes and the bases will each have the best wireless equipment there is. We'll be always in touch with each other in that way. The planes will know where the ships are and vice versa. If any of us get in trouble we can find ourselves. Of course the big plane will carry petrol and a store of concentrated provisions. There can't be enough for an indefinite journey on foot, but you can live off the country—provided a man's not too squeamish about his food."

Laughs at North Pole Privateers.

Speak to him of danger and you instantly get a high rise. Scurvy, for example, he has never even seen, though he knows how to treat it.

"When they talk of the hazards and hardships, I have to laugh. It's no more dangerous knocking around the Arctic than it is around New York. It used to be, but experience and modern equipment have made it a thing of the past. The lowest temperature I ever ran into? Sixty-eight below. But when you get figures like that you can't, in the nature of things, have storms, and in the dry, still air the discomfort amounts to a very small fraction of what people think.

The men who explore the tropics have it worse a thousand times. When they come out they're wrecks. When we come out we're in ideal condition. Up there outdoors and at work I feel as if I could jump over a house. Here in New York I feel like a different man and a blamed sight poorer one physically. Why, in summer the weather in 80 degrees north latitude is like the finest Indian summer down here you ever knew."

ARMENIAN RELIEF CAMPAIGN TO GO ON ANOTHER WEEK

Speakers Will Use Floats With Natives of Near East in Costume in Drive for $450,000 Here.

The Armenian and Syrian Relief Fund campaign, which began in St. Louis last Monday, and which was to have closed tomorrow, will be continued for another week, it was announced last evening at headquarters, Broadway and Locust street. The collection is national and has the sanction of President Wilson. The drive is for $30,000,000 in the United States.

A quota of $450,000 is desired from St. Louis and vicinity.

Contributions have not come in rapidly and street speakers will travel this week with floats with Armenians and Syrians in native costume.

Letters have been sent to pastors of St. Louis churches asking them to mention in today's services the need of contributions.

WANTED SOLDIER FOR PARTNER

Vaudeville Performer Sought Man for Song and Dance Act.

Theatrical companies are helping to make a job for every fighter, as the bureau for replacing soldiers, sailors and marines, 902 Olive street, discovered yesterday. Two calls came. One was from a vaudeville artist, whose partner had taken unexpected leave. He wanted to know if any returned actor had registered with the bureau who could do a song and dance and play a small part in a sketch. The request was referred to a theatrical agency.

The second call was filled when 20 returned soldiers were engaged for one of the scenes in the play at the Jefferson Theater this week. Business firms which have heretofore not co-operated with the bureau are urged to apply to it when vacancies occur, and are assured that reliable men can be furnished for almost any kind of work.

CAPT. TAUSSIG, U. S. N., DECORATED BY BRITISH

St. Louisan Who Commanded Division of Destroyer Flotilla Receives Cross.

Capt. Joseph K. Taussig, U. S. N., of St. Louis, has been decorated by the British Government with the medal of Companion of the Order of St. Michael and St. George, according to a dispatch from Washington to the Post-Dispatch. Another officer of the same rank, Capt. Alfred W. Johnson, received the same decoration, and nine other officers and men received the Distinguished Service Order Medal.

Capt. Taussig is the son of Rear Admiral Edward D. Taussig, retired, formerly of St. Louis, more recently living in Jamestown, R. I. He is a cousin of John J. Taussig, B. J. Taussig, J. D. and Robert Abeles.

Capt. Taussig, then having the rank of Commander, was in command of a division of the first American flotilla of destroyers sent to European waters for active service in the spring of 1917, immediately after the declaration of a state of war by this country.

He served on the batleship New York, under Rear Admiral Sampson, in the Battle of Santiago. He was in command of a detachment of men from the U. S S. Newark in the Boxer difficuties in China. He was wounded in the leg in the fighting before Pekin. He was one of the volunteer crew which manned the Monitor Florida when it was used as a target for testing the big guns of the Arkansas, in Chesapeake Bay in 1908. This was a very dangerous service.

Capt. Taussig is 41 years old, is married and has one child. He was appointed to the Annapolis Naval Academy by President Harrison.

The Order of St. Michael and St. George was founded by King George III in 1818, to commemorate the acquisition of the Island Malta by Great Britain. Its cross, of white enamel, shows the figure of the Archangel Michael on one side, and St. George on the other side.

WAR COST FOR ALLIES AND U. S. $119,581,000,000

This Is Exclusive of Loans Among Themselves Which Totaled $18,375,000,000.

By the Associated Press.

WASHINGTON, Feb. 15.—Exclusive of expenditures by Belgium Portugal, Rumania, Austria-Hungary and Bulgaria, the total cost of the European war was fixed at $179,000,000,000 in an official estimate made public here today and based on data in the hands of the Federal Reserve Board, the Secretary of the Treasury and the bulletins of the Swiss Society of Banks. Tht table was compiled on estimated expenditures of last Jan. 31.

Total expenditures of the allies and the United States were fixed at $119,581,000,000, exclusive of loans among themselves, which totalled $18,375,000,000.

The individual expenditures of the nations were given as follows:

|---|---|
| Great Britain | $37,100,000,000 |
| France | 27,000,000,000 |
| United States | 18,481,000,000 |
| Russia | 18,000,000,000 |
| Italy | 10,000,000,000 |
| Serbia | 8,000,000,000 |
| Japan and Greece | 1,000,000,000 |

The loans made by these Powers and included in the individual expenditures although not added to the total as a separate item, were as follows:

|---|---|
| Great Britain | $8,500,000,000 |
| France | 2,000,000,000 |
| United States | 7,875,000,000 |

The total expenditures of Germany were given as $36,500,000,000, and of Turkey, $23,000,000,000, making an aggregate of $59,500,000,000 for these two members of the Germanic alliance.

URGE YOUR SENATORS TO SUPPORT LEAGUE, SAYS TAFT

"It Is Not All I wished, but Comes Near," Declares Former President in Montana.

By the Associated Press.

HELENA, Mont., Feb. 15.—"As lovers of your country, and as lovers of mankind, I ask you to use all your influence with our Senators and have the treaties embodying the league of nations idea ratified," declared William Howard Taft, former President of the United States here today.

Taft spoke to the crowd at the Union Station on his arrival from the East with the party touring the country in the interest of the League of Nations. Commenting upon the text of the articles agreed to at the peace conference for a society of nations, former President Taft said:

"It is a real league of nations. It is not all that I wished but comes near. It is a great deal better than I hoped. It contains within its terms provisions for its own growth. Indeed, the exigencies of the European situation in the sphere of the league will probably require additional and more stringent provisions in some respects than appear in the present plan, but, on the whole, I am quite gratified over the unanimous agreement on the subject.

"There should be no doubt of its approval by the Senate when it is embodied in the treaty."

PRICE ADJUSTMENT BOARD APPROVED BY PRESIDENT

By the Associated Press.

WASHINGTON, Feb. 15.—Approval of the proposal to establish a Government price adjustment board to stabilize conditions during the post-war period was cabled by President Wilson today to Secretary Redfield.

The organization, to be known as the Government Price Conference Board, will be constituted immediately.

BANK MAY NOT PAY FUNDS TO C. P. BELL FOR PRESENT

Question of Payment of Alimony Due to Be Settled by Court First.

The Mississippi Valley Trust Co. yesterday was temporarily enjoined by Circuit Judge Falkenhainer from paying funds in its possession to Christian Peper Bell and which belong to him, pending adjudication of an alimony claim of his first wife, Hazel Walker Bell. She divorced him in April, 1918, obtaining custody of a child and $50 a month allowance.

Not until Friday, it was stated, did Mrs. Bell succeed in collecting any of the alimony, when, under garnishment proceedings, she got hold of $1000 belonging to Bell. Of this $666 went to her and the balance was used to pay her attorneys, it was stated. She is asking for an increased allowance.

After Bell's first wife divorced him he was married to Helen E. Bell, and he is now suing her for divorce. The second wife made a settlement of her property right claims for $250. Proceedings in this case have been stayed pending Bell's discharge from the army. He is a son of Nicholas M. Bell, 4442 West Pine boulevard, and one of the heirs of the late Christian Peper.

SALVATION ARMY'S WORK AT FRONT "PRACTICAL RELIGION"

By the Associated Press.

NEW YORK, Feb. 15.—The story of the Salvation Army's overseas huts, "which have no closing hours," was told here today by Miss Evangeline Booth, commander of the organization in America, who termed the making of doughnuts and apple pies for "doughboys" at the front "an example of practical religion."

Salvation Army workers went to France early in the war, she said, with no guarantees but their expenses, and these made possible only through loans from banks. The first was for $25,000, the second for $100,000, "for our credit is good," the commander asserted, adding that the "quality rather than the quantity of the work won the "generous appreciation" of the American people and prompted the inclusion of the organization among the beneficiaries of the United War Work Campaign.

Service in the "cold Flanders fields" was "nothing to an 'army' accustomed to hardships," Miss Booth declared, adding that even under fire "our workers did not fail." She quoted statements by Marshal Foch and Gen. Pershing commending the efficiency of the Salvationists.

ENGLAND FEARED INVASION THROUGH WAR, SAYS JELLICOE

Admiral's Book Points to Avenue Enemy Had in East Coast Rivers and Measures He Suggested.

LONDON, Feb. 15—Among the many highly interesting disclosures in Admiral Viscount Jellicoe's book, "The Grand Fleet," published this week by Cassell, it is shown that one of the chief factors of influence in the disposition of the fleet throughout the war was the possibility of invasion. On this topic Admiral Jellicoe says:

"Such a move was not likely in the earliest days of the war, when the nights were comparatively short and the expeditionary force had not left the country. It is also probable that the enemy had few troops to spare for that purpose. Chances became greater as we denuded the country of men and conditions in other respects were more favorable.

"In October and November, 1914 I held and expressed the opinion that if raids were attempted, landings would probably be effected in the rivers of the east coast, the entrance to which were either unprotected or inadequately protected.

"A beach landing on our coast can only be carried out in fine weather. Chances of encountering favorable conditions on arrival off the coast are not great, and I always doubted if the attempt would be made. In our rivers opportunities are greater and are not dependent upon fine weather.

Suggested Blocking Channels.

"I suggested to the admiralty that the simple preventive in this case was to place merchant ships in position ready to be sunk across the channels, which are narrow and shallow; the ships being fitted with explosive charges below ready to blow out the bottoms in case of necessity. I mentioned the names of certain retired naval officers who, I felt certain, would make all necessary preparations in a very few days. I believe my proposals were carried out."

Great anxiety was felt by the Admiralty for the safety of the Grand Fleet when it first made Scapa Flow in the Orkney Islands its chief base. This feeling is introduced in his description of events immediately following the report of the sighting of an enemy periscope within the harbor.

Story of Kitchener Tragedy.

"On June 5," Admiral Jellicoe writes, passing to the Kitchener tragedy, "Field Marshal Lord Kitchener arrived at Scapa, en route to Archangel. In the morning he crossed from Thurso on the Oak and came on board the Iron Duke at Scapa. He was not very sanguine that he could achieve much in Russia. He was most anxious not to lose a moment on the sea trip, and he asked me more than once what I thought was the shortest time in which the passage could be made.

"During the day the weather at Scapa, which had been bad in the morning, gradually became worse. By afternoon it was blowing a gale from the Northeast. I discussed with my staff which route, on the west or lee side, would be safest and finally decided that the Hampshire should pass close in shore, and not take the alternative route of passing further to westward, near Sule Kerry Lighthouse.

"About 4 p. m. Lord Kitchener proceeded on board the Hampshire, accompanied by his staff. About 7 p. m. Capt. Saville, commanding the Hampshire, ordered two destroyers back to Scapa, as they were unable to face the heavy seas at the speed of the Hampshire. Between 7:30 and 7:45 the Hampshire struck a mine, about one and one half miles off shore, between Brough of Bircay and Warwick Head. She sank in fifteen minutes bow first.

"The incident was witnessed by observers on shore, and a telephone message was sent to the Vice Admiral commanding the Orkneys and Shetland that the cruiser was in difficulties. He at once ordered out patrol vessels, notified me and destroyers were sent to the scene immediately.

Escorted on Deck.

"Evidence from the few survivors of the Hampshire showed that Lord Kitchener was below when the ship was mined and that an officer escorted him on deck. Capt. Saville was heard to give directions from the bridge that a boat he prepared for him and his staff. Lord Kitchener was seen subsequently on deck, but was not seen after the ship sank.

"Weather conditions prevented any boats being hoisted out or lowered, although four boats floated clear as the Hampshire foundered. The scene of the disaster was searched during the night by destroyers and patrol craft, but the only survivors were 12 men, who drifted ashore on a raft. Many bodies were picked up by the searching vessels and many drifted ashore. The body of Lord Kitchener was not recovered.

"My own sorrow for the incident was overwhelming. There was at first doubt in the minds of some people as to whether the loss of the Hampshire was due to a mine, or submarine; but these doubts were set at rest by sweeping operations which were undertaken as soon as the weather permitted.

"They resulted in the discovery of moored mines of the type laid in southern waters by enemy submarines, these mines being easily distinguishable from those laid by surface vessels."

AMERICAN ARMY LOST MORE IN BATTLES THAN BY DISEASE

Gen. March Gives the Comparative Figures—In Former Wars the Ratio Was Reversed.

By the Associated Press.

WASHINGTON, Feb. 15.—Battle death ratios in the American army during the war exceeded those from disease, Gen. March announced today, in making public statistics prepared by the general staff. In past wars disease killed many more men than lost their lives under fire.

The battle death rate for the entire American army in this war was 20 per 1000 per year. In the expeditionary forces it was 57 per 1000 per year. The disease death rate was 17 per 1000 per year in the expeditionary forces and 16 in the army at home.

Among the American forces, the table showed, the battle death rate was only half that of the British expeditionary forces, which was given at 110 per 1000 per year.

Gen. March said that the lower death rate from disease undoubtedly was due largely to the innoculation requirements of the army and, secondly, to the efficient work of the medical corps. But for the influenza epidemic, he said, the disease rate would have been cut in half.

The table of comparative battle and disease death rates per thousand per year for wars in which the United States has engaged since the war of 1812 follows:

| | Battle Death Rate. | Disease Death Rate. |
|---|---|---|
| Mexican War | 15 | 110 |
| Civil War (North) | 33 | 65 |
| Spanish War | 5 | 26 |
| Present war (A. E. F.) | 57 | 17 |

OCCUPATIONAL THERAPY CLASS WORK ON PUBLIC EXHIBITION

Fifteen Young Women Students to Complete Course in Three St. Louis Hospitals.

A public exhibition of the work of the students of the St. Louis School of Occupational Therapy of Washington University, was held yesterday afternoon at the Art School building, to mark the completion of the ten weeks' course of instruction. The class, consisting of fifteen young women under the direction of Miss Alice Dean of Chicago, is the first to complete the course.

The school was organized before the signing of the armistice, under the auspices of the Women's Committee of the Council of National Defense, for the purpose of training women to instruct convalescent soldiers at the military hospitals in the making of toys and novelties as a diversion to aid their recovery.

One member of the class, Miss Mildred Beaton, will serve in the hospital at Camp Lee, Petersburg, Va. Other members will study for twelve weeks more at three St. Louis hospitals. They have been assigned to Barnes Hospital, the City Hospital and the City Sanitarium, where they will work among convalescents.

'IL TROVATORE' DRAWS FOR PROFIT OF $200

Final Appearance of Creatore Company at Odeon Before Largest Audience.

Old-fashioned and hackneyed as "Il Trovatore" may be considered by some, this Verdi opera was able, by force of its abounding melodiousness, to attract to the Odeon yesterday afternoon the largest audience of the Creatore Grand Opera Company's engagement. Some 1400 persons gathered for the troupe's farewell performance, and enabled it to leave the city not only without a deficit, but with a profit of some $200, the management estimated.

The attendance and receipts for the four performances were given approximately as follows: Wednesday night, 1120 present, $1500; Thursday night, 1080 present, $1640; Friday night, 1020 present, $1580, and yesterday afternoon, 1400 present, $2500. The total receipts were thus something like $7200, against expenses around $7000. There was virtually no sale of box seats.

Impresario Creatore was pleased with the showing, considering that this was his company's introduction to St. Louis, and is anxious to return next year. It has been some time since an opera season has been given here without a deficit. Fortune Gallo and his San Carlo troupe used regularly to lose $1000 a week at the Odeon.

"Aida" Showed Best Work.

The operas presented during the brief season were "Aida," "Rigoletto," "Cavalleria Rusticana," "I'Pagliacci," and "Il Trovatore." By general verdict "Aida" was the best done, with "Pagliacci" perhaps second. The company goes from here to Alton for two performances, and then starts for the South.

Yesterday afternoon's performance was featured by the singing and acting of Jeanne Gordon as Acuzena, the veteran skill of Giorgio Puliti as the Count di Luna, and the singing of Riccardo Martin, which was of fine splendor in spots. Miss Gordon's powerful voice and building effectiveness as an actress were revealed when she sang Amneris in "Aida" Wednesday night, so that her appearance in "Il Trovatore" was awaited with favorable anticipations. They were not disappointed.

Only 10 Weeks on Stage.

She sang the music with energy and beauty, and her acting was vigorous and emotional without descending to rant, as Louise Homer was inclined to do in the same part a few years ago at the Coliseum. It was hard to believe, as Miss Gordon asserted, that she never set foot on a stage until 10 weeks ago, when she made her debut as Acuzena in Brooklyn. But she had studied method at the Toronto Conservatory and in New York, and also operatic repertory, before obtaining an engagement with Creatore. She is a Canadian, 26 years old, and is the wife of Lieut. Ralph Trix, U. S. N., of Detroit, who is on duty on President Wilson's ship, the George Washington.

Alfredo Valenti's resonant bass was heard to advantage in the part of Ferrando. Alice Hesleri rose to occasional moments of effective singing in the role of Leonora. Martin sang the "De quella pira" with stirring military fervor, and the "Miserere" duet went off tolerably. His duet with Azucena, "Ai nostri monti," was far superior. Puliti gave dramatically his grateful aria, "Il balen," and kept up the standard throughout the performance.

Creatore conducted in the quieter mood which he reserves for lyric operas like "Rigoletto" and "Il Trovatore," but his reading was none the less concentrated, studious and refreshing.

MR. AND MRS. EDWARD F. BEACH RESIDING AT WEBSTER GROVES

Attorney Points Out Error in Account of Meeting of Creditors of Rubber Cement Co.

In last Sunday's Post-Dispatch, in the account of a meeting of creditors of the St. Louis Rubber Cement Co., of which Edward F. Beach is president, it was incorrectly stated that Beach resided at Webster Groves and that his wife resides at 4255 Lindell boulevard.

O'Neill Ryan, attorney for Beach, in a letter to the Post-Dispatch, states that Mr. and Mrs. Beach are living together at Webster Groves.

1,174,545 MEN DISCHARGED

Number Assigned for Release Is 1,501,000, March Says.

By the Associated Press.

WASHINGTON, Feb. 15.—Army discharges in the United States had reached a total yesterday of 1,174,545 and the total number assigned for demobilization was 1,501,000. Of those discharged 71,235 were officers.

The figures were announced today by Gen. March. Up to Feb. 11, 305,000 soldiers abroad had embarked for home, 69 per cent of them being brought in American ships.

Gen. March announced that 50 cargo vessels now have been ordered converted into troop ships, giving an additional capacity of 120,000 men a month.

WAR TANK BUILDER SUED FOR $10,000,000

Belleville Man Says Peoria Concern Infringed Patents Obtained by Him in 1912.

A petition was mailed to the United States District Court at Springfield, Ill., yesterday by John Higdon, attorney, with offices in the Central National Bank Building, to be filed Monday as a suit for $10,000,000 damages for James Paridy of Belleville, who claims to be the inventor of the caterpillar tractor on battle tanks, against the Holt Manufacturing Co. of Peoria, one of the manufacturers of the tanks, which firm, Paridy alleges in his petition, infringed patents applied for by him in 1912. Paridy is joined in the petition by Ferdinand Lother, also of Bellevlle, and Anna McLatchie of St. Louis, to whom Paridy transferred interests in his patents last year.

In his petition Paridy claims that the "endless track' mechanism, invented by him about 26 years ago, "forms the most important part of the tanks and caterpillar tractors which the Holt Manufacturing Co. has manufactured and sold to the United States Government, as well as to the allies of the said Government, in large numbers since the beginning of the current war with Germany; and said tanks were so highly efficient as fighting machines that they won the said war, and Germany and Austria were defeated."

Quotes Official Report.

The petition cites the official account of the origin of the battle tank, given in the report of Col. I. C. Welborn, director of the Tank Corps, as authority for the efficiency of the tank in battle.

"The war could not have been won by the United States and its allies in so short a time," the petition continues, "had the invention of Charles Paridy not been made use of."

Paridy alleges that about the time he invented the "endless track or anti-friction axle mounting, over 20 years ago, prior to June 10, 1912," he was stricken with sickness which disabled him and subjected him to abject poverty continuously until a short time before June 10, 1912, when he filed application for patents on his invention. He further alleges that he was granted letters patent No. 1,047,281, on the caterpillar principle, Dec. 17, 1912.

Suit for Estimated Profits.

The amount sued for is his estimate of the profits made by the Holt Manufacturing Co. for use of features in their production he claims to be covered in his patent, which, the petition sets forth, were unlawfully appropriated.

When informed of the suit by a Post-Dispatch correspondent at Peoria last night, M. M. Baker, vice president and manager of the Holt Manufacturing Co., said the company had patents covering its work on tanks that had been investigated by the Governments of the United States, England and France, all of which were recorded at Washington, and that it was untrue, as alleged by Paridy, that the Holt company had proceeded unlawfully.

ACCIDENT POLICY VERDICT ON MAN FOUND DEAD AT HIS DOOR

Insurance Company Directed to Pay $8568.75 to Chicago Lawyer's Daughter.

Miss Miriam Phillips of Dayton, O., yesterday obtained a jury verdict in Circuit Judge Hartmann's court for $8568.75 against the Travelers' Insurance Co. on a $7500 accident insurance policy carried by her father, Milton C. Phillips, a lawyer of Chicago, who died in Chicago in August, 1916. The judgment includes interest.

Evidence was that Phillips, who had been dining in the evening at an apartment house with friends, was found dead at the front door of the apartment. He was in a kneeling position, with one hand on the doorknob, in the act of opening the door. The plaintiff averred there was a bruise on her father's forehead, indicating that he may have stumbled and injured his head, causing death.

The insurance company contended that Phillips had died of natural causes.

NO CHURCH LABOR BUREAU

Jennings Union Congregation Will Have No Facilities for Such Work.

In an article in Friday's Post-Dispatch about the merging of the Presbyterian, Methodist and Episcopal Churches at Jennings, St. Louis County, it was erroneously stated that one of the purposes of the merger would be to wipe out unemployment.

E. W. Broemmelsiek, one of the churchmen, stated that while one of the charitable functions, similar to that of other churches, was intended to relieve distress, if possible, among those without employment, the united churches will have absolutely no facilities for obtaining employment in the generally accepted sense. There was no intention of establishing an employment bureau of any kind, he said.

STATE CLOTHIERS HERE TUESDAY

The eighth annual convention of the Missouri Retail Clothiers' Association will open at Hotel Statler Tuesday and continue Wednesday. The meeting will be opened at 9 a. m. by George Tutt of Fulton, and the members will be welcomed by Robert E. Lee, secretary of the Sales Managers' Bureau of the Chamber of Commerce. Speeches will be made by D. M. Boyd, E. L. Howe, H. A. Seinsheimer and W. A. Bodenhausen, all of St. Louis.

Wednesday the association will be addressed by Harry E. Smith of Baltimore, Fred Levy of Louisville, Harry M. Capps, Jacksonville, Ill., and Alex. C. Smith, St. Louis.

TAFT MADE VICE PRESIDENT IN RED CROSS REORGANIZATION

Mrs. Leonard Wood on Board—Most of 6000 Workers to Stay Abroad for Some Time.

By the Associated Press.

WASHINGTON, Feb. 15.—Organization of the American Red Cross for peace work was effected today at an adjourned annual meeting here. President Wilson and other officers were re-elected. William Howard Taft was chosen vice president, a new office created for Mr. Taft in recognition of his work for the Red Cross.

John Skelton Williams, Comptroller of the Currency, was re-elected treasurer; Alexander King, Solicitor-General of the United States, counsel, and Stockton Axson, secretary.

The annual report read at the meeting showed that 35 nurses enlisted for war service, were killed in action or died of disease up to June 30, 1918.

The Red Cross had 6077 workers in France Feb. 1, and it was said that a great majority of them would be kept there for some time to come.

Morning Choral Club Concert.

The Morning Choral Club will give its semi-annual concert Tuesday night at the Odeon, and will present an all-American program. Raymond Koch, St. Louis baritone, will assist.

HOW TO PREVENT APPENDICITIS

Appendicitis is primarily due to the poisons formed by decaying food in the bowels. It is a disease caused by improper and insufficient bowel elimination. The waste food matter is allowed to stay in the system for weeks and months, poisoning the body and causing headaches and stomach trouble and often developing acute or chronic appendicitis.

The only way to avoid appendicitis and other trouble and to keep feeling in the best condition is to watch your bowels. Just as you keep the outside of your body clean, you should also KEEP THE INSIDE CLEAN. It is even more important to keep the bowels clean than it is to keep your body washed, because the millions of pores in the long alimentary canal quickly absorb poisons generated by decaying food left carelessly in the bowels. Don't allow the old, fermenting waste matter to stay in your bowels for weeks, but GET IT OUT and keep it out. Remember, unclean bowels are the cause of most sickness—no stomach or liver or any other organ can do its work with old waste food matter sending out gases and poisons. Even if your bowels move slightly each day, that is not enough. There must be an occasional THOROUGH, complete cleansing to rid the system of all accumulated waste food matter.

TO CLEAN BOWELS THOROUGHLY

The MOST COMPLETE bowel cleanser known is a mixture of buckthorn bark, glycerine and ten other ingredients, put up in ready-prepared form under the trade name of Adler-i-ka. This mixture is so powerful a bowel cleanser that it ALWAYS does its work properly and thoroughly. It removes foul and poisonous matter which other cathartic or laxative mixtures are unable to dislodge. It does a COMPLETE job and it works QUICKLY and without the least discomfort or trouble. It is so gentle that one forgets he has taken it. It is astonishing the great amount of poisonous waste matter a SINGLE SPOONFUL of Adler-i-ka draws from the alimentary canal—matter you would never have thought was in your system. Try it right after a natural bowel movement and notice how much MORE waste matter will be brought out which was poisoning your system. In slight disorders such as occasional constipation, sour stomach, "gas on the stomach" or sick headache, one spoonful brings relief almost INSTANTLY. Adler-i-ka is the MOST THOROUGH bowel cleanser and antisepticizer ever offered in ready prepared form. It is a constant surprise to people who have used only ordinary bowel and stomach medicines and the various [illegible] waters

"FAKE" ASPIRIN

DRUG MAKER ARRESTED IN ASPIRIN CASE

Analysis Shows Talcum Powder Chief Ingredients of Tablets of Which 394,000 Were Seized

More than 394,000 alleged aspirin tablets were seized yesterday in Brooklyn. The manufacturer was arrested. He gave his name as Joseph M. G. Kukay. He said he was head of the Verandah Chemical Company, No. 28 Verandah place, Brooklyn.

The arrest followed the analysis of the tablets. They were found to be devoid of aspirin. Talcum powder was the principal ingredient of the tablets. It was found to consist of seventy per cent "innate material." Sugar water and salicylic acid were also used.

Health Commissioner Copeland said that thousands attacked by influenza or pneumonia had recourse to aspirin tablets. He said:

"There is no doubt but that many thousands of persons rushed to aspirin as soon as they had a little cold. It certainly did not help those people if they happened to get talcum powder into their systems, and it appears that many thousands of these tablets were sold throughout the country."

Inspector W. F. Cummings, of the Brooklyn Food and Drug Division, with his chief, Walter B. Drennan, made the raid on the Verandah Chemical Company.

Chief Drennan said:

"We seized 394,000 tablets, on the strength of the diagnosis made, and believe the whole lot consists of talcum powder. The manufacturer seems to have done a great out-of-town business, and I estimate his monthly shipments were no less than 500,000 tablets. He declares he is a Spaniard and has been doing business for several months in Verandah place. Just how many millions of these tablets he has sold as aspirin tablets I cannot state."

"The House That Guarantees All Its Pianos"

Any man can be a Good Musician with a Good Player Piano

THE man without musical training who loves the beauty of melody can easily render the works of the great masters or the popular music of the day with an artistic feeling indistinguishable from the performance of the skilled musician.

A player piano is indispensable to innumerable homes. It will prove not only entertainment, but in a larger way a bond to become stronger and richer with the passing years.

The vast difference between players lies chiefly in the piano. If the piano is one of the world's 21 leading makes to be seen at Conroy's, it is a piano fit for any home. Such a piano responds to the technique of the trained performer in a manner to gratify the most exacting critic.

To these very superior pianos are added the very best player actions that have been devised. The result is that any player piano bought from this house is a great musical instrument.

A good player-piano can be bought at Conroy's as low as $485, on up to the Knabe Ampico for $2500, the world's most wonderful reproducing piano.

How She Stopped Her Husband's Drinking

By all Means Write to Her and Learn How She Did it.

For over 20 years James Anderson of 19 C[illegible] Ave., Hillburn, N. Y., was a very hard drinker. His case seemed a hopeless one, but 10 years ago his wife in their own little home, gave him a simple remedy which much to her delight stopped his drinking entirely.

She also tried the remedy on her brothers and several neighbors. It was successful in every case. None of them has touched liquor since.

She now wishes everyone who has drunkenness in their homes to try this simple remedy for she feels sure that it will do as much for others as it has for her. It can be given secretly if desired, and without cost she will gladly and willingly tell you what it is. All you have to do is write her a letter asking her how she cured her husband of drinking and she will reply by return mail in a sealed envelope. As she has nothing to sell do not send her money. Simply send a letter with all confidence to Mrs. Margaret Anderson at the address given above, taking care to write your name and full address plainly.

Every reader who wishes to cure a dear one of drunkenness should write to this lady today. Her offer is a sincere one.

VILLA'S MEN ON THE RAMPAGE

Father and Son Shot and Hanged by Bandits.

By the Associated Press.

EL PASO, Tex., Feb. 15.—Jesus Terrazas and his son were shot and hanged by Francisco Villa's men at the Santa Gertrudas ranch, near Salevo, Chihuahua, last week, according to a letter received here today from Terrazas' widow, who escaped and is in Church City.

According to the letter, Terrazas and his son protested to Villa because of the alleged mistreatment of the women and girls of the family. Terrazas was foreman for William Benton, a British subject, who was killed in Villa's Juarez headquarters in 1914, following an argument over the confiscation of his ranch.

THE CRIME OF THE AGE

Is the selling of Spectacles and Eyeglasses by incompetent opticians who call themselves doctors and others. None of these men are physicians. Ask them for their license to practice medicine in Missouri.

NOTHING IS MORE PRECIOUS THAN EYESIGHT

I AM a physician, oculist and optician and have practiced for many years in St. Louis; that I have been successful is attested by more than 50,000 unsolicited references. If your eyes are diseased I will care for them, and should glasses be needed, I will prescribe and make them correctly, and the total cost for treatment and glasses will not exceed the price of a pair of glasses that may do irreparable injury to your eyes. SATISFACTION GUARANTEED. I am both the oculist and optician.

GERMAN LEAGUE FORMED TO PROTECT FORMER KAISER

By the Associated Press.

WEIMAR, Thursday, Feb. 13.—An urgent appeal to all Germans to unite to prevent former Emperor William being delivered up for trial was published tonight in the Landes Zeitung Deutscheland, a new Government organ being issued here. The appeal is headed:

"League of German Men and Women for the Protection of the Person, Freedom and Life of William." Appended is a statement by Prince Henry of Prussia, who was asked to assume sponsorship for the league, but declined in favor of Field Marshal von Hindenburg. The appeal reads:

"The life of a German citizen is endangered by the shameless demands of our opponents that Emperor William II shall be delivered up for execution. This would constitute a new and deeply humiliating insult to the honor of Germany. To guard against such a delivery there shall be created a gigantic league of German men and women who intend to save the German people from this everlasting disgrace."

Bishop Stricken by Apoplexy.

By the Associated Press.

MUSKOGEE, Ok., Feb. 15.—Bishop E. E. Hoss of the Methodist Episcopal Church, South, is unconscious at his home here tonight as the result of apoplexy and physicians say his condition is critical. Bishop Hoss was stricken Friday night, but his illness was not known until an effort was made to wake him this morning.

80 PASSENGERS SNOWBOUND THREE DAYS IN NEBRASKA

Train Has Neither Diner Nor Sleeper, and Fuel Is Low—Farmers Care for Children.

Special to the Post-Dispatch.

NORFOLK, Neb., Feb. 15.—A Northwestern passenger train with 80 passengers aboard has been buried in snowdrifts seven miles east of Norfolk since Thursday at noon, and railroad officials tonight say it cannot be released until Sunday afternoon. The train has no dining car or sleepers, and the coal is running short. All passengers have been herded into one car in order to conserve fuel.

The nearest farm house is more than a mile away, with snow three feet deep all the way except where there are drifts, where the snow is from five to 15 feet deep.

Rescue trains with snow plows are working from both ends of the line towards the marooned train, but tonight the closest one was several miles away. Farmers this afternoon managed to reach the train with some cooked food and took all children in the train, six in number, to their homes to keep them from freezing.

Passengers on a train on the Aurora branch of the Burlington, stalled for three days in a snow drift near the town of Phillips, were relieved at 6 o'clock tonight when rotary snow plows cut an opening. The train reached Grand Island tonight.

By the Associated Press.

SALINA, Kan., Feb. 15.—Passengers on a Union Pacific train which was caught in the storm Wednesday west of Salina had nothing to eat but eggs taken from an express car, and went without sleep for more than 48 hours, according to their stories on their arrival here today.

L. F. Dennis of Salina told how the men on the train, including a wounded soldier, wrapped clothes about their heads and, after tying themselves together, plowed and crawled through snowdrifts over their heads to the nearest town for food.

Dennis declared the coach was rocked by the gale until those within feared it would be blown from the rails. He said the snow finally buried the coaches. Drifts 30 feet deep, he said, are no longer a marvel in the storm-swept area.

This train was the first on the Union Pacific line which has reached here since Wednesday. Two snow plows preceded it into Salina. The location of all other Union Pacific trains, officials stated, were unknown, but constant efforts are being made to locate them.

DEMANDS SOLDIERS BE TOLD IF THERE'LL BE MORE FIGHTING

Canadian Premier Says Armies Are Amazed at Amount of Time Wasted by Peace Conference.

By the Associated Press.

PARIS, Feb. 15.—Sir Robert L. Borden, Premier of Canada, speaking to Canadian soldiers on leave at the Canadian Y. M. C. A. here this evening, demanded that the soldiers be told immediately whether there was to be any more fighting. He severely criticised the methods by which time had been wasted since the signing of the armistice. Sir Robert said:

"More than three months have elapsed since the armistice was declared and let us not flatter ourselves that our soldiers believe no time has been wasted. They are amazed at the extremely deliberate methods employed and at some of the subjects upon which time has been spent. They know, and before God they have a right to know and know without one moment's unnecessary delay, whether there is to be further fighting, and if so, for what cause, for what purpose.

"This is the urgent, stern, imperative demand of those to whose unsparing sacrifice and enduring valor the peace conference owes its authority and must consecrate its labors. The soldiers did not palter with the purpose for which they went forth. They expect the diplomats to follow their example."

HOW THE GERMANS WRECKED THE RAILROADS IN BELGIUM

Destroyed Nearly 690 Miles of Tracks and Made Useless About 260 Miles More.

By the Associated Press.

PARIS, Feb. 15.—The Belgian commission investigating the damage done by the Germans to railroads in occupied territory, while it has not yet finished its work, is in a position to give interesting figures relative to the destruction caused by the Germans.

The figures show that nearly 690 miles of railroad tracks were destroyed and nearly 260 miles made useless, out of a total mileage of approximately 2600 in Belgium. These destructions mostly were in the Mons coal valley, in the region of Tournai and around Ghent, Bruges, Ostend and Courtrai, and 70 per cent of the destruction was carried out during the period from the start of the Belgian offensive on Sept. 28, 1918, and the signing of the armistice.

AMERICANS PUNISH GERMANS

Treves Paper Suspended for Printing "Prayer for Kaiser."

By the Associated Press.

COBLENZ, Feb. 15.—The publication of a "poetical prayer for the Kaiser," coupled with only slightly concealed criticism of the Americans, resulted in the suspension of a newspaper at Treves today.

A book seller has been held for trial in the same city for offering for sale books written by the former German minister of Colonies, Dr. Solf, and printed in English, in which a defense of German colonization methods was made in connection with a keen criticism of the colonial policies and methods of the allies, especially Great Britain.

Today's Aid to Beauty

Hair is by far the most conspicuous thing about us and is probably the most easily damaged by bad or careless treatment. If we are very careful in hair washing, we will have virtually no hair troubles. An especially fine shampoo for this weather, one that brings out all the natural beauty of the hair; that dissolves and entirely removes all dandruff, excess oil and dirt; can easily be used at trifling expense by simply dissolving a teaspoonful of canthrox (which you can get at any druggist's) in a cup of hot water. This makes a full cup of shampoo liquid—enough so it is easy to apply it to all the hair instead of just the top of the head. This chemically dissolves all impurities and creates a soothing, cooling lather. Rinsing leaves the scalp spotlessly clean, soft and pliant, while the hair takes on the glossy richness of natural color, also a fluffiness which makes it seem much heavier than it is. After canthrox shampoo, arranging the hair is a pleasure.—ADV.

Choose Your Hudson at the Show

A Complete Line of Open and Closed Models Ready for Your Selection

There are so few Hudsons of any model to be had just now and it will be so long before full factory production is attained that buyers will do well to select their car without delay.

Super-Six production was to have ceased January 1st.

In anticipation of the months that new cars would not be available, we took all we could secure. But the demand for the Super-Six made it impossible for us to accumulate stocks. Deliveries of Hudsons every month since the Super-Six was introduced have practically equalled the output. More than 100,000 Hudsons are already in service.

Thus is again shown the popularity of the Super-Six. Its white triangle has become the symbol of super-quality and super-performance throughout the world.

Hudson production will be resumed as rapidly as possible. But it will be months before the factory can meet the usual demand. An interruption of at least three months in the output of open models is inevitable.

Everyone knows the completeness of the Hudson Super-Six line. There were nine different types. Recently we added the Coupe, a beautiful four-passenger model, and a new series of the Touring Limousine; also a new three-passenger Cabriolet.

They Are Pattern Cars

Every Hudson model has been admired, envied and copied by other makers. But under the Hudson plan there is constant development and so any Super-Six you get today is months ahead of similar types of other makes.

In view of the situation, don't you think it best to see us about your Hudson? There is no certainty as to what you can get next Spring.

Need you be reminded of Super-Six value? It is the recognized standard of motordom. For three years its leadership has been undisputed. Today it carries the added endorsement of thousands who have learned to know its absolute reliability through all the months when automobile service attention was so hard to obtain.

Greater Than "Birth of a Nation" Is Verdict of St. Louis Critics

GLOBE-DEMOCRAT: "Without unduly discounting the multitude of war pictures that have gone before, it seems safe to say that the actual fighting scenes in 'The Heart of Humanity' are the most realistic ever put together in a work of this kind."

REPUBLIC: "Those who acclaim 'The Heart of Humanity' must admit that Director Holubar has a colossal drama. He built his work with a solid foundation of solid worth—of human interest and heart appeal—a feeling that will find response so long as men and women are born."

STAR: "Dorothy Phillips proves herself an emotional actress of exceptional power, in the role of 'Nannette.' The story however, is so true and powerful in its dramatic realism that it does not seem to require acting."

TIMES: "'The Heart of Humanity' will rank as the third of the triumvirate of great plays produced, the others being the 'Birth of a Nation' and 'Intolerance.' As a spectacle of the war it is the best of the kind ever produced."

POST-DISPATCH: "Comparisons usually are offensively futile, yet 'The Heart of Humanity' falls easily into comparison with the 'Birth of a Nation,' because of similarity of scenes.

"In photoplay magnitude of production and the excellent work of principals, the comparisons are in no way unfavorable to the present film.

"The 'Birth of a Nation' had a wider scope and was a larger film, but 'The Heart of Humanity' surpasses in battle scenes as did the battles of this recently closed war surpass those of the Civil War. They also are better than 'Hearts of the World.'

"No part of the 'Birth of a Nation' is recalled that equals similar parts of 'The Heart of Humanity,' except it be the ride of the Klans."

MEASURE PLANNED TO SAVE CREDITORS FROM TRICK OF BEATS

Law Would Prevent Debtors From Transferring Property to Others.

A measure to prevent debtors from defrauding their creditors by transferring the ownership of their assets, when sued for a debt, thus making themselves "judgment proof," has been drawn up by the Legislative Committee of the Associated Retail Credit Men of St. Louis and is to be introduced in the Legislature within the next few days.

The bill provides that the plaintiff in a lawsuit against his debtor may immediately, upon the issuing of the summons, attach property, salary, or other assets of the defendant to the amount for which the suit is brought. The plaintiff, however, must give bond equaling the amount for which he sues to cover costs and damages, if a verdict is returned against him. If the debt is secured by mortgage or lien upon the defendant's property, the bill will not apply.

COURTSMARTIAL HELD ON FLIMSY EVIDENCE

Judge Advocate Says Negroes Hanged at Houston Were Denied Chance to Appeal.

By the Associated Press.

WASHINGTON, Feb. 15.—Trials of soldiers by courtsmartial on flimsy evidence and instances of the trial of half a dozen or more men on the same charge by the same Court were cited by Acting Judge Advocate-General Ansell today before the Senate Military Committee in support of the pending bill revising courtmartial procedure.

Referring to bringing several accused men before the same court, Senator Knox of Pennsylvania remarked:

"That would be like trying several men on the charge before the same jury."

"Exactly," said Gen. Ansell, "and it would be impossible for the Court to have an open mind."

Questioned as to the issue between him and other officials of the War Department as to the need for legislation, Gen. Ansell said that since he began his agitation against the present system, judgments of courtsmartial had been set aside, but this was unsatisfactory, as it invariably resulted in entirely freeing the accused, as there is no authority to modify the sentences.

Denied Chance for Clemency.

Gen. Ansell said that after he had filed a brief with the Secretary of War in October, 1917, setting forth his views on the right of the Judge Advocate-General to review or set aside judgments of courts martial, he was relieved of duty in the Bureau of Administering Military Justice. It was merely a coincidence and without significance, however, that he was relieved after the brief was filed, he said in reply to questions from members of the committee.

At the time of the execution of negro soldiers at Houston, Tex., Gen. Ansell said he again called the attention of the department to the necessity for some tribunal review of courts martial findings, pointing out that the soldiers had been denied the privilege of asking clemency. Again the Secretary and the Chief of Staff disagreed, he said.

Questioned by Senator Sutherland as to whether he believed that steps could now be taken to set aside injustices done in the judgments of courtsmartial, Gen. Ansell said the President could exercise executive clemency to soldiers in prison, but his power did not extend to cases where soldiers had been dishonorably discharged. He expressed the belief that Congress should confer upon some functionary the right to amend the findings of courtsmartial in case of unjust dishonorable discharge.

Civil Counsel Needed.

Gen. Ansell said that the legislation should provide for the designations by the Judge Advocate-General of an officer from his department to go with army units operating beyond the continental limits of the United States, and for granting such officers the same powers in reviewing cases as prohibited by the chief of the department in the United States. The legislation, he asserted, also should provide civil as well as military counsel for the accused.

In the House of Representatives today an amendment to the army appropriation bill to provide for revision in the courtmartial procedure was offered by Representative Johnson of South Dakota, but was ruled out on a point of order. Johnson was an officer and served overseas.

During debate on the proposed amendment Johnson asserted that it undoubtedly would be useless to amend the military bill "so long as it is apparent that the administration is not in a mood to do anything to assist the doughboy.

"It is impossible to get anything from the administration for the doughboy," he said, "because no son or relative or anyone intimately connected with it was allowed to fight.

"Two Royal Houses."

"I dislike to criticise, but I cannot help but realize that there are but two royal families in the world who never suffered nor appeared in the casualty list; one was the royal family of Germany and the other the royal and reigning families of the United States."

Johnson said Acting Judge Advocate-General Ansell, in testifying before the Senate Military Committee, had shown many of the wrongs done by the present system of courtmartial, but that the General had "not gone far enough." He added that if any one in the War Department or anywhere else took exception to Gen. Ansell's testimony Congress would unite to support him.

The Mississippi Valley

The Explorers

"Yes, Black Robe," said the old Indian, "My grandfather saw De Soto. He was a great chief. He dressed in iron. 'Gold,' he said, 'show me gold.' My grandfather showed him deer and buffalo and beaver. Led him all the way through the forests. Brought him to the Father of Waters—this river. Not here. Way down there. Many sleeps away, below where Missouri makes the water dark. He told my grandfather, 'This river is worth all the gold in the world.'"

Father Marquette, we imagine, was listening with intense interest. He had come with Joliet down the Wisconsin to the Mississippi. He was a missionary, but, like other French missionaries of that day, was a far-seeing consular agent of France as well. His book, "A Voyage and a Discovery of Certain Lands and Nations of North America," did more than anything else to open the eyes of Europe to the wonders of the Mississippi Valley.

The story he heard from the Indian was true. A hundred years before him, Hernando de Soto had come into the Mississippi Valley from Mobile Bay, reaching the great river at the lower Chickasaw Bluffs about May, 1541. He spent three years in the trackless forests, penetrating as far north as the present site of St. Louis, and died on his way back, at the junction of the Red River and the Mississippi.

Later, of course, there were other explorers—some Frenchmen coming from the north—others, Spaniards pushing up from the south—others again, Americans coming westward from the young Republic, until last of all Lewis and Clark explored the great northwest territory up to and beyond the triple divide in Montana.

Nearly four hundred years have passed since De Soto died, and it seems as though the time had come for a new exploration of the Mississippi Valley. A Spaniard found the greatest river in the world and saw its possibilities. Americans, St. Louisans, you and I, might find gold and better things than gold by doing the same thing.

In our next article we will speak of the old fur trade days and the Louisiana Purchase, telling you how the spot that Pierre Laclede decided on as a good fur trading post in 1764 has become today the principal primary fur market of the world.

BITRO-PHOSPHATE BEST THING FOR THIN PEOPLE

Women Need It to Bring Pink Glow of Health to Pale Cheeks and Forestall Tell-Tale Lines of Age. Men Need It to Make Strong, Healthy Bodies and Steady Nerves.

Judging from the countless preparations and treatments which are continually being advertised for the purpose of making thin people fleshy, developing arms, neck and bust, and replacing ugly hollows and angles by the soft curved lines of health and beauty, there are evidently thousands of men and women who keenly feel their excessive thinness.

Thinness and weakness are usually due to starved nerves. Our bodies need more phosphate than is contained in modern foods. Physicians claim there is nothing that will supply this deficiency so well as the organic phosphate known among druggists as bitro-phosphate, which is inexpensive and is sold by Judge & Dolph, Enderle Drug Stores, Johnson Bros. Drug Co., Wolff-Wilson Drug Co. and most all druggists under a guarantee of satisfaction or money back. By feeding the nerves directly and by supplying the body cells with the necessary phosphoric food elements, bitro-phosphate quickly produces a welcome transformation in the appearance; the increase in weight frequently being astonishing.

Clinical tests made in St. Catherine's Hospital, N. Y. C., showed that two patients gained in weight 23 and 27 pounds, respectively, through the administration of this organic phosphate; both patients claim they have not felt as strong and well for the past twelve years.

This increase in weight also carries with it a general improvement in the health. Nervousness, sleeplessness and lack of energy, which nearly always accompany excessive thinness, soon disappear, dull eyes become bright and pale cheeks glow with the bloom of perfect health.

Physicians and hospitals everywhere are now recognizing its merits by its use in ever increasing quantities. Frederick Kolle, M. D., editor of New York Physicians' "Who's Who," says: "Bitro-Phosphate should be prescribed by every doctor and used in every hospital to increase strength and nerve force and to enrich the blood."

Miss Josephine Davis, reporting her own experience with bitro-phosphate, says: "It is remarkable what it did for me. After a few days I began to regain my strength, felt full of life, was able to sleep soundly and all my little troubles seemed to disappear. I gained twelve pounds in four weeks."

Joseph D. Harrigan, former Visiting Specialist to North Eastern Dispensary, says: "Let those who are weak, thin, nervous, anaemic, or run-down, take a natural, unadulterated substance such as bitro-phosphate and you will soon see some astonishing results in the increase of nerve energy, strength of body and mind and power of endurance."

CAUTION:—Although Bitro-Phosphate is unsurpassed for relieving nervousness, sleeplessness and general weakness, owing to its remarkable flesh growing properties it should not be used by anyone who does not desire to put on flesh.

SERATHOL FOR INDIGESTION

A PHYSICIAN'S ADVICE.

Owing to the great variety of stomach ailments and the hundred and one "specifics" for their treatment, it would indeed be a mere chance if the average layman selected a remedy for his own case that would give substantial and lasting benefits; even granting that the selected remedy possessed real merit when administered for a specific condition. It is therefore not surprising to find the sufferer from stomach irregularities buying and trying first one "cure," then another in a vain endeavor to obtain relief.

Recent investigation of the treatment of a large number of cases of indigestion, dyspepsia, gastritis and conditions arising from hyper-acidity of the stomach prove that there is nothing more effective in the treatment of these ailments than ordinary serathol, which can be obtained from Judge & Dolph, Enderle Drug Stores, Johnson Bros. Drug Co., Wolff-Wilson Drug Co., or any good druggist at trifling cost. Many a sufferer from these complaints has been agreeably surprised at the almost instantaneous relief and subsequent permanent benefit from its use. In many cases of hyper-acidity a single dose of serathol produces almost magic effects.

MACK TRUCK PRICES TO BE MAINTAINED

R. E. Fulton, vice president and general sales manager of the International Motor Co., has issued the following statement bearing on the question of Mack truck prices.

"Certain motor truck manufacturers have lately made newspaper announcements of their policy with regard to prices. A few of them have emphatically stated that present prices will be maintained and others have announced reduced prices. All of them attempted to convey logical reasons for their action. A few words on this subject from our viewpoint will no doubt be appreciated, in view of the attitude of a few prospective purchasers who are holding off, believing that Mack prices may be reduced.

"It is needless to say that the entire energy, thought and experience of the Mack organization is centered in the effort to build a long-lived, strong, economical serviceable motor truck. To do this it is necessary to adhere strictly to our fixed policy of maintaining price on a plane with quality.

"Mack trucks have never been over-priced, and are being now sold on a quality basis, plus a fair manufacturer's profit. Present Mack prices will be maintained, as none of the conditions entering into manufacturing economics have sufficiently altered to warrant reduction. Nor does the immediate future suggest any possibility of low prices with the elements of labor and material costs still at a high level.

NEW ELECTRICAL DELCO KLAXON-REMY SERVICE

The Automotive Electrical Service Co., Inc., newly appointed authorized distributers for Delco-Klaxon-Remy systems, are installing a complete line of accessories, including a full stock of Klaxon horns for all makes of automobiles.

They are now in a position to give highest-grade service on all electrical apparatus used on all makes of automobiles, due to the fact that the immense amount of floor space, as well as their expert electricians, enables them to give immediate attention to 30 cars or more at one time.

The company has also added to its electrical repair room a complete line of machinery for this class of work, inclusive of Universal test machine. The officers of the company are: J. P. Pero, president; D. E. vice president; E. B. Fauber, tary-treasurer. All St. Louis ists.

GATES HALF-SOLE FORCED TO INCREASE

"Business is better than ever at our half-sole establishment, and it has become necessary for us to seriously consider putting on a night shift to enable us to render the kind of service that we aim to give on Gates half-sole tires," said A. C. Reichardt, secretary of the Casper Higgins Sale Co.

"The open winter has kept more cars in use than is usually the case and this accounts for the large volume of business.

"Gates half-sole tires have been on the St. Louis market for over a year and we are beginning to see some of the results of the excellent service they are giving. In the past week we have had occasion to come into contact with some half-soles that have been on delivery trucks for over a year, with an estimate of 15,000 miles, and they are still running. As one of the owners remarked: 'They are sure making money for me.'

"We are getting ready to open a service station at 419 St. Louis avenue, East St. Louis, Ill., and the East St. Louis motorists will then be able to get immediate service on Gates half-sole tires. We expect to move into the new location about the 15th of this month."

TEN CONCERNS UNITE IN MAKING MINUTE MAN SIX

The Lexington claims a unique place in the automobile industry. It is the product not of one particular factory, but of a group of plants controlled by a single group of individuals and contributing equally to its construction.

The work of assembling these parts into the finished product is done by the Lexington company, central figure in his group. With one exception these plants are located within close proximity to one another at Connersville, Ind. In all 10 concerns are included, representing invested capital of $6,200,000.

Two-Power-Range EIGHT

Modern Lightness—With Stability

The Loafing Range

The Sporting Range

THERE is much to be said for the closed car bodies that set the first high standards of coach building applied to motor cars.

Peerless leadership in Closed Car construction was established in the early days of the industry.

There is much to be said for newer methods—where they work real improvement.

The Peerless Closed Cars of today embody those fundamental principles developed by the old master coach builders, combined with all that constitutes genuine improvement in modern methods.

The result—modern lightness with stability.

Mounted on the famous Peerless Eight chassis, with its two separate and distinct ranges of power, the Peerless Closed Cars of today maintain their leadership.

In substantial comfort they are not to be surpassed.

In operation they give the most distinctive performance yet attained by motor cars.

The "loafing" range offers the acme of soft, smooth, efficient, economical application of power.

The "sporting" range releases an abundance of power for emergencies and speed which few cars now possess.

Let us show you its remarkable range of performance—those contrasts of opposite virtues which have made the Peerless Two-Power-Range the distinctive motor car of the day.

The Reward of a High Ideal

BEFORE the war, the name "Rolls-Royce" stood for high mechanical excellence in automobile construction—perhaps the world's best. During the war "Rolls-Royce has meant a wonderful aviation motor—greater even than the famed automobile motor.

During the past four years, Rolls-Royce factories have been devoted to the production of these aviation motors exclusively. Yet they could not meet the demand. Additional manufacturing facilities had to be found. None were available in England and so British government and Rolls-Royce engineers came to America in search of a plant that could meet Rolls-Royce standards of excellence.

Following a thorough canvass of motor car factories and a study of men, methods, equipment and quality of present product, these engineers were convinced that the Stearns-Knight organization and factories were suitable for the precision manufacture of this motor. So they selected this organization for Rolls-Royce production.

Thus the high ideals of Stearns-Knight manufacture were rewarded. Since then, thousands of Rolls-Royce aviation motors have been built, delivered and accepted.

These contracts have been completed. Stearns efficiency and excellent workmanship have been highly complimented by Rolls-Royce engineers.

Stearns-Knight master workmanship has now been released from this important war work. An enlarged and perfected plant and organization has turned its energies to Stearns-Knight cars. These cars reflect, both in design and manufacture, the experience gained in building the famous Rolls-Royce motors.

Daimler of England, Panhard of France, and Minerva of Belgium—world-famed cars—first proved the superiority of a Knight-motored car. Then Stearns offered America the Stearns-Knight. Today this car represents power, silence, flexibility and reliability. It most closely approaches that for which all motordom has sought.

AUTOCAR COMPANY PLANS FOR BIG YEAR

That business houses are building up equipment to take care of the good times coming is the keynote of the Autocar Company's published statement that in the nine weeks following the signing of the armistice 356 business houses placed repeat orders for Autocar motor trucks.

The company contends that the war burned into the minds of all the absolute necessity of the motor truck and that the highways are now generally considered the vital link in better and cheaper distribution. Already State Legislatures have included large highway bond bills in their programs. The people of Illinois last November voted $60,000,000 for roads; while Pennsylvania came along with $50,000,000.

Manager Mack of the Autocar St. Louis branch says:

"We are laying all our plans for selling during 1919 more Autocars than have gone into St. Louis in any previous year, and our service facilities are in the best condition they have ever been to take care of all the Autocars in our territory."

BARTH TAKES COLUMBIA.

It was announced yesterday by J. D. Barth, president of the Barth Motor Car Co., that his organization had secured the distribution of the Columbia Six for the territory tributary to St. Louis in Eastern Missouri and Central Illinois.

The Columbia line is made up of two models, both of the light six type, one a touring car listing at $1600, and the sport model at $1745. Construction of the car is standard throughout, using such units as the Continental Red Seal motor and the Timken axle and bearing construction.

A. D. Beach, well known in St. Louis motor car circles, has joined the Barth sales organization and will give most of his time to the Columbia.

WHY THE WISE MAN BUYS THE "TRUXTON"

There are many good reasons why the "Truxton" is being bought by so many farmers, truck gardeners and merchants. Some of the reasons are:

Because the sturdy "Ford" power plant is combined with the powerful "Russell" internal gear driven rear axle.

Because the "Russell" internal gear load-carrying axle is a one-piece solid nickel steel bar with the spindles turned on and not shrunk in.

Because the general distributors of Truxton units—the No Chain Truck Unit Co., 3302-04 Lawton avenue, carry on hand a complete stock of all parts at all times and give immediate service to their customers.

In addition to the popular Truxton 1¼-ton unit for "Ford" cars the Truxton line includes two and three ton units for all makes of pleasure cars.

The Final Proof of Jordan Success

IF A MAN decides to paint a picture, write a book, make a pair of shoes, or build a motor car, and he determines to put into that product of his own brain the best that he has within him, that creation will possess a certain quality of goodness—an expression of his own sincerity, which will command attention, create desire, and secure the approval of people who know what they want.

Mr. John Boe, President,
St. Louis Motor Car Company,
St. Louis, Missouri

Dear Sir:-

I am in receipt of your letter of the 15th, asking if the Jordan Brougham which I purchased in October 1918 is entirely satisfactory. Replying will say that the car has met every expectation, and in fact is a wonderfully satisfactory car. Prior to the purchase of the Jordan Brougham, I had used a number of high-class cars, but none of them has given me the service and satisfaction that this one has.

The best evidence of my faith in the Jordan Brougham is that about ten days ago I gave you an order for a Jordan Sport Marine to be delivered on the first of March, 1919.

Yours very truly,
J. L. Babler

Gentlemen:

Having had a Jordan Sedan for quite of a time, I am pleased to say that I consider the money well spent in buying that Car.

The material and workmanship used on that car seems to be made with the most excellent judgment. I am much pleased with the working conditions of the car.

I can cheerfully recommend the Jordan Car to anyone desiring to have a car of incalculable value.

I have received more satisfaction out of the Jordan Car than any car that I have ever had.

Sincerely yours,

Gentlemen:--

Referring to yours of the 11th inst. desiring an expression from me as to the performance of my seven passenger Jordan, would state that I have been agreeably surprised in the performance of this car. It rides very nicely over the roughest of roads, has more power than I have ever found necessary to use and it is seldom necessary to shift gears either in traffic or hills and it is very easy to operate.

If your prospective customers only knew the pleasure and satisfaction that the Jordan gives they would not hesitate to purchase one.

Trusting that you may increase your Jordan sales.

Yours very truly,

Gentlemen:

Relative to your inquiry of the 11st instant about my Jordan Sedan.

I consider it an honor in having the first Jordan Sedan in the city of St. Louis, and can fully recommend it as a car of exceptional qualities.

The roughest roads are like boulevards while riding in this car, and shifting gears is an unnecessary performance in driving through the crowded thoroughfares, as it will go slower than a walk in high speed.

Having such satisfaction from the Sedan, I have already purchased a touring car and can fully recommend the Jordan products to all my friends.

Thanking you for the opportunity of expressing my feelings for the car, and wishing you continued success, I am

Yours very truly,

McKinley High School, despite the fact that it played the best game of the season, was beaten by Cleveland, 29 to 27, in an overtime contest in the feature game of the Interscholastic League basket ball doubleheader at the Cleveland gym last night. In the other battle, Yeatman landed its inaugural game of the campaign by downing Yeatman, 32—19.

In the Cleveland-McKinley game the two were tied with 24 points at the end of the regular time and five minutes extra were staged. A free throw by Placke in the last three seconds tied the count. At the end of the first half McKinley led, 12 to 9.

During the extra period McKinley got off in front, Stone throwing a field goal. Placke then scored on a foul while Stone came back with a free throw, making the score 27 to 25 in favor of McKinley. Walsh's field goal again tied, it while Schlapprizi of Cleveland intercepted a throw from Spuehler and threw a basket in the last moment of play that won for Cleveland.

Placke Cleveland Star.

Placke, who started for Cleveland with 13 points, counted on nine of 13 free throws. Stone for McKinley tallied a total of 17 points.

In winning its first contest of the season, Yeatman played great basket ball against the Mid-City quintet, which showed a changed line-up, George going to forward and Low being given a chance at center. The latter showed up well. Weinel for the winners and George for the losers were the stars.

WEBSTER WINNER OVER WESTERN M. A. QUINTET BY SCORE OF 40 TO 24

The Webster Groves High School team defeated Western Military Academy in the game played in Alton yesterday afternoon, 40 to 24. The contest was well played throughout, but was marred by a fist fight between Allen Lincoln, the Webster star and Kirkpatrich of Western M. A. Both were put out of the game for roughness.

Spencer, Webster forward, and Lamer, a Western forward, were the stars of the game.

PRINCIPIA IS BEATEN BY ALTON FIVE, 30-21

The Principia Academy basket ball team was beaten by Alton High School, 30-21, in the game played at Alton last night. At the end of the first half, Principia was leading, 15-13, having climbed up after being behind 11-2. Bekins and Brownell were the stars for Principia, and Black for the winners. The Alton Seconds trounced Principia Seconds, 42-9. The lineup:

| Principia (21) | Positions. | Alton (30) |
|---|---|---|
| Bekins (11) | Right forward | Wells (8) |
| Colvin | Left forward | Haywood (8) |
| Fletcher (2) | Center | Cantill |

| Brownell (6) | Right guard | Milford (2) |

CHICAGO INCREASES LEAD

CHICAGO, Feb. 15.—Chicago increased its lead for the Western Conference basket ball title tonight by triumphing over Northwestern, 24 to 7. The game gave Chicago an unbroken line of seven victories.

Jack Bentley, a first baseman, who was on the Red Sox roster at the time he went into military service, has been waived out of the big leagues, despite the fact that he has two medals for bravery in action in France.

Donlin's Biggest Bone Was His Funny Bone

He Tells Some Good Stories to Prove His Point

Former National League Slugger, Now Converted Into an Actor, Holds That Base-Hits Were Second to Laughs, With Him.

"As an Actor, I Think I'm Still Some Outfielder," He Says; but as a Stage Burglar He Still Has It on Any Umpire.

Donlin's Two Homers Set Distance Record at Cardinals' Field

WHILE Mike Donlin's home run to the club house in deep center field at the Cardinals' Park has always been considered a record, the former baseball star believes he had an even longer circuit smash at the same park.

He related that there was at one time a pool of water and "Shoot the Chutes" beyond the present right field pavilion and which is now a vacant lot utilized for the park of automobiles. Donlin claims he hit a home run which cleared the right field pavilion, the pool and bounded about half way up the "Shoot the Chutes." He says it was longer than the drive which bounded against the club house.

MIKE DONLIN, one-time leading National League slugger, contends that Dame Nature pulled a bigger bone than he ever did, when she gave him a funny bone.

"That funny knuckle of mine has got me into a lot of trouble," Mike volunteered. "For exampe, it explains why I am struggling along as an actor—that's funny, isn't it? As an actor, I'm still a major league outfielder.

"It also got me into a lot of trouble, in the old days, when it induced me to work harder for laughs than for base hits. Laughs at somebody else's expense never made a hit with a ball club manager."

But you mustn't believe Mike. In the first place he IS an actor. If you ever see him appear in Raffles you'll know why I say this; for Mike takes the part of a burglar. Mike is true to life—he's SOME burglar. No major league umpire ever had a thing on Mike.

Then again that funny bone has made Miguel a first-class teller of baseball yarns. If you think he isn't read these samples—just a few that the interviewer recalls of the many that Donlin told.

Tim Hurst Hits Back.

THE Giants were leading the Cubs, 2 to 0, turning into the ninth inning. Tim Hurst was improving. Tim gave what looked to me to be a bad decision, letting in two runs and tying the score. On the way to the bench, I remarked to Tim:

"That's two you let in, you blind owl."

In the next inning, I misjudged a fly ball, with two men on and the ball cleared my head by two feet. Both runners scored. On the way to the club house, Hurst passed me and said:

"Well, that's two I DIDN'T let in.

Tim Hurst was a great fellow and one of the brightest wits I ever bumped against in the big leagues. He always had an answer ready for everything you said to him and I'll have to admit he generally got the long end of it, when it came to swapping repartee.

One day, when I was with the Cardinals, Tim was calling balls and strikes. I didn't swing at a pitch and before Hurst called it, I just turned around and said:

"Over my head, Tim."

"STRIKE, yelled Tim in his fanciest manner.

On the next pitch, I again failed to swing and glancing back, said to Hurst:

Same place, Tim.

"Was it, Mike?" Tim answered quickly. "Then it MUST be strike two."

After that I was a little more careful what I said to Tim when he was calling the pitches.

Benched for Repartee.

THE Giants were playing an exhibition game several years ago in Jersey City, and "Brick" Owens, now in the American League, was umpiring on first base. While I was coaching there "Brick" asked me what I was going to do during the winter.

I told him Paul Armstrong was writing an act for me and I was going around the circuit. Owens wanted to know what the title of it was, and I told him "Three Thieves." Nothing more was said about it at the time. Later in the game, though, "Brick" called me out on a close play at first. When I dusted myself off I got up and said to Owens:

"Brick, I forgot to tell you who was going out with me to play in 'Three Thieves.'"

"Well, who is?" "Brick" asked.

"Myself and two umpires," I answered, and got chased to the bench for it.

His Wife Is Still in the Dark.

"MANY were the jokes played on 'Dummy' Taylor when he first joined the Giants. Of course, none of the fellows could understand his sign language and it was a difficult matter to reach a mutual understanding. 'Dummy' and I roomed together, however, and it wasn't very long until I could talk as fast with my hands as I could with my mouth.

"Dummy" was quite a sport in his day, and we had some great times together. Shortly after he joined us, he got married and his wife also was a deaf mute. Then the trouble began, for "Dummy" couldn't understand why he had to cut out the late hours, just because he had a wife.

We stayed out pretty late one night and the next afternoon, as I was putting on my uniform, "Dummy" walked into the clubhouse carrying a nice grouch.

"Hi, Taylor," I said to him, "Did the missus say anything because you stayed out late last night?"

"She raised Cain, that's all," "Dummy" answered on his hands, of course.

"What do you do to her when she bawls you out like that?" I asked him.

"I turn out the light," Dummy answered.

How Many Singles in a 'Homer?'

JACK POWELL, a mighty good Irishman, was as well stocked with dry humor as anybody I ever met in the game. There was one remark Powell made that I'll never forget.

In Philadelphia, Powell was pitching for us and Ed Delehanty, the ONLY Delehanty, caught one of Jack's twisters square on the seam. The ball went over the left-field fence; in fact it was hit so hard we outfielders lost all trace of it for fully a minute. It was the hardest hit I ever saw and the only time in my life I ever witnessed a ball driven entirely out of sight.

On the way to the bench, I said to Powell:

"Some hit of Delehanty's, eh Jack?"

"Hit—I should say so," Jack answered. "Why, if I had that hit cut up into singles, I'd lead the league in batting."

A Bird of a Story, This.

"JOHN McGRAW and Harry Sparrow were standing in front of the Auditorium Hotel in Chicago a few years ago when Eddie Pigeon, former newspaper man and now well known in theatrical circles, came along. Both knew Eddie well and they chatted for a few minutes when along came Dan Canary, the old-time bike racing star, who knew McGraw, but did not know the two others in the group. After the usual greeting McGraw began to introduce the strangers.

"Mr. Canary, meet Mr. Pigeon," said McGraw.

"Very glad to meet you," returned the old-time bike star to Pigeon.

"Now meet Mr. Sparrow, Mr. Canary," said McGraw in all seriousness.

By this time Canary decided that McGraw was having some fun at his expense.

"Think you're kiddin' me, do you?" he snorted and, refusing to shake hands, he continued on his way down Michigan boulevard, fully convinced that McGraw was trying to play a joke on him.

FULLER AND NICOLAI TIE IN SHOOT EVENT

KANSAS CITY, Mo., Feb. 15.—With 28 marksmen entered in the International wing shot championship—the last event of the fifteenth annual Interstate trapshooting tournament—but half the hundred targets could be thrown, and the finishing of the contest had to go over until tomorrow.

Good shooting was done today, two tieing for first place with 49 out of 50, and two for next place with 48 out of 50. Leaders today were F. G. Fuller of Mukwongo, Wis., and George Nicoli, Kansas City; with E. W. Renfro of Butter, Mont., and H. C. Herndon, Georgetown, Ky., contending for second place.

The five leaders, when the full 100 targets have been fired at, will divide a purse of more than $2000.

Huskers Beat Tigers.

LINCOLN, Neb., Feb. 15.—By winning tonight's game from Missouri by a score of 28 to 26, the University of Nebraska basket ball team gained second place in the Missouri Valley championship race. The Kansas "Aggies" retain first place, but have yet to meet both Nebraska and Missouri before the conclusion of the season.

Downey Beats Laughlin.

TULSA, Ok., Feb. 15.—Bryan Downey and Willie Laughlin clash in a 15-round battle to a referee's decision Monday night. This will be a return contest, the former tilt being held Jan. 29 and was one of the greatest matches ever seen. The winner is to meet Ted Lewis.

JULE SCHMITT STARS IN TITLE PIN EVENT

Veteran Totals 1435, Winning Five Out of Seven Games From John Steppacher.

Jule Schmitt, local veteran, proved the star in the opening matches of the Greater St. Louis individual bowling tournament at the Washington alleys last night, winning five out of seven games from John Steppacher. Schmitt totaled 1435, for an average of 205, while his rival had 1352. Schmitt had a high game of 221, while Steppacher's best was 224. Schmitt lead in total pins and gets six points against two for his rival.

In the other match Jack Beresford gained five points against Brace Jarrett's three, by winning four of the seven games and the total pins. Beresford counted 1299 and Jarrett 1291.

The scores:

Schmitt 191-205-212-207-221-214-185—1435
Steppacher, 160-224-177-189-216-192-194—1352.
Beresford ...167-165-215-179-170-192-201—1299.
Jarrett 158-158-190-206-202-169-208—1291

Heil to Meet Linnemeyer.

The feature match tonight in the junior elimination tournament at the Washington probably will be that between Harry Heil and Henry Linnemeyer. The remainder of the schedule brings together Bussman and Scheske; Zesch and Grubb and H. Hoberg and L. A. Kleeson.

Last night's results:

Hoberg, 886, won three of five from Cohen, 922.
Zesch, 937, won three of five from Fledde, 886.
Kleeson, 576, won three straight from Kamp, 489.
Bussmann, 962, won three of five from Hotze, 832.
Kaley, 884, lost three out of five to Scheske, 873.
Thompson, 804, lost three of five to Linnemeyer, 895.
Heil, 601, won three straight from Briesacker.
Grubb, 837, won three of five from Juergens, 778.

Stein and Grubb Win.

Otto Stein and E. E. Grubb won from Harry Schaefer and Jule Wehrli, 1833 to 1785, in a five-game total pins to count special match at the Washington last night. Stein, with an even 200 average, was the star. Schaefer for the losers had 948.

In a singles match of five games Gene Kohaus was the victor over C. F. Kaley, 898 to 895.

Flaherty Now Manager.

LOUISVILLE, Ky., Feb. 15.—Patrick J. (Patsy) Flaherty, former big league pitcher, last year manager of the Mobile club of the Southern Association, will lead the Louisville American Association team this season. This announcement was made late today by Billy Neal, the club's general manager.

WASHINGTON IS VICTOR OVER ROLLA, 25 TO 15

Both Quintets Play Poorly, With Miners Having 10 Fouls Called Upon Them.

The Washington University basket ball team won its second straight game from the Rolla Miners, defeating the visitors at the Francis Gymnasium last night, 25 to 15. The game was poorly played, both quintets being off color. However, the Pikers proved a little the better of the pair.

At the end of the first half, Rutherford's quintet was leading, 13 to 4, Rolla scoring only one field goal in the opening half. Washington played a great defensive game in this period. During the contest, the Miners had 10 fouls called on them, but the Pikers were able to score on only three of them.

The lineup:

| Washington (25) | Position. | Rolla (15). |
|---|---|---|
| Duncker (8) | Right forward | Scott-Place (4) |
| McCallum (2), Bryant (2), McElwee | left forward | Wright (2)-Krause |
| Marquard (6) | Center | Swayce (4) |
| Rodden-Berger | Right guard | Bohn |
| Russell (7) | Left guard | Signor (5) |

Referee—Rich von Dach.

PIMPLY? WELL, DON'T BE

45-YEAR-OLD FOE PROVES 'MARK' FOR WRESTLER ZBYSZKO

Polish Giant Toys With Huge Swede in Winning Two Successive Falls.

By JOHN C. MEYERS,
Former Wrestling Referee and All-round Athletic Star.

As if to atone for the decidedly odoriferous lightweight wrestling matches recently pulled off on St. Louis wrestling fans—what few there are left—two physical supermen, Wladek Zbyszko of Galicia and Arvid Andersen of Sweden, both reported to be of the wrestling stable of Jack Curley, put on before a crowded house at the Polish-American Hall, 1940 Cass avenue, last night, a decidedly "rough stuff" mat bout. Zbyszko won two successive falls.

Zbyszko is still traveling on the reputation of his elder brother, Stanislaus, but is not quite in the elder Zbyszko's class. Of Arvid Andersen, the local wrestling cognoscenti knew nothing. He is every bit of 45 years of age, but what he lacked in youth and activity he made up in viciousness. It was rough stuff from the beginning of the match, devoid of that finesse owned by Gotch, Hackenschmidt, Olsen and Stecher in the heavies class.

For two leviathans, however, it was a remarkable exhibition of endurance. The first fall was gained in 28 minutes by Zbyszko with a toe hold, Andersen conceding him the fall without being put on his back. The second was also gained by Zbyszko in nine minutes with a neck, scissors hold and toe hold.

Big Crowd Sees Bout.

Eagerness to see an honest wrestling contest, and national factions pulling for their respective champions, resulted in an overflow crowd. Contrary to the undefinable law of world's history the South defeated the North. Judging from the enthusiasm, there was not one Swede in the house.

Herman Heitzenroeder of local wrestling fame, who was recently mustered out of the army, refereed the bout The bout was preceded by the usual amateur preliminaries.

The big wrestling quartet of heavies, composed of Stecher, Zbyszko, Lewis and Caddock, will have to acknowledged Zbyszko as their peer, if it comes to a final and honest competition between them. Zbyszko is at present in splendid physical condition and, judging from the work he showed with Anderson, he has unlimited endurance and knows all about the wrestling game.

Zbyszko is about 6 feet 1 inch in his stocking feet and weighs 232 pounds stripped, the weight and muscle magnificently distributed.

NATIONAL NET EVENT WILL START ON FOREST HILLS COURTS AUG. 25

NEW YORK, Feb. 15.—Dates for the four championship tournaments of the National Lawn Tennis Association were announced here today. The round of titular play will begin at the Philadelphia Cricket Club, June 16, when a week will be devoted to the deciding of championships in the women's, girls' and mixed doubles classes.

The men's clay court championships will be played at the South Side Club of Chicago during the week beginning July 7 unless a change in this date is found to be desirable when the entire season schedule is later arranged.

Play will begin in the men's grass court doubles at the Longwood Cricket Club Aug. 11 and the singles title will be decided at the West Side Club, Forest Hills, L. I., beginning Aug. 25.

Sturgeon Named Coach.

MARSHALL, Mo., Feb. 15.—Missouri Valley College has obtained Bob Sturgeon, a returned soldier, to coach the ball team this year. He was a twirler in North Dakota and can play any position on the field.

BURNS BOUT WILL PROVE REAL TEST FOR LOCAL BOXER

Kabakoff Is Scheduled to Oppose Eastern Star at Coliseum Thursday Night.

Harry Kabakoff, the Ghetto Ghost, will receive his real test in a local ring next Thursday night, when he meets Frankie Burns, the Jersey City bantamweight, in the eight-round feature bout of the Future City A. C. at the Coliseum. Two other bouts will be scheduled by Tommy Sullivan.

If Kabakoff can defeat Burns, or hold him even, he will be right in line to meet the leading bantams in the country, as Burns is rated as a near-champion. The Eastern lad has met all the good ones in the country, and is a real veteran of the game. Burns will leave the East for St. Louis Tuesday night.

Burns evidently is not expecting injury in the local contest, as he is matched to box Dave Astey in Jersey City, Feb. 22, while Feb. 25, he takes on Young Chaney in Baltimore. Since Christmas, Burns has taken part in two bouts, beating Batling Reddy and Matty Herbert.

Has Beaten Pal Moore.

Pal Moore, who jumped into the limelight since defeating Jimmy Wilde, has turned down several offers to box Burns. Burns, according to the record books, owns three victories over Moore. Last season Burns boxed 14 times. He weighed 121 pounds, but can do 118.

Kabakoff's last bout, a little more than a week ago, resulted in an 8-round draw with Kid Regan. Kabakoff is one of the fastest boxers developed here in some time, but he does not carry a knockout punch, as since becoming a professional he has captured only two bouts by knockouts.

Walter Heisner will act as referee.

Kube to Meet Kid Bandy.

Nick Kube and Kid Handy, two local boxers, who have recently been discharged from the navy, are scheduled to meet in the 8-round feature bout at the South Broadway A. C. Tuesday night. Kube while in the service became champion of the Fifth Naval District.

Willie Colonna and Jimmy Murphy, bantamweights, will meet in the semi-windup, while a preliminary will be arranged by Matchmaker Harry Uhlemeyer. Membership books close at 6 p. m., Tuesday, and the first bout will start promptly at 8:30. Walter Heisner will referee.

Levinsky Tackles Greb.

Battling Levinsky and Harry Greb of Pittsburg, light-heavyweights, are scheduled ot meet in a 10-round bout before the Quensberry A. C. at Buffalo, N. Y., tomorrow night. Levinsky has trained hard for the contest, and is in good conditon.

Carpentier May Box Levinsky.

Georges Carpentier, the French heavyweight, may meet Battling Levinsky in a 20-round bout in Paris in June. Vienne, the leading promoter of France, has offered Levinsky 20 per cent of the gross receipts to meet the Frenchman. Dan Morgan, Levinsky's manager, however, wants $5000 flat guarantee.

Herman Battles Burman.

Pete Herman, bantamweight champion, who was recently released from the service, will take on one of the leading candidates for his laurels when he opposes Joe Burman of Chicago in a 6-round battle in Philadelphia, Feb. 24.

Diamond Flashes

President-Manager Branch Rickey of the Cardinals, has gone to his home in Lucasville, O. He plans to bring his family to St. Louis about the middle of next month.

Benny Kauff, the "shrinking violet" of baseball, is one of about three members of the Giants signed up. All the others are holdouts.

"Lefty" High, the St. Louis boy, has signed his contract with the Yankees. After being traded to the Athletics last spring, he jumped to the Steel League and automatically reverted to the Yanks because of his refusal to join the White Elephants.

Eddie Herr, a native son, who has signed to manage the Salt Lake City (Pacific Coast League) team, will depart for the West on March 1. His players will report for training in Pittsburg, Cal., March 8.

It is reported that not one member of the Cincinnati Reds has signed a contract.

Ed Koney, the Braves, first baseman, is wintering in St. Louis. He says he has not signed the contract tendered to him, but believes the club will be fair with him and that he will again do duty on the Boston first pillow.

A 1200-barrel well has just "come in" on the lease of Rogers Hornsby's Texas oil property. But for the fact that Hornsby is signed up for 1919, this would sound like the prelude to a holdout

Chicago "dopsters" recently proposed a trade of Joe Jackson of the White Sox to the Detroit Tigers in exchange for Bobb Veach, Harry Heilman and Donie Bush. In reply, Detroiters state that they would not give Veach even up for the Chicago fly chaser.

Moore and Regan to Meet in Rialto A. C. Feature Go March 4

H. H. MORRIS, secretary-treasurer of the Rialto Athletic Club, announced last night that the match between Pal Moore, the bantam, who recently sprang into prominence by defeating Jimmy Wilde in England, and Kid Regan, the local boxer, had been definitely closed. The pair will meet March 4 at the Coliseum.

The match was closed when Nate Lewis, Moore's manager, over long distance telephone told Morris thta eh would allow Regan to weigh in at 120 pounds at 3 o'clock. A slight difference over weight held up the match for a few days.

This will be the first show for the Rialto A. C., a new club in his city. Walter Heisner will referee. A downtown office to enroll members will be opened this week.

THREE ELEVENS TIED FOR FIRST PLACE IN WAGNER SOCCER LEAGUE

Three elevens, the Generals, Starters and Shells, are tied for first place in the Wagner League of the Municipal Soccer Association, as a result of yesterday's games. The Starters vanquished the Generals, 2—1, and the Allies gained a 2—0 forfeit victory over the Shells. In the contest played, all three goals came as a result of penalty kicks. Bowe made good on a pair for the Starters and Horan for the losers. The lineup:

| Starters (2) | Position. | Generals (1) |
|---|---|---|
| Nejt | Goal | Pacey |
| Williams | Fullback | McKeon |
| Bates | Fullback | Horan |
| Slattery | Halfback | Walsh |
| Meyers | Halfback | Becker |
| Greenberg | Halfback | Papin |
| O'Shea | Forward | Dwyer |
| Bergin | Forward | Powers |
| Bowe | Forward | Du Rocher |
| Donahue | Forward | Grady |
| Egan | Forward | Roche |

Goals for the Generals: Horan 1 (penalty kick); for the Starters: Bowe 2 (Both penalties). Time of halves, 30 min. Referee Asinger.

J. J. SCHAAB IS ELECTED S. W. A. R. A. PRESIDENT FOR TWENTY-FIFTH TIME

John J. Schaab of the Western Rowing Club was elected president of the Southwestern Amateur Rowing Association at the annual meeting of that organization at the Century Boat Club last night. It was the twenty-fifth successive year that Schaab has been honored by the oarsmen.

Other officers elected follow: Frank Kiefer, St. Louis R. C., vice president; S. C. Gastorf, North End R. C., secretary; A. J. Lyster, Mound City, R. C., treasurer; Teddy Umbright, Central R. C., commodore, and E. C. Mertz, North Side R. C., Quincy, Ill., ensign.

A committee was appointed to meet in about a month when plans for the 1919 regatta will be discussed. It was the opinion of most of those present that the regatta should be held here, either on the Mississippi River or at Creve Coeur Lake.

A meeting of the Central States Rowing Association will be held at the Western Rowing Club this afternoon.

KIECKHEFER LOSES 3-CUSHION HONORS TO VETERAN DE ORO

Latter Overcomes Five-Point Lead in Final Block to Win Championship, 150-148.

CHICAGO, Feb. 15.—Alfredo De Oro, the Cuban cue expert from New York, tonight wrested the three-cushion billiard championship from Augie Kieckhefer, of Chicago, by winning the third block of their 150-point match. The total score was 150 to 148 in De Oro's favor.

Just a year ago this month, Kieckhefer won the crown by defeating De Oro. During the year, the young southpaw successfully defended his crown six times, meeting all comers, and a victory in the match completed tonight would have given him permanent possession of the trophy.

Going into the final block, Kieckhefer owned a lead of five points, but the veteran came through with a great game and captured the final block, 55 to 48, giving him the match and the title by two points.

BOB LARMORE SIGNS CARDINAL CONTRACT

Bob Larmore, who gained the reputation of being one of the hardest hitters in the High School Baseball League, when playing with Central High last season, has signed his 1919 contract with the Cardinals, according to an announcement by Treasurer Hi Mason last night. Larmore is an infielder.

After joining the Cardinals at the close of the school term last summer, Larmore was sent to the Houston (Texas League) team, but will have another trial under Manager Rickey in the spring.

CLARK SETS NEW MARK FOR JUNIOR HIGH JUMP

NEW YORK, Feb. 15.—A national junior record in the standing high jump was made by Theodore Clark of New York (unattached) with a mark of 5 feet 1½ inches at the National Junior A. A. U. championships in Brooklyn tonight which opened the indoor athletic season. The former record was 5 feet ½ inch.

Princeton University and the Pastime Athletic Club of New York tied with a team point score of 10 each. The Glencoe Athletic Club had nine points and the Bronx Church House of New York 8. Columbia won the medley relay race, although Princeton led at the start.

EARL SMITH SIGNS; 17 BROWNS IN FOLD

Earl Smith, a member of the Browns' outfielding department, sent in his signed contract yesterday, according to an announcement made last night by Business Manager Bobby Quinn of the Browns. The contract came from Portsmouth, O., where Smith is spending the winter.

Smith's contract makes the seventeenth signed document that is now reposing in the safe at Browns' headquarters.

BEST U. S. GOLFERS WILL BE HERE FOR WESTERN TOURNEY

COURSE BEING IMPROVED

Sixty-Four Pits and Bunkers Added to Sunset Hill Country Club Links.

By John E. Wray.

Dates for the national amateur golf championship, awarded to Oakmont, have not yet been named; but indications now are that the event will take place in the "dry" dog-days of August. It is one of the few men's championships that will be settled after the national "lid" is clamped on.

The national open tourney at Braeburn, the Transmississippi and the Western amateur championship have already been set for June dates.

The national amateur tourney will be enhanced, in point of interest from its position in the golfing calendar, inasmuch as it is probable that it will be the third and possibly deciding event in determining the ranking of the country's players.

At present writing it is the consensus of opinion that the open tournament will entice into competition with the present title holder, "Chick Evans," such amateurs as Francis Ouimet, Jerome Travers, Robert Gardner and others of national title class.

National Leaders Coming.

On June 16, at the Sunset Hill links, St. Louis, these same golfers will again assemble for a test, this time at match play. Francis Ouimet still holds the Western title, he having won it in 1917. To give Ouimet the keenest competition possible, the Western Golf Association has decided to make this event an "open invitation" affair. Travers, Max Marston, Oswald Kirkby and others of the Red Cross contingent of last year, will undonbtedly take advantage of this opportunity to test their mettle in advance of the national tourney by attending.

Acceptance by such players would make the Western tournament virtually a replica of the national title event, only that the Western championship instead of the United States laurels, will be at stake.

This would bring together the three greatest amateurs in America —in fact, the three greatest golfers, amateur or professional, since Ouimet, Travers and Evans have all won the national open as well as the national amateur championships.

Famous Expert Prepares Links.

Sunset Hill is preparing to make this the most notable event in the history of the city, both in the matter of obtaining the consent of the leading players to attend here, but in the matter of developing the course to the pinnacle of perfection.

The club is fortunate in having the services of one of the greatest experts in the world in the care of links and landscape effects, Alfred Tyson, who formerly was head gardener at the Royal Gardens of Sweden.

Previously to coming to St. Louis Mr. Tyson had been asociated with the Westmoreland and Bob-o-Link Golf Clubs of Chicago. Sunset Hill obtained his services in 1917, and in that short time he has wrought wonders in the course.

Within the last four months he has superintended the construction of 64 pits and bunkers, and has brought the course to such a state of perfection as to justify the Western Golf Association in its selection of Sunset Hill for the big event.

Country Club Also Busy.

It is expected that St. Louis will be given a treat almost equal to the Western championship when the Trans-Mississippi tournament is staged at the Country Club. The Country Club links are said to require the most accurate golf of any course in the city.

When the Trans-Mississippi dates are announced, probably this week, it is expected that they will be found to precede the Western tournament one week; that is to say, from June 9 to June 14, inclusive.

This will preclude the possibility of obtaining the attendance of several of the leading players of the country, although the T.-M., like the Western, will probably be an open invitation event. The National open tourney conflicts with the dates suggested for the Trans-Mississippi. There is a way out of the difficulty by holding the T.-M. tournament here the last week of June.

Even then, however, the situation would be trying for such notables as entered all three events, inasmuch as it would necessitate practically three continuous weeks of tournament play—too much for any set of nerves.

STECHER TO WRESTLE BUCKMAN AT S. B. A. C.

Joe Stecher, former world's heavyweight wrestling champion, will meet Buckman, instructor at the Chicago Athletic Association, in a match at the South Broadway A. C. next Friday night, it was announced yesterday. It will be Stecher's first appearance in this city.

Century Club Oarsmen May Row in Inter-Allies Event

Al Bechestobil of St. Louis Now Coaching Orly Aviators in France, Tells of Plans for International Aquatic Championship on Seine River.

AL J. BECHESTOBIL, the veteran oarsman of the Century Boat Club and winner of many championship medals in Central and Southwestern regattas, writes to the Post-Dispatch from Paris that he hopes to be given a seat in the boat which will represent the American Expeditionary Forces in an inter-allied international rowing championship, to take place in the Seine river, France, in the near future.

Bechestobil, who went to France last year for the Y. M. C. A., despite middle age, was still active in rowing circles here and was still, with Rodowe Abeken, considered the mainstay of the South Side crew. Bechestobil's work abroad carried him with the occupation army into Germany. Subsequently he returned and has since been in charge of athletics at Orly Park Aviation Field Bechestobil writes, in part:

"I shall very likely return to St. Louis in April. I left Coblenz on the Rhine, where I had been with the Second Division of the Third Army, just before Christmas to attend an athletic conference in Paris. Since then I have been working at the big central aviation Field at Orly, a suburb of Paris.

"They asked me to sign a new contract for one year, to go into the French army and teach them American athletics, about which the French have gone simply wild. I declined, however, owing to other plans. Twenty men who attended the Paris conference have already gone back home and others are preparing to leave; so that I was with the majority in my decision. I will stay here until April 1.

Bechestobil at Aviation Field.

"I have been asked to remain in France until April because of a world's athletic championship meet which is to be held in Paris in the near future. I am 'prepping' the Orly team for the occasion and intend to have them all in fine shape for the various events. I had two of the boys entered in the weekly Palais de Glace boxing events (Jimmy Bronson of Joplin is the referee), and won with both, they beating French and Italian opponents.

AL BECHTSTOBIL.

"There will also be an international boat race on the River Seine in which the pride of all allied armies will compete. Having been asked to stay over for all these events I felt that I would surely be called a 'quitter' if I left at once.

"The boat race details have not been completed, as yet. I cannot say whether I will be asked to try for a seat in the boat or whether the contestants will be limited to army men. However, as it is going to be an American crew against the pick of the allied world it is very likely that I will be invited to enter. If I do, yours truly, a 39-year oldtimer, is going to have his hands full against a bunch of high-class varsity and club rowing material that I find in this great army of Uncle Sam's

FOUR-MILE ROWING RACE TO BE REVIVED IN EAST

NEW YORK, Feb. 15.—Harvard and Yale rowing authorities, beyond all question, intend to revive the 4-mile race at New Orleans. There is no reason to suppose that it will not be rowed this year. Thus two important rowing universities where ideals of sport exist place themselves on record as long distance racing and regattas decided out of term time.

FOUR BASKET BATTLES ON COLISEUM PROGRAM

Tilts Between Local Fives Are Added Features to Municipal Meet Feb. 22.

Athletics, wrestling, boxing, basketball and numerous drills will be jammed into two hours and 45 minutes of activities at the Coliseum next Saturday night, when the annual indoor carnival of the Municipal Association is staged. Rodowe Abeken announced yesterday that the entire program which would be participated in by about 1600 persons would start at 8 o'clock and finish at 10:45.

The preliminary events to the track events will be staged before the regular program is started. It is expected that the preliminaries in the different events will be staged starting at 7 o'clock, so as to leave only the finals for the regular program.

As an added attraction to the meet, Abeken has arranged four basket ball tilts, one between collegiate teams, one with high schools and two with girl teams as the opponents.

Billikens Play Concordia.

In the main game, St. Louis University will battle Concordia Seminary; St. Louis U. High is down to tackle Kenrick. The Ashland Champs and Matthews, two girl quintets, will play under boys' rules, and the Maplewood and King's Highway fives under girls' rules. All the games will have 10-minute halves.

The program proper will be started with a competitive drill by the Boy Scouts of America, followed by a tug-of-war by two teams, composed of 25 on each side, from the Naval Scouts of America Loyal League. Then will come a gymnastic exribition by the ladies of the Concordia Gymnastic Society under the direction of Louis Kitlaus.

Following this, the officials will swing in the finals in the various athletic features, after which will come a flag drill by 300 ladies from the Turner Societies of St. Louis under the direction of Dr. Otto Koenig and P. M. Grueb. A zouave drill by the Moolah Temple Arab Patrol under the direction of Capt. H. Batavia will follow this.

Then will come the basket ball, a drill by the Municipal Gymnastic Society, the wrestling and boxing, while the various relay races will be going on at the same time.

Ladies Give Fencing Drill.

Sixty ladies from the North St. Louis Turnverein will give a fencing drill under Oscar Fager, while a zouave drill also will be given by the Ainad Arab Patrol Drum and Bugle Corps of East St. Louis under Capt. W. C. Watkins.

The War Camp Community Service has donated a trophy to be awarded to the service or former service star scoring the greatest number of points in the following events: 50-yard handicap, 50-yard municipal, 300-yard, 600-yard, 100-yard and high jump. The points will be decided 5, 3 2 and 1.

Some of the stars who will be eligible will be Murchison, Boeddecker, Leffler and Pete Pemberton of Washington U., all of whom will take part in three events. Scott Field and Jefferson Barracks stars also are eligible.

A tug-of-war and relay race for Scott Field and Jefferson Barracks teams has been added to the program, as well as a hop, step, skipping and running relay race.

Entries for the meet close tomorrow.

KLASSING WINNER OVER SCHMITZ IN PIN MATCH

F. Klassing defeated Walter Schmitz, four games out of five, in the fature match rolled in the Class A bowling tournament at Werder's alleys last week. Klassing totaled 1036 for an average of 207 1-5, while Schmitz had a 202 3-5 mark. Both had four games over 200.

The other matches resulted as follows: B. Dierkes, 937, won four from E. Goehring, 760; R. Saller, 901, won four from L. Forcade, 832; H. Klase, 872, took four from J. Horn, 782; A. Gloor, 847, landed the odd game from G. Schaff, 810, and A. Weaver, 813, took the odd from J. Klein, 797.

In Class B, the results were as follows: T. Wolf, 982, defeated C. Kirchoff, 907, four out of five; C. Scheer, 884, won five straight from C. Theobald, 713; O. Withum, 858, took five straight from A. Kniram, 838; Becker, 862, won the odd from Purk, 793, and Lehn, 762, grabbed the odd from Farber, 744.

50 BOWLERS TO ROLL IN INDIVIDUAL EVENT

Fifty tenpinners will bowl tonight in the individual sweepstakes tournament, which will be staged on the Congress alleys. Most of the stars of the city are entered. The men will shoot in four squads starting at 6:30 o'clock. The schedule:

6:30 o'clock—D. Butler, H. Bandp, T. Helmkamp, G. Hughes, E. Skilzman, W. Schmitz, B. Jarrett, O. Stein, George Muenninghaus, J. Steppacher, Fred Utley, E. F. Paulus.

8:45 o'clock—T. Hruska, W. Baier, C. Fureman, G. Randall, G. Reed, W. Hammann, F. Martle, A. Wachter, Brandt, H. Smith, D. J. Sweeney, A. Fischer, H. Henneberger.

SALLER ROLLS 268 IN WERDER LEAGUE MATCH

Saller of the Harn Bakery team of the Werder's League proved the star of last week's round, with a 612, including a total of 168, in his final. The Hahns took the odd game from the Messmers. In the final game the team shot 1008, one of the best single totals of the season, at Werder's.

The other matches resulted as follows: Schweigler Sodas 2, El Maccos 1; Theobalds 3, Heinzer Bros. 0; Kaubs 2, Ardeolas 1; Schmitts 2, Helferts 1; Hinzes 2, Busch-Selzers 1.

INNISFAILS TO OPPOSE SCULLINS IN FEATURE

Latter Team Has Chance to Tie for Lead in St. Louis Soccer League Flag Race.

The Scullins, under Tate Brady, have another chance to go to a tie for first place in the St. Louis Soccer League race, in the clash with the leading Innisfails in the opening game at Cardinal Field this afternoon. The St. Louis Screw Co. and Ben Millers meet in the closing encounter.

Several weeks ago, the same condition confronted the Scullins, when they had a chance to tie Foley's aggregation. However, Brady's kickers got off badly and were stopped, 4—1, after winning five straight games. Brady will use his regular lineup, while Foley will introduce a new forward named Bannon, who recently was discharged from the army.

With only three more rounds of games to play after today, the Screw Co. aggregation must win to remain in the pennant race. A defeat today will put the former St. Leos out of the running. This despite the fact that at present they own the best eleven in the professional circuit.

Acting Manager Johnny Miller of the Screw Co. this week filed a protest on the game of last Sunday with the Scullins. If the Arbitration Board rules favorably it will give the team one more point and take one from the Scullins. However, a meeting of the league may be necessary to decide this question, as Miller's protest was turned in too late, according to the league rules and bylaws.

SPORT SALAD

BY L. C. Davis

A Rum Go.

FOURTEEN quarts in the old ice chest,
Yo, ho, ho, and a bottle of rum.
A thirsty bunch had done for the rest,
Yo, ho, ho, and a bottle of rum.
We try to smile but we fear the worst,
For on and after July the first
There'll be no booze for to quench our thirst,
Yo, ho, ho, and a bottle of rum.

We'll stay our thirst with soda and raz;
Yo, ho, ho, and a bottle of rum.
And other drinks that contain no jazz,
Yo, ho, ho, and a bottle of rum.
We'll all be spitting cotton soon,
For they've counted 10 on the old saloon;
The lid goes down on the last of June,
Yo, ho, ho, and a bottle of rum.

Fourteen men on the dead man's chest,
Yo, ho, ho, and a bottle of rum.
Bootleg booze had done for the rest,
Yo, ho, ho, and a bottle of rum.
Old Demon Rum has been knocked out,
And if Capt. Flint were alive no doubt
He'd seize his trumpet and vainly shout:
Yo, ho, ho, and a bottle of rum.

Cadore Returns From France as Lieutenant in Colored Regiment

NEW YORK, Feb. 15.

LIEUT. LEON CADORE, Brooklyn baseball club pitcher, who was with the negro fighters of New York's old Fifteenth Regiment in France, told this when he arrived home last week:

One day a German high explosive shell hit French soil about 10 feet from a 6-foot negro private, but proved to be a dud. The negro, waiting and expecting it to explode, reached into his pocket, drew forth a pair of dice, threw them on the ground and exclaimed:

"After this, Ah leads a different life!"

The troopers had a rough trip home, and most of them suffered from seasickness. One who did not and longed for ham three times a day, rushed in from deck one afternoon and called out:

"Hey, you Mose! Come out here! We's a passing a ship!"

To which Mose, who was not feeling just right, replied:

"Ship? Huh! Ah don't want to see no ships—Ah wants to see trees!"

SIR ERNEST CASSELL CREATES $2,500,000 EDUCATIONAL FUND

Balfour and Asquith on Committee to Handle Money Given by British Financier.

By the Associated Press.

LONDON, Feb. 14.—Sir Ernest Cassel, the financier, has placed $2,500,000 in the hands of trustees for educational purposes, particularly the following:

1. The promotion of adult education in connection with the Workers' Educational Association or any other association or body approved by the trustees.
2. Scholarships for encouraging the education of workmen or their sons and daughters.
3. The promotion of the higher education of women by assistance of colleges for women.
4. The promotion of the study of foreign languages.
5. Towards the establishment of a faculty of commerce in the University of London on such terms as the trustees may approve.

BE PRETTY! TURN GRAY HAIR DARK

Try Grandmother's Old Favorite Recipe of Sage Tea and Sulphur.

Almost everyone knows that Sage Tea and Sulphur, properly compounded, brings back the natural color and luster to the hair when faded, streaked or gray. Years ago the only way to get this mixture was to make it at home, which is mussy and troublesome. Nowadays, by asking at any drug store for "Wyeth's Sage and Sulphur Compound," you will get a large bottle of this famous old recipe, improved by the addition of other ingredients, at a small cost.

Don't stay gray! Try it! No one can possibly tell that you darkened your hair, as it does it so naturally and evenly. You dampen a sponge or soft brush with it and draw this through your hair, taking one small strand at a time; by morning the gray hair disappears, and after another application or two, your hair becomes beautifully dark, glossy and attractive.—ADV.

How Fat Folks May Become Slim

Reduce Your Weight Happily

Fat persons, particularly those from ten to sixty pounds above normal weight, will be interested to learn how they may easily reduce without starvation or strenuous exercise.

If you are above normal weight you are drawing on your reserve strength and are constantly lowering your vitality by carrying this excess burden. Don't jeopardize your health or be a joke any longer.

Spend some time daily in the open air, practice deep breathing and get from any good druggist a box of oil of korein capsules; take one after each meal and one before retiring at night; also follow the simple directions that come with the box.

Surprising weight reduction often is reported—even after just a few days' treatment. With proper riddance of superfluous fat, the flesh should become firm, the skin smooth and the general health should be improved.

This treatment is guaranteed to reduce ten to sixty pounds—whatever is desired.

Oil of korein is absolutely harmless and is pleasant to take. If you would like to reduce your weight comfortably, increase your vivacity, become more efficient and lengthen your life, this is your opportunity. The guarantee comes with the box. Start today and be happy!—ADV.

Angels' Songs From the Golden City of the Blessed

The Dawn of a New Era

By Edythe Morahan de Lauzon.

This Book of prophetic Messages has been given by inspiration from the Great Spiritual World, to comfort the bereaved, and those who are earnestly searching for truth.

For almost two thousand years, since the days of Christ, a great silence has lain between this World and the next. Of late years the little that has come forth has not been of a very high order, for the time was not ripe, but now the Divine Messages have been given in this book from the Highest Realms.

This Book has over 300 pages. Price $1.35. To be had from ALBERT URQUHART, 415B, St. James Street, Montreal, Que., Canada.

U. S. COMPTROLLER INQUIRY PROPOSED

Pennsylvania Congressman Says All Sorts of Rumors Involving Williams Are Floating Around.

By the Associated Press.

WASHINGTON, Feb. 15.—Representative McFadden of Pennsylvania, Republican, introduced a resolution today directing Speaker Clark to appoint a special committee to inquire into the official conduct of John Skelton Williams, Comptroller of the Currency, and announced that he would offer a bill abolishing the Comptroller's office, similar to the measure introduced in the Senate by Senator Weeks of Massachusetts.

"There are all sorts of rumors regarding this officer floating around the country," McFadden said. "I call attention to the fact that rumors are floating around that the Comptroller of the Currency has used information obtained in his official capacity for speculation in stocks. I call attention to the rumor that there are speculators among the people connected with private banks, and bankers, who get information from this source, and I think it well to look into the Richmond and Baltimore connections."

Broad Scope of Inquiry.

The McFadden resolution would direct inquiry into Williams' official relationship with a number of other Government officials, and specifically as to whether he "has any private banking connections or partnerships or is otherwise interested in banking or brokerage concerns in Richmond, Va., and Baltimore, Md."

Further, the committe would be charged to inquire "what connections any or all of these have had in the past year with the purchases or sales of stocks in the International Mercantile Marine and Russian bonds or other securities."

Investigation also is proposed of Williams' conduct as Director of Finance and Purchase of the Railroad Administration, and of any connection he might have had with the acquisition of sites for naval operations.

McFadden, who is a banker, read to the House a letter of the Commissioner of Banking in Pennsylvania, addressed to Richard. A. Austin, agent of the Federal Reserve Bank at Philadelphia, in which it was stated a trust company officer had reported that Williams threatened to withdraw railroad deposits from the institution if it did not join the national bank system.

Tracing Source of Interest.

"You are interested, because Mr. Williams is trying to strengthen the Federal reserve system," asked Representative Garner of Texas, Democrat.

"He is doing more than that," replied McFadden. "He is withdrawing funds from state banks and trust companies in millions of dollars and transferring them to national banks."

"And is doing it, as you say, for the purpose of strengthening the Federal Reserve system; to force them into the system," interrupted Garner, adding: "Don't you suppose some influence has been brought to bear on Mr. Williams by the Federal Reserve Banks to do that same thing?"

"He has withdrawn from one trust company $10,000,000," continued McFadden. "They are one of the strongest companies in America. He has done this without any particular notice to them."

Representative McFadden declared Williams exercised autocratic powers and that his position of Comptroller of the Currency, Director of Finances and Purchases of the Railroad Administration and a member of the War Finance Board was "an intermingling of responsibilities which makes this power too marked."

Williams Invites Full Inquiry.

Comptroller Williams, in a statement telegraphed from Richmond Va., and made public at his office tonight, said he would welcome the investigation proposed in the resolution introduced in the House today by Representative McFadden. Williams' statement follows:

"I am just informed of the suggestion, presented in the House today by Representative McFadden, for a special investigation of my official conduct.

"I will welcome such an investigation most heartily and will do all in my power to hasten the appointment of the committee and the inquiry he proposes.

"The rumors of which he spoke are new to me. Since they have been put before the public by him, the sooner and more thoroughly they are probed to the bottom and traced to their respective origins the better I shall be pleased. It is entirely possible that Mr. McFadden, for reasons known to himself, will not be so well pleased with the results as I will be, but I challenge him distinctly to proceed."

Friday evening Young will speak before the Safety Engineers' School, Union Electric Auditorium, on the "New Employe."

SUPREME COURT SAYS DUNN CAN'T BE CITY TREASURER

Law Bars Custodians of Public Funds From Succeeding Self in Office.

Special to the Post-Dispatch.

JEFFERSON CITY, Feb. 15.—John W. Dunn is not eligible to serve as City Treasurer of St. Louis, because he was Deputy City Collector at the time of his election, the Supreme Court en banc decided today. Judge Blair, in discussing the case, said:

"Unless Dun is ineligible to hold this office, a man could take and hold office, when, in all probability, public money in his hands in his former official capacity would have to be received and receipted for by himself. It is not contended that a deputy should not be on the same footing as his chief."

Dunn's attorneys concluded the law was meant to prevent a man from holding two offices at the same time. Attorneys for Henry C. Menne, Dunn's predecessor, who attacked Dunn's eligibility, contended that it was intended to prevent custodians of public funds from succeeding themselves in office. The Court upheld the latter view.

The Board of Aldermen recently passed an ordinance making the City Treasurer a city officer. It was said then that if the Supreme Court decided against Dunn he would be appointed by Mayor Kiel under the new ordinance. Dunn is a Republican and Menne is a Democrat. Menne is holding the office.

$275,000 Road Bonds Voted.

MONTGOMERY, Mo., Feb. 15.—The New Florence special road district has voted $275,000 in bonds for a rock road on this section of the State highway leading from St. Louis to Kansas City.

NEW DECORATIVE SCHEME FOR THE ANNUAL AUTO SHOW

St. Louis Committee Confident City Will Hold Prestige for the Most Beautiful Exhibition in the Country.

66 MAKES OF CARS, TOTAL OF 264 MODELS

New Essex, the Owen Magnetic, and the Baby Overland Will Be of Interest as Newcomers.

For 12 years St. Louis has been noted, even among the most blase automobile factory representatives, as producing the most beautiful automobile show in the country. The exhibit of cars at all the shows is practically the same, so that in order to excel, St. Louis has always expended a large amount of money and artistic thought on decorative effect.

The twelfth annual St. Louis automobile show will open Monday night, Feb. 17, at 7 o'clock, at the Exhibit Building, which occupies the entire block between Broadway and Fourth and Walnut and Elm streets. The Exhibit Building was formerly the Southern Hotel, a building full of historic interest which dates back for many years. In it is still the tablets showing the names of the contractors who erected it in 1873, the names of firms whose heads have long since passed on.

66 Makes of Cars.

It is announced by the Show Committee and the manager of the show that there will be exhibited at the twelfth annual show 66 makes of passenger cars shown by 44 St. Louis automobile dealers. In each of the exhibits there will be an average of four cars, which would make a showing of 264 different models of passenger automobiles. These will range all the way from the omnipresent Ford up to the elegant and costly Pierce-Arrow, through all the grades in price from $460 to $6500 each.

There will be some surprises at the show. The new Essex car, a Hudson production, will be there. The Owen magnetic will be there. It is expected that the much talked of Baby Overland will be shown.

Every dealer who will show at the big exhibition has used his best endeavor to obtain from his factory the fanciest, the best looking, the nattiest, the most unique car produced by that factory.

The Equipment Section.

The automotive equipment section which is the new name for the accessory department, is this year more interesting because, for the first time, given adequate exhibit space. The equipment sections are on the second floor of the Exhibit Building, one on the Broadway corridor and the other on the Fourth street corridor. A number of the exhibitors have taken very large spaces in which to make an extensive showing.

One company will show with properly staged setting, a complete outdoor motorists' camping outfit. Another will show in operation a fully equipped garage machine shop with all the lathes and power tools in operation.

The other exhibits range down the entire gamut of automotive equipment, including street gasoline pumps, tires, batteries, tire tools, motor cycles, Ford appliances, four kinds of spark plugs, two of them made in St. Louis, piston rings, garage doors, springs, bumpers, rear-seat windshields, bodies for Ford cars, bodies for commercial cars, trailers, tire filler, airless tires, locks, radiators, tools, rims, wheels, oils and tire removers.

In the commercial car section, which is in the northeast wing of the first floor, 21 distributers of 23 kinds of trucks and one tractor will show their literature and the important parts of their respective cars.

Decoration Scheme Changed.

The schemes of decoration of the automobile show this year is entirely changed from any previous year. The long-ago adopted show colors, purple and gold, are largely used all over the building, but intertwined and interspersed with these are hundreds and hundreds of American flags and the flags of the allies, so that the building presents to the eye brilliant and pleasing masses of wonderfully combined colors.

The first session of the show will be Monday at 7 o'clock, when it is promised by Show Manager Robert E. Lee that every exhibit will be in place and ready for the public. On Tuesday and every day thereafter until Saturday night, when the show ends, the sessions will be from 11 a. m. to 6 p. m. and from 6 p. m. to 11 p. m. Weber's 15-piece orchestra will play afternoons from 3 to 5 and at night from 7:30 to 10:30. The Show Committee has decided to have a matinee price of 25 cents, with war tax added. The admission after 6 p. m. will be 50 cents, with war tax added.

The great amount of detail work connected with the staging of this big automobile show has been directed by the Show Committee of the St. Louis Automobile Manufacturers and Dealers' Association. H. F. Fahrenkrog of the Kardell Motor Car Co. is chairman of this committee and the members are P. H. Brockman of the De Luxe Automobile Co.; W. L. Johnson of the Johnson Automobile Co., Joseph A. Schlecht of the Mound City Auto Co., who is president of the dealers' association; John F. Shuford of the Shurnuff Manufacturing Co., accessory member, and C. E. Lightfoot of the General Motor Truck Co., for the commercial car interests, and the general manager of the show is Capt. Robert E. Lee, editor of the Auto Review and of the Chamber of Commerce.

Then Came France—and Her Choice, Too, Was Marmon

THE triumphant rise of Marmon engineering to its present place of dominance has, as we predicted a year ago, gained the recognition overseas that America long has given it. But this international favor has come in a manner more impressive and from councils more qualified to judge than we foresaw or even dreamed of.

It was in the hour of peril, when French motor car factories were engaged in war work, that France, the birthplace of the modern motor car, turned to America for help to supply her great army staff with means of reliable transportation,

France knew what she wanted—roadability with light weight, speed with endurance, ease of riding, and long range of fuel and tires.

We consider it the highest endorsement that in this crucial time the French governmental motor car experts chose the Marmon 34 as the American product suited to their needs.

Likewise Marmon owners may well consider this a tribute to their judgment. For their choice has received the most substantial form of confirmation from the fountain head of motor car learning.

The policy behind the Marmon stabilizes the buyer's investment now, just as it has in the past. With no reduction in the cost of labor or materials, no over-supply of Marmon cars, no inflated price, no substitution of inferior parts or workmanship—there has been no shrinkage in the value, and no reduction in the price.

Nor can the casual observer distinguish any difference in the Marmon design of 1916 and the Marmon of 1919.

Scientific Construction and Advanced Engineering in the beginning have stabilized the Marmon design as well as the Marmon value.

JORDAN IS DESIGNED TO WOMAN'S TASTE

It Is a Wise Man Who Leaves Details to His Wife, Says Jordan President.

When Edward S. Jordan, president of the Jordan Motor Car Co., designs a new car, he considers the woman's point of view. The width of the doors, the depth of the seats, the angle of the steering wheel, all reflect the needs, the taste and the desires of the woman buyer, because, after all, says Jordan, the woman makes the automobile just as she makes the home.

Jordan points out that in nine cases out of ten, the man consults his wife before buying a car and abides by her decision. If a man is certain that a car is mechanically all right, he is wise in leaving the selection of body details to the woman.

"Woman has won her right to a place at the council tables of men by her heroic work during the war," says Jordan. "Unstintingly she accepted the tasks imposed on her by the withdrawing of men for the army at a time when greatly increased production was needed. She stepped into the breach and the Kaiser's downfall was just as certainly due to her unfailing courage as it was to the bravery of our lads on the field of battle.

"It is estimated by the United States Government employment service the approximately 12,370,000 women were enrolled in the great army of war workers on this side whose aid was absolutely necessary to maintain an expeditionary force of 5,000,000 men. At least half of these women went into the industries after war was declared and from purely patriotic motives.

"Tales of individual accomplishments were frequent. There is the story of the girl who left college to work in a shell-loading plant on the day her brother enlisted in the aviation service. The very day he won the war cross in a battle with Hun planes, she broke the record for shell loading in her plant.

"Women volunteered to take the places of men in automobile factories, and it was not uncommon to be met by a woman mechanic when driving your car into a garage. And the women made good, too, in nearly everything they attempted. They surprised themselves and they surprised their employers. In many cases they did better than the men they replaced. The industrial world, at first skeptical, is now loud in their praise.

"When the history of the war is written, many years from now, when things will be seen in their proper perspective, women will be given their rightful place among the war heroes of immortal fame. Their service in the home as a home-maker will no longer be underestimated, and their council given its deserving weight."

SOME SIMPLE DRIVING RULES FOR BEGINNERS

A word of advice to new drivers is given by H. W. Spalding, branch manager of the Chevrolet Motor Co.

Take your time during the first month, keep cool and have a reason for everything you do, and above all, think, do not forget it, think—and you will get along all right.

Know what each pedal of an automobile is for, know what each button will do, but be sure about it, and do not lose your head. Then you will not get into any trouble.

Early morning is the best time to learn the first stages of driving. Go slowly and keep to the right. Get in the habit of watching for vehicles both on the street you are driving and on the cross streets.

After a short period, when you feel satisfied you have mastered the elementary things, drive later in the day when traffic is heavier. But be careful. This will accustom you to the crowds. During the learning period drive slowly. Do not speed. Most of the trouble comes from driving too fast.

Find out all about your car and treat it with consideration. Watch lubrication. You do not go without food for several days, nor should you allow your car to be without sufficient oil and water. Both are necessary for proper performance.

And remember your car is a piece of machinery. It is not infallible. Do not expect the impossible of it. Treat it with consideration and it will return uniform service to you.

BRISCOE BUILT IN 43 - ACRE FACTORY

It has long been the aim of the Briscoe Motor corporation to concentrate as much as possible of its manufacturing under its own roofs.

"For," they reasoned, "if it's going to be our car, let's make it our car as nearly as possible. Let us build every part we can in Briscoe plants, with Briscoe men, under Briscoe supervision and up to Briscoe standards."

Their ideal is nearer realization this year than ever before. For the plants have grown until today 43 acres of ground are occupied. Much of this space, of course, has been given over to Government needs, but it is rapidly being released. And as it returns to peace-time uses, the time is rapidly approaching when but a few insignificant parts will come from outside.

OVERLAND LIGHT FOUR SOON ON THE MARKET

Plans Made More Than One Year Ago Now to Be Carried Out.

The new light Overland four, for which the public has been waiting with much interest since the chassis was introduced in the January show last year, stands out prominently as a feature of the auto show.

The new light Overland four would have been put on the market last spring, but the huge part taken by the Willys-Overland Co. in the manufacture of war supplies made necessary the abandonment of the introduction of this car until this year.

Immediately after the armistice was signed manufacturing plans that had been long settled upon were put under way. It is announced now that the new car will be placed upon the market as soon as material and manufacturing readjustments can be made. The company feels safe in announcing that big production will be under way by midsummer.

The plans for the manufacture of this car are on such a large scale that the preparation in an equipment way, as well as in the supply of special materials, is a very large undertaking and will require considerable time.

During the past year the manufacturers have used the time to give the new car every possible test, and the records of its development are understood to be exceedingly satisfactory.

With the end of the war, a new apreciation of the need of a small light quality car brings the Willys-Overland product into a peculiarly fortunate position.

This new light Overland four marks the successful achievement of an idea toward which John N. Willys, head of Willys-Overland, Inc., has been aiming since the days when he purchased the old Pope-Toledo plant and moved the Overland business from Indianapolis to Toledo.

NASH RETURNS TO BIG PEACE TRUCK TASK

When two Nash quads left the Nash factory overland from Kenosha a few days ago there was signalized one of the great industrial achievements of the world war. With the departure of these quads the curtain was rung down on the war so far as the Nash organization was concerned.

The big plant, which for months has turned out for military service 40 quads every day, and fulfilled its huge task and now stands ready in every department for peace-time production.

The fulfillment of the contract in scheduled time is regarded as a manufacturing record, particularly by reason of the fact that there were left no "loose ends;" the big job, executed under the direction of C. W. Nash, left in the factory on its completion not one frame, transmission or wheel. The promptness with which the organization fulfilled its obligation to the Government not only was a source of gratification to military officials, but it won for the Nash Motors Co. the honor of being one of the first in the motor car and truck industry to finish Government work.

The company, even before the United States entered the war, was familiar with requirements for military trucks. It had, in fact, been building quads in large quantities for our allies. As the months went on the Government increased its orders until, finally, the Ordnance Department made its request for 40 quads a day, and for months 40 a day left the Nash factory for overseas duty.

It All Depends on the Truck.

Ray McNamara says anybody can drive a loaded truck from one ocean to the other—about 3400 miles—if he is a good driver and has as a companion a good truck. McNamara did it in a Maxwell truck and was only a little over 17 days on the road—good traveling for a touring car.

REPLACES LUSITANIA LOSS

E. H. Serrano, who is export sales manager for the Moon Motor Car Co. of St. Louis, five months ago, secured an order for two Moon cars for shipment to the President of Portugal. These were shipped on the Lusitania, which was sunk in the Atlantic Ocean either by a mine of a submarine. The shipment was recently duplicated, and advices are that it has reached Portugal.

HIGHWAY TRAILER
THE TRAILER THAT TRIPLES THE TONNAGE

A Motor Truck Problem Lesson That Tells Its Own Story

The draw bar pulling power of every truck is about 10 times its carrying power. The best example is the instance of the railroad train which oftimes hauls one hundred or more heavy loaded freight cars, which of course the locomotive could not carry "on its back." The same principle is true in a lesser degree to motor trucks. A truck can pull easily—without effort, double to treble its normal carrying capacity: Just think of the enormous number of trucks that are used to merely the loading capacity: Overloading, the most injurious factor in motor trucking, can be eliminated by the use of trailers: A "Highway" will save an extra truck: Let this illustration of the Gridley Milk Co. tell its own story.

New Tires
FOR YOUR # Old Tires!

If you could see our process from start to finish you wouldn't wonder at our claims. You wouldn't wonder why we agree and actually do bring you 3500 additional miles of riding on the tires that you are using today. It can be done. Our Dri-Kure-Retreader process of retreading tires has frequently turned out tires that give 6000 miles. Look over your set of tires, and DON'T JUNK THEM—SEND THEM TO US FOR RETREADING and when you put them back on your car you will get all the satisfaction of a new tire AND ALL THE MILEAGE AT ONLY ONE-HALF THE COST.

Don't Buy Cheap Tires Buy Better Tires Cheaper

That slogan begot the confidence of the first few automobile owners who had their tires retreaded by our Dri-Kure-Retreader process. Those few have returned again and again with more tires. They talked. Our process became more and more popular and more names were added to our list of customers. Automobilists began to see the folly of throwing away their old tires when for only half the price of new tires they could get the full mileage of new tires.

A Proved Process

Our process of retreading tires is proved and popular. Thousands of automobiles are equipped with what you might suppose are new tires but are really retreaded tires. And the satisfaction that these retreaded tires have given to automobile owners has enabled us to develop from a small shop to

REO MANAGER GLAD SOME BUYERS WAIT

But He Thinks It Will Be Some Time Before Cars Are Much Cheaper.

"Our sales manager tells me that a lot of people are waiting for automobile prices to come down before placing their orders," said Richard H. Scott, general manager of the Reo Motor Car Co., "and if that is true, it is a good thing from our standpoint.

"It relieves a condition that would otherwise be critical.

"If a lot of people were not willing to wait for some reason or other, we would be at our wit's ends to handle the situation, because, while we of the Reo Motor Car Co. have long been accustomed to a chronic overdemand for our product, I have never known a time when the demand was so greatly in excess of the possible output as right now.

"Why, in former years, we have always counted on a letup in buying during November, December and January to enable us to get a few thousand cars ahead of the sales department against the big spring demand.

"But this year orders have kept always hopelessly in advance of output, so that we have now no reserve at all, and the time has already passed when we can hope to accumulate one.

"Of course, like everything else, we can put the blame on the war, and in this case the war really is guilty.

"When we suddenly found ourselves back on a peace basis, we were unable to plan for anything like former production for the coming year because, while some kinds of materials were obtainable, others were not, and, while those that are unobtainable may constitute only 1 per cent of the automobile, nevertheless we have to have 100 per cent of parts before we can turn out a car.

"Before we can start on quantity production at all it is necessary for the steel mills to completely rehabilitate many departments — and in a good many cases your Uncle Sam has not yet canceled the orders he gave the steel mills.

"Rubber, aluminum, copper, cotton and many other necessary ingredients constitute serious problems for us with the result that, much as we would like to do so, we cannot hope to supply more than a fraction of the demand of the coming year at any price.

"All talk of price reductions, therefore, is futile save in a few isolated cases such as where a manufacturer had either set a fictitious value on his product or where, for some other reason, the price in any event would have had to come down."

CONVERTIBLE ROADSTER SHOWN BY NESKOV

Four-passenger cars have for several years been the feature of many lines and their popularity seems to be of a lasting kind. The advantage and appeal to most people is the snappy lines of a roadster with the additional carrying capacity.

In the convertible sport roadster the Anderson factory has made a most novel treatment of the four-passenger car, which J. M. Neskov, president of the Neskov-Mumperow Motor Car Co., says will be the hit of the show.

The design, which is patented by the Anderson factory, cleverly conceals the rear seating compartment by a folding arrangement of the seats, leaving a perfectly smooth roadster rear deck when only two-passenger capacity is desired.

The rear compartment, however, is no small cramped affair as the seat is ample for three persons and has full leg room. Entrance to these seats is through a hidden door on the right side.

This model supplements the standard touring car and the more elaborate sport model, all three of which will be shown at the Neskov booth on the second floor.

ROYAL CORD TIRES MATCH THE BEST CARS

There was a time when a motorist in laying in a supply of tires gave thought to the one subject of durability. In those days tire-building had ont reached its present perfection and the poor highways filled the driver with a constant anxiety as to whether he could finish his journey without the trouble.

But tire construction has improved to such a degree and good roads have become so general, that an automobilist whose car is equipped with good tires seldom worries about blowouts or punctures. With the question of dependability rendered secondary, the owner of a handsome car now is becoming finical about the looks of his tires. He wants a tire that in gracefulness of line and evidence of ability harmonizes with the beauty of his car.

To the fact that it looks good, the United States Tire Co. attributes a considerable part of the popularity of its Royal Cord tire—always remembering, of course, that this tire is as good as it looks.

One feature of the Royal Cord which appeals is that it has a tread which is just as good for driving as for nonskid purposes. This makes it possible to have a uniform tire on all four wheels and makes it unnecessary to carry different kinds of spares.

SIXTY OAKLAND CARS IN AN UNUSUAL TEST

Sixty Oakland Sensible Sixes figured in one of the most sensational driveaways of the war-time period. With a steamship waiting at the Hoboken docks to take them half-way 'round the world to New Zealand, the cars were driven overland from Pontiac, Mich., to New York when shipment by rail to the Atlantic seaboard was impossible.

The 870-mile trip was made over roads, heavy from spring rains, in four days. This was the first time in the history of the automobile industry that cars intended for export shipment were driven under their own power to the port of embarkation.

HAYNES HAS 4 TYPES IN BOTH 6 AND 12

Pioneer Company Will Continue Building Both of the Engines.

The Haynes Automobile Co. of Kokomo, Ind., will continue to build both six-cylinder and 12-cylinder automobiles, increasing production of both as rapidly as plant conditions will permit, according to S. M. How, general sales manager of the company.

All models are to be built with the 127-inch wheelbase. Four body types are offered in both the six-cylinder and 12-cylinder styles. They are the "Fourdore," a roomy four-passenger roadster with four doors; a seven-passenger touring car, a four-passenger coupe and a seven-passenger four-door sedan.

"Our 'Light Six' has won the hearty approval of more than 20,000 owners and we have enjoyed remarkable success with the 'light 12,'" Seiberling says. "The Haynes 12-cylinder engine is a marvel for durability, flexibility and power, and is destined to figure prominently in the automobile market both in this country and abroad."

ADDED REFINEMENTS IN NEW LIBERTIES

Closed Car Line Is Especially Adapted to Family, With or Without Chauffeur.

In external appearance, the new models announced by the Liberty Motor Car Co. show some pleasing improvements. There have been some changes in body construction, chiefly in the Sedan, and the line has been made more complete by the addition of the coupe and the 'four-passenger," which is built in that type commonly known as the "speedster."

The past year has demonstrated the wisdom of many mechanical features which have for some time been a part of this car. For instance, the ingenious construction of the fuel passages, providing for the complete vaporization and ready combustion of even the present low grade of gasoline, has repeatedly shown its usefulness, with added emphasis as the quality of fuel declined. A corrugated black walnut steering wheel replaces the former plain walnut wheel. The front license number is placed below the radiator where it presents no interference to air passage.

The Liberty closed cars combine high quality and appearance with great usefulness. For those who wish a car for general, all-purpose use, the Sedan is especially suited. It is designed for use as a family car, whether or not a chauffeur is employed. Ingenious construction provides a plate glass divider, so arranged that it may be raised or lowered into the back of the front seat in a moment's time, thereby making the Sedan a Limousine, or vice versa, as the owner prefers.

The new Sedan is of the four-door type. Entrance into either compartment may be made independently. Compartments are more roomy. The upholstery in the rear is of different colors of the finest fabric, in harmony with certain optional exterior color schemes. The driver's compartment is finished in the more durable genuine, straight-piped leather. Unusual refinements include a perfection heater which adds to the comfort of passengers during cold weather, a Neville drop steering wheel, rain-vision, ventilating windshield and other appointments that are in harmony with the general high character of this car.

The Coupe, just introduced, has proved a distinct surprise. In common with other Liberty closed cars, it is strongly built, well proportioned and marked by beautiful lines. It offers the same advantages for the use of the small family as does the Sedan to those who have need of a car with somewhat larger seating capacity. There is room for four people. The driver's seat which is just a little forward of the passengers' seat. The passengers' seat is 36 inches in width, comfortable for two people. The fourth seat, when unoccupied, is carried under the cowl.

The Brougham, which completes the closed car line, is a smart car of moderate weight and size, displaying the distinctly Liberty straight line appearance. Light weight, easy riding qualities, abundance of power and short turning radius make it an ideal town car. The rear compartment accommodates five passengers—three on the richly upholstered rear seat and two on auxiliary chairs which fold out of sight. The interior is finished in a fine quality of laidlaw cloth in different shades, with exterior color schemes to match.

CITY TIRE CO. IN ANOTHER BIG DEAL

Clarence Guenther of the City Tire Co. announces another big deal which gives to this jobbing firm 20 carloads of tires for immediate disposal. The City company works on a different plan from most tire dealers. It is Guenther's idea to buy and sell tires, regardless of name, for their proven worth and to give to his dealers any advantage that he can get by heavy purchases.

In eliminating the service plan, the City company charges the dealer only a mercantile profit on the goods he buys. Also, the City company believes that every customer at a tire shop has a right to spend his own money, hence an assortment of tire merchandise should be carried. So a price list is issued on the various brands of tires. In this latest purchase were such well-known tires as Michelin, Diamond, United States, Goodrich, Congress, McGraw and Standard Four. Both firsts and seconds are sold, but they are sold at actual value.

A FORD SURPRISE AT THE AUTO SHOW

W. L. Johnson of the Johnson Automobile Co., Ford dealer, who will be in charge of the Ford exhibit at the Automobile Show, which is being represented jointly by the 10 Ford dealers in St. Louis, announces that a big surprise is in store for those who see this display.

For a number of years, there has been nothing particularly new to show in the Ford line, but now we really have something different, which will be a pleasant surprise to a great many people who visit the Ford closed car exhibit.

HAS BATTERY INSURANCE.

Insurance has been applied to nearly all lines of business but it was left to the Permalife Battery Co. to work out a plan of insuring the life of storage batteries. By their plan any purchaser of a Permalife battery may exchange it any time he wishes that battery for another at a very small cost.

Stations such as that of the Permalife Battery Service Co., at 2127 Locust street have been established throughout the country where batteries may be exchanged without any delay upon simply presenting the card given each battery owner.

CHALMERS 'HOT-SPOT' IS WIDELY IMITATED

Low Grade Gasoline Has Made Fuel Heating Device Necessary to Economy.

The continued production of low-grade gasoline for motor car and other uses has compelled many automobile makers to adopt some means of preheating the fuel before its enters the combustion chambers of the engine.

Today there are many devices intended to do just what the Chalmers "hot spot" did a long time ago, for Chalmers engineers were convinced that, to obtain economy, keep a clean motor and to get power and other results, it was necessary to do something to volatize the fuel, then and now so heavy that ordinary methods would not break up the heavy particles of oil.

Chalmers experts point out that many heating devices have come forward and that this is the best evidence of the far-sightedness of the Chalmers engineering department and, just as it was ahead in the matter of the "hot spot" and the ram's horn manifold, it has been to the fore in other respects that go toward making a modern automobile—one that will give comfort, satisfaction and economy.

During the worst days of the record cold weather of a year ago, a number of tests were made by Chalmers men to learn just the effect of the "hot spot" on the gasoline going into the cylinders, and in every case is was shown that a very considerable saving resulted in the quantity of fuel used.

Naturally this was more apparent in colder weather than when nature supplied heat the way it does in the summer, and yet even this extra heat is not alone sufficient to get all that should be had from gasoline in the way of working energy.

It requires more than the heat from the ordinary warmth of the engine and that coming from excessively high temperatures—it takes all that and then some in the manner communicated by the "hot spot" properly to volatize the present day gasoline and bring about economical operation of the modern motor car.

THEFT PROTECTION FOR HUDSON OWNERS

If Super-Six Is Taken, a Description of Car Is Sent to All Hudson Dealers.

"It is estimated that the cost to car owners from thefts run close to $60,000,000 yearly," said R. C. Frampton, general manager of Hudson-Frampton Motor Car Co. "Fully 90 per cent of this loss could be prevented by the proper exercising of proper caution on the part of the owners, but despite every warning the loss from the thefts is increasing every year.

"To meet this condition, the Hudson Motor Car Co. has a regular publication, containing a full description of the Super-Sixes taken by thieves, which goes to every Hudson dealer in the country with instructions to report the car as soon as it enters his service station. In this way hundreds of owners have recovered their cars.

"Most automobile thieves make a practice of repainting a car they have stolen as soon as possible, and make every effort to change its appearance. A car stolen at noon may appear on the streets again before night, a stranger to its owner. A quick coat of paint will change the color of the wheels. The top may be removed and the position of the spare tires altered.

"One of the first precautions taken by thieves is to erase the engine numbers. At the Hudson factory, however, a complete list of numbers from various parts of every car is kept. When any car is reported missing, these numbers are looked up and published in a publication known as the "Lost Car Bulletin." Even where several numbers have been changed, the thieves are almost certain to overlook the number on some part and this results in their detection."

OLDS ECONOMY TRUCK IS A TESTED VEHICLE

It Was Built After a Long Study of Intensive Needs of Business.

"One of the sensations of the truck world is the Oldsmobile three-quarter one-ton Economy truck," says P. H. Brockman, president of the De Luxe Automobile Co., distributors of the Olds cars and trucks.

"This truck has been kept in reserve for some little time pending the most favorable time for its introduction. That time is right now, when the market is clamoring for trucks of the general utility type. The Lansing factory has intensively concentrated its resources on the Economy truck and has produced something in every way worthy of the 21 years' reputation that is behind it. The most rigid tests have demonstrated it sturdiness and dependability.

"The cost of maintenance is exceptionally low and control is easy. Its appearance will make it markedly attractive in any company, for it has a grace and distinction which are all that could be desired by any firm rightly fastidious about the impression created on the public mind by the trucks it uses.

"In introducing the Economy truck to the market the makers announce that standard parts of the highest charcter have been used throughout. Every unit has proven dependable through years of service in actual use. Each is a known quantity. Nothing is experimental."

The car that took the motor world by surprise is here—the Harroun Four.

The Harroun Four retains the notable sturdiness and light weight which won for the Harroun perfect scores and highest economy honors in every one of the many hard Endurance and Economy contests it entered during the past three years.

Combined with superior Beauty, Performance, Durability and Comfort is the well known Harroun standard of low-fuel consumption and high-tire mileage.

Harroun Cars have received many thousand miles of most strenuous and exacting tests under every conceivable condition and found eminently satisfactory.

Today Harroun Cars are driving smoothly over the mountains of the Pacific Coast, through mud and sand in the East and South, over country highroads and in crowded city streets—running safely and securely, always with plenty of power in reserve, and always under quickly responsive control. Everywhere the Harroun is proving a true Motor Thoroughbred.

A well-trained organization and a large modern plant make possible the production of the Harroun Cars at a price within the easy reach of the average car buyer—$995.00 f. o. b. factory

Why accept a less sturdy built model when you can get—at the same price—a Harroun Four with more power, more speed, more beauty, more endurance, more comfort and more economy than ever before? Do not fail to see this great car, the Ideal Four with Improvements and Refinements—the most interesting car at the automobile show.

HARROUN Four

PIONEER IS FIRST ALL-STEEL TRUCK

Harry Newman Corp. Reports Wide Interest Is Shown in This Vehicle.

Two years ago Dec. 14 Harry Newman, then an attorney, engaged in the motor car business on Lindell Plaza. Considerable discussion was created at that time by the belief that it was the same Harry Newman who had spent a fortune for advertising in Chicago. It proved, however, to be a young St. Louisan, born and reared in St. Louis—then but 26 years of age.

Newman's career has been meteoric. In less than six months another new building was added, facing 100 feet on Locust street, Nos. 3410 to 3418, as a truck department and service station. This is their present home. His firm, which he controls, spent in excess of $18,000 for advertising, introducing the Kissel line in this territory.

He has always believed in the great possibilities of trucks, and during the war devoted his entire business to essential lines—trucks, trailers and tractors.

The sale of a half hundred trucks the first three months of this venture convinced Newman of the permanency of motor trucks and the prominent part they will play in our future.

Harry Newman cites the figures of the passenger car, dwelling on the fact that little did the average merchant dream that more than 5,000,000 passenger cars would be a mark in comparison with 380,000 five years ago. Newman prophecies the same phenomenal growth for motor trucks, basing his belief on the reasoning that there are now in excess of 440,000 motor trucks with a country almost wholly undeveloped from the standpoint of roads. Billions are being appropriated for roads by state and Federal governments. This means millions of motor trucks, and to meet this demand and further to enable his firm to have the world for a territory, instead of just a limited distribution, he has formed the Pioneer Automotive Corporation, to manufacture the all-steel Pioneer motor truck.

This new truck, of old established, proven units, will have its introduction to dealers only during this show week exclusively for the allotment of territory.

The truck is in most respects identical to the so-called popular sellers, with the exception of the following: It derives its name, all-steel, from the fact that no wood is used. It has steel disc wheels and metal cab. It has Continental Red Seal motor, Timken worm drive rear end, Spicer universals, Stromberg carburetor, Bosch Du-4 magneto, Brown Lipe transmission and removable tubes and radiator.

The prices at which contracts are now being made are: For the one-ton, $1590; one and one-half ton, $1890; two-ton, $2290; three and one-half ton, $3190, and five-ton, $3990. All prices f. o. b. factory.

MILITARY TEST FOR THE G. M. C. MODEL 16

When the GMC model 16 three-quarter-ton chassis was selected by the United States army as the standard for all work of this class of trucks it passed a test more severe than any test ever before given a motor truck.

The GMC was entered in a free-for-all cross-country run with a number of other trucks and was subjected to every kind of a pulling task, loaded way beyond its rated capacity. The GMC finished with a perfect score. It was the record made in this test, plus the record of GMC in regular duty on the Mexican border and in the allied armies abroad, that led to its selection.

The test run, which was held in one of the Southern states, at a point unnamed by the censor, took in miles and miles of Southern country roads—a sufficient guarantee of travel ability, as anyone familiar with road conditions in that section will attest. These roadways were little more than trails over hills and through muddy valleys. Also over mountains where many miles of car gear work was necessary.

PRICES ARE REGULATED BY FACTORY COSTS

"Unless wages or cost of materials, or both, slide downhill, prices of motor cars are pretty certain to remain on the present level," says Mr. Shubert of the Van Arx Auto Co., Winton distributors. "Today's prices are the result of increasing costs for labor and materials—increases that started as far back as 1914. Practically all manufacturers felt the pressure of these increases and were forced to charge more for their cars.

"Price in the long run is not a matter of choice, but of necessity. The manufacturer may ask any price he likes, but the public will not buy if his figure is too high and his losses ruin him if his price is too low. Consequently the manufacturer has no great price latitude to wobble around in when he adheres to any given quality and quantity of product.

"So far as the Winton Company is concerned, we long ago made our decision and we have steadfastly clung to it. We are in business to make the best possible motor cars, without being snobbish or extortionate about it. Winton prices always bear a close relation to our costs of production, which is simply another way of saying that every Winton buyer gets his money's worth in good measure."

When a slight leak develops in a drain cock, such as the one that is located at the bottom of the radiator, a gentle tapping of the control with a hammer very often cures the trouble. Be careful, however, to make the taps gentle, or some damage may result.

New Mitchell Sixes New Victory Model

Over 100 Improvements

A Radical Revision

of All Standards in This Class

We announce at this show time a new-model Mitchell—the greatest advance ever made in a Six.

It is more than a new model—it inaugurates a new epoch. It introduces new standards, new principles. It embodies an entirely new conception of requirements in this class.

There are more than 100 important improvements. Together they offer 50 per cent more strength, 75 per cent more endurance, 25 per cent more economy, 20 per cent more of beauty and comfort.

A Two-Year Ambition

Two years ago we decided that standards in the Light Six class had not been high enough. Long experience had proved that to the makers who face facts.

Too much had been sacrificed to lightness—too much to price rivalry. Heavy-car standards had been considered unnecessary. What was considered over-strength proved under-strength too often.

This is not to criticise makers. Facts like these are taught only by experience. Then buyers nowadays expect more in their cars. They buy a car to keep, and they look for long endurance. Old-time standards did not meet these high new-day requirements.

Two years ago we saw that fact clearly. And we decided for our part to take the lead in revising Light Six standards.

Our War-Time Chance

Our first step was to employ many new specialists. These were all men who had made their mark in high-grade car construction. Here they started what at that date seemed a long-time program.

Then came the war, and the great Mitchell factory was turned over to truck building. Car production pretty nearly stopped. That gave these specialists a unique opportunity. They had 18 months to work out this new model. That is why we can at this time announce this new-type Mitchell.

A Complete Revolution

A new model usually means a few new features, a few new lines—some unimportant changes. In this new Mitchell it means a complete revolution—a hundred important improvements. It means a new body—new in design, in color, in finish, in luxury, beauty, comfort, roominess and equipment.

It means a new top—a costly top—a top which won't grow shabby.

It means 25 per cent stronger gears. Rear axle strength is increased 50 per cent, brake efficiency 75 per cent, frame strength 50 per cent by adding 1½-inch depth.

It means a twice-balanced crank shaft, 35 per cent stronger, finished in a way which adds immensely to the smoothness of the motor.

It means a perfect new disc clutch. It means a ball-bearing steering gear, 10 per cent stronger—a type which does away with jerks and jars and which never tires the driver.

It means motors, axles and transmissions tested in modern, scientific ways. It means a chassis tested by modern machinery. Over $250,000 has been spent on new machinery and equipment for more accurate workmanship and more exacting tests.

It means a car built under 135 trained inspectors. They analyze the steels, watch every detail, conduct all our radical tests.

These actual tests prove that we have added an average of 50 per cent to the strength, 75 per cent to endurance and 25 per cent to economy.

Less Operating Cost

We insure perfect-fitting, smooth-walled cylinders by new and costly methods. This saves much waste of power. A thermostat controls the temperature of air, liquids and gas. The carburetor intake is twice-better heated, so low-grade gasoline is completely vaporized. These changes have reduced gasoline and oil cost 25 per cent.

We use body-frame material which costs twice the usual, to make the bodies staunch. We use interlaced hair in the upholstery, because it stays in place. We use four coats of varnish, instead of the usual two, to insure enduring finish.

We are building a heavier car, because experience shows that the Light Six was too light. We gain ample room with a 120-inch wheelbase.

We use a wealth of chrome-vanadium and chrome-nickel steels. We use 123 drop forgings. We use long cantilever springs, which make this new Six the most comfortable car ever built. These Mitchell rear springs have never yet been broken.

Today's Supreme Value

Despite all these new standards, all these costly improvements, the price on this new Mitchell is fixed below any comparable car.

Consider what that means. Mitchell pioneered the Six. Before the war the Mitchell Sixes led their class. They had brought to us enormous success and world-wide reputation. So these new standards mean a vast advance over rivals in this class. Yet Mitchell undersells them.

This new car is a supreme example of our wonderful factory efficiency. Our war work has greatly increased that efficiency. We build the complete car—motor, chassis and body—under these scientific methods. The result is a value unapproached in the whole Six field today.

Come to our showroom and see this new model. Go over with us all these hundred improvements. Judge for yourself what these new standards mean. Any man who does that, whether dealer or buyer, will concede to this new Mitchell Six the zenith place—in beauty, comfort, strength, endurance, economy, value.

NEW COMPANY OWN TELL-TALE RING

The S. D. Hartoz Manufacturing Co., recently incorporated, has taken over the manufacturing and sales rights from the Vulcan Machine and Tool Co on the now famous Tell-Tale Piston Rings. They are also manufacturing motor accessory tools of their own design under the name Tell-Tale.

The Tell-Tale piston ring is a one-piece gap joint individually cast, serrated surface, oil cooled piston ring and represents the grtatest progress in scientific manufacture of piston rings to date.

The Hartog organization is headed by S. D. Hartog as president, a patentee of note, and a skilled engineer. John Winter as secretary and treasurer, and Henry Till as vice president, constitute the board of directors. O. S. Miller is sales manager.

You're getting a June Style in a February Maxwell

THE MAXWELL car of today is so vastly improved in appearance that many persons believe we have produced a new model. That is not the case.

It is the same chassis, scarcely with a change, on which 300,000 Maxwells have been built.

But it is a better looking car. It is finer in finish; angular lines have been straightened out; fenders improved; bonnet simplified; cowl made flush with the top line of the body; seats thickened by three inches; circassian dash installed; gas tank slung in the rear, etc.

There are twenty-four things done to make it more beautiful.

We made the Maxwell simple to start with five years ago. Then we kept on making and making these cars all alike. We have now completed 300,000 of them.

There is logic in doing one thing and doing it well. We have followed that logic. And results tell today.

Maxwells have always been noted for their reliability. Now they will become noted for their beauty.

And today we are in a position to give you a June style in a February Maxwell, which a year ago seemed quite out of the question on account of the war.

Come and see the latest Maxwell.

TEBBETTS TELLS HOW THE U. & J. WON

Chiefly by Telling of the Worth of the Carburetor in Sunday Post-Dispatch.

One of the quickest and most unusual successes in the automobile accessory line in St. Louis is that of the L. B. Tebbetts & Co., 2125 Locust street, distributors for Missouri, Kansas and Southern Illinois for the U. & J. carburetor.

L. B. Tebbetts, an engineer by training, was attracted by the unusual claims made by the manufacturers of the U. & J. carburetor by the manufacturers at Chicago. Tebbetts wrote to the ocmpany that if they could substantiate their claims of an increase of mileage of at least 50 per cent and starting on the first revolution of the motor, he was ready to take on the distribution for Missouri and Southern Illinois.

The company wired to him to come to Chicago for a demonstration and Tebbetts, like a good Missourian, went "to be shown.' He was so well satisfied that the next week he opened his salesrooms on Locust street. That was in the latter part of July, 1918.

He decided that the best way to tell Ford owners and business concerns with fleets of delivery trucks and salesmen's roadsters of the merits of the U. & J. carburetor was through the columns of the Sunday newspapers. He has advertised in the Post-Dispatch consistently ever since.

What the results have been is indicated by the fact that more than 100 St. Louis business concerns have equipped their delivery trucks and salesmen's roadsters with from one to 20 carburetors and hundreds of Ford owners have installed the U. & J.

One of the most convincing things in connection with the installation of the U. & J. by business concerns, in almost every case a test was made from a few weeks to several months before the entire fleet was finally equipped.

Among the concerns that have installed more than five are the following: Ely-Walker Dry Goods Co., 20; Bell Telephone Co., 16; Manewal Bakery, 5; Union Electric, 6; Valier-Spies Millin gCo., 12; Carleton Dry Goods Co., 7; McKinney Bakery, 7; Board of Police Commissioners, 10; East Side Packing Co., 10; Jersey Farm Dairy, 5; St. Louis Roofing Co., 7; Excelsior Laundry, 10; St. Louis Dairy Co., 5; Truitt's Laundry, 5; Aluminum Ore Co., 5; East St. Louis Laundry Co., 5; Chapman Bros. Dyeing and Cleaning Co., 9, and East St. Louis & Suburban Railway Co., 7.

Tebbetts receives letters every day from Ford owners telling of their complete satisfaction with the performance of the U. & J.

In discussing his success with the U. & J. carburetor, Tebbetts said: "While the easy starting that comes with the U. & J., faster pick-up and more power appeal to the Ford owners, the big factor in connection with U. & J. performance is the ecnomy of operation. When a man can see an actual saving every time he fills his gasoline tank and knows that he is saving the price of from three to four gallons out of every 10, then it is merely a matter of arithmetic for him to figure out how soon the U. & J. has paid for itself."

BALANCE SHAFT TO GAIN POWER IN NEW BRISCOE

One of the qualifications of the new Briscoe models is additional power, which has been increased nearly 50 per cent by improvements and refinements made in the last three months, according to Frank Bishop, St. Louis distributer, who explains that the bore has been increased considerably and that every Briscoe crank shaft now undergoes a rotary counter balance test which, while there are other points that contribute to the increased power, are the principal factors in the increased horsepower.

A machine is used in the Briscoe factories testing the balance of the shafts. This machine is so constructed that the shafts may be tested at various engine speeds, for while a shaft may balance at one speed, it may not at another and vibration is usually the result.

This rotary test discloses the different periods of vibration and is of untold help in its elimination. The balancing of the crankshafts, the weighing of pistons and connecting rods make a perfectly balanced motor.

There are innumerable points to this power proposition—the lift of valves, the timing of valves, the cooling, the position of spark plugs—all of which have been worked out in the development of the engine.

POWER FIRST, ECONOMY NEXT IN BRISCOE CARS

When gasoline prices started to soar fuel economy was made the big objective of all motor car engineers. There never has been such a mighty effort to secure big power from little fuel as has been spent on motor design during the last 12 months.

In the days when gasoline was selling at 10 to 12 cents a gallon, the loss of fuel efficiency was overlooked. With the rising prices of gasoline, we have seen the introduction of refinements of engines which have reduced their weight, increased their power and enabled them to deliver more mileage to each gallon.

Today we find the Briscoe motor is built with the idea of power first and economy second. Both of these essentials have been incorporated with the greatest success.

Maxwell Holds Non-Stop Record

The world's automobile nonstop record performance still is held by the Maxwell. The Maxwell captured this from England with a run of 22,022 miles, during 44 days of continuous day and night running, in Southern California. The record was attained in the car running on the highways around Los Angeles with the test under official sanction of the Contest Board of the American Automobile Association. The Maxwell's performance record in this test was perfect.

Looks Like 4-Passenger Year.

W. B. Riley, sales manager of the Jordan Motor Car Co., believes this is to be a four-passenger year.

"Big cars will be needed for touring," says Riley, "because there will always be touring. But the convenience of a car is becoming a more and more important item year by year. It's the get-about ability of a car that is being emphasized now."

Riley says the Jordan four-passenger model, the Sport Marine, which proved so popular in 1918, will be continued during 1919.

Two Beautiful Cars for Every Season

MORE and more people are selecting the new style sedans and coupes as their family cars. And in this field the Chandler offers two most attractive models, each moderately priced.

Once it was necessary to pay exorbitant prices for closed cars. Now you can get the handsome and luxurious Chandler sedan and coupe for relatively little more than open cars.

These two newest Chandler models offer the very acme of comfort in all seasons. With their heavy plate glass windows closed they give snug protection against cold and rain and snow. With the windows lowered, by automatic adjustment, they are just as open to the sunshine and the soft air as is any type of car.

The Chandler sedan and coupe are of handsome design, beautifully cushioned and upholstered, and lustrous in finish. They are sturdily built to resist the stress and strain of rough roadways. Each is mounted on the one famous Chandler chassis which, through six years of honest production, has earned its place in the very front rank for mechanical excellence.

ESSEX IS MAKING ITS SHOW DEBUT

This New, Light Car Has the Riding Qualities of the Heavier Types.

"In the Essex, which is displayed at the Auto Show this year for the first time, only the highest grade of materials and workmanship have been used," said R. C. Frampton, general manager of the Hudson-Frampton Motor Car Co.

"It was designed by some of the leading engineers in America to meet the demand for a high-grade car light in weight, economical in upkeep and moderate in price.

"At the same time it has the easy riding qualities, the power for hills, and acceleration and smooth flexibility of operation and the beauty of outline of the most costly cars on the market. The car is built at the Hudson factory in Detroit.

"The Essex is so sturdily constructed that it rides over the roughest roads with the smoothness of a car of much greater weight. The riding quality of an automobile is in the springs. Road inequalities are the same, no matter what may be the size or length of the car. The springs of the Essex are as long and as flexible and as carefully designed as are those used under large and heavy cars and they give as good results.

"In the designing of the Essex, nothing in the way of comfort has been sacrificed to obtain mere appearance. The beauty of the car comes from inherent qualities of fitness of line and high ideals of workmanship. The backs of the seats reach to the shoulders, and the cushions are real seats, not just ledges. All of the levers and pedals are within easy reach assuring comfort even on the longest tours.

"In the past automobiles have been developed along two widely different lines. One has been towards a light cheap car. Economy of operation and low first cost have been its chief advantages. The other trend has been toward luxury, comfort and endurance at the expense of high first cost and heavy maintenance expense The Essex combines the advantages of both these types."

PACKARD SHOWS LIBERTY MOTOR

Famous Aviation Power Plant Long Thought of as Mystery Motor.

No single exhibit at the show will attract more attention than the Liberty motor, which will be the feature of the Packard booth. It will be mounted, with its propellor, on a block, in full working order. The Packard Missouri Motor Co. were fortunate in making arrangements for it with the Packard factory, where it was designed and built, being brought here specially for the Auto Show.

With a view of the Liberty itself the exhibit presents a pictorial history of how the Liberty motor came to be. Everybody remembers how the Liberty was for months "the mystery motor." Claims and counter claims were made about it; Congress and the President investigated it several times; finally Senator Hitchcock of Nebraska arose in the Senate and said "The Liberty motor is the Packard motor."

Early Types Shown.

In the Packard exhibit a photograph shows the first 12-cylinder aviation engine made in America, designed and built by the Packard in November, 1915, a year and a half before the United States entered the war Next appeared the Packard "905," built to the scale of military requirements. Then the Packard "905 No. 2," built with the first all-steel cylinders.

It was this second "905" that J. G. Vincent, one of the designers of the Liberty motor, took down to Washington in May of 1917, to submit as the standard aviation motor for the American air forces, and it was on this Packard engine that he claims to have based the design of the Liberty.

Set New Speed Records.

The first Packard aviation motor is still in commission, serving as the power plant of the racing chassis in which Ralph de Palma has set up new world's record for all distances from 10 to 600 miles. This car was shown in St. Louis at last year's Auto Show. The second one also is in a racing chassis, and driven by William A. Rader, has the record for all distances from one to 10 miles, at 130 miles per hour. It hasn't records for longer distances because nobody has been able to make tires that will stand up to such speed for more than a few miles.

MICHELIN'S PART IN WINNING THE WAR

No company in the whole American automobile industry has better reason to be proud of its contribution to the victory of the allied armies than the Michelin Tire Co. of Milltown, N. J. As everyone knows, this famous pioneer tiremaker is an international concern, with factories in France and other European countries, in addition to its big American plant.

"The other day," said a Michelin official, "one of the big tire companies sent out a notice to the effect that 5800 of their employes were called to the colors, and that of these eight had been killed in action. Called to the colors may mean one thing and may mean another, but our company had 3333 men actually fighting in the war, not for a few months, but for four solid years, and 511 of these died heroically in defense of the allied cause."

In its factories abroad the Michelin organization was working day and night making airplanes and munitions of war. For example, they built 2563 bombing planes of the largest size, 147 of which were turned over to Gen. Pershing. They turned out 342,000 shells. Of this number 27,700 were delivered to the American army.

Among the many miscellaneous articles made in the Michelin works, both for the American troops and for the French and English, were the following: Waterproof cloaks, 300,000; rubber gloves, 500,000; feed bags for horses, 500,000; sleeping bags, 200,000; tents, 250,000, and many gas masks.

The Michelin company has paid to the families of its mobilized staff while the heads of the families were in the war, a total sum of $1,880,000.

GATES HALF SOLES ARE PUNCTURE PROOF

There is perhaps no better time for a motorist to appreciate real service in tires than right after he has finished a most disagreeable and uncomfortable half hour changing a tire in snow and slush.

Punctures do the dirty work and only by getting puncture-proof tires can a man be assured of a total lack of minimum of tire changes.

However, the average motorist heretofore couldn't afford a puncture-proof tire. Now he can. It is not only claimed, but actually guaranteed, by the Gates Rubber Co. that the Gates Half-Sole Tire is puncture-proof, but figures prove that it costs only one-half as much, thereby putting puncture-proof service within the reach of all car owners.

Further, it becomes almost the duty of car owners to use Half-Sole tires because of the conservation they afford, the service and satisfaction they give, and the fact that the 20 per cent oversize means easier riding qualities.

NEW CLOSED MODELS IN OAKLAND DISPLAY

Featured by several timely and worth-while improvements that make for increased utility and comfort, a new sedan and coupe have been made the seasonable headliners of the Oakland Sensible Six exhibit at the automobile show.

Both the sedan and the coupe, for example, are equipped with heaters, which utilize the heat from the exhaust pipe and radiate pure, clean, warm air on the coldest of winter days and when the winds of spring and fall are raw and chill.

The body construction of the sedan and the coupe also has been changed, solid center posts having replaced the removable supports used in former Oakland models. These top, but also neutralize the road shocks which all-year-'round cars encounter in their strenuous service on rough country roads.

Painted an Oakland blue, with fenders and top finished in black, and upholstered in gray automobile cloth in harmony with carpet, curtains and other interior trimmings, the Oakland sedan and coupe are good to look upon, as all closed cars should be. Windows are raised and lowered at the will of the occupants, while illumination is by means of a dome light. The interiors are roomy and the seats are spacious and comfortable.

BUY NEW CARS, WANT OLD STEARNS MOTOR

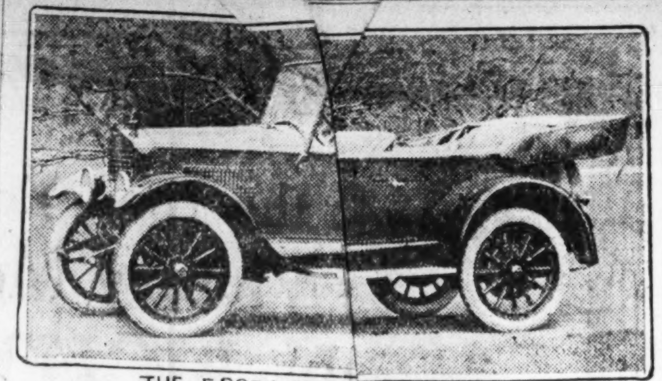
President Booker Explains That Engine Reaches Its Best Work After 50,000 Miles.

"Owners find that the Stearns-Knight motor improves with age, rather than depreciates," said G. W. Booker, president of the F. B. Stearns Co. recently. 'It is not uncommon for them to come back after running 50,000 or more miles, and want their original motor installed in a new chassis."

"In all the history of mechanical arts, no other record is given of worth increasing as operation continues. This motor does develop more power. It gains in flexibility, smoothness and the silence for which it is noted.

"For some time past the Cleveland plant has been engaged in the production of Rolls-Royce aviation motors. When it was found that the English concern could not meet the requirements or these famous motors, their engineers turned to America and selected the Stearns organization as best embodying the high standards required to build the Rolls-Royce engine.



THE ESSEX MAKES BOW ...

"Hundreds of these motors have been delivered, and the contract is successfully filled. It is a record of accomplishment, of which Stearns can well be proud. The Decision of manufacture required in building -Royce motors has established ...ternational standard."

...arns engineers have had a close ...t into the practices and methods of the English concern. That ...have not failed to take advantage a this opportunity was evidenced i..ne of Booker's statements. "...w man and every department ...hained in this experience. The re.. to peace finds the Stearns organ..ion fitted for even greater accomplishment."

CHANDLER BUILT IN 6 BODY STYLES

Three Closed Types and Three Open Cars Are All on One Chassis.

The Chandler Motor Car Co., Cleveland, is continuing from 1918 the six splendid body types that have been mounted on the one Chandler chassis, and all these are attractive in design, luxurious, comfortable and handsomely finished and upholstered.

The big, roomy Chandler seven-passenger touring car leads the line, while the four-passenger roadster continues to hold its favor with a big public. The four-passenger Dispatch car is all its name implies—a car to "go get there" in—snappy, fast and with just a touch of raciness in its makeup.

In the four-door convertible sedan, seating seven, and the four-passenger convertible coupe Chandler offers the very finest development of the all-season type of car. Beautifully built cars, both of them. With windows closed they offer snug protection against snow, rain or cold. With windows lowered or removed they are open to the sunshine and soft warm air of pleasant days.

Limousine Finely Equipped.

And the Chandler limousine has everything that an exceptionally fine limousine should have. The interior appointments are complete—beautiful mahogany paneling on the doors and front of tonneau; toilet case and smoking case of mahogany; highly nickeled coat hooks, umbrella holder and drop; silk cord hat rack; nickeled chauphone; dome, reading and step lights—in fact, all those appointments that add so much to the comfort of inclosed car service.

The touring car, the roadster, sedan, coupe and limousine are all finished in the standard Chandler blue body color, with black hood and fenders. The Dispatch car is finished in an attractive lighter blue for the body and hood, with black fenders and running gear.

The Lewis Automobile Co., Chandler distributers, are exhibiting the full line at the show.

OWEN MAGNETIC CAR STARTS ON SIXTH YEAR

This month marks the fifth anniversary of the Owen Magnetic car. Very few of these cars were manufactured in 1918 because of the Baker R. & L. Company's activities in war work and the Owen Magnetic is entering its sixth year under ideal conditions. The W-42 model was just being presented to the public when the Government requested that the plant be devoted to war work.

At the automobile show this model tocally a taolirshrdlcmfetashremfw tions and possibly the smartest color combinations in painting and upholstery.

The Baker R. & L. Co. had been satisfied with placing these cars among automobile buyers in the large cities and, therefore, the production never has reached a very great number. Each Owen Magnetic is practically a tailor-made car and naturally its sales are limited.

The unit in the past five years has been improved until today it is claimed to be the most perfect piece of motor car mechanism on the market. With the Owen Magnetic transmission the necessary operations can easily be cared for automatically and without any exertion on the part of the driver.

Watch for This Radiator

We are glad to announce that we have secured the distribution of the Columbia Six throughout this territory.

Why did we take it on?

It is this way:

It is only stating the truth to say that we have made such an unusual success in handling other cars that practically every car manufacturer has noticed it.

When we decided to take on another car, we were offered our pick of several of the best known cars.

But it was a mighty important business move—vital to us and our customers.

We moved slow. We compared the histories and personnels of the companies. And we chose the Columbia.

We chose it because we have watched the growth of this durable light six for several years past. We knew the men behind the company—a group of five veteran automobile manufacturers who have been responsible for the success of several of the largest companies.

We chose it because it provides several important features which can be found on no other car at any price. For example, the automatic motor temperature control accomplished by a thermostat and radiator shutters which actually increases the motor efficiency over thirty per cent.

That's why we picked the Columbia. That is why we can enthusiastically back it with our personal reputation and recommendation—why we say to each and every buyer in this territory that the Columbia Six is the greatest motor car value on the market today.

CRIPPS KEEPS CHASSIS, CHANGING ONLY BODIES

A year of service sees no real hange either in the construction or n the appearance of the new six-ylinder Scripps-Booth, which is beng displayed by the Velie Automolle Co. of St. Louis, distributers. wo new body designs have been dded, a sedan and a coupe, but the echanical features and outward apearance remain almost identically he same as they were last year.

All models follow the characteristics of Scripps-Booth design. The open models consist of a three-passenger roadster and a five-passenger touring car upholstered in leather with pantasote tops, fitted with curtains that open with the doors and plate glass rear windows. The roadster is equipped with an adjustable driver's seat. This may, with a few simple adjustments, be moved forward or backward to suit the size and whims of the driver. A five-passenger sedan and a four-passenger coupe complete the line.

These models are upholstered in an all-wool fabric. The interior metal work is silver-plated, with dull finish. A heater is provided as part of the regular equipment and automatic regulators are furnished to raise the glass in the windows of the doors.

All models are mounted on the same chassis, the power plant of which is of the valve-in-head type, with six 2 13-16 by 4¾-inch cylinders. The motor is fitted with pump cooling, pressure oiling and Remy two-unit starting, lighting and ignition. The clutch is a leather-faced cone with insert springs.

As the crowd flows through the Auto Show, it's only about twice in an hour that the different sort of buyer comes along. He is the man who makes more than surface discriminations. He is very positive as to what he wants in a motor car—and his examination of the car itself reveals definitely whether those values are there.

That man, when he reads this advertisement, seizes upon the claim that Westcott is the car with a longer life; and he makes this mental note: "Too important to pass by—I'll see the Westcott! If it's got the stuff in it, I'll know—and if in addition it has lines and comfort, it goes straight to the head of my list."

If you're either a buyer or a dealer who thinks along that line, we'll be mighty glad to see you at the Westcott display.

WILLYS-KNIGHT BODY MATCHES THE MOTOR

Noiseless and Classic in Design, Is Keynote of Eight Styles of Cars.

There is equally as much art in perfecting the design of an automobile body as in painting a masterpiece. This is exemplified by the Willys-Knight motor cars on exhibition at the Automobile Show.

Just as paintings express the soul of the artists, so may these models be said to express the minds of their designers.

Obviously the builders of Willys-Knight motors and the builders of Willys-Knight bodies have vied with one another in attaining perfection in these cars.

The engineers, in contributing their share, produced a motor that is quietness itself. It naturally behooved the coach-maker to produce a body absolutely devoid of even the minute noises which in a motor car equipped with the average engine, would not be heard. The Willys-Knight bodies must be as noiseless as the motor itself.

The body designers' contribution to Willys-Knight cars, however, did not end with this important item. In designing and constructing the body which was to do credit to such a motor os the Willys-Knight, the builders strove for distinctiveness, style, comfort and durability. A cursory examination of the models on exhibition at the Automobile Show will convince the most discriminating that the first three of these goals have been attained. Thousands of owners of Willys-Knight cars will testify to the fourth.

The Willys-Knight line includes eight models, all representing the latest achievements in the art of coach-builders. Among the most popular of these models is the Willys-Knight Four touring car.

It is of the streamline design, with a sloping windshield and crowned fenders. The upholstery is hand-buffed, long-grain leather, and is laid over resilient spring cushions. The seats are form-fitting. The tonneau floor is covered with heavy carpet and the front compartment with linoleum.

The top—of the one-man type—is gracefully designed. The side curtains are easily attached from the inside and the door curtains open with the doors.

The body fixtures include a flexible rope-cord and foot-rest in the tonneau, large pockets and leather grips on all doors, and a tool compartment beneath the front seat.

The body is finished in rich French blue. The wheels are of cream and the fenders and trimmings are in black enamel.

The car has a capacity of seven passengers.

The Willys-Knight Four Coupe, a four-passenger type, combines year-around utility with style and comfort. The Four Sedan, a car for all seasons, seats seven.

For suburban use the four limousine is a most practical car. The passenger compartment seats five persons; the driver's compartment two.

The Willys-Knight eight models—the seven-passenger touring car, the four-passenger coupe, the seven-passenger sedan, and the seven-passenger limousine, are ideal for those who anticipate buying more than a four-cylinder car.

ANOTHER PROOF FOR LAMBERT TRUBLPRUF

Phil Wagner, manager of the Lambert Trublpruf Tire Co., has returned from a 1200-mile trip covering the entire southeastern section of Missouri, appointing county representatives for Lambert Airless Cord Tires.

"My trip has demonstrated the great demand for an airless tire, one that will do away with punctures, blowouts and all the other vexatious trouble common to air compression in tires, and still give them pneumatic resiliency. My tour was over the worst roads in the State, and although the Trublpruf tires with which my car was equipped were run over 4000 miles prior to this trip, they do not, as yet, even with the extremely rocky roads encountered, show the slightest sign of wear.

"The pneumatic action of these tires, over these extremely poor roads in Missouri, was a revelation and a surprise to even myself. The farmers gathered around my car like honey bees, anxious to find a tire to equip their light trucks and passenger cars in order to avoid all delays."

The Lambert Trublpruf Tire Co. will exhibit at the automobile show.

VALVE FACING TOOL FOR THE CAR OWNER

The Tell-Tale Valve Facing and reseating tools recently placed upon the market, are filling a long-felt need for a universal tool for the purpose.

They are simple and economical and do not require an expert mechanic to manipulate them, therefore the farmer or repair man not fully equipped with machinery, or the city car owner, can do the work as well as can be done in the large machine shops.

These tools are manufactured by the S. D. Hartoz Manufacturing Co., who will demonstrate to all who call at their show rooms, 2638 Locust street, St. Louis, during show week.

Peerless Has Three Requisites

The Peerless Motor Car Co., in designing its inclosed car models, took into consideration the desires and habits of present-day owners. It was found after investigation that the most popular models must have three requisites—lightness of weight, free ventilation and ease of entrance and exit These characteristics have been embodied in the Peerless inclosed models on exhibition at the automobile show—the four-passenger coupe and the seven-passenger sedan.

SHARP REDUCTION IN PRICES OF GRANTS

Sales Director Tells How This Desirable Move Was Brought About.

One of the recent sensations in motordom is the announcement by the Grant Motor Car Corporation of a new schedule of prices for Grant sixes to take immediate effect. The Grant six touring car is now priced at $1120, a reduction of $130. Similar price reductions have been made throughout the entire Grant line. The three-passenger roadster is priced at $1120; the three-passenger coupe at $1625; the all-weather sedan at $1645, and the demountable sedan at $1400.

"This big price reduction is something for which we have earnestly striven since the release of our plant from Government work," says George S. Waite, sales director of the Grant Motor Car Corporation.

"Our aim and effort has always been to give the public the biggest possible value in a lightweight six-cylinder car. Accordingly, for the last 60 days, our cost and purchasing departments have been tremendously busy working along lines that would enable us to maintain Grant six quality while bringing Grant prices back to practically a pre-war basis. It was not by any means an easy problem, nor as it been solved without sacrifice of profit on the company's part, for we have every evidence that all the Grant sixes that could be manufactured could be readily sold at the prices which have obtained during the past season; but it is Grant policy to reduce selling resistance to the minimum by keeping the prices of Grant six automobiles at the lowest possible figures."

The Victory Model
MOON LIGHT SIX

Acclaimed in the East—the one real Post-War Car—the Moon Victory Model offers an unusual opportunity to those dealers who are facing a demand for an honestly improved model.

During the war—Moon designers and engineers paved the way for this model. Delco, Continental, Warner Gear, Timken, Borg and Beck, Fedders and many more manufacturers, have placed in their hands for the "Victory" model the ideas based upon their experience and best engineering talent and the full fruit of their manufacturing ability during the war.

With such a car—Moon dealers can now go into the market certain to profit by its unusual opportunity.

Easy Riding in Essex.

Automobile manufacturers are paying more attention this year than ever before to the easy riding qualities of their cars. In the new Essex 180 inches of springs are used, although the wheel base is only 108½ inches long. These springs contribute much to the car's notably easy riding qualities.

The Ram's-horn—able assistant to the Hot Spot, which makes Chalmers a great car

THERE has been so much favorable comment on the Hot Spot device of the Chalmers that often the Ram's-horn of this great car is overlooked.

The Ram's-horn completes the magnificent work of the Hot Spot, the main purpose of which is to fletcherize or "crack up" and heat the gas coming from the carburetor.

Having done its work the Hot Spot passes the 100% conditioned gas on to the Ram's-horn. Now here is where an important job begins.

Gas is a peculiar thing. It "sticks in corners," "collects at any angle," goes back to its raw state unless it is handled quickly and scientifically.

So the Ram's-horn, as one might gather from the name, is without sharp corners, has easy bends and entices the gas smoothly into each cylinder. The inside of it is not a rough casting. It is as smooth as glass.

Note the drawing above. See that the distance from the Hot Spot to each cylinder is the same. That is the great secret of the Ram's-horn.

Most cars have a manifold that feeds gas into one cylinder, whatever is left over goes on into number two, the residue to number three and so on.

Cylinder number six is usually "starved" or gets "raw gas."

Thus you see why the Chalmers engine runs so smoothly, why it gets every last bit of power out of gas, why cold weather does not affect its starting, and why it runs cool on a warm day.

If you have not looked over a present day Chalmers you have an incomplete education on the modern motor car. For Chalmers now is considered one of the few great cars of the world.

VELIE FACTORY CHIEF SEES CAR SHORTAGE

Get Delivery of Your Favorite Automobile as Soon as Possible, He Advises.

H. L. Schnure of the Velie Automobile Co. of St. Louis has received a letter from F. E. Bradfield, secretary and sales manager of the Velie factory, giving the results of an exhaustive investigation of the automobile market as it exists today.

The essential points brought out in Bradfield's research are as follows: Although the war is over, the majority of automobile manufacturers still have considerable war work to complete, which will require a certain portion of their manufacturing facilities for some months to come.

It is impossible to tell definitely the amount of raw material which will be available for automobile production, but it is certain that the allotment will not be adequate, since the source of supply has not yet been fully converted to a peacetime basis.

There is no question but that the demand for automobiles this year will greatly exceed last year. The foreign markets which have been closed to American manufacturers for some time are now demanding cars, and export shipments are being made. In our own country, money which was reserved for expected war-time needs will now go into motor cars as well as other much wanted essentials.

Generally speaking, the entire country is prosperous. The Eastern population has made good profits from war work, cotton has brought extremely high prices in the South and Southwest; the Middle West and Western farmers made more money last year than ever before; the Pacific Coast, on account of shipbuilding and timber products, is in an enviable position. This, together with the fact that during the past 12 to 18 months the production of automobiles in this country has been materially decreased, and also that practically every automobile manufacturer will be unable for many months to come to get back to normal production, indicates clearly that there will be a larger demand for automobiles than can possibly be filled. This means a shortage of cars.

The price question, which has been a disturbing factor, is settled and practically all manufacturers have announced prices which they will maintain until July 1. Even then no reductions of consequence can be made since the two controlling factors, labor and material, will remain in great demand until the period of reconstruction is over.

To briefly summarize the meaning of all this—Government contracts yet to be completed, shortage of raw material and finished units entering into the construction of passenger automobiles will continue for some time to limit the production to approximately 50 or 60 per cent of normal. The increase of foreign trade, the general prosperity of the entire country and stabilizing of the price situation has created a demand greater than normal. Therefore, decreased production and increased demand means a big shortage of automobiles and Bradfield's advice to the dealer and buyer of cars alike is to get delivery of his favorite car as soon as possible.

CASE CONTINUES THE "ALL FEATURE SIX"

"The Case All Feature Six, which made its debut in the motor world last January, has proven so universally satisfactory and has grown so popular with our trade," says W. S. Roberts, local branch manager of the J. I. Case T. M. Co., "that it will be continued without a single change.

"The car is furnished in three models—the family model, the all-season closed car and the four-passenger sport model.

"Some of the attractive features are, the Red Seal Continental Motor, special Rayfield carburetor, Westinghouse equipment, Borg & Beck clutch and Grant Lees transmission with S. K. F. bearings.

"We are very optimistic over the future sales outlook. The present acreage of wheat is 7,000,000 acres in excess of last year and the present condition is 98 as compared with a 10-year average of 78. With high prices and good crops assured, the coming season should be a prosperous one for the farmer and what helps the farmer, helps the merchant, banker and business man."

SAXON GUARANTEES ITS PRICES TILL JUNE

Directly following the signing of the armistice came the announcement of the Saxon Motor Car Corporation that the factory would protect all owners and dealers on the price of Saxon six. Moreover, Saxon is allowing its dealers to sign contracts with purchasers to the effect that the price will not be reduced further until June, 1919, and probably not then.

This contract agrees that in case the car is reduced in price before this time, a refund will be made to the holder of this contract. So the automobile buying public will gain nothing by waiting to purchase Saxon cars.

John Boe, president of the St. Louis Motor Car Co., Saxon distributers, said: "Saxon dealers all over this section say this guarantee is a great sales help and many of them are now laying in a good stock of cars in order to take advantage of the big business that is sure to come within the next few weeks."

Delco Light Using Exide.

Word has just reached the local office of the Exide Battery Depots, Inc., that a new contract has just been closed whereby the Domestic Engineering Co., the manufacturers of the Delco Light farm lighting plants, will continue to use the Exide make of battery, exclusively in connection with their plants.

Some idea of what this contract means may be gained from the fact that although Delco Light has only been on the market a few years, there are now over one million cells of Exide make in use on these plants throughout the country."

Double Mileage Is Now Assured

What Tire Science Has Done for Motorists

A new standard of tire service has been established.

If you are a car owner and paying your own tire bills you should know this.

More than 350,000 motorists and the largest business houses in the United States are now getting from 10,000 to 15,000 miles out of their tires.

Not only double the ordinary mileage, but with it better tire satisfaction than they have ever had before.

Tire science has made this possible by developing and perfecting the Gates Half-Sole Tire, the greatest forward step in pneumatic tire construction that has been taken in ten years.

This modern tire has already changed the tire buying habits of several hundred thousand wide-awake business men.

And is it any wonder when you consider that the Gates Half-Sole Tire is sold under a stronger guarantee than any other tire on your car—is 20% oversize—guaranteed puncture-proof, and still costs you only ½ as much.

It will pay you to investigate.

There are now over 900 Authorized Service Stations in the United States and the trained men at these stations are ready and willing to show you without the least obligation.

These are in nearby territory.

MORE THAN 1000 ATTENDED THE MULLANPHY CELEBRATION

Fathers, Mothers and Children of All Ages Took Part in the Festivities.

More than 1000 attended the opening of the Community Service Organization activities at Mullanphy Center Friday night; first to be established with all lines of work, play and study, in St. Louis.

Mothers with babies in their arms, fathers with older children, and hundreds of young boys and girls joined in the festivities last night. A community sing, under the direction of Miss Teresa Finn of Soldan High School, accompanied by the Soldan Orchestra, a picture show and a dance were features. Miss Edna Kissinger, Mrs. Anthony Ittner and Miss Rosilyn Bloch, home demonstration agents, and Miss Sarah Wolf of the Park Department were among those assisting.

The center was opened by Mrs George A. Bass, Mrs. H. P. Fritsch and members of the precinct and ward divisions of the Community Service Organization, among whom were Dr. and Mrs. George Cook, Mrs. Hilda Cook and Mrs. Mary Hall.

TOTAL NUMBER OF UNEMPLOYED HERE NOT OVER AVERAGE

10,000 to 15,000 Jobless About the Same as Noted Normally in February—Problem Acute Elsewhere.

The situation of idle labor throughout the country, which has steadily grown more perplexing since work on war contracts was stopped, is being handled by the United States Employment Agency in St. Louis, which claims to be chiefly instrumental in keeping the situation here at about the level of previous Februarys of normal times.

Weekly surveys by the Government of the local labor situation, based on data supplied by 101 of the largest employers of labor, and from the largest labor unions, show 10,000 to 15,000 men and women here at present without employment.

This number, according to a man who has conducted a fee employment agency here for 40 years, is not uncommon, as compared with midwinter periods of previous years, excepting 1918, perhaps, the first winter of our intensive manufacture of war materials.

Efficient System.

The United States Employment Bulletin for January, published in the interest of the unemployed and giving statistics compiled to Dec. 10, presenting the last report of a national survey, speaks at length of problematical conditions in other cities, but does not mention St. Louis, except as having a very efficient employment system.

The bulletin reports surplusage of labor far above normal for this time of year at Cleveland, Detroit, Buffalo, Toledo and Butte, with Florida and Arizona suffering most as states, and local Government agents say that Chicago has lately reported a large number of unemployed, four times that of the number of idle in this city.

In spite of these reports employment agents here predict a quick return to normal employment, and prophesy an actual dearth of labor by July 1, when it is believed most of the manufacturers who were engaged on war contracts will have resumed production along old lines to supply depleted stocks in this country as well as to meet export demands for American products which are bound to come with peace.

Added Production.

All but one of the large St. Louis industries which had war orders will resume operations exclusively along former lines of manufacture, the exception being that the St. Louis Car Co. will add to its manufacture of traction cars other production, made possible by additional facilities created in handling war contracts. Most of the large plants are utilizing the present lull to make repairs for which no time was taken during the intensive production of munitions.

In St. Louis an average of 3000 civilians apply weekly for employment at the Government free agency in the Pontiac Building, Seventh and Market streets, and from 1600 to 2000 are placed; of 150 women who apply weekly, 40 per cent are placed.

This percentage of replacements, at a time when most of the large manufacturing plants are operating with reduced forces and munitions plants are making repairs and changing their facilities to conform to commercial production, is regarded as unusual by the Government employment agents, and they are anticipating a trebled demand for labor when the railroads receive new appropriations and other business is resumed on something like the normal scale.

District Has 65,000 in Army.

Government agents say they have information that there are yet about 65,000 men in the military service who will return to the St. Louis Federal employment district, which extends into the State for a distance of about 60 miles. It is calculated that 40 per cent of this number will care for themselves, while the remainder will seek employment through Government agencies or the influence of friends. But it is pointed out that these men will be released gradually, in such small units as can be placed with reasonable co-operation of employers, thus averting what might at first glance appear to be a serious problem.

What to do with the returning soldier is not so perplexing to the employment agents as predictions when industry will resume normal production to assimilate the great body of workers formerly employed on war orders.

The Government employment service was established as an emergency institution and principally to divert labor from congested areas to places where it could be employed, rather than as an agency to accommodate the "floater," who is always a problem, or the chronic helpless type. The service attempts in the main to alleviate situations aggravated by a surplus in one place and a shortage in another by sending the man to the job without expense to himself.

Branch for Soldiers.

Returned fighters out of employment are accommodated at a special branch of the Government agency, at 902 Olive street. From Dec. 16, 1918, to date, the agency had 3695 available jobs for which there were 2503 applicants. Positions were accepted by 2084 men, leaving a surplus of 1611 jobs in that period. It is estimated by this bureau that there are not more than 500 unemployed soldiers in St. Louis. Fred B. Dolan, special agent of the Department of Labor for this district, said there was no excuse for this condition, as there are jobs for all returned fighters not seeking special work, and returned fighters who complain of no opportunity to earn a living should be referred to the agency for relief.

C. A. Reed, examiner in charge of the main Government employment office in the Pontiac Building, said he could place at once about 1500 railroad mechanics, including boilermakers and machinists, and also a large number of men in Nebraska, Kansas and Illinois, for school teaching and educational work at salaries ranging from $720 to $3000 a year, and that from now on the railroads will be demanding large numbers of men, which will relieve the situation. Previous to a month ago, he said, railroads were taking about 500 men a week, but suddenly shut down on labor owing to the exhaustion of their construction budgets.

He said a careful survey of the entire State shows Missouri in very good condition as compared to other states.

800 Men to Be Laid Off.

The St. Louis district of the Federal Employment Service does not extend east of the Mississippi River, and industrial surveys consequently are not made by the St. Louis office in East St. Louis or any part of the district across the river.

The superintendent of the American Steel Foundries, in East St. Louis, announced last week that 800 men had been laid off, and 400 more, the remainder of the force, about March 1. This corporation had war orders, all of which have been cancelled. In peace times the plant manufactured railroad equipment, none of which is being ordered now, according to an official of the company.

It is estimated that these 1200 men will swell the number of the unemployed in East St. Louis to about 2000.

Inquiry at Granite City disclosed that the large plants there are operating with greatly reduced forces, but expected resumption of peacetime production soon.

Carburetor Has Leaning Device

Economy was the goal of Cadillac engineers when they incorporated an automatic "leaning" device in the Cadillac carburetor. This is an integral part of the carburetor and serves the same purpose as the so-called "compensators," "vaporizers" and "gas savers."

National

It is the uncommon task that the National does unusually well. This was conclusively proven on the military roads of France, where the power and stamina of the National Sedan were put to the test of army service. That the efficient motor and the rugged chassis of this distinctive and able closed car were equal to the most arduous task is the common testimony of the officers who rode in National Sedans from GHQ to the front.

THREE BODY TYPES OFFERED BY COLUMBIA

The Barth Motor Car Co. will have on display at the Auto Show several models of the Columbia car, recently taken by this company.

The Columbia offers three body types on a chasis with a wheel base of 115 inches and a six-cylinder Continental engine with 3¼ by 4½ bore and stroke. They are a five-passenger touring car, four-passenger sport model and a five-passenger sedan. Standard units such as Stromberg carbureter, Borg & Beck clutch, Timken rear axle, Ward-Leonard starting and lighting and Atwater Kent ignition are used.

NEW HOME FOR THE LAFAYETTE TIRE CO.

The Lafayette Tire and Vulcanizing Co., for several years located at 608 Lafayette avenue, have opened a new store at 1811 South Broadway, which will be used as a retail store for the sale of tires, U. & J. carburetors, Ford parts and a complete line of automobile accessories, paints, polishes and oils.

They have also installed a special department for Dri-Kure tire retreading and tire and tube repairing. They also maintain a modern, well-equipped repair shop for automobiles. Leo Biedermann, president of the company, says that the business is growing so rapidly that he is now considering additional space.

MISSOURI HUNTSMEN FAVOR LATE SEASON

Assurance Government Recognizes Inequality in Opportunity Cheers League at Dinner.

Assurances of a late-winter shooting season on waterfowl in Missouri and surrounding states under the Federal bird regulations, to begin possibly next year, contributed a cheering note to the annual dinner of the Missouri Fish and Game League at Hotel Statler last night.

Members of the league, who have had this matter up with the Government, were told that the Biological Survey, which makes the regulations, has become convinced that an inequality in opportunity operates against a zone in the middle Mississippi valley from Ohio to Kansas, and that the states in this zone are to have a readjustment in the regulations. The Government has not set a date for this change, but it was understood that common consent upon the part of sportsmen in the district affected to accept such a division of the shooting season would hasten it.

Position of the League.

The Government's policy, it was said, is not to penalize all sportsmen out here for the occasional uprisings against the Federal law and attempts from this quarter to embarrass either the operation of the law or appropriations for its enforcement. However, it does feel that while these attacks continue the rest of the country would be more disposed to believe that a concession was made to these states because they fought the law than because an inequality in sport operated against them, which would doubtless induce other sections to rise and fight for the same thing.

The position of the league was explained to be this: It does not know whether the principle which the Federal law seeks to establish is constitutional. Judge Trieber, a Federal Judge in the Eastern District of Arkansas, who first held the former Federal law to be unconstitutional, has recently fined violators of the present law without raising the constitutional question. The league feels that in the interval through which this question may be contested in the courts, possibly covering a term of years, acceptance of a division of the shooting season such as is proposed would be advisable.

Pictures of Big Game.

Louis W. Buckley, manager of the Conventions and Publicity Bureau of the Kansas City Chamber of Commerce, came to the dinner to assure the league of Kansas City's co-operation in a movement to secure State parks in Missouri and more fish hatcheries with which to stock the streams.

Norman McClintock of Pittsburg, Pa., exhibited moving pictures of big game in winter haunts, showing how the Government feeds the elk, mountain sheep, mule deer and antelope through the winter months. He showed pictures of one herd of 3500 elk, one-tenth of which perished last winter when the Government ran out of hay.

EASE OF OPERATION FEATURE IN ALLEN

One of the features of interest at the show is the Allen 41 touring car exhibited by the Mound City Buggy and Auto Co.

The 1919 Allen five-passenger touring car, with its graceful lines and sturdy, clean construction, strikes a responsive chord in the heart of every motorist and appeals alike to the conservative, value-seeking business man and ot women drivers who want an attractive car for their personal use.

The car is light, well-balanced and carries a cleverly designed and comfortable body. The power plant is the well-known Allen motor and transmission, four cylinders, 3¾ by 5, with thermosyphon cooling system and Connecticut manual ignition. Body finishes are choice of hazel brown or dark olive green, with black radiator and fenders and cream-colored wheels.

Pain has been taken to simplify the operation of the car—the entire electric control is centralized on the steering post right under the driving wheel. Brake levers and pedals are within easy reach.

KNOW YOUR OWN CAR, ADVISE VELIE FACTORY

Police departments and insurance companies have been very successful in breaking up organized groups of automobile bandits throughout the country, but it is surprising how few motor car owners can describe their own cars.

There are certain things every motorist should know. The Velie Motor Corporation advises every driver to acquaint himself with the following data pertaining to his car:

In addition to a general description of your car, its make, color, capacity, peculiarities, etc., be able to give the license and motor number—in fact, all numbers which appear on the different units; be able to identify the top—whether carried up or down, description of tires, make, size, tread and serial numbers. The car equipment and any special marks which may exist in places unknown to others than yourself.

Any Velie agent will gladly point out to Velie owners the location of just such identification marks "Know your car" is a good slogan to have in mind at all times.

KISSEL IS IN THE EXCLUSIVE CLASS

"To prophesy that an automobile can reach 100 per cent efficiency in inexclusive body lines, as well as mechanical excellence, is but the logical conclusion drawn from an inspection of models now on exhibition at the Automobile Show," says H. Rottersman, Rottersman Automobile and Truck Co., St. Louis distributers.

"This is the day of individuality in motor cars. That is why Mr. Kissel in designing the new Kissel custom-built models, has been prolific in those individualized refinements and specialized mechanical features that give the expensive motor cars that entree into America's exclusive set."

STEWART TRUCK NOW IN FIVE MODELS

"Stewart Motor production," says J. E. Gillespie of the Stewart Motor Car Corporation, who is seeking a St. Louis distributor and is showing the Stewart line at Leonard and Locust streets., "now includes the very important addition of a 3½ ton truck, which makes a total of five models, namely, ¾-ton 1-ton 1½-ton, 2-ton and 3½-ton, now being turned out by the Sewart factory.

"The latter have only just made their apearance on the market, but the quantity now on hand is sufficient to guarantee immediate deliveries. The reception already accorded the 3½-ton truck has been more than gratifying, and its success promises even better than I predicted. The factory, in fact, has already been enlarged to meet a big demand, which is forecasted by the orders already in hand.

"We are showing the new truck at the Sixty-ninth Regiment Armory and I"ll miss my guess if it doesn't prove one of the big hits of the show."

Regarding the future outlook for the motor truck industry, no one is more optimistic than Herrman. He predicts that this will be a banner year for the trade, and, further, believes the show will be highly productive of orders, with Stewarts coming in for a very generous slice of the business.

As for Stewart production( he says the factory is turning out twice the quantity of last year and is speeding to even outstrip this record.

DRI-KURE TIRE CO. WILL WELCOME VISITORS

G. H. Crume, president of the Dri-Kure Tire and Retreatding Co., announces that special arrangements have been made to demonstrate the process used by this company during show week.

Crume says that the lessons learned during the war as to the conservation of tires are not soon to be lost, and that already his company has much evidence that car owners are going to profit by this lesson in thrift. "Epecially are we confident," said Crume, "that those persons who had their old tire treated by the Dri-Kure process are not going back to throwing them away. Our process materially lengthens the life of a tire, and this is a much more profitable process than discarding them. Our customers have the advantage of a new tread vulcanized on the old casing under a pressure of 3000 pounds to the inch. This is a greater pressure than is used in factories."

Motor Car Review

ST. LOUIS POST-DISPATCH

Automobile Section

PART FOUR. ST. LOUIS, SUNDAY MORNING, FEBRUARY 16, 1919. PAGES 1—16B.

Room Here for 1800 More Heavy Trucks on Basis of Other Cities' Motor Census

Only 1700 Here Now and New Opportunities Unfolding With Extensive Highway Development—Some Things a Truck Buyer Should Remember.

TRUCK men estimate that there are 1700 motor trucks in St. Louis devoted to heavy hauling. This estimate, obviously, does not include the business cars, nor even heavier delivery vehicles that are made by adding special equipment to light motor car chasses.

The same men estimate that if the heavy hauling in St. Louis had been motorized to the extent that such work has been motorized in Cleveland, Detroit and some other cities, that there would be in use 3500 trucks.

There are reasons for the smaller percentage of trucks in St. Louis. But these reasons are rapidly disappearing and all persons connected with the motor truck trade predict that they will entirely disappear within the next two years, or perhaps a little longer.

Truck manufacturers, dealers, users and service men agree that the motor truck business presents one of the most alluring of mercantile fields in the city. They are predicting big things and they say that, without a doubt, the motorizing of the heavy transportation in St. Louis and its immediate trade territory will permit an increased volume of business within a given territory, insure greatly improved service and lessen the congestion at the shipping terminals of the overtaxed common carriers.

Need of Good Roads.

The chief drawback to motor transportation in this community, as all concerned see it, is the lack of uniform good roads. This does not apply strongly within the city itself, although there is room for improvement on some much-used city streets and certain roadways that link heavy traffic thoroughfares, but more especially to the suburban territory.

To be used at its best, the motor truck must have something besides short hauls. The "million dollar pike" to Belleville illustrates this point.

The Belleville pike has enabled many coal firms to motorize their business to handle the local rush, but enabling them to haul coal from the Belleville district at other periods. When this pike was opened there was much discussion as to motor hauling over it. But that question is solving itself. The solution is shown by the fact that there are a number of buildings in St. Louis that are supplied with coal brought from Belleville mines on motor trucks. In some cases the trucks so employed have loads of other merchandise to Belleville.

The building of this road has permitted many firms to put into service adequate motor truck fleets that did not before feel that they could afford to maintain them. This applies to firms which have a rush at certain seasons of heavy hauling for short distances, but at other periods they have not the use for a fleet of trucks that is adequate to handle this rush. But the same firm may have traffic relations with the Belleville district that can be handled when the local traffic is not heavy. This supplies employment for the trucks at these periods in profitable work.

Bad Strip on Alton Road.

The Alton district, it is estimated, is much more adaptable to the motor truck traffic than even the Belleville district. But this line has not been developed because there is a short strip of "fair weather road" on the Alton route that prohibits steady and reliable service between St. Louis and Alton. Given good roads and a return load bureau, and all who have studied this question assert that the Alton highway would become an extremely important traffic route.

The same is true in practically every direction from St. Louis. Where good roads exist, truck transportation lines are operating as far as 50 miles. Usually these roads go into sparsely settled communities and the freight is confined to farm produce into St. Louis and local supplies on the return trip.

A second problem, has been the nature of the big freight terminals in St. Louis. These terminals make for short hauls and a limited loading capacity. They often congested during the rush hours and truck owners object to their vehicles standing in line for loads. The lost hours offset other advantages. The truck men assert that they are reaching a solution of this problem through the trucks themselves and they expect that in the near future a complete solution will be found, which may be in the use of a style of trailer not yet in general use.

Buyers' Problems.

With a view of aiding in the solution of some of the problems that confront the prospective truck buyer today, the Post-Dispatch asked a truck sales manager for his opinion. He replied:

"One serious difficulty is the various kinds of advice offered to the truck prospect. He becomes confused. The situation is this: We may get a tip from the man that he expects to buy a truck, or someone may suggest that a firm had decided to use trucks. We send a salesman to see him. Just how it happens, I do not know, but the next day, or certainly within the week, every truck-selling house in the city will hear of this prospective sale and there is a rush of truck salesmen to that man's office. The first thing we know, he is confused with arguments as to this truck or that one, not as to trucks as a proposition.

"If I contemplated buying a truck today, I would pick out one of the standard make, assure myself that this truck was sold here by a reliable house and that an adequate service station and parts department was maintained here. The service station and parts stock is very important, because no truck is yet made absolutely perfect, nor are trucks proof against accidents and wear.

"After I had made a selection of a a truck, tentative of course, I would go to the man selling those trucks and outline my wants. For the present, at least, I would not talk to any other man. Most of the trucks are sold by men perfectly capable of giving the average business man 'much good dope' on the use of trucks. Truck sales agencies or dealers have facilities for analyzing business as to truck use.

Some Trucks Unsuited.

"I would go over the situation carefully with this one house and learn as much as possible about the prospect of my own business in this new field. It may be that this analysis of a business will eliminate the truck which the prospective purchaser has selected. If this is done clearly, the salesman will be as glad to know it as the man who is going to buy the car.

"I say this because any good motor salesman knows only too well that to sell a truck where it is unsuited is a very poor deal, and no worthy truck salesman will make such a sale.

"But if the inquiry does not eliminate the truck under consideration, but the prospective buyer has seen another truck that he thinks he might prefer, it is not harder to stop the negotiations then and intelligently examine the other truck than it was at any other time.

"Every prospective truck buyer should approach the purchase as a question of providing himself with transportation, not the mere buying of a truck. It is all right for him to make inquiries of other truck owners, but he should look to the comparison of that business with his own.

"Also, when a prospective truck owner asks a fellow business man about this truck or that one, he should inform himself as to the conditions under which the man he inquires of works his trucks. Some trucks are well cared for and are entirely popular with their owners. Other firms neglect their trucks and eventually come to believe that the fault is in the truck and they condemn the make of truck they use, when in fact they should condemn the men who care for them."

Truck Always Clean.

"See that truck standing across the street?" said this salesman. "We are very proud of that truck and of its driver. When we sold that truck, the buyer placed it in charge of the man who had taken such good care of his horses in years gone by. He is still in charge and he babies this truck just as he fondled his horses before it. It is never hungry for gas nor thirsty for oil. The engine always is clean. This driver never plunges into a bad strip of road at race speed. He believes that careful driving is more economy than repairs. That truck has been in use two years and has never been in a shop.

"But it works, and works hard.

NATIONAL ASSOCIATION WILL WORK FOR OWNERS

Organization Made Effective by St. Louisan—Outlines Platform of Work.

When the members of the National Automobile Dealers' Association, in their annual meeting in Chicago two weeks ago, named St. Louis as the home of the executive offices of that organization they not only paid tribute to St. Louis as a city and the "center of the United States," but they paid a high compliment to a St. Louisan. F. W. A. Vesper was the chief reason for this move. The offices were officially placed here because Vesper was here. The association re-elected him president and put the offices where they would be handy for him. Previously the by-laws had designated Chicago as the executive office.

President Vesper made the N. A. D. A. He undertook this big task a year ago because of the war difficulties that confronted the automobile dealers. He saw the need of organization and acted for the good of the trade. The association did good work for the dealers, and incidentally for the owners of motor vehicles.

As the war emergency passed, Vesper wanted to retire and let another man handle the peace time task. But the association presented him with a loving cup and drowned his protests by singing "For He's a Jolly Good Fellow," re-elected him and sent the executive offices along with him.

During the year of war work the peace time need of a dealers' association was many times demonstrated. Today it has an immense field. Harry G. Moock, the business manager of the association, has these tasks in hand. He has opened offices at 3124A Locust street, in Motor Row, where he is at the service of dealers. But the N. A. D. A. has greater ideals than those of merely aiding dealers in their time of trouble. It hopes to increase their efficiency and to eliminate some practices.

"We have certain objectives," said Moock, "that are as vital to the car owners as they are to dealers, perhaps more so. As movements especially to aid owners of cars I will mention the following:

The divisional chairmen and the committees named by dealers in each state will work with the N. A. D. A. headquarters during the year to bring about uniformity motor car laws and to eliminate unfair acts. We hope to make it so that motorists driving from one state to another will not be in danger of violating headlight, speed and license laws of which they know nothing.

The N. A. D. A. will foster the rural motor express, thus aiding to reduce the cost of living and to conserve the large portion of food that is now wasted because of a lack of transportation.

We hope to eliminate by education, the irresponsible and careless members of the industry and to inoculate better business methods, cleaner shops, proper records and thereby raise the standard of business to that of the drygoods, hardware and drug stores.

Automobile stealing is receiving careful attention of our association which will, through its legal department, assist morally and financially to the end that the stealing of a motor vehicle will become a felony in all states. Encouragement and active assistance will be given to prosecuting officers to bring about conviction of thieves.

The association will work through civic and commercial bodies to enlist the help of citizens to eliminate the careless driver, the thoughtless pedestrian, dangerous railroad crossings, short road curves and other dangers.

Insurance on motor conveyances are constantly mounting in cost. We hope through legislation to eliminate certain hazards and by education to change conditions so that premiums will be lowered.

"Of course, it is an axiom of business today that what benefits the dealer in the end benefits the public," said Moock, "and we hope to benefit both. The dealer's biggest interest is in his customer."

How to Find Short Circuit.

When two of the wires of the lighting or starting systems are producing a short circuit an inevitable accompaniment of the condition is heat. By feeling carefully along the line the operator usually detects the presence of a short by the heat that is being generated.

TWO TRADE DINNERS FEATURE SHOW WEEK

Edward F. Jordan Will Address Car Dealers, F. A. W. Vesper the Equipment Men.

Announcement is made by President Joseph A. Schlecht of the St. Louis Automobile Manufacturers and Dealers' Association that a special dinner will be held for out-of-town automobile dealers at the Planters Hotel Wednesday at noon. It is expected that 500 to 700 visiting motor car dealers will be at the dinner to hear a brilliant address by Edward S. Jordan, president of the Jordan Motor Car Co., and an equally good one by E. E. Peake, secretary of the Kansas City Motor Car Dealers' Association.

President John F. Shuford of the Motor Accessory Trade Association announces a dinner also at the Planters Hotel for Thursday at noon, at which President Fred W. A. Vesper of the National Automobile Dealers' Association will speak to the visiting dealers on "The Automobile Conditions Now and Next Fall." Robert E. Lee will also speak. All dealers in St. Louis as well as those from the adjacent cities are cordially invited to these dinners.

Motor Vehicle Traffic Is Pushing the Good Roads Movement to Success

Thousands of Persons Who Never Before Were Interested in Highways Are Now Enlisted for All Year, Hard Surface Roads.

GOOD roads and the motor vehicle traffic recently have become closely associated topics. Motor vehicles have served to multiply the expense of bad roads and they have served to call to the attention of hundreds of thousands of persons the educational, moral, financial and social advantages of good highways. It seems strange that such an obvious proposition as good roads should await any outside influence, even as important as that of the motor car industry, to put it over.

But good roads are going over in the next few years. The proposition already has gained a speed that cannot be checked. It is one of the anomalies of our civilization that this movement advanced only in irregular waves until the motor vehicle and soldier employment arguments came along with a big push.

Much of the present feeling as to good roads has been due to the experiences of the war, but even before the emergencies that arose when the railroads broke down, there was a growing tendency toward good roads. The outbreak of the war found many states repairing their good roads laws. This movement was brought about by the Federal state aid law and the state laws that dovetailed with this were similar to the Hawes good roads law in Missouri.

State Bond Projects.

The recent National Highways Congress, which met in Chicago and fashioned the pending Federal national highways law, has added another impetous to the road movement. This most recent movement tends toward state issues of good roads bonds. Illinois got in this movement a little ahead of other states and voted a $60,000,000 bond issue last November. It was proposed that the present Missouri Legislature authorize an issue of $50,000,000, but when the Missouri Hard Surface Road Association was organized recently at Jefferson City, the members were informed that this bond issue could not be put over until the Constitution was changed. This means a referendum to the people. Good roads leaders said at this meeting that the Hawes law was in every way satisfactory as soon as the politics at the head of it was eliminated.

But despite such slips as have occurred in Missouri, there is a big movement under way. The following figures show something of the progress under the Federal aid road act. These figures do not include any work planned by present Legislatures and "after-the-war" movements, which are a considerable total:

Until Dec. 18, 1918, 755 projects were approved by the Secretary of Agriculture. These projects involve the improvement of 7867 miles of public roads at a total estimated cost of $57,632,000, of which the Federal Government has been requested to contribute $21,602,000.

There have been actually completed to date 12 projects involving a total of 51 miles of road, costing approximately $617,548, and on which Federal aid in the amount of $260,660.19 was paid.

7500 Ready to Build.

Altogether, there are more than 7500 miles of road for which most of the steps preliminary to construction have been taken so far as the Bureau of Public Roads is concerned. Numerous other projects not yet reported to the department have been completed or are under construction, so that the sum total of the road work now in progress under Federal aid is greater than appeals in this summary.

From the sandy coast of Florida to the pine-clad hills of Maine and through the wheat fields of the North on to the Pacific coast and down to the fringe of Old Mexico, the road-building work is going on. Every state has accepted its contribution from the Government, and, while no organized effort has been made along those lines to the present time, the states are working gradually to the system of national highways, which is so strongly indorsed by travelers generally.

The work of the Federal department, as well as that of the State, has been limited during the last year by abnormal labor conditions and increase in cost, coupled with a decrease in efficiency. These factors will be improved this year, and with restrictions lifted road officials generally believe that 1919 will see the greatest year in the history of modern road work.

Seven-Year Program.

Coupled with the plans already outlined for expenditures on the roads is the legislative program now before Congress, which provides for $500,000,000 to be expended over a period of seven years by Federal aid. It is estimated that in the event of passage of this bill, which would make available immediately $75,000,000 for use in Federal aid, it would be possible for the Government and the states to build 34,000 miles of highway this year if labor could be obtained.

Such a system of highways would make a fair start on the larger undertaking of improving every main highway in the United States and road men everywhere, as well as business men who are acquainted with the economics of road work, are eagerly watching the attitude of Congress on this question.

While the detailed analysis of the work done on roads during the last year under the co-operative Federal act would require many pages of space, a few of the "high lights" may be touched upon, which will serve to show in a general way what progress is being made over the nation.

In the New England States, for example, Connecticut, Massachusetts, Rhode Island, Vermont and New Hampshire have been interested in closing up short gaps on their main highways, which are otherwise improved for the entire distances. Thus all of the projects in these states have been devoted to the construction of heavy type roads of short mileage and at considerable cost.

Short Links Needed.

The same condition has been true in New York, where the numerous projects are all short and undertaken with a view to linking up an extensive network of roads, which are already hard-surfaced.

In Pennsylvania the only long project was on the William Penn highway, where construction is under way for a distance of 32.8 miles through Dauphin, Lebanon and Berks counties at a cost of $928,000.

In Maine Federal aid has been concentrated on the main post road through Portland, south through Augusta, and on into Massachusetts.

In Kansas much of the work has been done on the Ozark and the King of Trails, on which 44.5 miles of construction has been undertaken at a cost of $510,000.

Alabama has been working toward completion of a State trunk line system, while two road projects on the Washington-to-Richmond road have occupied attention in Virginia.

What Short Links Mean.

On the fringe of the great lakes the last gaps have been closed or are being closed on the road from Cleveland to Buffalo. Ohio has four projects on this line and Pennsylvania one of 28 miles which, when completed, will make the highway an improved one for its entire distance.

One of the features of the year's work will be the improvement of the Dixie highway, which will be done by the states acting in co-operation with the Government. Thus, in Illinois, the highway will be improved from the county line north through Will, Kankakee and Iroquois counties to the Vermilion County line running south. This work will extend over a distance of 54.5 miles at a cost of $904,700 and the construction will be of concrete and bituminous macadam.

At the same time Georgia will be working on the road from Atlanta through to Macon through Clayton, Henry, Spaulding, Pike and Monroe counties, a distance of 72 miles and a continuation of the Dixie line in that state. In Tennessee and Kentucky projects will be under way which will further serve to improve this famous old highway which cuts through the central section of the country from north to south.

Military Highway.

In a like manner a great deal of work will be done on what the West calls the Interstate Military Highway, the line of which runs from Canada on the north to the Gulf on the south. Seventy miles of improved road will be constructed on this highway in Colorado, the line running north and south through Huerfano

MITCHELL A BETTER CAR BECAUSE OF THE WAR

Standards of Federal War Work Inspectors Are Adopted by That Factory.

"We, in the automobile business, used to think there was little we could learn about fine manufacturing," says Vice President R. C. Rueschaw of the Mitchell Motor Co., Incorporated, of Racine, Wis. "But we're never too old to learn, and when we got to making war material, Uncle Sam taught us a thing or two.

"The one outstanding characteristic of an automobile is its ability to get there quickly. That means speed—not necessarily racing speed, but rapid motion as compared to any other means of personal transportation. Now, when you have speed, the machine which produces it must be well made or the rapid motion will soon wear it out. To prevent this requires a higher grade of workmanship with more rigid inspection than obtains in almost any other line of manufacture.

"Then, too, automobiles could never be produced at the prices which obtain were it not for the fact that they are not built one at a time but made in great quantities. To do this means that all similar parts must be so nearly alike that they will fit together with the minimum of hand work. Here again fine workmanship and close limits produce the desired results.

"Most automobile makers had never done any work for the Government, and while we knew that the work was exacting and close, we had no doubt of our ability to 'take it in our stride' as it were.

"In the main we were right. The extreme closeness of the Government inspection was not a new story to us, but the intensity with which the Government inspectors searched out the minutest errors and flaws, and the lengths to which they went to check and recheck the work was an eye opener.

"We began to sit up and take notice of these keen-eyed, earnest young men, who had no hesitancy in telling us, when the occasion warranted it, that our best was not good enough for Uncle Sam. We began to appreciate the wonderful quality results that came from this super inspection.

"At first our inspectors were inclined to feel that the Government men were needlessly fussy, but gradually they, too, were convinced by the results obtained. And so they learned new tricks of close inspection, and now that they have learned them, the lesson will not be forgotten.

"As a result, now that we are back on passenger-car production, every car that leaves the plant is built with the same infinitely painstaking care that characterized the trucks we made, and each one can be counted on to give as good an account of itself."

MOTOR VEHICLES HELPING TO PUSH GOOD ROADS MOVE

and Las Animas counties from Walsenberg to the New Mexico State line. Here the Colorado project will be joined by two projects in New Mexico which run from Raton Pass south for a distance of 84.5 miles.

The three projects taken in conjunction will mean an improvement of a continuous stretch of the highway of 161.5 miles at a cost of more than $500,000. This is the longest continuous stretch of improvement that will be done this year in the United States so far as is known.

There never has been a single sound argument made against good roads. The oldest civilizations of which we have records recognized the benefits of good roads. The only argument that ever got a hearing against good roads was that of cost, but this was made on a false premise. The money put into good roads is not an expense, but an investment for health, happiness, comfort and immediate and future financial returns. The profits always have been large.

Figures on Motor Traffic.

But despite these facts, some of the newer arguments may be of interest. At the National Highway convention, E. J. Mehren, editor of the Engineering News-Record, presented some interesting figures. He called attention to the fact that from the time of the revolutionary war until a decade ago the character of travel on our highways had changed but little.

When this change of character of vehicles and needs began, it came so fast that most persons were unaware of the new conditions. In 1916, he said, it was estimated that there were in use 3,000,000 passenger automobiles and it was assumed that these cars averaged 5000 miles each, a total of 45,000,000,000 a year. The same year it was estimated by engineering authorities that commercial vehicles had performed a service of 3,750,000,000-ton miles, with only 250,000 trucks in use. The increase in these figures during the years of 1917 and 1918 had not been computed, but that there has been a very great increase all will admit. Not only are there 2,000,000 more passenger cars and a great many more trucks, but the average mileage of each kind of vehicles has increased.

National System Needed.

The same speaker, in presenting arguments in favor of a national highway system promoted by Federal funds, said that the interstate movement of motor cars had become so great that it was impossible for the people to longer be served by State highway systems and plans. These must be some agency to connect the various roadways. He referred to a number of places that he recently visited where, at notable gatherings, one would see motor cars from five or six states, often from twice as many states. Tourists, he said, in summer visited a dozen states. He said that the figures at hand showed that a national highway system of 50,000 miles would serve approximately 90 per cent of the population for the larger needs.

Formerly the motor car dealers were somewhat slow in pushing good road proposals for fear critics would assert that they were doing it for their own financial aid. But this situation is well passed. It has come to a place where no man, if he has any pride in his citizenship, can hold back from the movement. Also the persons who buy motor cars are demanding that the dealer from whom they obtained them take the leadership in providing good roads for them.

The Human Side.

Recently a speaker addressing a body of automobile dealers said to them:

"Do not ware to be slow in aligning yourself with good roads movements. I want to suggest one idea to you, if you are inclined to be modest about this thing. I want you to ascertain from a reliable authority just what percentage of the women now in the insane hospitals are there because of the dreadful isolation of their country homes, due chiefly to bad roads. Every home in this country should be on a road that is available for travel 365 days in the year."

A Nebraska farmer who homesteaded in the line of a proposed railway 10 years ago, but who is still 15 miles from a steam track, recently bought a motor car and a truck. He keeps up much of his own highway with a split log drag fastened to his truck. He says that these vehicles, and the road that he maintains, has put him "five miles from town and those five miles are easy ones." He makes four trips to town a day with grain and eats all of his meals at home.

VEHICLE CENSUS SHOWS PROSPECTS FOR 1700 TRUCKS

Sometimes the driver will pull up here and call us out to see his load. One time he was carrying just double the capacity and he had made good time over grades. He was proud of his feat, but we warned him against such practices. I noted that he had been careful to see that his load was balanced.

"There is one firm in the neighborhood where I live that I am extremely anxious to sell trucks to when they give up their present horse equipment. I have reached the conclusion that they are desirable customers because of the conditions of their horses. Any horse I ever have seen drawing one of their wagons was in horse-show condition. I believe that this firm would take equally good care of trucks and would make excellent customers."

Army Truck Work.

Another bit of advice to truck owners was offered by a service man who has been entirely successful in this work. He recently served in truck work in the army with considerable credit to himself. He said:

"A considerable drawback to the truck use in St. Louis has been the unwillingness of buyers to spend extra money to equip their truck, especially to their own business. Just as special wagons were made for certain work, so special truck bodies should be made for the work in hand.

"I have in mind a notable example. A truck was sold to haul articles that weigh about 1000 pounds. Six teams and 24 men had been used in this work. The salesman persuaded the buyer that it would be economy to put in an overhead track and lifting pullies to handle the articles. The result is that three men and one truck attend to the hauling. A motor truck is a sufficient investment as to warrant equipment to make it work to the best advantage.

"The best movement for the aid of the truck owner yet instituted is the inspection service and schools of instructions recently instituted by the truck service stations. Good truck drivers are scarce. I mean by that drivers who will care for their trucks, keep them oiled and the taps tight and who seek in every way possible to avoid mishaps. Truck inspectors often stand on the curb and note from there need of attention of passing trucks. When this first was done, many drivers objected. But they have learned better. They have learned that the inspector is their friend and his only object is to keep a truck running smoothly and efficiently, and that he would rather help the driver than knock him.

"The most important lesson for the truck owner to learn is that trucks must be cared for, they must have oil at the proper time. Most of the serious breakdowns we are called upon to repair are due to neglect. There is in our shop now a big, expensive truck that is idle for four days and a heavy bill is run up because it was not oiled for 40 days after it left our shop and bearings and other parts were burned out."

"As to lessons from the army's use of trucks," continued this service man, "they resolve back to the question of roads. The army taught us that it is profitable to run a package service up to 100 miles in trucks if there is return load business and proper schedules. Also that certain sorts of heavy merchandise can profitably be carried up to 600 miles cheaper and more efficiently than on railroad trains. This especially concerns merchandise that if handled with difficulties by railroads because of loading and breakage. But good roads and return load bureaus are necessary.

"There are two classes of men coming from the army to the motor truck business. One class are the men who were trained in the efficiency classes. These men were trained right and should be in every way desirable additions to the bsiness. Another class are the men who, in the emergency, were put on trucks and told to drive them. These men are daring speedy drivers who know nothing of cost. Many of them are developing into good men and more can be developed. But army truck service does not insure a properly trained man. Truck owners should watch this."

NEW DORRIS MODELS WILL BE AT SHOW

New Features of St. Louis Made Cars Highly Praised at Chicago Exhibit.

The Dorris company will exhibit at the auto show its "6-80" seven-passenger touring car, three-passenger cabriolet and polished chassis of the "6-80" car.

The fundamental Dorris design is retained in the valve-in-head motor, unit power plant and multiple disc clutch, the Dorris company having used this construction since their first car, which was built in 1905.

There is a possibility that Dorris will exhibit, along with its latest chassis, the chassis of its first car. This has not been fully decided, but will be put up to the show management for a decision. If permission is granted, the original chassis will be seen at the show.

At the Chicago show, just closed, many prominent motor car men expressed approval and admiration for the mechanical design of the Dorris, as well as the beauty of line and finish. There was much comment upon the beautiful beveled edge body with the top curtains carried in the rear doors. This seems to have finally answered the demand of the user for a convenient and practical way of carrying the curtains.

There are four compartments in each rear door, numbered. The curtains are numbered. Numbers are also placed along the inside of the top, corresponding with the numbers on the curtains, so that curtains can be readily applied. Upon the curtains being removed they will be placed back in the compartment corresponding to the number of the curtain. Many pronounce this development as one of the most practical and praiseworthy of recent body developments.

The Dorris company also has desk space in the truck section and will have a large number of parts on exhibit. The Dorris exhibit will be in charge of J. T. Rumble, city sales manager. He will be assisted by the officials of the company, and also by Messrs. Sanner, Carr, Graul, Clardy, Geisler, Wendland, Griffith, Fischer and others of the Dorris organization.

NATIONAL ROADSTER LIKED BY SOLDIERS

Young Men, Back From Army Service, See Advantages of 12-Cylinder Engine.

"Roadsters of the racing type promise to be unusually popular this year," said George Weber, president of the Weber Implement and Auto Co., in commenting on the National two-passenger model. "The market is composed largely of the thousands of young men who served their country overseas or in American camps.

"They were roadster owners prior to America's entrance into the world war, but disposed of their cars when they enlisted, as a study of the 1918 used car market and a perusal of the automobile advertisements in the classified advertising columns of the metropolitan newspapers of last year will show.

"In the first place, the 12-cylin- young men will want such a car as they drove in pre-war days—an automobile of speed, power, and distinctiveness. The National dispatch roadster seems to be made precisely to their order. It combines four features of appeal that are uncommon in other cars of similar type.

"In the first place, the 12-cylinder motor of the National roadster is flexible as well as powerful. It will not rebel at low throttles, which are so essential to city driving. Easy steering and riding comfort are two other salient featuers, while sufficient luggage room for a long trip is provided."

In addition to the dispatch roadster, sport phaeton and convertible sedan, the Weber company is displaying the seven-passenger touring car and the four-passenger club roadster at the show.

The most notable change in the touring car for this season is the substitution of a one-piece front seat for the individual front seats of previous models.

No radical changes have been made in either the six or 12 cylinder motor by the National engineers. The power plant and chassis have been refined, however.

The Patterson Six

A Big, Roomy Car at a Moderate Price

The W. A. Patterson Company have to offer for 1919 a long-lined, lithe, beauty of body and design such as you naturally associate in your mind with only the finest cars.

The finish, too, is such as is customarily found on only much higher priced cars, a lustrous body coating that will prove as lasting as it is rich. You must see this car to appreciate its true beauty.

This big, roomy Patterson Six drives as easily as it rides. We want you to drive it—to ride in it—then pass judgment from your own experience.

AUBURN AMONG NEW MODELS AT SHOW

"Beauty" Six Makes Its Debut in Mound City Booth.

Beauty prevails in the design of the 1919 Auburn Beauty Six, which will be at the St. Louis show this week for the first time in a number of years. The Mound City Buggy and Auto Co. announced only last week that they had chosen it for a running mate with the Allen, which they have handled for a number of years.

In the Mound City booth will be exhibited two models—a "Beauty Six" five-passenger touring car model and a "Beauty Six" smart tourist for four passengers.

Striking color combinations that set off the smart lines of the "Beauty Six" lend a genuine touch of artistry to this exhibit. That beauty is the big dominant note in 1919 automobile construction is the viewpoint of J. I. Farley, vice president of the Auburn Automobile Co., who will visit St. Louis during the week.

"Beauty is the thing," said Mr. Farley. "We have answered the call. Motor-car buyers want something smart, something snappy. It is just plain, downright human to want a beautiful car.

Appeals to Fair Sex.

"And the ladies, God bless 'em, they have influenced the beauty of lines largely by their natural inclination for beautiful things that mere man does not demand. Automobiles are popular with the fair sex. Schoolgirls and matrons discuss cars nowadays with ready facility and understanding of mechanical terms.

"There is a constantly increasing number of women drivers. While women, even before they took to driving, undoubtedly influenced the purchase of many cars, their part is now become what diplomats would term a balance of power."

"The Auburn Beauty Six" has a dignified handling in design that is pleasing to the conservatively inclined as well as those who want smartness of lines.

The straight line of the bonnet merges with and is continued by the bevel edge of the body rail, giving an identifying individuality to the "Beauty Six" that is most favorably impressive.

Tucked in every auto owner's seat—a Sunday Post-Dispatch.

FIELD-LIPPMAN BUREAU BIG AID TO TOURISTS

The palm for transcontinental touring this year probably will be awarded to John B. Hofmeier and A. J. Broderick of New York, who recently registered at Field-Lippman Touring Information Department and applied for road data to complete their trip on to the oil fields of Northern Texas, and thence to Los Angeles. The open winter has left Western roads in better shape than they have been for years and Field-Lippman's correspondents along the Western highways report travel good and fast time possible in many places.

Hofmeier, Broderick and party made more than 200 miles a day from New York to Indiana, over all-year roads smooth as city streets most of the way, the National Old Trail keeping ahead of its record for improvements. West of Indianapolis their troubles began and when Casey, Ill., was reached the rough, frozen mud ahead forced them to ship their special built Lozier car to St. Louis, leaving the Illinois mud flats behind. From St. Louis to Texas they reported to Field-Lippman Road Bureau that roads were in good shape and barring heavy rains could be traveled right along.

Field-Lippman have the co-operation of a chain of motor clubs, trade organizations, garages and road enthusiasts, as well as a prepaid return report card system from tourists which combine to enable their touring information bureau to give free reports to all inquirers.

From bell-hops to bankers—they all read the Post-Dispatch for motor gossip.

STEPHENS OVERHEAD VALVE MOTOR QUIET

"The overhead valve engine of today is a far cry from the engine of the same type which first appeared on the market. The clicking noise of the valve mechanism was then unmuffled and consequently audible at times, especially when the valves became worn and out of adjustment. All this has been changed," said A. T. Davie, distributer of the Stephens six.

"The overhead valve engine is as quiet as any other type. The only audible sound is the whirr of the fan, for the valve mechanism is inclosed in housing that effectively silences the click of the valve action. Moreover, the adjustment of the valves is made so easy there is no tendency to neglect them, and the only tool needed is a screw driver.

"The easy adjustment of the valve action is made possible by the construction of the rocker arm, which has a ball and socket mounting, with the ball screwed into the cylinder head, above the rocker arm. Screwing the ball down brings every part of the valve mechanism into closer adjustment and keeps it as quiet as when new.

"Add to the quietness of the overhead valve engine the fact that it extracts from 10 to 15 per cent more power from a given quantity of gasoline than any other type, and gives quicker acceleration.

"The Stephens is especially constructed to burn low grade gasoline, the intake manifold being located inside the cylinder head, where it is surrounded by heat, and combined with the exhaust to contain a hot spot directly in the path of the incoming gases, cracking up the fuel and vaporizing it completely."

NEW IDEALS BUILT INTO PAIGE CARS

President Jewett Tells Why He Takes Optimistic View of the Prospects.

"This is the happiest and most cheerful show period of my experience," says President Harry M. Jewett of the Paige-Detroit Motor Car Company. "After four years of abnormal conditions, during the latter portion of which our regular business had to be almost forgotten, we have returned once more to our rightful occupations, with better prospects than ever before and with resources greatly strengthened and equipment greatly expanded to take full advantage of the booming times.

"Recent experiences have been something like going through a sickness which, when conquered, leaves the system purified and fortified and the spirits high. The expectations and the spirits of the Paige organization both in the factory and in the field, are high for two good reasons: First, there is proof positive that the year 1919 is going to be the liveliest and most successful the automobile industry has ever known.

"This is not just an idle statement inspired by a hope. It is universally conceded and the conviction is based on sound reasons. Our second reason for cheerfulness and optimism is the fact that the Paige is ready, stronger from every angle than ever before, to take advantage of these conditions.

"We have long preached the virtue of giving the utmost of value for each dollar invested in an automobile, and believe that an honest effort to realize this ideal has been the big factor in the ever-growing popularity in our product. Now we are in an especially strong position to lay stress on this policy.

"During the past four years, especially during the last two, we have been compelled to greatly increase our facilities in every way. The varied manufacturing problems we were forced to solve have broadened our experience and taught us much. We have gained new ideals and learned new methods of precision and new standards of quality. This experience and this knowledge we are now employing in the manufacture of Paige cars, and that is why we believe we are more strongly fortified than ever to meet the great demand for cars that is now approaching; and that is why Paige executives and Paige dealers are so confident and cheerful."

TEN POINTS TO GOVERN MOTOR CAR SELECTION

To those contemplating the purchase of an automobile the following important points, as set forth in a recent issue of the Chevrolet News Bulletin, will prove of especial interest and assistance:

"A motor car is an important investment. Before selecting a motor car the buyer should carefully consider each of these important points: (1) economy, (2) power and flexibility, (3) durability, (4) comfort, (5) safety, (6) convenience, (7) ease and care, (8) easy riding, (9) beauty, (10) style.

"It is not necessary to consider these points in order as stated, although it would be a safe plan to follow."

TO TRIPLE DIXIE OUTPUT

J. O. Tinsley, secretary and treasurer of the American Automobile and Supply Co., has just returned from the factory of the Old Kentucky Wagon Manufacturing Co., where he made arrangeemnts for a carload of Dixie Flyer cars for the show. While there he had a talk with Mr. Bord, president of the company, who informed him that the demand for Dixie Flyers had grown so big that they intended tripling the capacity of the present plant.

COLE NEW MODELS ARE STRIKINGLY ORIGINAL

They Are Similar to Those Types in Other Years Known as "Aero."

In embarking on the fifth consecutive year of production devoted exclusively to the building of the celebrated Cole eight-cylinder cars, the Cole Motor Car Co., of Indianapolis, announces the most complete and diversified line of models that it has ever offered.

Since the original Cole Eight made its debut in January, 1915, the career of the car has been crowded with big achievements. However, at no time has a more radical, yet logical improvement in design been inaugurated than the one which characterizes the styles adopted for the coming year.

The Cole Aero-Eight open models the tourster, the roadster and the sportster, will be recalled from last year. The new toursedan, tourcoupe and towncar complete the line.

The names of at least two of the newly added models is sufficient to arouse more than passing curiosity.

It is this very originality of design that gave the Cole Aero-Eight models such unprecedented distinction during the year just passed. And 1919 is destined to see these inspirations grow to such proportions as to authoritatively establish a fashion criterion in the field of motor car design.

As graceful in their poise as a monoplane, with low beveled side panels, massive fenders, high cowls and sharp, keen lines, they have about them a martial individuality that is instantly appealing.

Just as the Cole organization was one of the first two American motor car producers to reveal to the public the striking advantages of V-type multiple cylinder construction, it is now leading the field with the most advanced ideas in motor car body designing.

So utterly new in their conception and creation that they are as yet uncopied, the Cole Aero-Eight open models as well as all-season equipage possess a refreshing briskness that ranks them among the most pronounced developments of recent years, and so artistic are they that they are destined to be wider in their appeal than most any new type that has been offered since the streamline body was introduced.

DORT CAR IS EASILY CARED FOR BY OWNER

All Mechanism Can Be Reached Without Disturbing Permanent Parts.

Simplicity—not alone in the control of the car but in its every mechanical part—is the keynote of the construction of Dort motor cars, as exhibited at the auto show.

The Dort ideal seems to be that of building an automobile in such a way that it can be cared for by the average motor car owner and also, so that if it should require the services of an expert motor mechanic, the owner will not be obliged to spend a lot of money to pay for the time required to "get at it."

First in importance is the oiling system. A car well oiled is a car that runs best, and the Dort oiling system makes it possible for any man, regardless of mechanical knowledge, to oil it after a single instruction. There are a certain number of grease cups and one pipe leading to the crank case, for lubricating oil.

All of these are accessible, even the dope cup for the clutchcollar—a distinct Dort feature—can be reached by lifting the floor board. Once the position of these oiling points has been shown, there is nothing more to do except to turn up the cups at intervals and pour in lubricating oil as required. The mechanism does the rest.

Then there is the matter of adjustability. Every adjustable part is arranged with special attention to the control. It is designed so that the individual owner can easily make any minor adjustments and do so without fear of making a mistake that will injure the mechanism.

So much for the owner. Now comes the big feature of the Dort construction. It is possible to remove the entire power plant without removing the body; in fact without removing another part of the car except the radiator. The rear axle can be taken off by loosening only a few bolts and in fact every part of the car is so arranged that a minimum amount of time and labor is necessary to get at the innermost parts.

Yet Dort mechanism is completely housed. With exception of the fan and fan belt the motor is entirely waterproof. Yet it is only a simple operation to get at the valves, not only the springs but the seats themselves so that removing carbon and cleaning the valves is not a difficult operation.

Every precaution has been taken to add simplicity and to make the Dort proof against mishap. Even the ignition is so arranged that it is impossible to exhaust the battery by stopping the motor on a firing center and leaving the switch turned on. And moreover as a further proof against faulty operation and as a means of insuring plenty of stamina Dort cars are oversize throughout.

KISSEL CUSTOMBINET FILLS OWNERS' IDEALS

It Is the Result of Long Study as to How to Meet Individual Tastes.

"In no other commodity is there demanded the originality of the custom-made artisan as that of the automobile," says W. L. Kissel, secretary of Kissel Motor Car Co. "People have learned to purchase their motor cars from the standpoint of the critic or connoisseur, because they realize that this is the day of the unusual. Standards that used to be considered high have been discarded. Automobiles that were short time ago considered the height of exclusiveness are now passe.

"Since the war there has been created a certain class of automobile purchasers who practically "design" their own cars, theoretically speaking. They have seen the custom-made automobiles, they have viewed the best efforts of the leading coach-makers, they have visited the most exclusive automobile showrooms and have inspected closely the custom-made cars in the Forest Park pageant.

"Through it all they have not found an automobile that possesses all the desirable features. Where one car may have exclusive body lines, it lacks the comfort features of another make. Where one car has that exclusive atmosphere of the hand-wrought artist, it has the desirable chassis of another make.

"To meet this situation calls for designs that incorporate first those features that increase the efficiency of the automobile, and second those features that add individuality and exclusiveness found only on the custom-built job.

"That the motor car purchasers of 1919 demand the unusual in motor car appearance, performance and comfort, is proven by individuality becoming more and more pronounced in passenger-carrying automobiles. If one takes the trouble to examine closely the cars that are owned by that class of owners who have experienced the obvious advantages of the custom-built motor cars, you will realize the problem we set ourselves, that of combining in one model all the features which the motor car connoisseur would demand if he himself were designing a car for his own use, and still be able to sell it at a moderate price.

"That we have obtained our object in the new Kissel custom-built Silver Specials on display at the Auto Show, we leave to the public's judgment. Without a doubt, they are excellent examples of how features can be made to add that touch of exclusiveness and individuality, without being elaborate or over-elegant."

Striking Reduction in Package Delivery Cost Wins $500 Prize for Truck Driver

FIRST PRIZE in Class C of the Packard National Truck Efficiency Test goes to a truck driver in Chicago. Working his truck on modern business methods taught by the Packard Freight Transportation Department, this driver handled in August 6,873 packages, and reduced his carrying cost 1 cent per package—a saving of $68.73 per month, or $825 for the year.

Wholesale grocery business, delivering boxed, barreled and bagged goods to a route of retail stores.

Frequent stops and starts with short runs. Starting with full load and returning empty or practically so.

In August alone he saved enough to pay the owner at the rate of 15 per cent a year on the cost of the truck.

* * *

Many a truck owner does not realize the difference between the two classes of truck load—

The solid capacity load, hauled in its entirety from origin to destination—

And the load made up of a number of smaller shipments to be dropped off here and there along the route.

In the second case he should have a smaller truck.

Here is a distinction which may make a difference of $700 per truck on his fleet investment, and as much as $200 to $250 a year per truck in his operating costs.

It is a matter of buying the truck to fit the job.

Motor trucking, its service, its costs and economies, is one of the livest issues of the day.

The business man needs first of all to get the facts—the experience of people competent to speak.

That is the function of the Freight-Transportation Department of your local Packard Branch or Packard Dealer.

It is a Department not of Sales but of Service.

Its place and purpose are to tell you, the truck owner and driver, how modern business methods, applied to your present make of trucks, will effect transportation economies in your business.

Its services are without charge. Make use of them freely.

Some Results of Packard 100% War Work

Figures released for publication at the close of hostilities show that the Packard Trucks on the fighting fronts numbered 1000 more than the trucks of any other make.

Over four and a half million pounds of freight and express for the Packard Company were carried by Packard trucks during the past year. Exactly 3,699 Packard vehicles were sent to consignees under their own power which, with the freight and express transportation noted, released at least 2,000 freight cars to haul the mountains of war materials so desperately needed abroad. This is a very substantial realization of the slogan "Save a Freight Car for Uncle Sam," by those who originated it.

The truck transportation included work for the government as well as for the Packard Company, and frequently trucks were used in transporting material on urgent calls to points as much as 400 miles distant. Over 3,000 of the trucks sent overland were for army use, and many of them carried three tons of merchandise to the port of debarkation.

The value of this relief to the railroads by this freight movement over the highways cannot be comprehended in ton miles, for a large measure of it was achieved at the very time when weather conditions last winter practically blockaded the great munition carrying lines. It was just a year ago December 14th that the first train of 30 Packards set out overland for Baltimore. They left in 2-below-zero weather and contended with snow-filled roads all the way to the sea.

A cut of 50% in gasoline consumption, as a result of accurate cost-keeping, is reported by one express company employing a fleet of twelve Packard Trucks.

The saving covers the three months of the Packard Truck Efficiency Test, and all costs were recorded on the National Standard Truck Cost System, as perfected by the Truck Owners' Conference.

The National Standard Truck Cost System is the cost-accounting method adopted from the combined experience of several of the largest makers of trucks.

It is complete, exact, impartial—applicable to any truck and any business.

CADILLAC FIRST CAR TO CROSS THE RHINE

Completes Risky and Delicate Trip Seven Days After Armistice Is Signed.

Word of Cadillac achievements during and after the war continues to come from the other side. The latest news of this sort, accompanied by two photographs, is that as far as can be learned, the Cadillac was the first motor car of the allied armies to reach and cross the Rhine, after the armistice had been signed.

The letter is from Lieutenant Colonel George H. Johnson, deputy director of timber operations in the Canadian Forestry Corps with the British expeditionary forces.

In addition to detailing the trip into and out of Germany, the letter recounts some of the officer's previous experiences with the Cadillac. Lieutenant Colonel Johnson writes, under date of Dec. 18, to the Cadillac Co.:

"I send you herewith two photographs showing the first Canadian motor car to reach the Rhine, viz, Cadillac 44582.

"I also have reason to believe that this was the first car of any of the allied armies to cross the Rhine, having reached Alt Briesac via Colmar on Nov. 18, seven days after the armistice was signed. The Rhine was crossed at Alt Briesac after the rear guard of the retreating German army.

"The whole adventure was always risky and at times delicate. The return was made to Alsace via Strassbourg, Colmar and Meulhouse on the Swiss border, France being entered by way of Belfort.

"I have owned several cars and driven many, but I feel that Cadillac 44582 is the premier road machine of them all. When the demobilization is complete I shall turn this machine in to army stores with a feeling of regret."

WHY PEERLESS BUILDS THE ENCLOSED TYPES

Investigation by Company's Engineers Showed That Most Touring Car Tops Were Up.

The Peerless inclosed cars, a seven-passenger sedan and a four-passenger coupe, exhibited at the show by the Park Automobile Co., Peerless distributers in St. Louis, are built after a design dictated by the observations of the Peerless engineers into the habits of present day motor car users as contrasted with those of four or five years ago.

Careful checking of cars of all makes as they passed through the busiest streets in the cities, as well as over the most used touring highways, showed that on the open type cars 90 per cent of the tops remained up at all times.

Even in the Berkshire Hills, where touring is at its very best, roadsters and touring cars, numbering more than 80 per cent, were driven top-up regardless of weather conditions.

In these facts the Peerless engineers read the indication of greatly increased use of the inclosed car, provided it could be given the characteristics that have made the touring and roadster models so acceptable for general use.

These characteristics are first light weight; second, complete openness when windows are lowered, and third, ease of entrance and of exit from the car.

In the new Peerless inclosed models displayed at the show, all of these desirable characteristics have been attained. These cars are surprisingly light; as a matter of fact, they weigh less than thetouring and roadster models of other makes of cars in the same quality and chassis-size group.

The windows and doors are very wide and when the glasses which are lever actuated are lowered the Peerless inclosed cars are to all intents and purposes as open to the sunshine and air as any open type car driven top-up.

The manufacture of sedans and coupes in rapidly increasing quantities has enabled the Peerless organization to reduce the difference in cost of the production of open and inclosed models. The modern inclosed cars will, in the opinon of the Peerless sales organization, always be a luxury model, but its use will be greatly extended because of its relatively lighter weight and relatively lowering cost.

C. W. NASH STANDS FOR "VOLUME PRODUCTION"

C. W. Nash, president of the Nash Motors Co., exemplifies in his business ideals and practices, as much as any one man in the country, the fundamentals which have made American manufacturing industries so famous the world over for quantity, production, etc., says Mr. F. M. Webb of the Southwest Nash Motor Co.

'For Mr. Nash and volume production ar synonymous. Ever since his early days in the carriage business, volume production has been his particular ideal, but with reservations. He does not believe in a volume of production that must sacrifice quality to gain numbers. He believes in taking all the time necessary to establish a quality product and then attacking the production end with a view of increasing its volume to a place where manufacturing costs can be cut to the lowest possible point.

"And more than that, Mr. Nash believes in giving the buying public the entire benefits of any reduction in price gained by volume production.

"The price of each of the popular Nash Six models displayed at the show is further evidence that the principle of volume production without the sacrifice of quality works to the benefit of the ultimate consumer—in this instance the motor car user."

A MYSTERY TO BE SOLVED MONDAY NIGHT

Upon returning from an Eastern trip, F. W. Wolffe, manager of the Franklin Automobile & Supply Co., announced that he would spring a real sensation the opening night of the Automobile Show.

Absolutely refusing to divulge the nature of his surprise he would only say that the car he would exhibit was revolutionary in motor car construction. Inasmuch as Mr. Wolffe has specialized in air-cooled motor cars it is only natural that this announcement will have to deal with the air-cooled principle.

For the past week the show room on Locust street has been posted with immense signs carrying only a huge question mark followed by the words "At the Show." Much interest has been created by this and the answer is awaited with great interest by many.

Mr. Wolffe promises to fully answer the question Monday night.

DAVIS ANNOUNCES TWO NEW CLOSED CARS

The Knight Motor Co. announces that it is sales agent for the Davis line, which it will display at the Auto Show.

Such changes as have been made in the Davis line for 1919 consist of body changes and refinements and the adding of two new and very attractive closed cars, one a four-passenger coupe and the other a four-door, seven-passenger sedan. Seven body styles in all are fitted to two chassis models, each chassis model being equipped with a Continental engine of 3.25 inches bore and 5 inchs stroke, on the 119 inches wheelbase chassis and of 3.5 inch fore and 5-inch stroke on the 124-inch wheelbase chassis. Hotchkiss drive is used on each model.

ELGIN REVEAL 36 REFINEMENTS IN CAR

Engineers Incorporate Notable Improvements in New Post-War Series.

Thirty-six notable improvements and refinements, the result of 18 months' continuous effort by designing, manufacturing and sales engineers, are embodied in the new Elgin Six, series H, which is making its premier at the automobile show. All these changes developed during the period of the war when the master minds of the mechanical experts, in addition to building great numbers of Class AA trucks for the Government, were concentrating their energies in the after-the-war business.

Already the Elgin Motor Car corporation is teeming with big business and preparing to meet an enormous demand for its product both in this country and in foreign lands.

Here Are New Features.

Prominent among the features of the new Elgin Six are its longer wheelbase, greater power and the latest type of body design. The general lines of the body have been improved, beginning with the increased height of the radiator, which adds not only to the appearance of the car, but to the cooling capacity; the body sides have straight, level lines instead of the double curve effect of the last season; the quality and construction of the body is much better, as well as the trimming and finish, and the leg room in the front seat is increased. The lines of the top have been improved, giving a long flat effect to the design, and the rear curtains carry beveled plate-glass windows instead of celluloid.

The new Elgin Six is given increased engine power by larger bore the cylinders having 3⅛-inch bore, with 4¼-inch stroke. The new motor has the same overhead valve, block cast design, with reomvable cylinder heads which has so well proven its efficiency in previous models. Lubrication of the engine has been changed, creating a pressure feed direct to all main bearings, combined with circulating splash. An oil pressure gauge is on the dash. Steering has been made easier by an increased gear reduction and the addition of bronze cushings on the shaft.

Greater Comfort Provided.

In addition greater roominess and comfort are provided; first by increase in wheelbase, which is now 118 inches, increased length and width of the front springs, which eliminates the choppy action in going over a bump, and also which will do much toward preventing a front spring breaking. This also is enhanced by increasing the size of the spring clips. The rear springs are set up closer to the frame, reducing the twisting of the frame side members to prevent sidesway of the car and eliminate body and fender squeaks.

"J. H." WINDSHIELD FOR THE REAR SEAT

The Vehicle Top and Supply Co., 3414 Lindell boulevard, has accepted the agency for the "J. H." tonneau shield. In commenting upon the reasons for this action, Allen Clark, general manager of the Vehicle Top company, had the following to say:

"You have a windshield to protect the driver, but what about those who ride in the rear seat? So far as they are concerned that front windshield is worse than no shield at all, for it causes a current of air, with its dust, rain, snow or cold, to be deflected upwards where suction can act to draw it directly down on the rear seats. In other words, you protect the front seat at the expense of the rear seats. And it is in the rear seats that the women usually ride, as well as the owner's guests.

"A touring car equipped with a "J. H." enables the riders in the rear seats to be fully protected from all the above annoyances. In fact a car equipped with a 'J. H.' has one decided advantage over a limousine, it will enable you to enjoy all the pleasure of open riding with all the comforts of a closed car."

WESTCOTT HAS VARIED LIST OF BODY STYLES

The Brandle Motors Co. has made the Westcott car well-known in St. Louis and vicinity, but it remains an interesting feature of shows because of the variety of decorations.

Westcott has made minor changes in its new model S-18-A, among which is a reduction in the size of the tires from 35 by 4½ to 32 by 4½. A varied list of body styles on the one chassis type are presented, and are as follows: Seven and five passenger touring cars, liberty green in color; four-passenger roadster, blue or green in color, leather upholstered; five and seven passenger sedans, gray or blue, cloth-finished interiors, and a four-passenger coupe finished the same as the sedans.

NASH HEAD ORGANIZED AIRPLANE PRODUCTION

Motor Man Was Called Into U. S. Service When Volume Was Demanded.

One of the great facts of the war ast go unheralded because of the llapse of the German Empire. at is the winning of the struggle the air.

Although the armistice prevented actual demonstration of this, it mains a fact nevertheless that air- ne forces of America would have en in a position to smother the rman armies had the war contin- d.

The credit for organizing and per- cting the huge aviation program this country; for making possible production of hosts of winged ghting machines goes to the many en, and among them C. W. Nash, esident of the Nash Motor Co.

As a leading exponent of volume oduction in the automobile in- stry, Nash's services were sought hen the necessity for reorganizing aircraft work became apparent, d their production on a gigantic ale was needed. There was no hesi- tion on the part of the Govern- nt in selecting Nash, for his re- rd as a producer of high grade otor cars in big quantities defin- ly placed him as the man for the ge task. Airplane production need- speeding up and here was the n who could do it.

Nor did Nash hesitate to accept. He gave all his time during the t four months of the war, to ection of engineering and produc- n of aircraft in the reorganized partment. It was Nash's task to rfect and produce the various es of planes and work out a plan ich would set the shops and fac- ies of the land into turning out steady stream of airplanes while training camps were turning out stream of trained fighters to man m.

Nash had colossal job to get his ans under way, but they were un- r way and throwing big results hen the German armies threw mselves on the mercy of the Al- s. Unquestionably the aircraft ogram played its part in forcing e end of the war. The German spy tem could not help but see the y in which it had developed and t while airplanes were just be- ning to arrive in France in num- s, they marked the beginning of ream that would increase every

MAXWELL ADVICE IS TO BUY QUICKLY

Local Distributor Believes There Will Be a Sharp Scarcity of Cars Soon.

If you want a Maxwell car, you had better get it as soon as possible, for there is no promise of continued deliveries, according to George Weber, president of the Weber Implement and Automobile Co. There are several reasons for this, according to Weber. One is that the returning soldiers like Maxwell cars, especially roadsters. Another is that the world trade in motor cars is picking up faster than the factories can make them. Going into details, Weber said:

"Everything seems to indicate that motor manufacturing has learned a splendid lesson as a result of its turning to war work. We know the cars of the future must be better than those of the past, notwithstanding the splendid records that have been achieved.

"We know manufacturing facilities have been greatly extended and plants wonderfully increased, and it is only natural the concerns that have reinvested huge amounts of money must produce something to make them pay dividends. It means a bigger and better production of automobiles than the world has ever known and it means a market must be found for these cars.

"I have studiously searched for the so-called point of saturation, and I am satisfied that it is years and years away. It is true there are 5,500,000 automobiles registered in this country now, but that is only a small percentage of the available users. With the first army draft a large number of cars were thrown on the market, and this was also true with each following draft.

"With the millions of soldiers abroad and the folks at home in no great mood for driving, with business cut down, it is not to be wondered that there were thousands giving up using automobiles. But just as fast as these soldiers return and get back into business life the demand for automobiles—for business recreation—will increase more rapidly than the manufacturers can take care of it.

"Some people imagine that there will be plenty of automobiles this season, and there will, after the middle of summer. Despite every possible effort of manufacturers they cannot possibly get into complete production before June, because their stocks of parts are practically nil and these supplies must be built up before production on a large scale can be commenced."

1919 MOON FEATURE ON VICTORY LIGHT 6

Head of St. Louis Plant Looks for a Big Year on His $1685 Car.

The Victory light six model of the Moon car will be in full production early in March, according to the announcement made by Stewart McDonald, vice president and general manager of the Moon Motor Car Co. of St. Louis.

The Victory is the Moon's 1919 car. The model 6-43 was discontinued when the Moon plant went into 100 per cent war work, making 10-inch shells. All of the 1919 features are on the Victory six. It will sell for $1685. It has the new beveled edge body and hood, the Continental-Moon motor. Timkin axles, Warner transmission and all the high-grade equipment.

F. H. Rengers, general sales manager of the company, who represented the Moon at the New York show, reports that 125 of the new cars were sold during that show. The Victory six is, according to Rengers, the most finished product that the Moon company has ever produced and is promised to stand as a monument to Joseph W. Moon, president of the company, whose death occurred last week. J. W. Moon had the greatest pride in this new car, the production of the first of which he had watched with the deepest interest, although he had not been for about a year active in the business.

McDonald, who becomes head of the Moon Motor Car Co., is more than sanguine of the automobile future in this country and particularly that of St. Louis. "We will have a little more difficulty," he said, "in getting back to quantity production than the Detroit plants. While it is true that they were engaged in war work, their war work consisted of the production of automobiles and trucks. With us it was a complete turnover of our plant, with different machinery, to the making of 10-inch shells, so that we will have to remove a million dollars' worth of shell machinery and put back into place our automobie equipment.

"There is a tremendous field out West for automobiles. Our Western people have made money and they also have been smart enough, along with Uncle Sam's guiding hand, to save it during the war period, consequently they will buy motor cars in plenty, and it seems certain that the St. Louis plant, being nearer to them, will get the bulk of the orders for St. Louis-made cars. The reason for this is that freight charges from St. Louis to all of the West and South are much less than that on cars shipped from the East. We are to our customers 'home folks,' and the man in Missouri or Arkansas, or Iowa, or Kansas, or Texas, or Mississippi, who breaks an axle or 'jims' a transmission can get his duplicate parts from St. Louis in one or two days, where he must sometimes wait weeks to get them from an Eastern factory.

"I look for the biggest year in automobile selling out of this city that St. Louis has ever experienced."

New Factory for Oldsmobile.

The Reliance Engineering Co. property in Lansing has been acquired by the General Motors Co., which purchased the holdings for $290,000. The property has been turned over to the Olds Motor Works to make way for expansion of that plant.

KING "EIGHT" LEADER IN MULTI-CYLINDER CARS

Visiting officials of the King Motor Car Co., manufacturers of the King "eight," one of the two pioneers of the multicylinder car field, state that the factory at Detroit is all set for a big business during 1919.

President Artemas Ward Jr. has been personally directing the work of getting the factory changed back from a war to a peace-time basis, and great headway has been accomplished since the day the armistice was signed. The securing of materials is progressing in a most satisfactory manner, and Ward predicts that by March the factory will be back into its full manufacturing program.

The King "eight" has always been a big factor in the multicylinder field and is bound to become a still more dominant figure in the industry. Statistics prove that with one exception there are more King "eights" in use in the world than any other make.

The King Motor Car Co. has believed in the eight-cylinder principle and has devoted years of study to a car built on this principle.

It takes time and money and experience and persistency to develop and perfect any first-class mechanical device—especially an automobile, and the King today is the embodiment of all of these.

The latest King "eight" models, now on display at the automobile show in the Barth Motor Car Co. booth, reflect the high standards and the years of persistent and consistent effort and experience behind them.

NOVEL CRANK CASE.

The Liberty Six has a crank case of aluminum. In addition to being lighter, it provides better construction and is not so easily broken or cracked as one of castiron. The decreased weight permits the motor to deliver more horsepower per pound.

The war period just passed has given to the Dort new and greater prestige.

The lesson people have learned as to the value of thrift and conservation has awakened within them a deepened respect for the Dort.

They have always held it in high regard as a smooth-running, competent motor car.

They have prized it for its driving ease and riding comfort.

Now they are quickened to an intense appreciation of the solid virtues that characterize it—its economy, its reliability, its faithful performance.

They are conscious, as never before, of how really good a car it is.

They perceive more sharply than ever how desirable a car it is to own.

At the Dort exhibit you will find a full line of the various models.

We urge upon you the importance of setting aside sufficient time while there to become acquainted in detail with these cars.

They are fine examples of able engineering practice and sound, careful construction.

They will impress you as worthy automobile investments.

WHY THE NEW WILLARD BATTERY PLEASES ALL

Solving of the Problem of Insulation Has Cleared Away Most Battery Difficulties.

C. E. Mouselle, general manager of the Battery Service Co., Twenty-third and Locust streets, explains as follows why the new Willard battery is drawing so much favorable comment:

"For a long time battery manufacturers have been confronted with a very serious problem as what material could best be used as the proper insulation, the most vital point of a storage battery.

"Admitting that glass is the best insulator of electricty, it could not be used for the reason that it was neither elastic nor porous.

"Experiments were then made with solid sheets of hard rubber and although this was elastic, it was not porous, which of course, prevented the free chemical action of the electrolite on both positive and negative plates.

"Perforated rubber was then tried and in a measure it was a success, but like many other forms of insulation, it proved to be a failure, for the reason that as soon as the active material began falling, it would find its way into the tiny perforations and eventually prohibit the free passage of electrolite.

"The Willard Storage Battery Co., who are the pioneers in the manufacture of starting and lighting batteries, have solved the problem of insulation and are manufacturing what is known as the Still Better Willard, with threaded rubber insulation.

"It is interesting to know, that one insulator contains more than 196,000 tiny little threads, which are vulcanized into hard rubber, permitting both elasticity and porosity. Considering the fact that 90 per cent of battery trouble is due to broken down insulation, car manufacturers are welcoming this new battery, as they fully appreciate that the storage battery is the most important accessory on their automobiles, as it is called upon to operate the starter, lights, ignition and horn.

"It is equally interesting to know that a good many car manufacturers have adopted this battery as standard equipment, among them being the Pierce-Arrow, Franklin, Owen Magnetic, Stutz, Lexington, Haynes and Dorris, and contracts have already been closed with several other manufacturers of high-grade cars who will use this battery as standard equipment.

The Battery Service Co., local Willard representatives, are in a position to deliver immediately one of these Still Better Willard batteries for any year, type and model of car and will be more than glad to show it to any one who may be interested. It is a battery that will give far longer life and more efficient service.

HARROUN BODY HAS UNUSUAL DIMENSIONS

The Harroun car, which will be seen in the Wilson Motor Car Co. space at the Auto Show has several distinctive features.

Harroun body dimensions are unusual for cars in its price class. For instance, there is 49 inches of space between the upholstery of the rear seat, which is unusual in a light car with a wheelbase of 106 inches. Runningboard, braces, muffler, brackets and battery with brackers are all one assembly and can be taken off or put on by six volts. The rear spring suspension is unusual in that the springs are hung inside the frame. One of the chief features is the flexible steering wheel, which has a spider of spring steel that eliminates strain on the driver's wrist. The engine is a four-cylinder 3¼ by 5¼ with an N. A. C. C. horsepower rating of 16.9.

Nash Power Plant Clean.

One of the objects of interest at the Automobile Show this week has been the Nash perfected valve-in-head motor, the power plant used in Nash passenger cars. The usual tangle of wires and maze of mechanism are missing. It has the trim, clean-cut business-like appearance of a smooth block of steel. All moving parts are encased in a steel jacket which protects them from dirt and grit.

RACINE MULTI-MILE CORD TIRES

RACINE RUBBER COMPANY
EXTRA TESTED
TIRES

Racine Absorbing Shock Strip is a special process of blended rubber of graduated resiliency, uniting the tough rubber of the tread to the rubberized cord fabric carcass of the tire. Tread and carcass are thus perfectly welded to absorb any and all road shocks and eliminate danger of separation.

Extra Tested Value

Racine Multi-Mile Cord Tires are built on the proved Racine principle of Multiple-Cord construction. The thousands of rubber livened cords permit a flexibility resulting in much greater tire mileage and greater riding comfort. Marked resiliency makes for car operation economy.

Non-skid construction, scientifically perfected, gives an assurance and certainty to Racine Cord Tires under severest tests over all manner of pavements and roads. Racine Multi-Mile Cord Tires are carefully Extra Tested through each stage in their construction.

Big Dividends in Extra Mileage

Does Comfort Mean These Things to You?

Speak of comfort to a Hupmobile owner, and he thinks, for one thing, of his car's performance.

He does that because he knows that his four-cylinder car not only equals, but actually outperforms other types on the essential points.

He is rarely tempted by cars with more than four cylinders. He has seen them perform; and he believes his Hupmobile does better.

Comfort also means service to the Hupmobile owner. For him, the word service translates itself into service from the car, rather than from the service station.

Next he thinks of economy. He runs his car at an unusually low outlay.

WHAT can you afford to pay for a car? You may scour the Auto Show, with a $2000 check in your pocket, in search of the car that represents the most value for your money.

You'll find it on the second floor—in the Anderson—and get back $325.00 "change." For the Anderson 5-Passenger Touring Car, fully equipped, costs $1675.00.

This is one of the reasons we have chosen to represent the Anderson in St. Louis and surrounding territory (and why you should choose it for your territory, Mr. Dealer). There are many other reasons, just as vital to your pocketbook and to your driving comfort, all of which will be readily apparent when you ride in one.

No car, at $2000 or under, has so beautiful a custom built body as the Anderson line. The Anderson factory, it must be borne in mind, has been known the world over, during 28 years, for fine coach work. Naturally such facilities and experience are not available for the average motor car manufacturer.

Mechanically the Anderson knows no rival in its price field. There is no need to spend $2000 for a car with the Anderson procurable at $1675.

MARMON "34" HAS MANY BODY STYLES

Light Weight Construction and Flexible Motor Are Features.

The Marmon 34, a comfortable, high-powered car, having a wheelbase of 136 inches, is suplies in a variety of body styles, both open and closed, including five and seven passenger touring cars; a very popular design of four-passenger close-coupled roadster, with full-with rear seat and the entrance by way of the divided front seats; a standard limousine, a landaulet, a town car, and a sedan of the nonconvertible style with four doors. The opening car bodies are all constructed in the Marmon shops.

Aside from the standard closed car types, which offer everything to be desired in an up-to-the-minute car of this kind, special bodies to meet individual requirements may be constructed in comparatively short lengths of time and with certainty that they can be fitted to the Marmon chassis in such a way as to give lasting satisfaction.

Weighs 3450 Pounds.

The shipping weight of the touring car with full standard equipment, including one spare wheel, is 3450 pounds, and the four-passenger roadster 3390 pounds. The closed cars weigh from 3800 to 4000 pounds, according to the style of body and the equipment.

These weights are significant when compared with other cars of the same class, which will show that Marmon 34 cars are lighter by 1100 pounds or more than cars with which they are compared. Marmon 34 closed cars are lighter by 500 to 1000 pounds than touring cars or roadsters of the same class that are constructed along conventional lines.

Offers Many Features.

The striking features of this car are the extensive use of aluminum, the deep Z-section frame, the three-piece touring body, the compound cantilever cross-suspension type of rear springs and transmission held in suspension on the front end of the torque tube.

Much of the touring body, the fenders, the hood, the radiator shell, part of the rear axle and the transmission case are further examples of aluminum construction.

The compound cantilever cross-suspension rear springs give a new comfort in riding; especially is the effort noticeable at high speed in the absence of side sway.

Beats Sixty Miles an Hour.

The Marmon 34 touring car in standard touring form attains a speed of more than 60 miles an hour; it will accelerate from 10 to 50 miles an hour in about 20 seconds; it may be toured in with comfort and with a feeling of complete safety and security at speeds of 50 to 55 miles an hour. The wonderful flexibility of the engine makes it the equal of any multi-cylinder engine yet produced, and its operation a marvel of smoothness.

ROTTERSMAN HAS NEW PATERSON AT THE SHOW

The Paterson Six will be one of the new cars exhibited for the first time in St. Louis at the Automobile Show. Arrangements were completed last week by the Rottersmann Automobile and Truck Co. for the distribution in Eastern Missouri and Southern Illinois.

"The Paterson model 6—46 for 1919 is offered in three body designs, all on one chassis," said Henry Rottersmann in speaking of the new line. "This chassis is of standard construction, using such well-known units as the Continental motor, Bork & Beck clutch and others of equal reputation.

"The Paterson touring body makes an ideal family car—it is a big car with more than enough power for every occasion and plenty of room for the entire family—furnished either as a straight five-passenger car or with two auxilliary seats in the tonneau to care for seven adults in comfort, with room to spare.

"Then, too, this model, even as roomy as it is, is so exceptionally easy to handle that any member of the family can drive it with confidence and safety—without fatigue from driving.

"The Paterson touring model is offered in two sizes of bodies—a good, roomy five-passenger design and a slightly larger body with two comfortable auxilliary seats, making a seven-passenger car of exceptionally easy-riding qualities with unusual economy of gasoline, oil and tires.

"The 'Chummy roadster' body has the riding comfort, as well as the long body lines, of similar designs selling for double the price of this car. The extra long wheel base of this chassis for a roadster design, enables us to provide more than the customary leg room for the passengers in the rear."

FOUR STUTZ MODELS ON THE FIRST FLOOR

The 16-valve Stutz will again be found on the main floor at the Auto Show approximately in the same location that it occupied last year. Manager G. W. D. Donnelly of the Supreme Motor Co., has arranged for a very comprehensive display of Stutz models.

Four types are included, all finished in attractive colors. These include a two-passenger "Bearcat" finished in gray; a six-passenger "Stutz Blue" touring car, a four-passenger touring model finished in gray and a two-passenger red roadster. All have the Stutz four-cylinder, 16-valve motor.

Nothing freakish or even extreme is to be found in these new cars. As always, the Stutz line is distinctive, every detail of the car being carefully planned and tried out. At first glance the Stutz appears to be a sturdy car, capable of standing long, hard service. When the purchaser of a Stutz tries out his car for many thousands of miles he becomes convinced that this sturdiness is more than mere appearance.

HOLD FORD CONVENTION

J. J. Wright, St. Louis branch manager of the Ford Motor Co., has called a convention of all Ford dealers in the St. Louis branch territory, to be held on Tuesday, Feb. 18. About 250 Ford dealers will meet at the Ford branch headquarters on that date.

The big feature of the meeting will be a dinner to be given at the Missouri Athletic Association, at 6 o'clock Tuesday evening, at which time the dealers will be addressed by Mr. W. A. Ryan, general manager of sales, and Mr. C. A. Brownell, manager of advertising, both from the Detroit office. In addition, managers from other Ford plants, and dealers from neighboring territories are expected to be in attendance.

BRISCOE

You Take Pride In Its Beauty And Joy In Its Economy

You feel a thrill of satisfied pride as you seat yourself in a Briscoe, for it is all that a car should be in appearance.

And your pleasure isn't spoiled, as you spin along, by the knowledge that a hungry motor is eating up gasoline at a rapid rate.

For the powerful Briscoe motor is almost unbelievably economical in fuel consumption. When you're "down to the last gallon," you've still got a mighty long way to go. For records of over thirty miles are not uncommon; and even the average, somewhat careless driver frequently goes well over twenty-five.

The Briscoe is a car that you will consider because of its style. And it's a car that you must consider if you value a saving of many dollars in upkeep.

Touring and roadster models, $885 at the factory.

And don't forget—99% built in the great Briscoe plants, to Briscoe standards of quality.

We'll be glad to welcome you at the Show.

HUPP HAS NUMEROUS COMFORT QUALITIES

Perhaps You Never Counted Up Before Just What Makes for Actual Comfort.

That all motor car development of the past two or thre years has been designed for the greater comfort of the automobile user, is the opinion of C. D. Hastings, vice president and general manager of the Hupp.

"Real driver and passenger comfort is the ultimate goal of all automobile designers," says Hastings. "When you analyze the motor car changes of the past few seasons, it becomes evident that each feature of construction has had the definite object of making cars more comfortable to own, to drive and to ride in.

"The common conception of the word 'comfort' is that it refers particularly to bodily ease. As a matter of fact, 'comfort' is a big word. It is possible to be quite comfortably seated in a car but to experience the utmost anxiety mentally and a keen disturbance financially. The most important factors of automobile comfort, as I see them, are not concerned with upholstery and roominess.

"There must be, first, the comfort of safety the car must be strong, easily handled, it must have quickness of pick-up to carry its passengers out of unpleasant conditions of traffic.

"Second, it must have the comfort of power, so that the driver has no hesitancy in negotiating the worst roads and the sharpest grades. There is no greater comfort than the feeling that opening the throttle will release a flood of power that will carry the car on its road easily and quickly over the severest road obstacles.

"Third, there must be the comfort of durability. Nothing is more disturbing to the mental satisfaction of an owner than the constant fear of the repair shop. A car which does not require constant overhauling, which is always ready for service, is certainly a most comfortable type of car to own.

"There must be, too, the comfort of economy. An owner's comfort can certainly be seriously disturbed in his pocketbook. The car which gives highest mileage per gallon of gasoline and longest wear per tire, is infinitely more comfortable than a car which is expensive to run.

"And, finally, there is the very tangible comfort of roominess and riding quality. There is no excuse at this advanced period of automobile construction for possessing a car which has not amply wide seats, comfortable cushions, convenient driving position and good riding qualities.

"It seems to me that if the prospective purchaser of a motor car were to judge its every feature on the basis of comfort, he would not go far wrong in selecting a car which satisfies all of the comfort requirements above named, and he will have a car satisfying to own."

STAR TIRES ARE SOLD HERE BY A NEW FIRM

Rather an unusual combination appears in the new firm of Zerweck, Grayson & Co., distributers of Star tires in Eastern Missouri, Illinois, Southern Iowa and Arkansas. Zerweck i sa former motor car man and is well known to the local trade. Ingraham Grayson is a newcomer to Motor Row, but not onew to St. Louis He has been in the lumber manufacturing business here for a number of years. Recently he has resided in Arkansas as secretary of the Grayson, Ozan Lumber Co.

This company has such well-known salesmen as C. V. Quinn, E. A. Bradley, C. J. Cartwright and F. W. Wernse. The Star makes some unusual guarantees. For a Ford size it is for 7500 miles; larger sizes are rated at 6000 miles and all cord tires are rated at 7500 miles.

Hardware Co., Universal Supply and others.

It is claimed that by the addition of two or three Gas Pepp tablets to each five gallons of gasoline the saving of valve grinding and the elimination of carbon is effected. They also make the engine run smoother and add 25 per cent more power to the engine and by intensifying the gas makes starting the engine easier even on the coldest mornings.

300,000 Builders of Good Will

In four years Dodge Brothers have supplied to the American people, and to American soldiers, more than three hundred thousand of their cars.

The demand for the car is just as fresh, and just as vigorous, today, as in the first year of its existence.

The simple truth is, indeed, that the war has given a new interest and a new impetus to that demand.

To the natural and normal preference which the American people always accord a product which wins their good will, has been added a strong sentimental attraction.

The car is inseparably linked, in the thought of thousands of homes, with its fine and faithful performance in the service of the nation.

The written and spoken word of American army men, at home and abroad, has given the very name of Dodge Brothers Motor Car a new and a stirring significance.

It stands, in their minds and hearts, as a synonym for pluck, and endurance, and ability to 'carry on' under the stress of desperately discouraging conditions.

So the war that curtailed production of the car, has now conferred upon it a stronger and more spontaneous admiration than ever.

More than ever is it apparent, now that the American people think of it as a stable and an established value, to be bought on its merits, and without a moment's hesitation.

Thus that national good will which has become almost a trade mark in Dodge Brothers business, after four years, is at the highest point in their history.

Dodge Brothers enter upon the fifth year with a full sense of the confidence reposed in them and the determination to continue to deserve it.

SANDOW TRUCK HAS SPECIAL ADVANTAGES

Four Special Features Aid the Owner in Economical Use of This Vehicle.

NEW SERIES 2-TON SANDOW...

"The wise truck manufacturer is the one who builds into his products the specifications which give the truck user the kind of service he wants," says F. Bishop, president of the Briscoe Motors Sales Co. of St Louis and distributor for Sandow Motor Trucks.

"In my selection of the motor truck, I was to handle, I looked particularly to these things, manufacturing record, construction details adding to economy and safe road speed, strength elements adding to the load which could be carried and the record of the motor trucks in the hands of users.

"My final slection was the Sanow, because in this Chicago made truck I found these elements in their highest development.

"In general specifications, the Sandow line corresponds to 90 per cent of the motor trucks now in service of all makes that sell at prices which must be asked for real truck quality.

"But, in addition to the general specifications characteristic of the majority of motor trucks, I found four distinctively Sandow features, which are found only in Sandow trucks, and all of which seemed to me to be essential to the utmost in truck service.

"Among these four the most prominent was the motor rocker block. It has been my experience that the majority of motor trucks suffered from broken crank cases or broken motor legs at frequent intervals. The Sandow motor rocker block suspends the motor in a flexible suspension that compesates for weaving over rough roads, railroad tracks, etc., and I have failed to find any instance where a user of a Sandow motor truck has lost service of his truck through broken crank cases or motor legs.

"The quick removable motor was another big feature. The motor in Sandow trucks is suspended in a frame at the front end, and all that it is necessary to remove the motor, is to loosen the motor rocker block and take the motor out. It can be done easily in 45 minutes, which is hours less time than is required with other forms of motor suspension.

"The Sandow power increaser, which acts as a muffler, but eliminates back pressure in the motor, proves a big gasoline saving feature and a distinct advantage in hill climbing due to the increased power available through proper muffling.

"The fourth feature is the safety starter, which is a Sandow patented feature, and which eliminates all danger of backfire when cranking the car.

"When I took on the Sandow line these features were sufficient to make it the logical choice of any buyer.

"Within the past two weeks another big advantage has come in the matter of price. Sandow has just announced a new price on all models, in addition to a totally new two-ton model. The prices on the complete line make Sandow the best buy from a straight cost viewpoint that there is in the country today.

"The new prices came as a complete surprise to me. But to the prospect who is looking for real old-fashioned value in every dollar he spends it makes the Sandow all the more desirable."

Total Cadillac Production.

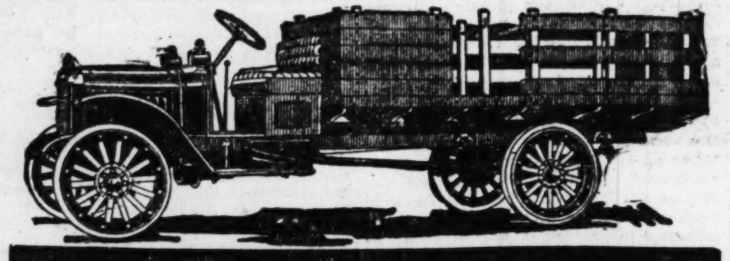
During its entire history, the Cadillac Motor Car Co. has produced more than 70,000 eight-cylinder cars, 66,649 four-cylinder cars and 15,686 single cylinders.



REPUBLIC

MOTOR TRUCKS
7 Models—¾ Ton to 5 Ton

Why are more Republics sold than any other make?

The reason why Republics are sold in greater numbers than any other truck—more than twice as many as any other—can be summed up in two words: Quality and Service.

Every piece of material that goes into a Republic must pass the extra-rigid Republic inspection and every part must be designed and put together in the way Republic engineers have proved to be best.

And the result has shown in the service Republics have given in the hands of their owners, the kind of service that makes Republic owners buy more Republics and recommend Republics to their friends.

Let us help you solve your transportation problems.

GMC First To Reduce Prices

The first truck maker to announce a reduction of prices was the General Motors Truck Company.

In returning to a pre-war basis, the only change made was a change in price.

Factory equipment remains as it was when the war ceased, and quantity production continues—with the same high grade material, the same careful inspection and with the benefit of every economizing facility acquired during government production.

That the government selected GMC trucks as we built them, and made them a Government Standard, is a distinct compliment to GMC design and quality.

Trucks that will stand the hard usage of war work and fail only when destroyed by enemy shells can and do render satisfactory service to American business men.

Our customers include many of the largest and best known business concerns in the world. Let the GMC dealer show you why it is economy to use GMC trucks, or write direct to truck headquarters for information.

A Good Tire Year

Look at the tires on the cars you see on streets and roads.

Notice the growing preponderance of good tires—United States Tires.

And, bear in mind that this is despite the fact that many thousands who sought United States Tires have been unable to buy them.

Now, government restrictions have been removed. Production of United States Tires shortly will be on a far greater scale than ever before.

The nation-wide demand for good tires has forced a tremendous increase in our output.

Everyone is asking for tires of known value and proved dependability.

And that is precisely what United States Tires represent in the minds of hundreds of thousands of American motorists and truck owners.

Our ideal—to build good tires—the very best tires that can be built—is appealing to rapidly growing numbers.

There is a type of United States Tires to meet—and meet exactly—any possible need.

United States Tires are Good Tires

NEWMAN TELLS SOME TRAILER ADVANTAGES

Just as Reasonable to Expect Locomotive to Carry Train "on Its Back."

The question was asked Harry Newman, upon his return from the Chicago Motor Truck show and from several of the truck factories, as to what he considered the most important factor in motor truck merchandising.

"The dealer or distributer who will introduce himself or his firm to the public mind as transportation experts will, by far, lead in his community," answered Newman.

Newman based this statement on the fact that the average buyer is concerned in but one thing primarily, that is to save money on his hauling. The dealer that can show the buyer a saving of from 25 to 200 per cent on his present operating costs has broken down the stiffest resistance to the sale of motor trucks or motor truck equipment.

One of the easiest means of accomplishing this fact, several of the Harry Newman Corp. dealers have stated, is trailer equipment. When, for example, you can go into a lumber man and show him that with his same 2-ton truck he can haul six tons, and instead of limiting his loading space to 10, 12 or 14 feet, he has a loading space of 18 to 30 feet, you have solved two big problems.

One—additional loading space, handling oversized and extra long pieces; second, and the more important, doubling the tonnage.

In the Eastern cities the application of four-wheel trailers has become a realized fact. Its adaptation by big milk-hauling concerns, rural motor express lines, contractors and road builders, is almost general. The average well built motor truck is built to haul behind it three or four times what it can carry. In fact, these figures are frequently exceeded where operating conditions are favorable. This analogy is ofttimes used by the motor-truck salesman of the railroad locomotive which is built to haul 100 or more heavy loaded freight cars, which, of course, the locomotive could not carry "on its back."

The possibilities of the trailer are enormous and but little progressive work has as yet been done for trailers in the Middle West, where conditions are ideally suitable to their usage. Just picture the enormous large fleet owners that run several trucks in the same direction daily, whereas a trailer or two added to their present equipment would eliminate much of the expense of the extra drivers, gasoline, etc.

This statement, coming as it does from a truck manufacturer and distributer like Harry Newman, which is contrary to the interests of the truck industry, must necessarily convince the reader that the trailer is a big time and money saver and that the millions of wasted horsepower through the failure to attach trailers to the trucks in service will no doubt in the next couple of years see a radical change.

I. H. C. TRUCK SHOW.

The International Harvester Co. of Akron, O., is contemplating an addition to its present truck factory, despite the fact that this factory was doubled in size during the last year. This winter's demand has been extraordinary.

A. R. Anderson, general manager of the St. Louis branch, announces that a full line of I. H. C. trucks will be on exhibit at the branch salesrooms, Twenty-second and Gratiot streets, during the Auto Show. Anderson will have booth space at the show rooms. He definitely announces that all truck orders taken during the show will be delivered the day of sale.

DEARBORN TO SHOW IN OWN SALES ROOM

Owing to the small space in the Exhibit Building to show truck and pleasure cars, the Dearborn Truck Co. are going to show their line of trucks and truck units at their showroom, 3027 Locust street. They will have on exhibitioon there a one-ton complete truck that sells for $975. This truck is a wonder in itself and is finding a ready market throughout the United States. With the complete have on exhibition there a one-ton Smith Form-A-Truck, the Dearborn one and two ton Ford unit, the two-ton Universal unit for any car, the Iowa internal gear unit for Fords and other makes of cars, and the Knox tractor units. The Dearborn Truck Co. has the most complete line of truck units of any compaany in the United States and are direct factory representatives for these units.

Howard Hoyt aand Henry E. Simon of the Dearborn Truck Co. of Chicago and William T. Miller of the Iowa Motor Truck Co. will be at the Dearborn showroom all week to assist C. A. Aldrich, general manager, and A. E. Stephens, sales manager, in explaining the different units to the prospective dealers. The Dearborn has a wonderful proposition to offer dealers in this line and those seeking such a line will profit by spending a little time in their place.

GARFORD CHIEF SEES GREAT TRUCK VICTORY

" 'After the war'—better roads and the universal use of the motor truck as a means of transportation," said E. A. Williams Jr., president of the Garford Motor Truck Co.

"That, in my opinion, sums up one of the major results to be gained from the great conflict. The motor truck has gone through the crucial test and come forth teeming with honors. Under the most unprecedented conditions it has proven its worth as a mode of transportation and the lessons we have learned will not be permitted to go unheeded.

"Not only on the battlefield and to the rear as an important element in the service of supply has the advantages of the motor truck been demonstrated. When the railroad facilities of this country failed to cope with the demands made upon it, it was the motor truck which came to the rescue. Over the roads, good or bad, great truck trains hauled supplies to the cantonments, to industrial institutions engaged in the production of war materials, and to the ports of embarkation, the gateways to the war zone and always the Garford did its part."

MOTOR
TRUCKS

THE unusual interest in the Nash truck line evidenced at this time is perhaps heightened by the knowledge that more trucks, we believe, were built by the Nash Motors Company during the war for military purposes than were produced by any other maker.

The Nash Motors Company built nearly thirteen thousand Nash trucks for military service.

This preference of the Government for Nash products is readily understood upon close inspection of the many superior mechanical features of Nash truck construction.

For example, owners are quick to appreciate the automatic locking differential with which all Nash trucks are equipped. This feature, besides saving fuel and tires, enables Nash trucks to make surer and safer deliveries with no time out because of weather or road conditions.

Reasonably prompt deliveries can be made to immediate buyers.

4,000 LBS. CAPACITY

Made in St. Louis by the Largest Exclusive Builders of 4000-lb. Capacity Trucks in the World

Let "Horse Sense" guide you—the Traffic convince you.

Chassis f. o. b. St. Louis

Traffic performance has pulverized the opinions of skeptics who believed that a quality truck of the Traffic's capacity could not be built and sold for the low price of $1395. Perhaps it has puzzled you?

Hundreds upon hundreds of Traffic Trucks are now serving satisfied owners from Coast to Coast, Lakes to Gulf, and in foreign countries.

Traffics are built to build prestige and big business for the dealer by offering the greatest truck value in the world to the user. The sale of one Traffic sells another—the quality does it—quality from every angle that you can possibly figure value in a motor truck, which means repeat sales. When an owner of a Traffic can use more trucks—he buys more Traffics—many have already done so, which is concrete evidence of Traffic dependability on the job. The Traffic has many superior features not to be found in any other truck, regardless of price.

The question—Traffic high quality? It is answered by its specifications.

The question—the Traffic low price? It is answered by reduced overhead cost in construction, through quantity production on one model and one capacity—there's a Traffic produced every 35 minutes.

The question—your Opportunity? It is answered best by coming to the plant and seeing the Traffic built—see how and what goes into it and see it perform.

Important Notice

The Traffic will be represented at the St. Louis Automobile Show, February 17th to 23d. Due to the limited space in the show building for pleasure cars, no trucks will be exhibited. A truck section has been provided with desks where the builders of commercial cars will be represented. The Traffic representative will be there and will have an automobile take you to our plant where you will have the opportunity of seeing the Traffic Truck in the process of production and completed.

We Want to Meet You

This is our first anniversary. One year ago today the Martin Motor Truck Company was organized and the first Denby Truck received. From the first day our aim has been to give every Denby owner the maximum use of his investment. Courtesy-Service was our watchword and it is a policy that has spelled Success.

Today these scores of Denby owners have at their command one of the largest and best equipped exclusive Truck garages in the West. A corps of competent, trained workmen is at their beck and call, that their truck may be at its best at all times.

No accident or mishap but what the damaged parts can be replaced from our stock room for we could practically re-assemble a complete truck from our replacement parts. Fifty trucks can be accommodated in our garage at one time. It was built for the convenience of Denby owners.

Our duty to a Denby owner does not end with the sale, but continues throughout the life of the truck. Our one idea is that it always does its work, be always ready for any emergency day or night, and that its owner be satisfied with his investment.

That is our Service Policy.

For Every Purpose, There's a Denby Truck That's Right.

One of the big advantages the Denbyman has is the range of uses to which Denby Trucks are adapted.

The different capacities cover practically all needs of hauling. From the one-ton for retailers, express service, pick-up or market garden haulage up to the five-ton for the heaviest freight moving, there are sizes to meet each class of work.

It is not alone because of the full line of sizes that they have so wide a market. They are able to work satisfactorily under all sorts of conditions.

For city work they offer a low cost for fuel and maintenance and a freedom from mechanical troubles that give them a great advantage.

On farm and ranch, in logging work, for inter-city express, on stage-coach lines, in gravel and sand haulage—in hundreds of uses where the roads are bad and the work particularly difficult—their superior ability makes them practicable and profitable where a truck of lesser ability would fail.

Denby Trucks do any work needed and do it economically.

1, 2, 2½, 3½ and 5-Ton Capacity

Mr. Truck Owner:

We want to meet you. We want to discuss your hauling problems with you. We want to refer you to a long list of satisfied Denby owners. You should learn more about our service facilities for it is this that make a success or a failure of motor hauling.

Drop in at our booth on the second floor of the Auto Show. IT will be time well spent if you are thinking of a new truck or if your present equipment isn't filling your needs.

Mr. Dealer:

We want to meet you, too. From lack of space no trucks are being exhibited at the show, but a car will be waiting outside to take you to the salesroom where you can inspect, at your leisure, the full line. Every farmer and every merchant in your territory is a truck prospect. You are the logical man to sell him and reap the profits. The Denby line is so complete that there is a size and model suited for every kind of work. Drop in at the booth and talk it over.

DRIVER PROTECTION IN PAIGE TRUCKS

"One feature usually neglected in designing and building motor trucks is the driver's comfort under varying weather conditions in summer heat or winter blizzards," says Harry M. Jewett, president of the Paige-Detroit Motor Car Co.

"That is a mistake, if for no other reason than when without protection the personnel efficiency of the driver is lowered and naturally the productive work of the truck suffers in the same proportion. We endeavored to avoid this mistake when we designed the Paige truck which is now on the market.

"On every model of the Paige line of trucks you will find a permanent driver's cab that is a very distinctive feature. It is very roomy, there being ample seat space for three men. Sliding doors and windows make the cab adjustable to any changes in the weather.

"The doors are light and rattle proof and when not wanted slide into the top of the cab entirely our of sight. Being made of heavy gauge metal on a seasoned wood frame they are extremely durable. Safety in driving has been provided for. The driver can easily signal to traffic behind him through the cab window. Thus provided with a comfortable weather proof cab the driver and his assistants are in a mood to give their work that careful cheerful attention which means the highest efficiency."

Leaders of the "Dominant Seven"

There are upwards of 250 motor truck manufacturers in the United States. Yet only a very few—in reality but seven—have achieved such a marked success that their products may be considered as dominating.

These seven, including SERVICE, agree on standard specifications. Yet, SERVICE offers many features of extraordinary value in design and construction which, combined, are not equalled by even one of the "Dominant Seven." This fact is clearly demonstrated by the recent Chicago efficiency test in which over all of the twelve competitors including the "Dominant Seven." This test proved conclusively that SERVICE is clearly the leader of the "Dominant Seven." That is why the City of Chicago bought a fleet of SERVICE Motor Trucks. The facts of SERVICE efficiency, reliability and economy could not be denied. Compare motor with motor, axle with axle, transmission with transmission, and every other part in SERVICE construction with any other truck and see the superior merit in SERVICE.

SERVICE IS KEYNOTE OF MARTIN TRUCK CO.

Denby Distributor Tells How He Keeps Machines on Road All the Time.

Just one year ago today Frank Martin organized the Martin Motor Truck Co., having arranged to distribute the Denby truck throughout this territory. What was then thought would be adequate quarters for years to come were obtained at 3314 Pine street.

Martin, prior to his coming to St. Louis, was interested in coal properties in Southern Illinois and, through his experience as a user to truck transportation, was thoroughly convinced of the big future in store for the motor truck.

In six months, the business outgrew the location and the new building being erected at 2800 Pine street was leased and re-arranged into one of the largest and best equipped exclusive commercial car garages in the West. There is sufficient space for storing more than 50 trucks in the building.

In addition to the Denby line, which ranges from one to five ton capacity, Martin recently added the Fulton ton and a half truck, both lines being of the Russell internal gear type.

"The foundation of the motor truck is service" said Martin. "The sole idea of a man in purchasing a motor truck is to haul goods and more particularly to haul them whenever and wherever he desires.

"If he can do that, then his truck is a success. We feel that it is our duty to keep the truck in such condition that he can obtain twenty-four hour service from it if his business requires it. We can not afford to have an owner's truck lying idle for several days, while some replacement part is being shipped from the factory. We must have that part for him when he wants it, whether it be the smallest leather washer or a complete new power plant assembly.

"Neglect causes more repair bills than all accidents in the world and to save this we urge a regular inspection of all our trucks. Going even a step further, we arrange every month or so for one of the Denby engineers to visit St. Louis and at that time inspect any trucks which the owners may desire.

"This is part of the Denby engineering policy for they believe that no test the factory can give a machine is as thorough as experience of hundreds of owners in different parts of the country, doing different work under different conditions."

The Martin Company, while unable to display the trucks in their booth at the Auto Show, has arranged for a car to be at Exhibit Hall for the convenience of those who wish to visit their salesroom and service station.

BOOK SHEDS LIGHT ON FARM HAULING

"Profitable Farm Hauling With Motor Trucks" is the businesslike title of the latest addition to motor truck trade literature just issued by the Goodyear Tire and Rubber Co., Akron, O.

In this booklet is interestingly portrayed the practicability of the motor truck as a farm tool, when aided by pneumatic cord tire equipment. The adaptability of many American inventions to farm usage is nowhere better illustrated than in the application of the motor truck to the solution of the many transportation problems incidental to farming.

Just as the advantages of electric lights, gasoline engines, water systems and numerous other appliances and conveniences have been made possible in rural communities, so the motor truck has "arrived" to contribute its share to the simplification of hauling on the farm.

The booklet cites many examples of farm motor truck transport covering a wide diversity of service in representative sections of the country and abounds in photographs of pneumatic-tired trucks that have proved their worth as individual units of farm equipment, with the story of each truck's performance reviewed.

Interesting figures are shown outlining comparisons of wagon costs with motor truck costs—with the motor truck in the ascendency—as compiled by the United States Department of Agriculture. Copies of the new Goodyear booklet are available and free for the asking.

SETS NEW STANDARD FOR TRUCK VALUES

"The Traffic Motor Truck Corporation of St. Louis has set a new standard for motor truck value in the production of the "Traffic" a 4000-lb. capacity truck for $1395," says T. C. Brandle of the Traffic Motor Truck Co.

"While motor trucks have proven profitable for most every use," Mr. Brandle said he was convinced that high prices have been the dominant factor in retarding their general use, and that universal motor truck hauling was dependent upon a quality truck at a price that would make teams for hauling a liability and the motor truck an asset.

"It was this thought and engineering skill that developed the Traffic—the lowest priced 4000-lb. capacity truck in the world. The company is the largest exclusive builder of trucks of this capacity—producing a Traffic every 35 minutes."

The Traffic's records of performance for owners throughout the United States and foreign countries have firmly established its remarkable value and dependability in actual work. Record sales are proving its popularity and without question it is destined to become the universal truck, which is the mark the makers have set and they are apparently accomplishing their aim.

The Traffic is built of standard units and the entire Traffic plant is confined to the production of the one model and one capacity which makes an extremely low price possible.

REPUBLIC FACTORIES BACK TO PEACE BASIS

"The problem of turning our factories to the manufacture of peace products is not nearly so serious as that which confronted us in converting from a peace to a war basis," says F. S. Ruggles, president of the Republic Motor Truck Co., Inc., Alma, Mich.

"Our continuous production of Republic trucks throughout the war, on a greatly restricted scale, of course, and the fact that our work for the Government was practically confined to the production of standard trucks, enables us to make the post-war transition with little or no change in our manufacturing facilities.

"The elimination of Government work from plant 1, an important unit of the Republic factories, has permitted that plant to resume work exclusively on trucks for commercial use. The last big consignment of standard 3½-ton Republic war trucks left our factories just before the beginning of the new year. There are still a numebr of Republic trucks being built under Government specifications at our military plant. These should be completed and ready for delivery the midle of next month. This will clear our decks entirely and enables us to put through our extensive production plans without interruption."

"The war has served to demonstrate, as would be possible in no other way, that the motor truck is absolutely a necessity to business and that for short hauls it is more valuable than the railroads.

"As an essential vehicle of commerce, the motor truck has come into the foreground and will continue to be pressed into the business of America with increasing insistence until every highway from the Atlantic to the Pacific will be traversed with this willing and capable bearer of burdens."

PACKARD EFFICIENCY TEST FOR TRUCKS

By System of Monthly Reports an Estimate Will Be Made of Each Vehicle.

How can consistent improvement [illegible] truck operating efficiency be attained? The Packard company in its new truck operating test which began on Feb. 1 believes it solves this question. It has made provision for a brief monthly report from each truck owner to be submitted to the factory. There it will be gone over by truck transportation experts, studied for improvement and remedial suggestions sent to owner and driver.

For instance, should the owner's report show that a truck is consuming too much gasoline the factory will call that to his attentioon, along with some of the reasons why such a condition exists. These are several—allowing the motor to run while the truck is standing still for a long time or lack of regular mechanical inspection, which often reveals numerous causes for excessive gasoline consumption. Cylinder oil consumption also will come in for scrutiny.

Among the other important factors of truck operation included in the monthly report will be number of days operated, round trips, pickup and delivery stops, total load units in and out, miles traveled, wasted hours, loading and unloading hours, running hours, including stops, hours taken out for repairs, trailer data. From the averages of the foregoing and the total cost of operation will be determined cost per day operation, cost per mile, cost per unit of load and cost per unit mile.

The assembly of these figures at the end of each month is a matter of only a few minutes and is already facilitated among thousands of truck owners who want the exact figures on how much work their trucks do and how much that work costs. The performances of all trucks entered in the test are recorded on the forms of the National Standard Truck Cost System, as adopted by the truck owners' conference.

DODGE BUSINESS CAR GROWS IN POPULARITY

"The speeding up of business in all sections of the country has been a big stimulus to the popularity of Dodge Brothers Business Car," said Frank R. Tate of the Tate-Gillham Motor Car Co. "During the war business had the motor delivery habit more firmly implanted than ever, and the exceptional service given by Dodge Brothers Business Car in all kinds of haulage has passed all former bounds of demand.

"In the first place, Dodge Brothers Business Car admirably meets the attitude of the merchant toward motor delivery. He wants good looks, dependable, complete service at a fixed low cost that can be carefully approximated for the year.

"The finish of Dodge Brothers cars and the entire equipment is of the same quality as that which goes into their passenger car. It contains the same electric lighting and starting system. Its appearance is a credit and a distinction to any establishment.

"The wheel base with its narrow turning radius enables the driver to back in or out of tight places, to handle the car with greater ease in choked traffic and turn conveniently in narrow streets and abrupt corners. The saving of time and the item of speed-with-safety is a most important feature in the delivery of merchandise.

"The car is particularly in favor with florists, grocers, dairymen, bakers, dry goods stores, in fact, any stores that handle merchandise of this character."

ITS EXPORT BUSINESS TO EXCEED $1,000,000

The first announcement from an American corporation that it is going after export business with energy is that from the Indiana Truck Corporation, Marion, Ind., which expects a volume of export business for 1919 will be in excess of a million dollars, as outlined to W. C. Hovel, St. Louis distributer.

Pablo Homs, export manager, has some definite ideas as to where the export business of the United States is coming from during the next few years, and he expects that the central Powers, which have just been defeated, will be the last of the nations of the world to deliver a volume of business for American manufacturers.

"Through arrangements that we have completed we will do in excess of a million dollars in truck business for the next year in foreign markets," said Mr. Homs.

LATEST OLDSMOBILE MODELS AT SHOW

Many Mechanical Refinements Will Interest the Motorist.

For clean-cut lines there are no cars at the St. Louis show that can claim a higher place in the opinion of the motoring public than the latest Oldsmobile model displayed by the De Luxe Automobile Co., which is the Oldsmobile distributer in this territory.

The Oldsmobile line, as displayed includes the latest offerings of the Olds Motor works in the form of Model 45-A and Model 37-A, both of which include mechanical features that will receive more than passing attention from the critical eye of show visitors. The former model with the "Sportster" type body is truly a creation of beauty and power, having all the desired factors of smart appearance, with nothing being sacrificed in usefulness or utility.

High Speed Motor.

The body is strictly streamline, long, rakish and narrow, accommodating four passengers with unusual roominess and comfort. Midway of the rear tonneau, a graceful inward sweep completes a most pleasing appearance. The motor is of the high speed, small bore, long stroke "V" type with eight cylinders, 2⅞ inches by 3¾ inches.

Model 37-A, as a six-cylinder touring car and roadster, completes the 1919 Oldsmobile line with two cars, selling at $1295. These have distinctiveness of design, attractiveness of body lines and are most complete in appointments. The cylinders in this motor are 2 13-16 inches by 4¾ inches.

Mechanical Refinements.

Many important mechanical improvements on general motor car design are incorporated in this model, with comfort and convenience for the motorist being the guiding factor in its construction. The touring car has a spacious roominess of tonneau, and more than customary leg-room under the dash.

Cushions are built up of one deep coil, resilient springs, and are shaped to give full natural support to the body. In the forward compartment, the long established Oldsmobile custom of providing a genuine walnut dash, sets a note of richness that is characteristic of the finish of the car throughout. The roadster body is an unusually pleasing and practical design. The seat is wide and there is generous room for two. An auxiliary seat unfolds from the rear deck and accommodates two additional passengers, with ample room remaining for baggage.

NEWMAN'S SECOND ANNUAL TRUCK SHOW

Faith in the future of motor trucks caused the Harry Newman Corporation to hold their first exclusive truck show last year. Little did this company then realize that they would be handling commercial vehicles exclusively this year which would exclude them from the auto show because commerical vehicles are not shown, due to limited space.

Greater impetus is, therefore, given to the Harry Newman Second Annual Truck Show, now being held at the Show Room Station, 3410-3418 Locust street.

A specially painted chassis of two-ton capacity is on the floor, with orange frame and cab, while the running gear is jet black. There are also shown one-ton and three and a half-ton models, stripped chassis.

A full line of various type highway trailers are also shown, as well as United States solid truck tires.

This display is for dealers only.

A few overhauled and repainted used trucks are also on exhibition.

It is merely an attractive display and every dealer is invited. No charge of any kind.

When you invest—

In motor trucks there are two points that are paramount: Service from the truck and service from the manufacturer. Internationals excel in both.

International Motor Trucks are used extensively by such prominent concerns as Morris & Co., Bethlehem Steel Co., Armour & Co., Standard Oil Co., National Tube Co., Western Electric Co., Bell Telephone Co., and National Refining Co.

These firms invest in hauling equipment on the basis of service—service from the truck and service from the manufacturer.

Saves Gas and Tires

Factory Representative Gives Special Exhibit in St. Louis—Learn Why Stewarts Cost Less—Last Longer

The Stewart factory has sent a special representative to Saint Louis to explain why Stewarts cost less to buy, run and maintain; why thousands are in use in 24 different countries; why the first 50 are still in daily use; why in five years no Stewart has worn out.

Let him show you why the Stewart method of applying power delivers the maximum to the rear wheels at all speeds and under all loads. Learn how the springs have been made to absorb starting, stopping and road shocks—the shocks that in any truck shorten life and add to tire and repair costs. Find out why Stewarts utilize their power to as full an extent at three miles an hour as at full speed—when starting on the level or on a steep grade.

Stewart price is $200 to $300 below the average for trucks of equal capacity. They have 600 to 700 fewer parts. Adjustments that invite tinkering have been eliminated. Lubrication is practically automatic! There are fewer grease cups and places to oil.

Stewarts are designed to be fool proof. They give continuous, uninterrupted service.

Be sure to visit this special showing of the full line of Stewart Trucks and learn why these things are true—and how they have been attained in the Stewart.

Trucks will be on exhibition at St. Louis Motor Co., 33d and Locust Sts., Feb. 16th to Feb. 22d.

PAIGE

The Most Beautiful Car in America

The Newell Decision and a Prophecy Fulfilled

When we elected two years ago to represent the Paige in St. Louis and surrounding territory, we based our decision on the outstanding quality of Paige cars and the broad policy diligently pursued by the Paige-Detroit Motor Car Company.

Many years of experience in serving the motoring public had built for us a reputation of which we were justly proud. We sought, therefore, a line of passenger cars that we could recommend with whole-hearted enthusiasm; and we aimed to ally the Newell policy of Service and Satisfaction for the Owner with a manufacturing policy likewise broad and constructive.

We aimed, in a word, to perpetuate the Good Will we had won in this community and we sought the car that would increase that good will in generous measure.

For many years Paige cars had been a dominant factor in the industry. They had won leadership in their field because it had always been the policy of the Paige Company to put into its product the greatest possible value for the money.

The Paige was therefore our choice.

And straightway we made a prophecy.

We declared that in an amazingly short time Paige cars, backed by Newell Service, would win the preference of discriminating motorists in St. Louis—that they would be regarded as the preferred investment.

We predicted this community would be a Paige community and that our enthusiasm and our confidence would be reflected in the progress of the Paige in this locality and in the growing prosperity of our business.

That prediction has been fulfilled.

It has been fulfilled to a greater degree than even we had dared hope. Our own judgment and our confidence in the discrimination of the motoring public have been triumphantly confirmed.

We have now entered upon the most promising and important year of our history. We wish to assure everyone interested in motoring, or in the vital problems of transportation that the Newell Company and the Paige-Detroit Motor Car Company are better prepared and more strongly fortified than ever before to increase the Confidence and Good Will already won and to meet the greater opportunities that shall surely be ours in this new year.

Thanks to war-time duties successfully fulfilled, the Paige Company has greater facilities than ever before to carry out its policy of the highest possible quality for the money.

We are now able to offer for your consideration a New Series Paige, which, thanks to broad engineering experience gained during the war, embodies important improvements and refinements and illustrates new standards of quality.

It will mean more than ever this year to carry the Paige Banner.

The Newell Company will be splendidly represented at the Automobile Show. We cordially invite you to visit us, either there or at our Showrooms, so that we may have the privilege of explaining to you personally why Paige cars merit your most careful consideration; and why—backed by Newell Service—they are a guarantee of Motoring Satisfaction.

TENANTS FOR LONG VACANT HOUSES NO LONGER A PROBLEM

Residences, Flats and Apartments Figure Extensively in Week's Activities in Real Estate, Agencies Report.

OUTLOOK IS FOR A RECORD YEAR

Investment Branch of Market Said to Be Making Specialty of Apartments — Deal on for Shepley Home.

By Berry Moore.

Residences, flats and apartments were features of the week's activities in realty. Earnest money was paid on many buildings of these types. The first-named are being purchased for homes, and the latter for investment as well as for homes.

Albert T. Terry & Co. report a large number of sales of houses, including several West End homes, all of which will be conveyed as fast as examination of titles can be made, it is announced.

"We are up to our eyes in work," said Terry; "in fact, busier than we have been for a long time. There is an extraordinary demand for homes of all prices. There is also unprecedented demand for apartments for investment.

"The outlook for a record year is highly encouraging. There has been much money made during the last year, and it is expected that a great deal of this will be spent for homes. The procrastinating attitude of persons predisposed to real estate investments has disappeared," Terry declares.

Demand Without Parallel.

Herman J. Korte of the Korte-Rust Realty Co. says that the demand for seven, eight and nine-room houses and for bungalows and cottages is without a parallel. The object of many purchases now being made is to escape the rising tide of rentals, which, manifestly, are governed by supply and demand, he says. With lower prices for coal, which are rapidly going into effect, it is cheaper, it is declared, to live in houses than in apartments, to say nothing of steam-heated flats, which in reality are apartments.

John H. Abbott reports a noteworthy demand for flats for both homes and investment, it having been greatly stimulated as a result of increased rentals. Buildings of this character may be bought in many instances at highly advantageous prices, he declares. He is urging prospective purchasers of such holdings to purchase before an uplift in prices, of which the advance in rentals is doubtless a forerunner. Holdings of this class are attractive as an investment as well as speculation.

Vacant Apartments Sought.

The Weisels-Gerhart Co. is advertising for apartments to rent, this firm not having a vacant one on its rent list, which is one of the most diversified of any agency in the city. Cornet & Zeibig and the Dyas Realty Co., as well as other agencies, report every apartment taken, all under leases, in some instances for two and three-year terms. These firms announce that they are renting "stickers," houses which have been vacant for two and three years, such is the dearth.

Offers for apartments on behalf of prospective purchasers is the dominant feature of the investment branch of the St. Louis realty market, inspired by the substantial returns from buildings of this arrangement. Accordingly, the owners are extremely loth to surrender these holdings except at very substantial prices. Obviously they are alive to the fact that there will be comparatively little construction of this order, with prices of materials and labor at their present inflated figures. They know that the longer they hold apartment buildings the more they will be worth, unless the unexpected happens.

PART OF BREWERY PLANT LEASED

Will Be Operated as Warehouse Under Government Supervision.

Clyde C. Ketcham reports having leased to Chicago and St. Louis Interest a portion of the Mutual Brewery plant at the northeast corner of Boyle and Duncan avenues to be used as warehouses under Government supervision. Bonds in the sum of $100,000 have been placed with the Government to guarantee completion of the transaction. The nature of the business to be conducted cannot be disclosed at this time. Contractors will begin work this week on alterations.

President of Motor Company Buys University City Home

H. W. KARDELL, president of the Kardell Motor Car Co., has purchased the property at 6 Yale avenue, University City, for a residence. Kardell recently returned from Oldsmar, Fla., which has been his home for the last few years, and where he has been the head of a tractor manufacturing concern.

The house has 10 rooms, two baths and hardwood throughout. The lot is 60x160 feet. It was formerly owned by E. S. Macfarlane, who moved to Texas. Both the buyer and seller were represented by Edward L. Bakewell. The price paid was $12,500.

FILM COMPANY DOUBLES SPACE, CIGAR COMPANY TAKES LEASE

Grand Central Co. Obtains Shoe Room at 617 North Grand, and Tobacco Company at 700 Grand.

Fletcher R. Harris Realty Co., and the Mississippi Valley Trust Co. have effected a lease to the New Grand Central Theater Co. of the store at 617 North Grand avenue, for the production of moving picture films.

This gives the film company approximately double the space of its present quarters.

A long term lease was closed with the United Cigar Stores Co. on the store at 700 North Grand, which is the northeast corner of Grand and Lucas avenues. The lessor, the New Grand Central Theater Co., was represented by Fletcher R. Harris Realty Co.

SIX-FAMILY APARTMENT ON BERLIN AV. BOUGHT BY WOMAN

Stella R. O'Reilley Acquires Building Arranged in 4-Room Suites as Investment Holding.

Stella R. O'Reilley has purchased a six-family building at 6176 Berlin avenue, known as the Forest View apartment. The sale was affected by Eugene J. Altheimer in conjunction with the M. B. O'Reilley Realty Co.

The building is arranged in suites of four rooms, reception halls and porches. The lot is 52x128 feet. The seller was the Ivory Realty Co. The M. B. O'Reilly Realty Co. will have the management of the building.

OFFICIAL STAFF IS RETAINED

The annual meeting of stockholders of the Best-Clymer Manufacturing Co. was held Tuesday at the offices of the company, 425 West Davis street. The present officers and directors were re-elected as follows: L. P. Best, Davenport, Io., president; M. G. Clymer, vice-president and general manager; Louis Rosen, second vice-president; Louis Suss, treasurer; R. R. Bang, secretary. Directors—L. P. Best, A. P. Sauer of New Orleans, J. M. Beatty of Columbus, O.; L. G. Smith of Buffalo, N. Y.; M. G. Clymer, A. C. F. Meyer, Louis Rosen, R. King Kauffman and R. R. Bang.

The company declared its usual quarterly dividend of $1.75 per share on preferred stock.

ACREAGE EXCHANGE DEAL CLOSED

A deal involving 280 acres in St. Francois County has been closed by Barngrove & Specht for Col. Leroy K. Robbins. The property exchanged is at the corner of Page and Leroy avenues, having a front of 100 feet. The land for which the property was exchanged is situated in the mineral district of St. Francois County, and consists of grazing land as well as considerable timber.

Barngrove & Specht, through F. W. Curl, represented both parties in the transaction.

Kent Road Residence Leased.

Albert T. Terry & Co. report closing a lease on the 8-room bungalow on the east side of the Kent road just north of the Clayton road, from A. R. Smyth to Clem Meier, president of the Heine Safety Boiler Co.

CHAUNCEY P. HEATH.

Chauncey P. Heath reports the following sales:

1217-19 North Spring avenue; two single flats; also large garage. Mrs. M. J. Garland to a client of the F. J. Cornwell Real Estate Co.

4060-62 Castleman avenue, double flat building; for Charles E. Richardson to a client.

4049 Enright avenue for Mrs. Elizabeth Rossler to a client of the Murray Realty Co., a six-room residence, lot 25x137 feet.

5645 Theodosia avenue, a five-room cottage with lot 25x130 feet, for Mrs. Marie Ellis to Ira Killough and wife.

GREULICH REALTY CO.

The John C. Greulich Realty Co. reports the sale of 100 feet of ground in its Kensington Place subdivision, fronting on Edna street, by a depth of 150 feet, just east of Fandy avenue, to Mr. Williams of Granite City.

The Greulich company is also arranging to erect six bungalows in this subdivision, there being quite a demand for homes in that section. It is estimated the homes will sell for $3700 each.

FIVE DEALS FOR TOTAL OF $250,000 CLOSED

Four Apartments and One Factory Building Involved in Rhodes Company's Transactions.

The Rhodes Realty Co. closed deals the past week embracing four apartment houses and one manufacturing building, aggregating in considerations $250,000. These are enumerated as follows:

Six-family apartment at 6176 Pershing avenue, renting for $3100 a year, for Gertrude McDermott to the Ivory Realty and Investment Co. for $25,000.

5673 Kingsbury boulevard, six-family apartment, renting for $3100 a year, for the Meramec Land, Labor, Supply and Maintenance Co. to the Eddy Realty and Investment Co. for $25,000.

5951-5953 Washington boulevard, four and five room apartment, for Frank Cobbs to a client for $55,000.

Northwest corner of Etzel and Goodfellow avenues, improved with a fireproof building, known as the Plaza Theater, constructed at a cost of approximately $65,000. It was sold for the Ivory Realty and Investment Co. to a client.

918 Morgan street, lot 63x105 feet, improved with a fireproof four-story and basement manufacturing building for the Eddy Realty and Investment Co. to G. Woodin, for $95,000.

FARM LANDS IN GOOD DEMAND

Several Recent Transactions Reported by R. J. Dyas & Co.

R. J. Dyas & Co. report activity in farm lands. There is good demand for farms both by actual buyers and by renters, Dyas says. Farms heretofore renting for one-third to two-fifths of the crops are now easily rented for one-half.

Dyas reports the sale of a 680-acre farm in the American Bottoms to E. S. Downs, for $78,000 cash; also a 470-acre farm in Franklin County, Mo., to W. F. Schweer, for $21,300 cash; 442 acres to C. J. Baker for $17,500, and five small farms to settlers. He also has made $45,000 farm loans in the past three months.

JURY DEPRIVES WOMAN OF FURS

A set of furs valued at $25 which Mrs. Eunice Austin of Princeton, Ind., testified had been given to her as a Christmas present in 1917 by Orlen Allen, were returned to Allen yesterday by a jury in a replevin suit in Justice Driscoll's Court in East St. Louis.

Allen, who is about 45 years old, said he had purchased the furs for a niece, who died. Mrs. Austin was visiting in East St. Louis, he said, and he loaned her the furs. She took them to her home and refused to return them. When she again visited East St. Louis, last November, she wore the furs, and Allen filed the proceedings. Mrs. Austin said Allen took a liking to her and at Christmas inquired if she would accept a piece of jewelry as a present. She said she declined, whereupon Allen gave her the furs.

DRIVER ATTACKED BY HIS FARES

Orville Manning of Sorento, Ill., reported to the Edwardsville police yesterday that two men in soldier garb, who engaged him to drive them in his automobile from Sorento to New Douglas, assaulted him when half way between the two towns. When he drew a revolver the men said they had been unable to get jobs and had assaulted him because they could not pay for the trip.

Manning let them go, but later remembered that they had inquired particularly about the location of New Douglas and Sorento banks and decided to report the incident.

BRIGHT PROSPECT FOR REALTY IN CITY AND COUNTY

Trust Company Officer Believes There Is Good Chance Now to Invest Surplus Money.

HIGH WAGES HAMPER BUILDING PROJECTS

Cost of Material Also a Factor That Restricts Certain Kinds of Construction Work.

"Prospects for a wide resumption of operations in reality in St. Louis and in St. Louis County are flattering in the extreme," said Orville Grove, assistant real estate officer of the Mississippi Valley Trust Company yesterday to the Post-Dispatch. "Conditions as to real estate in both the city and the county are decidedly promising—such as to attract persons with surplus money, of which there is a plethora from profits incident to the war."

Grove, for many years office manager of the real estate department of the Mississippi Valley Trust Company, was made an officer of the corporation on Thursday at a regular meeting of its board of directors. His new title is assistant real estate officer. He has made an intensive study of all phases of the real estate business and is considered an authority in all its different branches.

Came Here From Kansas.

Grove was born in Kansas, but has been a St. Louisan for his entire business career. He took his law course here and after being graduated with the A. B. degree, he entered the service of the Mississippi Valley Trust Company in 1905. To friends who have been congratulating him on his election he has been speaking optimistically of the present real estate situation in St. Louis.

"As a result of the restrictions placed on building, as a war measure," continued Grove, "flats and apartments are in scant supply, while houses designated as dwellings, for rent or for lease, are fast being rented or purchased, the indications being that soon there will not be a vacancy in St. Louis in the residential parts of the city.

"The wholesome effect of this situation is exemplified in higher rentals for buildings in the residential class, which had been at a low stage, by reason of the fact that the city had been overbuilt. From a real estate viewpoint the position of the city has been immeasurably improved.

"Notwithstanding the fact that the restrictions placed on building by the Federal Government have been removed in their entirety, construction has not been resumed appreciably, owing to the abnormal prices prevailing for construction and for labor, while the population as well as the manufacturing interests of the city, is showing a new ratio of growth. This will have the effect, doubtless, of further enhancing investment values, prices being governed wholly by the supply and the demand.

Industrial Expansion Plans.

"Plans for industrial expansion are in process of development, which if carried out on the scale contemplated, will be a potent factor in real estate activities. The demand for sites in the central business district, and in the factory centers of the city for building projects promises to be a distinct feature of real estate activities in the early future.

"As in the residential district the high cost of construction and of labor has deferred the execution in the factory and business centers of many large building projects. The resources of industrial concerns have been greatly augmented by virtue of war profits. Thus there is available unprecendented sums of money for expansion and improvements of this character.

"As to the real estate in St. Louis and in St. Louis County the prospects are highly reassuring from every angle, with conditions steadily improving, the indications being that 1919 will be a record year in real estate in these sections. Prices are at the lowest ebb in the history of the St. Louis realty market, according to veterans of the street, and offer unprecedented opportunities for investment or for speculation.

Made Real Estate Officer.

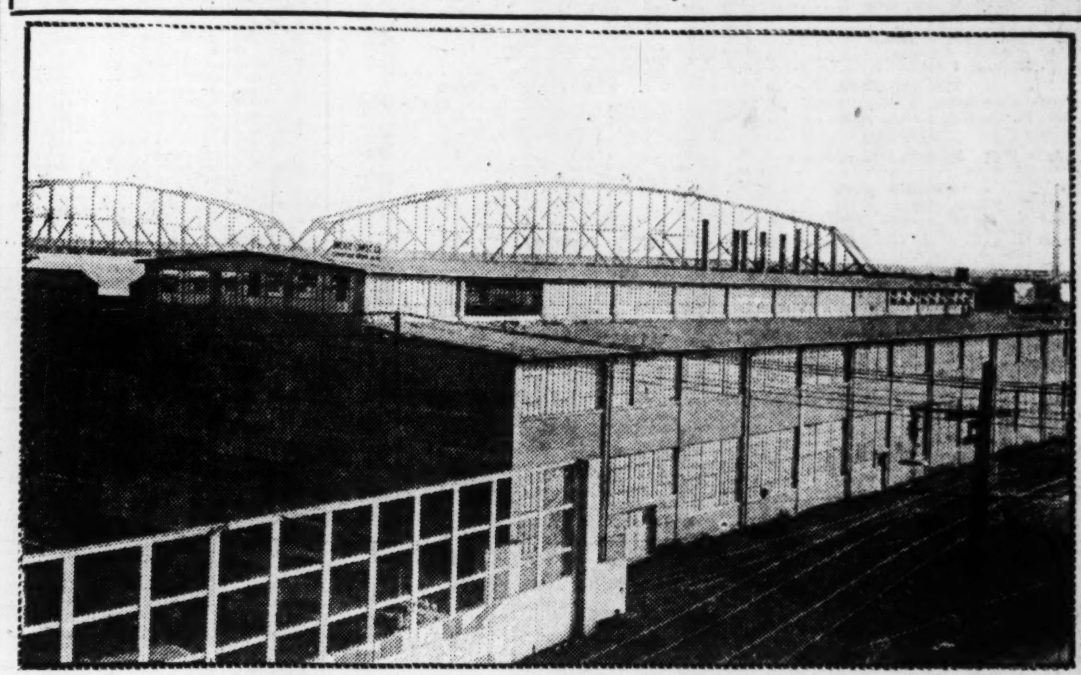
George Kingsland was re-elected real estate officer of the Mississippi Valley Trust Co. Hord Hardin and John R. Longmire were elected vice presidents of the Mississippi Valley Trust Co. yesterday. They both started with the trust company as office boys. Longmire will retain his position as head of the bond department. Thomas J. Kavanaugh will have charge of the credit and new business departments, and Frank C. Ball will be safe deposit officer and assistant secretary. O. G. Hanson, assistant safe deposit officer; Paul Bakewell, assistant trust officer and assistant counsel, and O. R. Rowland, assistant manager of the credit department.

$150,000 Addition to Car and Foundry Plant at St. Charles



THE American Car and Foundry Co. has recently enlarged its plant at St. Charles, Mo., with a machine and pattern shop at a cost of $150,000. It was erected by the Dickie Construction Co. of St. Louis.

The new building, of re-enforced concrete, is two stories high, has a nomitor roof, and occupies 240 by 95 feet of floor space. The wood block floor is set on a concrete foundation. The equipment of the structure, beside the latest mechanical devices for car building, include 200 private lockers and shower baths for employes.

The machine shop is the first building of any size that the American Car and Foundry Co. has had built at the St. Charles plant for several years.

REAL ESTATE AGENTS' REPORTS OF THEIR SALES

STOLTMAN R. E. CO.

The B. H. Stoltman Real Estate Co. reports the sale of 4578-78A Clayton avenue, two-story flat; lot 30x130 feet, for J. Forester and wife to A. Vossler.

CORNET & ZEIBIG.

Cornet & Zeibig report having sold a lot of the Coburg lands, fronting 414 feet on the east side of Bellefontaine road by a depth of 172 feet, containing 10 acres, to Henry Hermsmeyer.

Dickmann Sells Bungalod.

The Joseph F. Dickmann Real Estate Co. reports the sale of a two-story brick bungalow at 3891 Connecticut street, lot 30x130 feet, with seven rooms, hardwood floors, beamed ceilings. Sold for Mrs. Ina M. Cassel of Denver, Colo., to William M. Kipp.

GIBSON REALTY CO.

The John W. Gibson Realty Co. reports having sold 1027 Louisville avenue, a 6-room house, to David A. Ritchie and wife. Hemmelmann-Spackler represented the owner.

Also 14 acres on the west side of Telegraph road, about 1½ miles south of Jefferson Barracks for Dr. Charles F. Blank to John G. Geissler and wife.

Also 3106-10 La Salle street, lot 75x120 feet, for Louis T. Mathews to a client.

J. H. FARISH & CO.

J. H. Farish & Co. sold through John S. Harris, 5881 Enright avenue, to Mrs. Nellie B. Shelton. The improvements consist of a two and one-half story residence of the unique Swiss architecture; lot 50x185 feet. Meyer Lesser, the former owner, recently moved to Cincinnati. J. H. Farish & Co. represented both parties in the transaction.

Also leased 5621 Cabanne avenue, a nine-room brick residence, for J. Carl Gamble to J. Edgar Smythe, for two years.

Also leased 5623 Cabanne avenue for A. D. McKinney to D. F. Hyland for two years.

DITTMEIER & VOGEL.

The Frank Dittmeier and Chas. P. Vogel Real Estate Co. reports the sale of 3021-23 North Market street, a building arranged for two families, for a client to Robert Lehmeyer, for $1750.

Also 2531 Semple avenue, a 4-room cottage, lot 30x102 feet, for a client, to Mrs. Frieda Rheinhardt, for $2850.

Also 320 acres in Washington County, Mo., near Potosi, for the account of Frank Dehmer to Lelia A. Thompson, for $5500.

Also 3820 North Twenty-third street, a building for two families, for a client to Elliot Lindhorst, for $4500.

Also reports having made loans aggregating $25,000.

Weisels-Gerhart Apartment List Exhausted.

That the population of St. Louis is rapidly increasing was demonstrated during the past week by the fact that the Weisels-Gerhart Real Estate Co., who control one of the largest apartment house rental lists in the city, report that every apartment under their management is leased, not a single vacancy existing. This is the first time in the history of the company that they have nothing to offer in an apartment. With a large waiting list and no immediate building operations in view, the officials of this company are perplexed how to meet the demand of this unusual situation.

CHRISTIAN BRINKOP.

The Christian Brinkop Real Estate Co. reports the following sales:

4115 Nebraska avenue, a modern brick bungalow; lot 50x125. Sold for Mrs. Edith C. Ludwig to Otto Bender.

3545-47 Giles avenue, a four-family flat. Sold for Adolph Jackel to Henry F. G. Neiser for investment.

3110 Potomac street, a modern brick dwelling; lot 50x125. Sold for a client to Emil Radke.

Also negotiated loans aggregating $33,750.

WEBSTER GROVES TRUST CO.

Morgan E. Coggeshall, real estate officer of the Webster Groves Trust Co., reports unusual inquiry for Webster Groves property and having made the following sales:

730 Fairview avenue, a six-room home, to H. M. Patterson.

804 Providence avenue, a five-room home, to Marion Irland.

414 Alma avenue, a five-room bungalow, to Fred B. Brunk.

Open-air picture show known as Lockwood Garden, to Mrs. Olive E. Keeffe, who now operates the Rex Theater in Webster Groves.

Vacant lot at the northeast corner of Swon and Helfenstein avenues, 125x175 feet, to Hy C. Armstrong.

Residence of Charles E. King to George E. Putnam, a client of the Trembley-Wilson Real Estate and Loans Co.

BUILDING TRADES OFFER TO SUBMIT CASE TO U. S. BOARD

Nation-Wide Strike in Sympathy With Carpenters Authorized by A. F. of L. Department.

By the Associated Press.

NEW YORK, Feb. 15.—Federal conciliators had failed tonight to effect a settlement in the nation-wide strike called for Monday of union workers in all the basic building trades employed on contracts held by members of the Building Trades Employers' Association, but announced that union leaders had agreed to submit the case to the National War Labor Board.

The strike, called in sympathy with that of the Brotherhood of Carpenters, who are demanding an increase of $1 a day, was authorized today by the Executive Council of the Building Trades Department of the American Federation of Labor, and ratified later by the presidents of the various unions.

CONSTRUCTION OF 3 MODERN HOMES IN HI-POINTE BEGUN

Additional Houses in Same Subdivision Planned by Mrs. Pasmier in Near Future.

The Butts Realty Co. announces the sale of three lots in Hi-Pointe to Mrs. Katherine C. Pasquier, for whom has commenced the erection of three eight and nine room houses, to be furnished with all conveniences and similar in character to those which she recently built in Hillcrest. These houses will be finished about May 1 and will be for sale by the Butts Realty Co.

Mrs. Pacquier expects to begin construction of two or three more houses within the near future in this subdivision.

LOCHMOELLER OUT OF ARMY

Live in Beautiful Maryland Terrace

Buy here Now—Ahead of the Spring Rush when hundreds will be in the market, and only a few really desirable homes in the West End will be available.

Maryland terrace is a 100-acre residence park, adjoining Washington University campus. It is laid out in deep lots, wide, with wide drives, deep building lines, plazas, civic centers, civic sunken garden—everything which makes a residence park attractive and desirable.

The homes are beautiful, artistic, different. None of the uninteresting square-line houses so noticeable in the older subdivisions.

5000 shade trees alone have been planted in Maryland terrace. They are scattered everywhere. Soon they will be 25 to 35 feet high, blending their nature green with the soft tones of the stucco houses and the warm brown tones of those artistic brick residences.

Come to Maryland terrace today. We have three homes to show you. If you want your own particular house, select, at present low prices, a homesite, and later, when you are ready, build.

See us today, even though the weather may be cold. It will pay you. Mr. Davis lives at the northeast corner of Westmoreland drive and Williams avenue, in Maryland terrace. Phone Cabany 147.

FLORIDA

FARM—Buy a ready farm, near Tampa, Fla., with orange grove; make 25 to 50 per cent on your investment. 3147 Caroline.

FARM—For sale, free book of Florida facts; if interested in Florida, before visiting or settling in this wonderful state of fragrant flowers and sunshine, write Lake County Land Owners' Association, No. 62 Lloyd st., Fruitland Park, Fla., for free book of actual photographs and real conservative facts concerning this state; there is poor, good, better and best land in Florida; this book will teach you what is best and why; the members of the Association are not land agents; they simply wish to tell actual facts to those really interested in the state. They have no time to waste on curiosity seekers, children or people who expect to grow rich without effort, but to those of character, energy, some capital, with a desire to learn more of the opportunities in this most prosperous state we would be glad to give fullest information. (c99)

FARM—For sale, Florida; we will build your home on rich farm near Jacksonville at only $5 per month. Write Jax. Heights Co., Jacksonville, Fla.

IMPROVED Florida farms, 40 acres and up; new lands in flowing artesian well belt, half under cultivation; fenced with American hog-proof wire; stumped, plowed and harrowed thoroughly; home and barn built to suit purchaser; terms to settlers, $500 cash, balance one, two and three years, 6 per cent interest; these farms, properly cultivated, will pay for themselves and a profit besides; unimproved lands, $30 to $50 per acre, 10 per cent cash, balance monthly, 6 per cent interest. This 30,000-acre tract is on Crescent Lake (water tansportation), and F. E. C. Ry., 6 to 15 miles south of Hastings, the famous potato cente, unquestionably the best geneal farming section of Florida, where winter potatoes are more pofitable, corn yields more bountiful, the hay crop more certain, and where hogs and cattle do better than in any place we know; all three crops grown on the same land during one year. This tract is being developed by men who know Florida, its wonderful advantages, and what is needed ti assure settlers of success. Hastings farmers who purchased and are now farming with us prove conclusively the value and advantages of this property. Write for illustrated literature. ## Is This Your Idea of Florida?

A little piece of land near the water, a boat, a garden, some strawberry plants, and perhaps a few chickens; a vine-covered cottage, pleasant neighbors; fish and oysters in abundance, plenty of quail and game—a simple, natural, wholesome life in the open the year round—Home, Health and Contentment. All this is within your reach at modest outlay in this beautiful land of sunshine and roses. We are on the Gulf and a navigable river; also on the Dixie Highway. Here we have the freedom, comfort and economy of life, yet are within easy access by motor bus of big cities and resort centers like Tampa and St. Petersburg. Our community is new, but is one of the fastest growing in the State. Prices have not gone sky high, and living expenses are moderate. 100 Northern families already here. They like it—perhaps you will. May we send complete information? BOARD OF TRADE. Box 280, New Port Richey, Fla.

MONTANA

Cattle—Hay—Grain
PRODUCED ON THIS
3440 ACRE RANCH

Controlling nearly half million acres Government range. A big money maker if properly stocked and handled; situated in Pleasant Valley in Flathead and Lincoln Counties, Montana; 2590 acres level, black, fertile land now in hay, producing five to six thousand tons of hay annually which sold this year at $20 per ton in stack; 520 grain land; 330 acres timber, estimated 5,000,000 feet; improved with dwellings, barns, haysheds, corrals, fences and equipped with tools, machinery and horses. Owner is a Minnesota banker and merchant—cannot oversee ranch—will sell at $75 per acre and consider part pay in income property or farm in Central State.
SPERRY REALTY & INVESTMENT CO.,
Pittsburg Bldg., St. Paul, Minn.

3300-ACRE FARM FOR SALE

Situated at the foothills of a beautiful mountain range in Montana; 75 per cent can be cultivated; 1000 acres now under cultivation; 550 acres in fall wheat of which I get half at elevator. Improvements are exceptionally fine, as I have spent a lifetime in building up this ranch. Forest reserve adjoining where you can pasture 250 head of cattle 6 months at $1 per head. Game and trout fishing in abundance. Clear water, mountain stream, running through ranch. This ranch shows a profit of $30,000 net per year. Price of ranch, $50 per acre, which includes all machinery, consisting of 25-50 Aultman-Taylor tractor and separator, wagons, seeders, discs, etc. Also furniture in house, which is of high grade. Reason for selling, wish to retire and take trip abroad. One-third cash, balance long time at 6 per cent. Address Box J-89, Post-Dispatch.

JAPANESE ACTRESS A SUICIDE

Educator, Who Gave Up Family for Her, Died Recently.

Correspondence of the Associated Press.

TOKIO, Jan. 6.—It became known here today that Sumako, who had been regarded as Japan's greatest actress, killed herself yesterday. The day and hour of her death marked exactly two months from the death of Prof. Shimamura of Waseda University, who had given up all—his wife, children, friends and his chair in the university—for love of the brilliant actress.

Sumako had appeared as usual the night before at the Yurakuza Theater. It is said she hanged herself with a scarlet silk sash. Sumako had played Ophelia at the Imperial Theater, but is said to have achieved her greatest success in the leading feminine role of Tolstoi's "Resurrection." She was comparatively wealthy.

SAYS U. S. WRITER CAME BACK FOR BOLSHEVISTS

Federal Investigator Tells Committee of Means to Propagandize America.

By the Associated Press.

WASHINGTON, Feb. 15.—In telling before the Senate Propaganda Investigating Committee today a story of murderous anarchy in Russia under Bolshevism and of efforts of the Bolshevik leaders to spread their doctrines, Roger E. Simmons, recently returned from Russia after making a survey of the lumber inquiry there for the Department of Commerce, named Albert R. Williams, an American writer, as one of the men sent to the United States to carry on Bolshevik propaganda.

Simmons said he had been told this by a reliable authority in Petrograd, whom he declined to name on the grounds that it might cost the informant his life.

Williams, who addressed a recent meeting in Washington that was largely responsible for the Senate's action in ordering the present investigation, is under subpena to appear later before the committee.

Simmons furnished the committee with many excerpts from Russian revolutionary publications, which he said tended to show that the idea in sending propagandists to this country was to bring about a revolution. He said that since returning he had been astounded to discover that the seeds of Bolshevism apparently already had been sown here.

Simmons said that many of the leaders of the terrorists went to Russia from the United States, especially New York. The leader of the Lettish division, he asserted, was a man named Rosen, formerly editor of a foreign language newspaper in Boston.

Simmons told of scores of men being shot simply because room for fresh prisoners had to be made, and of an official who virtually was a public executioner, signing death warrants for 71 officers of the Russian army without even looking at their names. Farmers were shot by the Bolshevik, he said, because they declined to give up their food.

Simmons thought the church, which he said was closer now to the Russian people than ever before, eventually would prove one of the principal elements in restoring order. He had heard repeatedly in Russia, he said, that peasants prayed that President Wilson would relieve them.

Senator Weeks declared the President could do no more important thing than follow suggestions made by Senator Thomas looking to the "stamping out of the evil which is likely to become a scourge in its immediate future."

Attention was called by Senator Fletcher of Florida to investigations now being conducted by the Senate Subjudiciary Committee, to which Senator Weeks replied that if Congress waited for that committee to report he was afraid of serious results.

Senator Smith of Michigan said the "Maladministration of justice and unfair dealing with fair-minded men" was a contributing cause to radical agitation.

SEVERAL MISSOURI POSTOFFICES PROVIDED FOR IN HOUSE BILL

Measure Eliminates Accommodations for Subtreasury in Authorized St. Louis Building.

Special to the Post-Dispatch.

WASHINGTON, Feb. 15.—A bill reported to the House today from the Committee on Public Buildings and Grounds provides for the erection of postoffices or the acquisitions of sites for postoffices in several Missouri cities and towns. In the following instances the bill proposes to increase the limit of cost provided in existing legislation to the amount named: Fayette, $5000; Harrisonville, $26,500; Liberty, $6000; Washington, $1000.

The following amounts are provided for extension, remodeling or rebuilding: Columbia, $102,000; Jefferson City, $50,000; Kansas City, postoffice and courthouse, $410,000; Aurora, $65,000; Farmington, $45,000; Lebanon, $45,000; Mountain Grove, $45,000; Trenton, $85,000; Unionville, $40,000; West Plains, $40,000.

For new buildings: Bowling Green, $50,000; Richmond, $60,000; Sedalia, $210,000.

For the acquisition of sites: Cameron, $10,000; Charleston, $7500; Eldorado Springs, $5000; Fredericktown, $5000; Milan, $7500; Neosho, $10,000; Paris, $7500; Perryville, $5000; Rich Hill, $5000; Salem, $5000; Salisbury, $7500; Windsor, $6000.

The bill directs that, in carrying out provisions of the act of 1913, which authorized the construction of a building for the United States Subtreasury and other governmental offices in St. Louis, at Fourth and Chestnut streets, the Secretary of the Treasury may have the building erected without accommodations for the Subtreasury.

CARS ON 14TH STREET VIADUCT

ANSWERS TO QUERIES

Query for Sunday must be mailed a week beforehand.

L. G.—Bourgeoise, boor-zwah-ze. We cannot give you the other pronunciations correctly.

WOULD-BE RUBE.—As to alfalfa in Arkansas, try writing Commissioner of Agriculture, Little Rock, Ark.

MILTON DUNN, M. D.—We have no record of such a book as the Life of Capt. Henry M. Shreve. See "Up the Heights of Fame and Fortune," St. Louis Public Library.

S. F. B.—"Has any state which has adopted suffrage the right to vote on national affairs, such as President, etc.?" Yes. Try sending your other query to Secretary of State, Sacramento, Cal.

PRINTER.—Initiation fee: Age 25, $12; 25 to 35, $18.50; 35 to 50, $29.50; over 50, $35. Dues: Local, 1 per cent on earnings; ½ per cent old age pension, ½ per cent mortuary fund; per capita to International Union, 50c per month.

BERTHA.—It was all right to write his mother for address and when you meet him at the reception you can then find out if he received letters and socks. If he seems at all interested in knowing contents of letters—in case he did not receive them—you might send him copies, and he will then probably call to thank you.

Y. Z.—For copyright your manuscript must be in printed form, either pamphlet or book, not typewritten. A blank page next to title page carries the copyright. Forward the matter with $1 to the Bureau of Copyrights, Washington, D. C. If copyright is granted it runs 20 years. You may later, if you can, sell full or part publishing rights. You may publish it yourself, if you can.

ANXIOUS.—First cousins marry in Alabama, California, Colorado, Connecticut, the Carolinas, Delaware, Florida, Georgia, Idaho, Kentucky, Maine, Maryland, Massachusetts, Minnesota, Mississippi, Montana, Nebraska, New Jersey, New Mexico, New York, Rhode Island, Tennessee, Texas, Utah, Virginia, Vermont, West Virginia, Wisconsin.

S. H.—Goods were carried over turnpikes, where they existed, in wagons, and on pack horses over the rough Indian trails where no road had been established, in the early days of the colonies. River transportation was used wherever possible, and coasting vessels carried a large proportion of the freight moving along the seaboard. It cost $100 to move a ton of freight 300 miles in Pennsylvania and Ohio. The Spaniards had introduced the wheel vehicle into the Southwest. With the exception of the improvements in roadbuilding, no change in transportation methods came until 1809, when a short-horse railroad was built in Pennsylvania. The Baltimore and Ohio road tried running a little clapboard cabin on wheels, with a horse in a treadmill supplying the motive power. In 1829 the Stourbridge Lion was brought over from England and tried out by Horatio Allen of the Delaware and Hudson Canal Co. The locomotive was successful, and the steam railroad spread in all directions.

READER.—For Patience Worth publications try writing Henry Holt & Co., New York. * * * Birthdays Nov. 22 to De. 21, sign Sagittarius. Sagittarius people are prophetic; rarely make mistakes; mind own business; keep busy; careful in detail; enterprising, progressive, courageous in emergency, frequently timid in other cases; neat; careful in money matters, not penurious; nearly always have money; versatile; impetuous; blunt, outspoken; can't bear to see suffering; oversanguine; quick to anger; combative; obstinate; too much in hurry; cruel when angry; despise licentiousness; women good housekeepers, wives and mothers. * * * Birthday Mar. 21 to Ap. 19, sign of Aries. Aries people are usually executive; go against all opposition; generous, magnetic, progressive, bright, witty, great talkers; intuitive, unforgiving; love order, beauty, elegant surroundings; male will never back out of fight; writers, novelists, poets; not patient, except with those they love; give too much to lazy people; faults are selfishness, anger, impetuosity; whimsical, capricious, fickle; female is jealous. * * * Sanders and Young are British names.

M. M. O.—Certain kinds of food make fat, principally the starches, the sugars and the fats, and we can hasten the reduction process by doing without these almost entirely. Following this rule, we will dispense with sugar, bread (except in very small quantities), potatoes, turnips, carrots, parsnips, beets—in fact, most root vegetables; rice, macaroni, peas, beans (except string beans); pork and all fat meats, salmon, herring, cream, cream sauces, cream soups, sweet puddings, pies and cakes, sweet wines, beer, ale, port, butter, oil in salad dressings, grapes, bananas, prunes. The meats allowed for an obesity diet are liver, kidneys, mutton, lamb, veal and lean beef in moderation; chicken is better than the meat. White fish and cod are allowable with oysters for fish. Eggs are essential. The vegetables which contain the least starch and sugar are spinach, lettuce, string beans, cabbage, cucumbers, tomatoes and beet greens. All must be cooked without milk or rich sauce. All the acid fruits are reducing and some of the sweet fruits are good if eaten raw or cooked without sugar. Bananas, grapes and figs are forbidden. Currents, oranges, grape fruit, cherries, apples and pears are allowed. Claret and white wine may be taken with restraint. The question of water-drinking is one that is open to discussion, and one that may best be solved by individual experiment.

FARMER.—The U. S. Department of Agriculture in a bulletin relating to the cultivation of broom corn, states that climate and soil are the leading factors that determine whether broom corn can be profitably grown in any particular locality. The growing season will be found long enough in almost any part of the U. S., since but from 2 to 3 months of good growing weather is all that is needed to produce a crop. Any soil that will produce a good crop of corn is sufficiently fertile for broom corn. For the best grades of fine, short, tough, dwarf broom corn, sandy soils have been found preferable, richer soils having a tendency to produce a coarser brush. For good crops of long standard brush a fertile soil is required, but river bottoms that are overflowed are unsatisfactory, because deposited weed seed will give trouble when the broom corn plants are young and slow of growth. Climate is perhaps a more potent factor than is the soil in determining where broom corn can be grown successively. The plant is subtropical and does best in a warm, sunny climate where there is sufficient rain during the early part of the growing season to produce a strong, rapid growth. However, in order that the crop may be harvested at the proper time and in good condition, and the brush dried rapidly so that it will retain its fresh, green color, it is necessary that warm, dry weather prevail at harvest time. Localities where frequent rains occur at the season when broom corn would be ready to harvest will be found not suited to this crop. Dry weather at harvest is desirable for many farm crops, but with broom corn it is essential to the production of a good quality of brush. Rain at the time that the corn should be cut will cause much of the straw to become red, thus reducing its market value by about ½; or rain upon the crop after it has been cut will cause it to bleach or lose its fresh, green color and take on a yellowish or dead color. The above described conditions of soil and climate are those that make the rich prairies of the Mississippi Valley suited for growing standard broom corn, and the lighter and drier soils of Kansas and Oklahoma adapted to the dwarf varieties.

In Memoriam.

In sweet memory of my dear wife and mother, daughter and sister, Louise Ryan (nee Ehredt):

One year has passed since that sad day,
One whom we loved has passed away,
God took her home—it was His will—
But in our hearts she liveth still.

JOSEPH J. RYAN, husband; HELEN RYAN, daughter; FATHER, SISTERS AND BROTHER.

In Memoriam.

In loving memory of my dear brother, John Bardal, who died Feb. 14, 1918:

Sad and sudden was the call
For my brother, who loved us all,
Little did I think that day
That he so sudden would be taken away.

Sadly missed by
MRS. MINNIE TESSON (nee Bardal), sister.

In Memoriam.

In memory of my dear sister, Ida Elizabeth Wentzel:

February again is here,
The saddest month of the year to me,
On the nineteenth day our dear sister was taken away.

Missed by her sister,
MRS. EDWARD MATTER.

In Memoriam.

In memory of our dear mother, Hettie W. May, who died Feb. 16, 1917.

Mother, dear, how we miss you;
Friends may think the wound is healed;
But they little know the sorrow
That in our hearts is concealed.

Sadly missed by
HUSBAND AND CHILDREN.

In Memoriam.

In loving remembrance of our dear mother and grandmother, Ottilia Kies, who died Feb. 18, 1917:

Days of sadness still come o'er us,
Tears, in silence, often flow,
Fond memory keep you ever near us
Though you died two years ago.

Sadly missed by
DAUGHTER AND GRANDDAUGHTER. (c)

In Memoriam.

In loving memory of our dear wife and mother, Philipine Sippel, who departed this life three years ago, Feb. 15, 1916:

Dearest mother, how we miss you
Since that day you left us all,
You are sadly missed by others,
But we miss you most of all.

In Memoriam.

In sad, but loving memory of our darling, Addie Emde, who departed this life three years ago, Feb. 14, 1916:

A rose that is sweetest and fairest,
In the end is killed by the frost,
But the flower that was dearest and rarest
Is our darling Addie we lost.

Sadly missed by
GRANDMA, AUNTS AND UNCLES AND ALL WHO LOVED HER.

In Memoriam.

In loving memory of our dear mother, Catherine Schmidt, who departed this life one year ago, Feb. 17, 1918:

Mother, dear, how we miss you.
Friends may think the wound is healed,
But they little know the sorrow that is in our hearts concealed.

Sadly missed by daughters and son-in-law,
MRS. RANDOLPH AND MR. AND MRS. J. V. TAYLOR.

In Memoriam.

Thomas Riley Berkley died Feb. 16, 1918, on the U. S. S. Huntington, at Brooklyn, N. Y.:

O, Son, our hearts turned toward you
With compassion, grief and love.
It's our hope you bear a hero's share
In His bright throne above.

Sadly missed by
MOTHER, FATHER, SISTERS AND BROTHER. (c)

In Memoriam.

In loving memory of our dear mother, Anna Srnka, who departed this life Feb. 14, 1917, just two years ago:

Our dearest to our hearts has gone,
The voice we loved is stilled.
The place made vacant in our hearts
Can never more be filled.
Where the sunshine loves to linger
And the raindrops gently fall,
Sleeping there, so peacefully,
Is mother, waiting for us all.

Sadly missed by her
CHILDREN AND GRANDCHILDREN.

In Memoriam.

In loving memory of our dear husband and father, John Bardal, who departed this life one year ago, Feb. 14, 1918:

Just one year ago you left us.
How we miss the one we loved so dear,
And remember all your kindness
As we drop a silent tear.
God in His mercy called you home—
We bowed to His sweet will.
We miss the sound of your voice, so dear,
And the touch of your hand, now still.

Sadly missed by
DENA BARDAL, wife; JOHN BARDAL JR. and RELATIVES.

In Memoriam.

In loving memory of our dear boy, Walter Hohit, who died Feb. 16, 1918, aged 3 years 7 months and 22 days:

One year has passed, our hearts still sore.
As time goes on we miss you more.
Your loving smile, your loving face—
None can fill your vacant place.
We tried so hard to keep him, but our boy
we could not save.
God needed one more angel child amidst his shining band,
And so he bent His loving smile and clasped out darling's hands.

Sadly missed by his PARENTS.

In Memoriam.

In remembrance of our dear mother and sister, Marie Hettenhousen (nee Weis), who departed this life Jan. 27, 1918.

Sad and sudden was the call
For our dear one loved by all.
We little thought that on that day
Our dear one would be called away.
We could not realize what was said
When the message came, saying she was dead;
But God, who loved her best,
Has taken her home to rest.

Sadly missed by
CHILDREN, SISTERS AND BROTHERS.

In Memoriam.

In loving remembrance of our dear daughter and sister, Viola Liebrum, who departed this life one year ago today, Feb. 16, 1918.

Peaceful be your sleep, dear daughter;
'Tis sweet to breathe your name.
In life we loved you dearly;
In death we do the same.

Sadly missed by
MOTHER, FATHER AND SISTERS BROTHERS AND GRANDFATHER.

In Memoriam.

In loving memory of our beloved son, Henry C. Lutz, who sleepeth since Feb. 13, 1918:

When the sun was setting
And that dark shadow fell,
It was then our hearts were saddest.
No one but us can tell.
He sleeps there under garlands of snowflakes,
In the city so noiseless, so still,
Where neighbor speaks never to neighbor,
Where the song of the bird and the brown
bee is heard,
But never the harsh words of anger.

SADLY MISSED BY ALL WHO LOVED HIM.

In Memoriam.

In loving remembrance of our only darling daughter, Anna Louise Hermsen, who departed this life Sunday, Feb. 18, 1917, aged 14 years:

A bud the Great Garener gave us,
A pure and loving child.
He gave to our keeping
To cherish undefiled.
Just as the bud was opened
To the glory of the day,
Down came our Heavenly Father
And took our darling away.

So sadly missed by her parents,
MR. AND MRS. JOHN B. HERMSEN, and all who loved her.

In Memoriam.

In memory of my godfather, Thomas R. Berkley, who died one year ago today, Feb. 16, 1918, while in service of his and our country on the U. S. ship Huntington, at Brooklyn, New York, of pneumonia, aged 17 years:

Sad and sudden was the call
Of my dear godfather, loved by all,
We little thought that on that day
Our young hero would be called away.
We could not realize what was said
When the message came, he was dead,
That God, who loved him best,
Had taken him home for ever to rest.
His memory will always be cherished by his godchild, BESS HOLZWARTH. (c)

In Memoriam.

In loving memory of our darling son, Arthur Pahl, who departed this life one year ago, February 14, 1918.

Our darling son from us has gone
To a home beyond the grave.
I tried so hard to keep him,
But my boy I could not save.

To his grave I'll slowly wander,
Until death calls me away,
There I hope to join him,
Hand in hand at the throne on Judgment day.

Sadly missed by
MOTHER AND FATHER, RELATIVES AND MANY FRIENDS.

In Memoriam.

In loving memory of my beloved husband, Wm. W. Wolf, who sleepeth since Feb. 14, 1918:

When the sun was shining and that dark shadow fell,
It was then that my heart was saddest, no one but I can tell.
He sleeps there under garlands of snowflakes,
In the city so noiseless, so still,
Where neighbor speak never to neighbor,
Where the song of the bird and the brown bee is heard,
But never the harsh words of anger.

Sadly missed by
WIFE AND ALL WHO LOVED HIM.

IT'S hard to "break" yourself of the habit of being "broke." We are the "Breakers" of that "Broken" stuff. Don't go around looking "Down and out." "Get a Real Job; show the world" that you will be "something" and "somebody." Don't go around looking "down and out." Make your personal appearance "count." We must make 5000 new friends for 1919. "Will you help us?" We have "placed on sale" hundreds of suits, overcoats, pants, coats and vests, mackinaws, which means a big saving to you. We have in "store" for you hundreds of high-class suits and overcoats, so that you can afford to wear two or three suits a season for the price of the customary one by purchasing our uncalled-for garments from our cleaning departments; garments are tailor-made and from the best manufacturers. Hundreds overcoats and suits. Can you wear 34, 36, 38, 43, 40, 46, to 50 sizes? Also English and plain models, $7.50 to $15. Vests, 25c, pants, $2 to $2.50, coats $3 to $6.50; uncalled-for Stetson hats 95c. Open Sundays until 6 p. m. Abrams Cleaners and Dyers, 926 S. Vandeventer, near Chouteau. Mail orders filled. ### Diamond Bargains

I'm a retired diamond broker occupying my time picking up bargains for cash from people who need the money, from estates, auctions, etc. As many of my sales are to wholesale and retail jewelers, I must buy to resell below the WHOLESALE VALUE, and my price to the individual purchaser who buys for a real INVESTMENT is the same. Having no overhead expense, it pays me to take as little as $10 profit on a $300 deal. I'll ship you a selection for free inspection right from this ad.

HOW I PROTECT YOU.

I am financially responsible; references, two biggest national banks in Chicago. I give you a written guarantee of the karat, weight, color, perfection and value. I guarantee also in writing to refund the full purchase price on request FOR ANY REASON. Cut out this ad, and I'll sign it as part of my guarantee.

SEND ME NO MONEY.

Send for any diamond listed below. I'll ship c. o. d. by express or to any bank with privilege of examination and without obligating you to buy. If in Chicago, come in and examine these diamonds yourself.

MUSICAL INSTRUCTION

SONG WRITERS, ATTENTION!

Sergeant-Major Harold Dixon, band leader of the Fourth Infantry Regiment, U. S. A., has just been discharged and is again resuming his former capacity in the music business. Dixon is possibly the only song writer with an international reputation living in St. Louis, and he has written more song hits than any other song writer in the world. If you have a song poem that possesses merit and that you want set to original and melodious music, come up (or write him) and talk matters over with him. He also makes all kinds of music arrangements at reasonable prices. If you can arange with him to set music to your composition he will guarantee you publication and circulate your song all over the United States without any charge for this service—and in addition you will get a royalty for each and every copy sold and paid for. Dixon-Lane Music Publishing Co., Holland Bldg., St. Louis, Mo. (c99)

RAISE RABBITS

BUT BE SURE OF A STEADY MARKET.

I have the only rabbitry in St. Louis conducted as a sole business, with a completely equipped office and motor truck for deliveries and for assembling stock raised for me. Don't ask other people about my proposition, but write or call, because secondhand information is unreliable. I furnish magnificent Rufus Red and Giant breeding stock at right price, and buy all you raise at 30c to 60c per pound. Send 10c for Breeders' Instruction Booklet, contract, price list, etc.

PICK EGGS FOR YOUR INCUBATOR WITH CARE

Prof. Quisenberry Warns of Some Points That Are Often Overlooked by Breeders.

By T. E. QUISENBERRY,
President American Poultry School,
Leavenworth, Kan.

The incubation season is now at its heighth. Many people are certain to experience poor hatches and some are going to blame the incubator when they themselves are to blame. Back of the eggs in the machine may be poor breeding stock, improper feed, wrong methods and bad housing. In some cases the incubator may be at fault, but such cases are in the minority.

At the very foundation of the successful breeding and rearing of live stock of any kind, lies vitality. Especially is this true with poultry. The short time that the chick is in the embryonic stage; the quick growth which it makes; the comparative short life of the chicken; the immense amount of food which it consumes, digests and assimilates; and the strain of manufacturing and laying a sufficiently large number of eggs to make that chicken profitable, all tell upon the constitution of the fowl.

Thus, unless the poultryman uses his very best breeding stock, and uses good judgment in making his matings, and sees that vitality is coursing through the vein, he is certain to suffer more or less loss because of this neglect.

Danger of Young Stock.

Don't use immature stock. Yearling hens, hens which have laid during one pullet year, are much better breeders than pullets that are from seven to fourteen months old. Many good poultrymen use their best hens until they are 4 years old. If you find an especially good breeder among either the males or females, you would make a serious mistake by disposing of that fowl at any reasonable price if you expect to stay in the poultry business.

One common fault which is found among poultrymen in all sections is their inability to distinguish high and low vitality, vigor and lack of vigor in fowls. They know when a chicken is near death's door if afflicted with some of the more common diseases, but if it is a fowl with a well marked plumage or a good shaped comb or one possessing some other characteristic which they especially admire, they, too, often overlook the long snakey head, the sunken eye, the thin breast, and other evidences of weakness and lack of vitality. It will pay any poultryman to give days of careful study when it comes to selecting the stock for his breeding pens. Mistakes here are costly. It means a season's work lost to say the least and you may never be able to recover from the effects of mistakes in breeding made in a single season.

Know the Flock.

A great many poultrymen make the mistake of buying eggs or stock or baby chicks promiscuously and don't know anything about the breeding back of them. No man can afford to take chances like that. It is simply a leap in the dark. You should know something about the breeding back of your stock, their former good health, their ability to produce a large number of eggs and to fertilize a reasonable per cent of them. Don't take the other fellow's word for this unless he guarantees to back his statements. Raise your own stock, at least the males that head your flock, or else find out something about the class of stock upon which you expect to base your hope of success or failure.

Incubators are a necessity if you expect to raise any great quantity of stock. Incubators are also necessary if you expect to get off any large quantity of early chicks which you should do. Also remember that you cannot afford to set the first of your hens that go broody. These have been your winter layers when eggs are high. If you set these hens, you are then hatching from too many females that waited until spring before they started to lay. Get busy with your machines and make 1919 the banner year for poultry in America.

POULTRYMEN ORGANIZE FOR PROMOTION OF INDUSTRY

Plan Is to Again Place the Missouri Association at the Top of the List.

The Missouri State Poultry Association is being reorganized and proposes to again take its place as the leading State poultry association in the United States, and also to be of more assistance to the poultry raisers of Missouri than ever before in the history of the organization.

The Missouri State Poultry Association was organized in 1892 and has had an important part in helping to make Missouri the leading poultry State in the Union.

The association is going to conduct a sales department for the members of the association, which will assist them in disposing of surplus stock and eggs. This feature alone should be a great inducement to every poultry breeder of Missouri to join the association, and this is only one of the many things the association will do to upbuild our great poultry industry.

A mark has been set for a membership of 5000 active members by Jan. 1, 1920. The membership fee is only 50c a year and no one in Missouri interested in poultry can afford not to belong. Send in your application and fee today to Fred Crosby, secretary-treasurer, Mountain Grove, Mo.

Member of 138th Dies.

Ernest Flanigan, 22 years old, of the 138th Infantry, died in France of pneumonia on Jan. 30, according to a notification received yesterday by his uncle, William Flanigan of 2200 Cass avenue. Flanigan enlisted in July, 1917.

COTTON 50 TO 80 POINTS HIGHER AT THE CLOSING

New York Market Opens Sharply Lower, Then Meets Aggressive Buying From Trade Sources.

NEW YORK, Feb. 15.—There was renewed realizing at the opening of the cotton market today. First prices were generally 5 to 20 points lower, with May selling at 21.18c and July at 20.88c on the call, or 7 to 27 points under last night's closing. The selling was encouraged by a bearish view of the week-end figures, showing comparatively small spinners' takings and an increase in the visible supply, and there was also some selling for New Orleans account.

Week-end reviews of the goods trade indicated an improved tone, however, and as soon as the initial offerings had been absorbed prices turned firmer on covering and in sympathy with the firmness at New Orleans, which was attributed to a further widening of the low-grade discounts.

The market showed increasing activity and strength later in the morning on continued covering and a moderate demand from trade sources. May sold at 22.25 and July at 21.80c, making a recovery of about 98 to 107 points from the low level of the morning and an advance of 66 to 85 points from last night's closing figures. Last prices showed slight reactions under realizing, but the tone was steady at a net gain of 55 to 80 points.

Cotton futures closed steady: March, 22.05c; May, 22.15c; July, 21.71c; October, 20.10c; December, none.

Cotton spot steady; middling, 26.50c.

Cotton Statistics.

LIVERPOOL, Feb. 15.—Following are the weekly cotton statistics: Quantity afloat, all kinds, 211,000 bales. Quantity afloat, American, 168,000 bales.

SUNDAY POST-DISPATCH'S REVIEW OF MARKET CONDITIONS

STOCKS RECORD GAINS OF 4 TO 6 POINTS IN WALL STREET MARKET

Trend of Prices for Week Is Strongly Upward; Treasury Plans to Make Next Liberty Loan Attractive.

Closing Prices on Liberty Bonds in New York.

NEW YORK, Feb. 15.—Final prices on Liberty Bonds today were: 3½s, 98.86; first convertible 4s, 92.80; second 4s, 92.64; first convertible 4¼s, 94.86; second convertible 4¼s, 93.90; third 4¼s, 95.12; fourth 4¼s, 93.86.

By Leased Wire From the New York Bureau of the Post-Dispatch.

NEW YORK, Feb. 15.—The Evening Post, in is copyrighted weekly financial review, says:

"The decision evidently reached by the Treasury Department to meet market conditions intelligently in the terms fixed for the next Liberty Loan, is a matter which may very properly encourage financial confidence. Many different considerations surround the fixing of such terms; allowance must always be made for the influence of a higher or lower interest on the rate for other investment securities, old or new, and, therefore, on the price of outstanding securities. The effect of special inducements—in the way either of rate or redemption value, or United Sattes bonds with smaller privileges, has necessarily to be kept in mind.

"But the fundamental fact is that the Government's finances should be kept in an orderly condition, and that the public credit be absolutely maintained. It is always possible to risk both these essentials through trying hazardous experiments. This is more evidently the fact today than it was in war time, first, because the patriotic fervor of war and the national defence cannot now be equally invoked, but, second, because we have entered a period in which higher taxes are aboutt o begin, simultaneously with the smaller profits and earnings of the period of reaction from the artificial stimulus of war.

"There is not the slightest doubt of the capacity of the American people to subscribe for a loan of five or even six thousand million dollars. But we have reached the time when conditions of the investment market have to be recognized. Fortunately, this can be done, and apparently the Treasury means that it shall be done, through the application of short-term borrowing—on bonds with a 5-year or a shorter maturity—which always creates a minimum of disturbance in existing investment securities. It is among the possibilities that a notable success for the April Government loan will be one of the landmarks in the bringing of the financial situation on to solid footing.

Business Trend Uncertain.

"In some respects the attitude of uncertainty which rules both finance and industry, coupled with more or less despondency and apprehension, resembles that which always prevails after a great financial panic. There has been no panic on the present occasion; no sudden complication of credit; no formidable list of failures of banks and business houses.

"The position of the banks continues exceptionally strong, and business failures in the United States during January numbered barely half the January record of 1918, less than half that of 1917, and were less than a third, either in number or total liabilities, than the January failures even of 1914.

"Nevertheless, the resemblance to an after-panic period exists in the fact of inevitable, immediate and far-reaching change in the demand for goods and consequently in prices, in the plans of trade, and in the profits of industry.

"As in the sequel to a what we used to call a panic, the first problem which arises is the question of what basis of prices producer and consumer can get into touch again; second, how the factor of labor or wages will be adjusted, and finally, what relief can be obtained through foreign trade. In the eixsting situation all these considerations are obscure, and the result and uncertainty has caused, as it did after 1907 and 1893, a partial paralysis of industrial activity.

Conditions After a Panic.

"It is not difficult to see, however, some important elements of contrast with the position of those years. The familiar 'after-panic' problem arose from the existence of huge stocks of merchandise, accumulated through use of private credit, with a view to consumption whose continuance in maximum volume had been mistakenly expected. This meant 'sacrifice sales' on an immense scale and of nation-wide scope. Prices had to be forced, both because the manufacturers and merchants could not afford to hold their excessive supplies of goods with credit shaken, and because even the middleman and the consumer had on hand more merchandise than he needed.

"In nearly all respects the present situation is the opposite. We have to reckon with only the odds and ends of war material held by the Government, and now useful only for 'salvage,' and with accumulation of raw material in a very few industries, such as copper. But in general the home consuming trade has for more than a year been absolutely starved. Its own problem in the reasonably near future will be, not how to find a market for an unwieldly surplus of merchandise, but how to provide for actual needs of customers.

"The labor problem is in its essence much what it always has been, even in an after-panic readjustment. It is just now more awkward, possibly, because of the far more obstinate and arrogant attitude of labor; but on the other hand, the prospect of unemployment is vastly less serious because of the industrial conditions as already stated, and because of the actual reduction in available manpower through the war.

Foreign Trade Questions.

"Relief through foreign trade meantime, is on its face a matter of singular perplexity, as a result of the poverty of belligerent Europe, the loss of important markets, such as those of Germany and Russia, and the present extreme confusion of ocean-shipping facilities

"Yet as against these handicaps the future holds out the prospect of a demand from neutral markets, proportioned to the long curtailments of outside shipments to them, while the orders for reconstruction purposes from Continental Europe cannot be indefinitely delayed. This is the nature of the longer prospect. As yet, the markets are waiting for the neutral forces to come into play. But that never happens overnight.

"Stock values were strong and 2 to 6 points higher at the week's dealings. Yesterday's market showed wide gains."

London Review.

Special Cable to the Post-Dispatch and the New York Evening Post.

LONDON, Feb. 15.—The proceedings of the German National Assembly at Weimar, including the election of a president of the nation, are welcomed here, as anything would be welcomed which promised to restore an ordered Government in Germany. Nevertheless, the allies' view of the situation there is necessarily influenced by the increasigly bellicose attitude of Germany and the actual threats directed against Poland. It is important to realize, in this connection, the strain under which the allies labored in four and a half years of war, because all peoples are necessarily 'rattled,' and, consequently, expressions of views and opinions require interpretation in that light.

German finances are chaotic, owing to the extreme inflation in war and the final defeat. It requires, however, only peace and an orderly Government to occasion steady improvement, when all countries, especially the United States, will doubtless give Germany credit for purchasing raw materials, while her depreciated exchange rates will stimulate her exports.

Dissatisfaction is still expressed at the delay in the formulation of a definite bill of costs by the allies, not because Germany will necessarily be called upon to pay the whole, but because it is believed that preparation and presentation of the bill would precede the consideration of Germany's ability to pay, whereas there is a tendency toward the reverse procedure. However, the British representatives on the Indemnity Commission, including the Australian Premier, Lord Northcliffe and Lord Sumner are regarded as excellent selections.

Credits Arranged for Belgium.

Credits to Belgium here are now definitely arranged, as we believe is the case in the United States also. We also understand that England and America are giving further credits to France.

Your latest budget, as embraced in the taxation bill, is admired here, especially the graduation of excess profits. This is an improvement on our system, in the sense that your method gives greater encouragement to enterprise, through making the tax lower on profits up to 20 per cent.

Our greatest problem in the coming budget will be in altering the details of the excess profits duty, which now yields about £300,000,000, without too greatly impairing the Treasury's revenue.

The labor situation is temporarily improved through the firmer attiture of the Government. Loyd George's speech in Parliament made a fine impression, while his position regarding capital also gave satisfaction. The real tussle is coming, however, when it is realized that the operation of economic laws precludes the granting of concessions to labor beyond a certain point, especially as regards the hours of labor.

Business on the Stock Exchange is expanding, though chiefly in speculative issues. Sales of the new war bonds during the next few weeks will necessarily be prejudiced by the fact that saving and investing power was anticipated in the rush for bonds three weeks back. Huge tax collections will also operate as a check.

CORN UP 5 TO 10 CENTS ON THE WEEK'S TRADING

Light Receipts Cause Active Buying of All Futures; Oats Also Gain Sharply.

Big advances in the corn market took place here last week, despite heavy speculative selling. The underlying reason for the strength appeared to be the greater profit in feeding corn to farm animals than in shipments into commercial channels. Compared with a week ago, quotations at the close yesterday were up 5c to 10c. In oats there were gains of 3¼c to 3¾c.

Owing to the fact that farmers were likely soon to be busy with field work, any material increase of the scanty commercial stocks of corn seemed quite improbable. The market, therefore, was on a basis where sweeping upturns might well have been looked for. In addition to a blizzard, advices that exporters were nibbling for corn, that demobilization of troops had been stopped and that President Wilson had discussed circumstances which might justify a resumption of hostilities were all instrumental at times as immediate occasions for waves of buying that hoisted values.

Speculators who took the bear side urged mainly that a downward movement of commodity prices were inevitable and that grain ought to follow suit.

Oats merely paralleled the action of corn. Receipts, however, were light in all markets.

Winter wheat reports were less optimistic during the week, owing to lack of rain and snow over a wide area of the belt. Fear of winter killing, however, was dissipated when a blizzard from the West passed over the Northwest and milder temperatures followed.

Receipts of corn ran very light, and on all weak spots the farmer shows no disposition to market his grain.

The market demonstrated almost conclusively that much of the recent wide price decline was speculative selling, as when the shorts endeavored to cover contracts and secure profits the market bounded upward like a rubber ball.

Export of wheat and flour from the country last week were heavier than in many weeks, and from now forward an increased outgo is expected. The wheat visible of 100,000,000 bushels, however, seems to assure ample supplies for all needs, although Food Administration officials assert that with Germany and other foreign countries in a position to buy there would not be sufficient grain in the world to supply the demand cheaply.

Oats were sold freely in the early market on slack cash and export demands and large stocks in the country. The late rally was with corn and on talk of improved export demands shortly.

CORN MARKET UP 2 CENTS ON THE BOARD OF TRADE

Chicago Prices Reflect Buying After an Early Decline; Oats Also Are Higher.

CHICAGO, Feb. 15.—Sharp advances in the corn market today resulted from persistent buying on the part of houses with Eastern connections. The close, although unsettled, was 2c to 3⅝c net higher, with May $1.23⅝ to $1.23¾ and July $1.19¾ to $1.19⅞. Oats gained 1¼c, to 1⅜c, and provisions 17½c, to 85c.

Much of the ardor to buy corn appeared to spring from the strength of the New York stock market and from an advance in foreign bonds. At least this was the main reason ascribed for the change in front which seemed to have been made by heavy Eastern traders who recently were conspicuous on the bear side of corn here.

Before their buying attained any force this morning the market was tending downward as a result of scattered selling. The pressure, however, was not of a decided character, and the subsequent upturn had no serious check until the last half hour. Then the aggressiveness of the bulls was overcome in a measure by unverified reports that the strikes in Argentina were over.

Oats followed closely the changes in corn. Trade was of liberal volume.

Provisions again jumped as high as the rules would permit. Lower prices on hogs exercised only a transient depressing influence. Packers bought.

How to Increase Your Will Power In One Hour

Author of This Article Tells How He Quickly Acquired a Dominating Will Power that Earns Him Between $50,000 and $70,000 a Year

FOUR YEARS ago a man offered me a wonderful bargain. He was hard up for money and wanted to sell me some shares in a young, growing company for $1,000. Based on the earnings of the Company the stock offered me was easily worth $5000—in fact, the man who finally bought the shares sold them again in five months at a profit of $4300.

The reason I didn't buy the shares was that I could no more raise a thousand dollars than I could hop, skip, and jump across the Atlantic Ocean. A thousand dollars! And my income only twenty-five a week.

The second chapter in my life began a few months later, when another opportunity came to me. It required an investment of $20,000 during the first year. I raised the money easily, paid back every penny I borrowed, and had $30,000 left at the end of the first year! To date, in less than four years, my business has paid me a clear profit of over $200,000 and is now earning between $50,000 and $70,000 a year. Yet for twelve years before, the company had been losing money every year!

The natural question for my reader to ask is, "How could you borrow $20,000 to invest in a business which had previously been a failure, after being unable to borrow $1000 for an investment that seemed secure?" It is a fair question. And the answer can be given in two little words—WILL POWER.

When the first proposition came to me I passed it by simply because I didn't have the money and couldn't borrow it. I went from one friend to the next and all turned me down. Several even refused to talk business with me at all. They all liked me personally, and they asked about the kiddies, but when it came to money matters I hadn't a chance. I was scared stiff every time I talked to one of them. I pleaded with them, almost begged them. But everybody had their "money all tied up in other investments." It was an old excuse, but I accepted it meekly. I called it hard luck. But I know today that it was nothing in the world except my lack of Will Power, or rather my weak Will Power, which kept me from getting what I wanted.

When I heard that the man sold those shares at a profit of $4300, it seemed that my sorrow could not be greater. That profit was just about what my salary amounted to for four years! But instead of grieving over my "hard luck," I decided to find out why I was so easily beaten in everything I tried to accomplish. It must be that there was something vital that made the difference between success and failure. It wasn't lack of education, for many illiterate men become wealthy. What was this vital spark? What was this one thing which successful men had and which I did not have?

- FIFTY-ONE MAXIMS for Applied Power of Perception, Memory, Imagination, Self-Analysis, Control.
- How to develop a strong, keen gaze.
- How to concentrate the eye upon what is before you—object, person, printed page, work.

These are only a few of the many subjects treated.

I began to read books about psychology and mental power. But everything I read was too general. There was nothing definite—nothing that told me what to do.

After several months of discouraging effort, I finally encountered a book called "Power of Will," by Prof. Frank Channing Haddock. The very title came to me as a shock. When I opened the book I was amazed. I realized that will power was the vital spark—the one thing that I lacked. And here in this book were the very rules, lessons and exercises through which anyone could increase their will power. Eagerly I read page after page; including such articles as, The Law of Great Thinking; How to Develop Analytical Power; How to Concentrate Perfectly; How to Guard Against Errors in Thought; How to Develop Fearlessness; How to Acquire a Dominating Personality.

An hour after I opened the book I felt like a new person. My sluggish will power was beginning to awaken. There was a new light in my eye, a new spring in my step, a new determination in my soul. I began to see, in my past, the many mistakes I had made, and I knew I would never make them again.

I practiced some of the simple exercises. They were more fascinating than any game of cards or any sport.

Then came an opportunity to acquire the business which had lost money for twelve years, and which I turned into a $50,000-a-year money maker. Instead of cringing before the moneyed people, I won them over by my sheer force of will. I would not be denied. And my every act and word since then has been the result of my training in will power.

I am convinced that every man has within himself every essential quality of success except a strong will. Any man who doubts that statement need only analyze the successful men he knows, and he will find himself their equal, or their superior, in every way except in will power. Without a strong will, education counts for little, money counts for nothing, opportunities are useless.

I earnestly recommend Prof. Haddock's great work, "Power of Will," to those who feel that success is just out of reach—to those who lack that something which they cannot define, yet which holds them down to the grind of a small salary.

Never before have business men and women needed this help so badly as in these trying times. Hundreds of real and imaginary obstacles confront us every day, and only those who are masters of themselves and who hold their heads up will succeed. "Power of Will" as never before is an absolute necessity—an investment in self-culture which no one can afford to deny himself.

I am authorized to say that any reader who cares to examine "Power of Will" for five days may do so without sending any money in advance. If after one hour you do not feel that your will power has increased, and if after a week's reading you do not feel that this great book supplies that one faculty you need most to win success, return it and you will owe nothing. Otherwise send only $3, the small sum asked.

Some few doubters will scoff at the idea of will power being the fountainhead of wealth, position and everything we are striving for, but the great mass of intelligent men and women will at least investigate for themselves by sending for the book at the publisher's risk. I am sure that any book that has done for me—and for thousands of others—what "Power of Will" has done—is well worth investigating. It is interesting to note that among the 250,000 owners of "Power of Will" are such prominent men as Supreme Court Justice Parker; Wu Ting Fang, Ex-U. S. Chinese Ambassador; Gov. McKelvie, of Nebraska; Assistant Postmaster-General Britt; General Manager Christeson of Wells-Fargo Express Co.; E. St. Elmo Lewis; Senator Arthur Capper of Kansas; and thousands of others. In fact, today "Power of Will" is just as important and as necessary to a man's or woman's equipment for success as a dictionary. To try to succeed without "Power of Will" is like trying to do business without a telephone.

As your first step in will training, I suggest immediate action in this matter before you. It is not even necessary to write a letter. Use the form below, if you prefer, addressing it to the Pelton Publishing Company, 134-B Wilcox Block, Meriden, Conn., and the book will come by return mail. You hold in your hand, this very minute, the beginning of a new era in your life. Over a million dollars has been paid for "Power of Will" by people who sent for it on free examination. Can you, in justice to yourself, hesitate about sending in the coupon? Can you doubt, blindly, when you can see, without a penny deposit, this wonder-book that will increase your will power in one hour?

The cost of paper, printing and binding has almost doubled during the past three years, in spite of which "Power of Will" has not been increased in price. The publisher feels that so great a work should be kept as low-priced as possible, but in view of the enormous increase in the cost of every manufacturing item the present edition will be the last sold at the present price. The next edition will cost more. I urge you to send in the coupon now, or if you prefer, write a letter or send post card.

What Readers Say:

Ancient Diary Reveals Washington in New Light

His first state dinner a most solemn function, with every one in highly nervous state—John Jay heroically attempted a joke, and one "Mr. Smith" got mixed in his classics—President played with fork, striking it against edge of table—How Mrs. Washington ate "whole heap" of rancid cream rather than embarrass guests :: :: :: ::

"Such a buzz of 'Health, sir,' and "Health, madame,' never had I heard before."

By Edgar Stanton Maclay.

IN THE private diary of William Maclay (who, with Robert Morris, represented Pennsylvania in the First United States Senate, 1789-1791) are some interesting sidelights on the social side of George Washington's first administration, which never before have been given to the general public. This diary was published 30 years ago in a very limited edition, but it was given verbatim, so that it was necessary to wade through more than 250,000 words of tedious debates in order to get at a few of the items of social interest which are presented herewith:

Lord Chesterfield was noted for his politeness. It is said that on a certain occasion when he was entertaining an uncouth guest at dinner he drank tea from a saucer so as not to injure the feelings of the guest, who was imbibing his tea in that crude manner.

But we find that Lord Chesterfield's politeness was outdone by Martha Washington at a state dinner, when she ate "a whole heap" of rancid cream rather than embarrass her guests. This heroic episode is recorded in Maclay's diary under date of June 11, 1789, as follows:

"Dined this day with Robert Morris. The company consisted of Mr. and Mrs. Morris, with their three children, Mr. Fitzsimmons and Mr. Clymer. Mrs. Morris talked a great deal; after dinner. She did it gracefully enough, this being a gayer place and she being considered as at least the second female character at court. As to taste, etiquette, etc., she is certainly first.

"I thought she discovered a predilection for New York, but, perhaps, she was only doing it justice; while my extreme aversion, like a jealous sentinel, is for giving no quarter. I, however, happened to mention that they were ill supplied with cream. Mrs. Morris had much to say on this subject; declared they had done all they could, and even sent to the country all about, but that they could not be supplied. She told many anecdotes on this subject; particularly how two days before she dined at the President's. A large, fine-looking trifle was brought to table. It appeared exceedingly well indeed. She was helped by the President, but on taking some of it, she had to pass her handkerchief to her mouth and rid herself of the morsel—on which she whispered to the President. It seems that the cream of which the trifle was made was unusually stale and rancid. On learning this, the General changed his plate immediately. 'But,' Mrs. Morris added with a titter, 'Mrs. Washington ate a whole heap of it.'"

Under date of May 11, 1789, Maclay records: "I received a ticket from the President of the United States to use his box this evening at the theater, being the first of his appearance at the playhouse since entering on his office. Went. The President, Governor of the State, Foreign Ministers, Senators from New Hampshire, Connecticut, Pennsylvania, Maryland and South Carolina; and some ladies in the same box. I am old and notices or attentions are lost on me. I could have wished some of my dear children in my place. They are young and would have enjoyed it. Long might they live to boast of having been seated in the same box with the first character in the world. The play was the 'School for Scandal.' I never liked it. Indeed, I think it an indecent representation before ladies of character and virtue. Farce: "The Old Soldier." The house was greatly crowded and I thought the players acted well; but I wish I had seen the "Conscious Lovers," or some play that inculcated more prudential manners."

As we can readily imagine, Washington's first state dinner was a tremendously solemn affair; and from start to finish all present were in a highly nervous state of mind. John Jay made a heroic effort to relieve the distressing tension, but with only partial success. Maclay records the solemn function as follows:

"A little after 4 p. m. I called on Mr. Bassett of the Delaware State. We went to the President's to dinner. The company were: President and Mrs. Washington, Vice President and Mrs. Adams, the Governor of New York and his wife, Mr. Jay and wife, Mr. Langdon and wife, Mr. Dalton and a lady, perhaps his wife, and a Mr. Smith, Mr. Bassett, myself, Lear and Lewis, the President's two secretaries.

"The President and Mrs. Washington sat opposite to each other in the middle of the table; the two secretaries, one at each end. It was a great dinner and the best of the kind I was ever at. The room, however, was disagreeably warm. First was the soup, fish, roasted and boiled; meats, gomen, fowls, etc. This was the dinner. The middle of the table was garnished in the usual tasty way with small images, flowers (artificial), etc. The dessert was: First, apple pies, puddings, etc., then iced creams, jellies, etc.; then water melons, musk melons, apples, peaches, nuts.

"It was the most solemn dinner I was ever at. Not a health drank, scarce a word said until the cloth was taken away. Then the President, filling a glass with wine, with great formality drank to the health of every individual by name around the table.

"To be clean-shaved, shirted and powdered, to make your bows with grace, are the highest qualifications necessary."

Everybody imitated him, charged glasses and such a buzz of 'Health, sir,' and 'Health, madame,' and, 'Thank you, sir,' and 'Thank you, madame,' never had I heard before. Indeed, I had like to be thrown out in a hurry, but I got a little wine in my glass and passed the ceremony. The ladies sat a good while and the bottles passed about; but there was a dead silence almost. Mrs. Washington at last withdrew with the ladies.

"I expected the men would now begin, but the same stillness remained. The President told of a New England clergyman who had lost his hat and wig in passing a river called the Brunks. He smiled and everybody else laughed. He now and then said a sentence or two on some common topic; and what he said was not amiss. Mr. Jay tried to make a laugh by mentioning the circumstance of the Duchess of Devonshire leaving no stone unturned to carry Fox's election.

"There was a Mr. Smith, who mentioned how Homer described Aeneas leaving his wife and carrying his father out of flaming Troy. He had heard somebody (I suppose) witty on the occasion; but if he had ever read it, he would have said Virgil.

"The President kept a fork in his hand, when the cloth was taken away, I thought for the purpose of picking nuts. He ate no nuts, however, but played with the fork, striking the edge of the table with it. We did not sit long after the ladies retired. The President rose, went upstairs to drink coffee. The company followed."

How keen the Senators of the First United States Senate were for the social side of their duties is shown in Maclay's diary when he records: "About 2 o'clock the words 'levee' and 'adjourn' were repeated from sundry quarters of the house. Adjourn to Monday? The Vice President (Adams) caught hold of the last. 'Is the pleasure of the house that adjournment be to Monday? A single 'No' would not be heard among the prevailing ayes. Here are the most important bills before us, and yet we shall throw all by for the empty ceremony—for attending the levee is little more. Nothing is regarded or valued at such meetings but the qualifications that flow from the tailor, barber or dancing master. To be clean-shaved, shirted and powdered; to make your bows with grace, and to be the master of small chat on the weather, play or newspaper anecdote of the day are the highest qualifications necessary. Levees may be extremely useful in old countries where men of great fortune are collected, as it may keep the idle from being much worse employed. But here, I think, they are hurtful.

Describing the levee, Maclay records how the Senators met in the anteroom and then entered the levee room: "I went foremost and left them to follow and do as well as they could. Indeed, they had no great thing of a pattern, for I am but a poor courtier. The company was large for the room. The foreign Ministers were there, Van Berkel, the Dutch Minister, gaudy as a peacock. The President honored me with a particular tete-a-tete. 'How will this weather suit your farming?' he asked. 'Poorly, sir,' I replied. 'The season is the most backward I have ever known. It is remarkably so here, but, by letters from Pennsylvania, vegetation is slow in proportion there.' Washington answered: 'The fruit, it is to be expected, will be safe; backward seasons are in favor of it, but in Virginia it was lost before I left that place.'

Like many another brave soldier, Washington would rather face a park of artillery than make a speech. We have a new light on Washington's inaugural address of April 30, 1789, in Maclay's diary, where it is recorded: "As the company returned into the Senate chamber (from the balcony of which Washington had just taken oath of office), the President took the chair and the Senators and Representatives their seats. He (Washington) rose and all rose also, and addressed them. This great man was agitated and embarrassed—more than ever he was by the leveled cannon or pointed musket. He trembled and several times could scarce make out to read, though it must be supposed he had often read before. He put part of the fingers of his left hand into the side of what I think the tailors call the 'fall' of the breeches (corresponding to the modern side pockets) changing the paper into the other hand. After some time he then did the same with some of the fingers of his right hand. When he came to the words 'all the world' he made a flourish with his right hand which left rather an ungainly impression. I sincerely, for my part, wished all set ceremony in the hands of dancing masters and that this first of men had read his address in the plainest manner, without even taking his eyes from the paper—for I felt hurt that he was not first in everything. He was dressed in deep brown, with metal buttons with an eagle on them, white stockings, a bag and a sword."

So far as the writer knows, there has never been a portrait of George Washington showing him with spectacles on. That he wore spectacles appears in Mac-

CHAPTER XXXII.

WHEN Kit and Churn left Krantz's Keller they walked fast along Fourteenth street till they came to Sixth avenue. There they appeared to hesitate. Clo, as close behind them as she dared to venture, guessed instantly that they had not made up their minds which of several hiding places it would be safest for them to seek. If she was afraid of them they were evidently afraid of the police.

Presently the pair decided to turn southward toward Thirteenth street. Clo went after them. They walked for several blocks.

So excited was Clo that she forgot to notice the streets. Whether the couple wheeled off the avenue into Tenth or Ninth or Eighth she was not sure. She was sure only that she was wheeling after them.

There followed a chase across town. The girl finally lost her head a little and grew bewildered; but just when it seemed that she could drag herself no further, Kit and Churn stopped in front of a house. They parleyed at the foot of the steps, Churn gesticulating a good deal, and at last rang the bell.

It was some time before the two were let in; but after a delay of two or three minutes a woman opened the door. A dim gaslight shone from the hall or lobby, and Clo's impression was of a dark-brown face—the face of a negress. There was a short discussion; then the woman nodded, stepping aside to let Kit and Churn pass. An instant later the door was shut again.

Clo stood gazing at the house. It was one in a row of old-fashioned, shabby brick buildings, four stories in height. A light showed in the basement, but the other windows were black.

Suddenly, as Clo watched, a yellow gleam flashed in a fourth-floor room; but in the same moment a man stepped to the window and pulled down a dark shade. Clo thought that this man was Churn.

"They're going to stay," she argued.

Crossing the street at a distance from the house the girl looked at it with interest. There was no street lamp near, and she could not see the number, but there was a small plaque of some sort at the side of the door, and Clo tripped up the steps to read it. Joy, the place was a boarding house!

The pair having mounted to the fourth floor, Clo thought she might venture to ring. She pulled an old-fashioned door bell. The door was opened by the woman who had admitted Kit and Churn. Clo's impression was correct, for the woman was a negress.

Staring at the newcomer, the fat and slovenly creature exclaimed, with a mouth full of gum:

"Say, is you another fren' o' Mr. Cheffinsky?"

"Chuff!" was the password that flashed through Clo's brain. "This is where he lives!"

"I don't know anything about Mr. Cheffinsky," she replied; "but I'm in a scrape and a friend of mine once recommended me to this house. I saw some people come in and a light. It's still a boarding house, isn't it?"

"It may be a bo'din' house, but it ain't no foundlin' orphant asylum," returned the woman.

"I don't ask for charity," said Clo. "I'm not in that kind of a scrape. I have money to pay my board; but I don't want an expensive room. One at the top of the house will do."

The negress continued to stare, puzzled rather than ill-natured.

"Say, it's a real funny time o' night for a young girl like you to go lookin' fo' a home to lay her haid," she remarked. "But you can step in the hall. I'll call Mis' McMahon. She's the lady o' the house. There's a room upstahs, but I don't know whethah she'll let you have it."

She allowed Clo to enter, and left the girl standing as she descended the basement stairs.

"'McMahon' sounds hopeful!" Clo thought. There was always hope in anything Irish; but there was nothing cheerful in the look of the hall. The girl had lodged drearily in New York, but she had never been in a house as dreary as this. There were holes in the oilcloth and stains on the wall paper. Yet had the place been a palace Clo could not have been more eager to stay.

Mrs. McMahon gave Clo time to elaborate further details of an imaginary autobiography before appearing from below; and when the landlady did appear her look was less inspiring than her name. She was a middle-aged woman of the beetle-browed, big-jowled type, and her manner was suspicious.

Clo gave her no time to speak. She began first, with her best brogue, which she could use when needed with great effect.

"I beg your pardon, ma'am for inthrudin' on you at this time of the night," said the girl in her creamiest voice, with a childish smile; "but the lady I'm maid fer and me had a quarrel about a young man I like. Rather than give him up, I just walked out of the house without waiting to pack my things. All the same, they'll be safe, so I won't trouble about 'em. I'm not strong, because I've been down with an illness, and I've walked till I'm played out. As I tould yer maid, a friend o' mine had spoke o' Mrs. McMahon's place, and I thought ye'd take me in. I'll pay a week in advance."

Whether Mrs. McMahon believed Clo's story was an open question, but her face softened slightly at the sound of the brogue.

"Irish, are you?" she said.

"Yes, County Cork, and not over since very long," returned the girl. "I'll tell ye the rest tomorrow, if it interests ye at all."

"I'm from County Cork—me and me dead husband—both," volunteered the woman. "I've been in New York these 12 years. Violet says you ast for a top-floor room."

"I did," said Clo.

"Well, a top floor room is the only wan I've got vacant. How long would ye be wanting it for? You can come and have a look. I don't boast of the room. It's last choice; but these days I have to charge $7, with board."

"I don't mind $7," said Clo.

She followed her hostess up flight after flight of dimly lighted stairs. They were covered with oilcloth, and the halls smelled of escaping gas; but the girl was almost happy. The place was not attractive, but it seemed an honest house. If the woman knowingly harbored criminals, she would hardly accept a stranger in this way.

"It's a hall room—but a front one," explained Mrs. McMahon, panting, as they reached the top of the house.

Clo was delighted to hear this, for it meant that the room must adjoin the one where Churn had pulled down the shade.

"There's a married couple come into the double room next," Mrs. McMahon went on, when she had shown Clo her proposed quarters. "The wall's kind of thin, for this room was part of the other once, but they're a quiet couple, I guess; and if you're quiet, too, you won't trouble each other. They're friends of a gentleman boarder we've had for some time, and they've been to call, though they've never stayed before. I want 'em to be comfortable, so stir around as little as you can in the morning. I guess they're the kind that lies late in bed."

"I feel more as if I'd like to lie in bed all day!" sighed Clo.

The landlady looked anxious.

"I hope you're not sickening nor anything!" she remarked.

"Oh, no—I'm only tired. I think I'll take a good rest," Clo assured her.

"Well, sleep as much as you like—but don't be scared if ye hear folks movin' later on. The friend of this couple is out, but he may come home and want to see 'em. It's free and easy hall here."

Clo was rejoiced to hear this. She paid $7 in advance for the room, and took pains to show that she had plenty of money. She also begged to buy or borrow a clean nightgown, and suggested that if there was a new toothbrush in the house she would be glad to have it. Mrs. McMahon laughed. A nightgown she could lend, but as for a toothbrush, there wouldn't be one this side of the nearest drug store. Miss Ryan—the name Clo gave—must wait till next day.

"Well, anyhow, maybe you've a bite you'll give me to eat," the new boarder pleaded. "I'm that hungry I could bite off the doorknob! I'll pay extra, of course, asking for it at this time of night. And your colored woman—Violet, isn't it her name?—shall have a couple of dimes for bringing it up."

Evidently Miss Ryan was generously inclined! Mrs. McMahon, softened, asked what food she wished. Clo, who wished for nothing so much as a knife, made a bid to secure one by asking for meat.

"Any old kind—and some bread and milk. I'll give 50 cents" — she watched the woman's eye —"I mean a dollar, for my supper."

When Mrs. McMahon had gone Clo held her breath to listen. Yes, the wall was thin! She could hear Kit and Churn talking in an ordinary tone, but she could catch no words, even when she laid her ear against the dusty paper.

She guessed that her tiny room was separated from the larger one by a light partition of lath and plaster, covered on each side with wall paper. She could feel as well as hear someone walking up and down, in the next room! No doubt it was Churn. Sometimes he would stop. A piece of furniture would creak; then he would jump up, to begin walking again.

Presently Violet appeared, with a coarse nightgown hanging over her arm, a plate of bread and ham on a napkinless tray and a glass of bluish milk. Clo took pains to be agreeable to her, parrying curious questions with ingenious fibs. She gave the woman 20 cents, and promised the same sum if her breakfast were brought upstairs.

The girl had told the truth in pleading hunger, but when she was alone, and had locked her door, she took from the tray only the steel knife and fork that lay beside the plate. Having pushed the cot-bed away from the wall she sat down on the floor, Turk fashion. Choosing a spot which would be invisible with the bed in place, she waited till Churn began to walk up and down. Then she started to dig in the plaster with her extemporized tools as noiselessly as possible.

Whenever Churn stopped, she stopped also, lest the ratlike sound should reach alert ears in the next room. For a long time she toiled cautiously, slowly, gathering into her lap the bits of paper and plaster that fell.

It was a tedious task, but not a difficult one. The plaster crumbled like dry bread. In less than an hour she had made, practically without noise, a hole the size of a silver dollar. It went through to the laths; beyond that barrier her tools were of no avail. She needed a thin, sharp instrument like a hatpin to push between the slats of wood.

A tiny hole would suffice—a hole so small that it could never be seen, its existence never suspected; but she had no hatpin in the close-fitting toque lent by Beverley. Her own was now a souvenir in O'Reilly's possession—if he had cared to keep it; and somehow Clo fancied that he had!

She tried hairpins, but they bent one after another. Then she searched for a nail, and found one stuck in the wall, supporting a small mirror. Carefully she deposited this upon the bed—it wouldn't do to break a looking glass—and set to work once more.

At the end of 20 minutes' scratching she felt resistance cease before the nail. Hastily she withdrew it lest the point should pierce too far; and, stretched on the floor, she put her ear to the aperture.

lay's diary when the President addressed the Senat May 19, 1789: "The President took the reply out of his coat pocket. He had his spectacles in his jacket pocket, having his hat in his left hand and the paper in his right. He had too many objects for his hands. He shifted his hat between his forearm and the left side of his breast. But taking his spectacles from the case embarrassed him. He got rid of this small distress by laying the spectacles case on the chimney piece. Col. Humhpreys stood at his right, Mr. Lear (secretary) on his left. Having adjusted the spectacles, which was not very easy, considering the engagement of his hands, he read the reply with tolerable exactness and without much emotion. I thought he should have received us with his spectacles on, which would have saved the making of some uncouth motions."

Over One Million American Women Are Now Using La-may Face Powder

There are actually three thousand different brands of face powder now sold in America, some on the market as long as fifty years. A new face powder has become the most popular among all of these other three thousand powders, and it is only a few months old. Yet it is now selling faster than many on the market for fifty years. Why did this new powder become famous so quickly? For two reasons: First, it is guaranteed absolutely pure. It does not contain rice powder, white lead or any injurious substance. Second, it stays on better than any other powder. This improved formula is called La-may (French, Poudre L'Ame). The large size is fifty cents and the trial size twenty-five cents. When you see how wonderfully it beautifies your complexion you will understand why La-may is now used by over a million American women.

Work as a Medicine in St. Louis Hospital

How handicapped humanity is helped by the exercise of body muscles and the brain, thus reversing the old theory of "rest cure"—Noteworthy results obtained at Barnes -:- -:-

oy making facilitates recovery of these girls suffering from nervous ailments.

WORK as a panacea for human ills, balm for hurt minds and shattered nerves and an efficient aid to the physically handicapped, is the foundation and keystone of occupational therapy, which just now is receiving the most earnest attention of doctors and organizations whose mission is to extend a helping hand to those who stand in such need. Not work, however, in the sense of a day's drive under the severe glance of a superintendent or overseer, but only occasional tasks at the crafts or such other employments as may be suitable to individual cases; and all under the gentle supervision of a kind, sympathetic teacher-nurse, trained in the system that bids fair to revolutionize old practices of medicine and surgery.

Like many other institutions that have come into being or received impressive stimulus in the past year or two, the greatest war of all times made its impress on the application of this modern mode of treatment, and from the experimental stage, where it lingered after many successful demonstrations in the asylums, it has been taken up with a zest in many parts of the country, and schools for the training of specialized teachers are being organized in a manner that gives eloquence to the prophecy of its general introduction in hospitals throughout the civilized world.

St. Louis is no laggard in this scientific enterprise, which, under a technical alias, substitutes the employment of the body and mind for the good, bad and indifferent nostrums of the pharmacopoeia. No longer will the injured soldier or workman who is able to move about, even on crutches, be compelled to sit about in the hospitals, brooding over his hurts and wondering when he will be able to resume his former station in this workaday world, nor will he have to be dosed with hypnotics or other compounds ad nauseam, to soothe jumping nerves or superinduce sleep. No, not while there is close at hand a workshop provided with a teacher and the necessary facilities for the applications of the principles and practices of occupational therapy, and the system takes into consideration the workable capacity of every kind and character of patients, from the brawny laborer to the timid, delicate child.

While this method of treatment has been employed in St. Louis for some time under the auspices of the St. Louis Chapter of the Junior League, an organization of young matrons and misses prominent in social circles, it is only recently that plans have assumed concrete form for its widespread introduction in the hospitals throughout the city and State. Further, it is proposed to push the work of training young women who wish to qualify for the teaching positions. The St. Louis school, which has been in operation since last December in the art section of Washington University under the guidance of Miss Alice Dean, has nearly completed one-half of the prescribed course and will be ready for new students the latter part of this month. This school was started with a donation of $5000, made from the treasury of the Junior League, and that body of aggressive workers has been at the head and front of the missionary and other activities from the start.

The war and the consequent necessity for vocational training courses urged by the Surgeon-General of the United States army to facilitate the reclamation of crippled soldiers was as grist for the mills of occupational therapy. It was taken up on an intensive scale, since it fitted so nicely in the War Department's plan of making provision for the injured soldier boys who would have to be helped back to self-support and the spirit of independence that goes with it. The originals as is the present purpose of the "work as medicine" theory, was to limit it to no particular class of ailments or physical injuries.

Before it was taken up on a large scale, statistics had been gathered showing that the industrial casualties in the mills, factories and mines ran in the neighborhood of 300,000, and that this class of cases alone was a promising field for the new order of treatment. "Help the physically handicapped," was the motto of the pioneers in the movement, and the extended application has now gotten far beyond this original field, with the result that the workshop and its diverting tendencies is employed for all ailments, as well as the convalescing surgical cases. Occupational therapy, in a word, is urged as a beacon for every sufferer from every ill that flesh is heir to—not as a cure in itself, but as an aid in the process of the healing.

Though many young women entered the special training classes for this character of work, reports to the committees in charge of its extension in this city show that the needs are far from satisfied, and that the number will have to be largely increased to supply the growing demand. This explains the activity of a well-organized movement, radiating out of Washington University and Barnes Hospital, to push the workshop along in its mission of helping the sick and maimed. Potential forces are deeply interested in its success and plans are formulating for the establishment of shops and teachers in the city hospital, city sanitarium and other institutions throughout the State.

Before the St. Louis school was opened in the art department of Washington University there were four or five schools operating successfully. These were at Columbia University, New York; the Mason House at Washington, D. C.; Favill House, Chicago; Devereaux House, Marblehead, Mass., and an institution at Milwaukee, directed by Elizabeth G. Upham, a standard authority on the new system. Another of its foremost advocates, who has been in conference with the leaders of the movement in this city is Mrs. Eleanor Clarke Slagle of the Henry B. Favill Institution at Chicago.

He has severe heart trouble, in fact, cannot walk a block without danger, yet he finds relief and assistance in recovery at this loom.

When the call was made for volunteers to take up the training required to qualify the instructors, there was no school in St. Louis, and some of the young women went elsewhere for the training. Among the number were Misses Frances Reid Jones and Carlota Glasgow of the Junior League, the former taking a course at Columbia, while Miss Glasgow finished at the Mason House, Washington. Miss Jones is now utilizing her experience at the Walter Reid Hospital at Washington, where there are many wounded soldiers under treatment, while Miss Glasgow is assisting with the instruction work in St. Louis.

Out at Barnes Hospital the Junior League has its therapeutical workshop in full operation, with a dozen or more patients under the work treatment every day. This establishment has everything needed in the way of tools and appliances used in the course. Looms for making rugs, knitting bags, portieres and table covers, occupy a large part of the space, and there is a bench for carpentry, a lathe and materials for caning chairs and decorating the toys that are also produced in this odd hive of therapeutic industry. Miss Winifred Connerich, a tall, athletic-looking young woman from Boston, who received her training at the Devereux Mansion at Marblehead, Mass., is in charge, and when a Post-Dispatch Sunday Magazine man called, she was directing the work of three men, two old ladies and two girls about 17 and 21 years of age. The elderly women were sewing the knitting bags that had been woven by the men, while the girls were making and decorating toys.

One of the men, a sufferer from acute heart trouble, was running the largest loom in the shop and seemed very much absorbed in his work. He was weaving a large rug with many colors in the design. The schedule of thread colors was pinned in front of him, and as he worked his feet and hands his eyes were seldom taken off the formulae tacked to the machine. He said he had been taking the work cure for a month and that he could testify that it had greatly helped him. He had been ill a long while and when he came to the workshop he was scarcely able to walk more than a block without sitting down to rest. The work had helped him, in that it kept his mind off his ailment, and gave him enough exercise to produce restful sleep at nights. While he conversed his feet were in constant action and he juggled and tossed the shuttles like a veteran at the loom. He said that he had never seen such a device in his life until he came to try occupational therapy as a means to help his condition.

The girls, who, it seems, were sorely afflicted with upset nerves when they began work in the shop a week or two before, were both smiling and pleased with the experiment. More still, they declared that they were getting better every day and were willing to do as much work as Miss Connerich would permit. Herein lies an important phase of the scheme of treatment. The instructor must understand the nature of the ailment of each and every patient before assigning the work tasks. Some are permitted to do more than others, but all beginners are taught pretty much as are babies when they discover that their feet have certain functions to perform. They have to creep first, and so it is with the patient in the new school of therapy.

One of these girls—the elder—was in such condition at the start, that she could not be induced to speak or take the slightest interest in her surroundings. She finish or at least hold on to the last extremity.

Dr. Tanner awoke before daylight on the fortieth day and started to take a few steps around his cot. Later on his aged father, who had come from Ohio, was ushered in to see him, and then he received other relatives and friends. He was looking haggard and stuck to the easy chair on which he had spent most of his daylight hours during the last half of his test. At noon, when the timers announced that the period was up, attendants brought in various articles of food that had been sent from many parts of the country. One of these was a huge watermelon sent from Georgia. Another was a basket of peaches from New Jersey. Tanner looked longingly at the peaches and said he would break his fast with one, no matter what happened. Some of the doctors present cautioned him against carrying out this announcement, but he insisted, and at noon he ate the peach and then mixed with the crowd in the hall. He stepped on a scale, which registered his weight of 121 1-2 pounds, a loss of 36 1-2 pounds for his marathon fast. His next move was in the direction of a large beer glass, filled with cold milk, and one-half of this went down in a single gulp.

"Now bring on that watermelon," commanded Tanner. The order was obeyed and the carving proceeded satisfactorily. He ate four slices and shook his head when some of the doctors present cautioned him again to be careful. During the next three hours he ate one more small slice of the melon. He then took a short carriage ride and on returning asked for more melon. His next request was for small quantities of Hungarian wine, which he sipped slowly. He then went to the home of one of the physicians and continued to startle them by his singularly odd requests. Before 6 p. m. he asked for an apple and the doctors feared it would bring on acute gastric trouble, but he paid no attention to their warnings and instead of eating one apple, disposed of three before this craving ceased. Just before starting on the apples he had eaten a small piece of steak and at 7 o'clock he asked to be served with a half-pound of porterhouse. Again his doctors demurred and he again overruled their objections. An hour later he swallowed another ounce of wine and then went to sleep.

Complications that were looked for the next day did not materialize. He had no nausea at any time after he began eating. During the first night he awoke at 1:30 and demanded another piece of steak, which was served to him under protest. For his breakfast, after getting two small drinks of red wine, he again called for steak. During the day he continued eating meat, drinking beef tea and alternating this with other beverages, between milk, wine and imported English ale, heavy in alcoholic content. He gained weight rapidly, picking up eight pounds in less than two days after the completion of his fast. On the fourth day his weight had increased to 147 pounds, or only 10 1-2 pounds less than he weighed at the beginning.

Notwithstanding the interest that was worked up in the Tanner performance, the financial return was ludicrously small. Tickets sold at the hall brought in but $500 for the entire season and most of these were used as many as four or five times a day. The doctors who served as watchers received nothing for their time, and expenses otherwise more than absorbed the entire returns. Following the fast, Tanner went on a lecture tour, but did not have the success that his friends had predicted for him. He drew from his experience that people were in reality eating too much and that there was a generally mistaken notion about the amount of food necessary for proper sustenance. After a few years, however, Tanner quietly dropped out of the lecturing profession and was mentioned but little anywhere, until the news of his death in the County Hospital of San Diego was announced.

Dr. Tanner was born in Tunbridge Wells, England, in 1831, and spent his earlier youth in that place, where he worked in his father's wagon shop. He came to the United States at 17 and settled in Wisconsin, where he began the study of medicine. He pursued this study further in Cincinnati, where he was graduated from an Eclectic college. When he was ready to practice he made his home in Minneapolis, where it appears he established a moderate business. He was abstemious in his habits and avoided the use of both intoxicants and tobacco. He was often heard expounding his favorite theory that people ate too much, and that they were in error in believing that a constant supply of food was necessary to human existence. Animals, he used to say, could get along nicely without food when there was no other choice, and that proper restrictions in eating would obviate many stomachic ailments.

cept maybe get a separation from him at her own expense. And that is why, as Mamma de Branscombe says, it's no wonder, some men being fiends in human form who will spend thousands for defense but not one cent on alimony, they ain't no sentiment or chivalry these days.

"They was married by a 'Squire who owed Mr. Maginnis for a bill of goods, and the happy groom told the tier of the nuptial knot he'd deduct up to $2 for the wedding fee!

"Puss thought Mr. Maginnis was just eccentric. A nature that had money but which couldn't get its hand open was beyond her girlish mind to grasp. But when he carried a luncheon of chipped-beef sandwiches and took her on their wedding trip in a day coach, and they had to set up for two nights, the broken-hearted bride weeping so hard her eyes was cinder proof, she knew her marriage was a failure and that tightwads were deceivers ever.

"She put the acid test on him when they landed in New York at Liberty street, and she made a stand for a taxi to the flat. He said the street cars was good enough for him, and as they was only down at Liberty streets, they'd walk and he'd carry the grips. Then she knew, flat and finally, her romance was jinxed!

"With a low, stifled moan of anguish she threw herself into a taxi, at her own expense, and the last she saw or heard of Mr. Maginnis, the tightwad, was him whacking a station porter over the head with an umbrella that needed a shine, because the porter had laid a hand upon his telescope valise, and his voice, ringing above the tumult of traffic, asking which car line went past the Mills Hotel!

"And there she was sobbing in the flat and not able to eat any solid food except broiled lobster, when Louis Zinshimer or Abie Wogglebaum took us out—wedded, but no wife, and with no asset except her marriage certificate.

"Mr. Maginnis was comforted by the fact that although his bride had fled, she had done so at her own expense. While as for poor Puss, she's about as happily situated as a wooden-legged man in a forest fire."

Supreme Aces of the War

of Owen Sound, a little village in Ontario. He was only 23 when he was retired for instruction work, with 72 German planes to his credit. He went to France with a Canadian cavalry regiment, but as soon as possible obtained a transfer to the flying service. In three weeks of fighting he won the Victoria Cross, the Distinguished Service Order and the Military Cross. So far as is known no other man possesses all three decorations, even though many have given the service of a lifetime in the military forces of the British empire. On Aug. 28, 1917, he received three decorations at once from the hand of King George at Buckingham Palace.

He earned the rarely bestowed Victoria Cross in a single-handed raid upon a German airdrome, June 2, 1917. Seven machines, some with engines running, were on the ground. Fighting at a height of only 60 feet, he engaged the machines as one after another rose, and downed four of them. He then escaped, although escorted for about a mile by four German planes, flying 1000 feet above him. They dared not attack, not knowing that his machine gun had been disabled by fire from the ground. On another day he was credited with bringing down nine machines in two hours. Once he fell 4000 feet with his machine burning. He was pulled from the wreckage with his clothes on fire, but was little the worse for the fall.

Little less astounding was the record of Capt. James Byford McCudden, who won the Victoria Cross, the D. S. O. and the Military Medal. Only 23 years old at the end of the war, McCudden had entered the British army as a bugler in 1910. He went to France as a private in the original expeditionary force. He was pressed into service as an observer at Mons, when the British were lamentably wanting in airmen. He was promoted to Sergeant, gained a Lieutenancy and quickly won fame by his masterly handling of his machine gun. He organized a flying squadron of such expertness and daring as to strike terror into the hearts of the boche. He engaged in more than 100 fights, brought down 54 German planes and never suffered a scratch.

Italy's most famous aviator was Gabrielle d'Annunzio, but her ace of aces was Maj. Francesco Baracca, who was credited with downing 42 Austrian planes. His machine was seen to fall in flames within the Austrian lines on June 22, 1918, after he had taken the air for the fifth time in one day to engage enemy machines.

One of the greatest flights of the war was that made by Capt. d'Annunzio last August, when he flew over Vienna with a squadron of eight planes, during which he dropped manifestoes on the Austrian capital. To make this flight and return to the base the Italian poet-aviator had to travel over 625 miles through enemy territory. The planes left at 5:50 in the morning, and after encountering atmospheric difficulties, passed over Vienna at 9:20, making the turn at an altitude of 800 meters. The Austrian capital was amazed at the audacity of the Italian performance. People stood in the main thoroughfares and wondered what the aviators would throw upon the populace. When they saw leaflets fluttering to the earth, they were greatly relieved as their first fear was an avalanche of explosives. The machines were not attacked. The machines returned by way of Vienna, Neustadt, Gratz, Leibach and Trieste and were acclaimed with joy on their safe landing on Italian soil.

Germany's leading aces were the famous Capt. Boelke, who was credited with 42 planes when he was killed on Oct. 28, last, and Capt. Baron von Richthofen, credited with 78 victories, and the inventor of the "flying circus," who was killed in April, 1918. During the former's funeral, an English aviator dropped a wreath behind the German lines, with the inscription: "In memory of Capt. Boelke, our brave and chivalrous adversary.—The Royal British Flying Corps."

The announcement from Berlin was that Boelke was killed in a collision with another German airplane. The British admitted that this was true, but added that the collision occurred during an aerial combat, in which two British planes attacked 12 of the enemy, and so hustled them that the last two collided, the one bearing Capt. Boelke falling to the ground. Baron von Richthofen was shot down in the Somme district.

Smashing Traditions With a Munitionette

Startling effects which wearing overalls and doing man's job wrought upon pretty St. Louis girl — In six months not only worked, but thought like man, joining union, going on strike, becoming labor official and being sent to Washington to present union's grievances — But now she will revert to women's clothes and save complexion by abandoning lathe

She ran a regular man-size lathe at the Wagner Electric Co.

By Marguerite Martyn.

MEN went to war. Women went to work in the industries left behind. Thereby thousands of traditions were smashed as to the inequality of men's and women's brains and hands.

Something like the great upheaval was needed to explode the fallacy developed with the machine age, that women as a sex were lacking in mechanical aptitude. With everything done by machinery and the growing belief and persistent prejudice among labor organizations that woman's place was anywhere but in the machine shop, women would have been relegated to the few tasks left requiring only manual labor or intellect. In England reports show how women drafted by the emergency exceeded and excelled the records of men in numberless mechanical processes of the metal trades, wood working and chemical works. In America women were not put to so extensive a test, but wherever their labor was substituted, reports have been equally satisfactory.

A striking single example of a woman's development in mechanical skill is Miss Estelle Inskeep, 3213 Olive street, who ran a regular man-size lathe at the Wagner Electric Co. Other women were placed at such machines as drill punches and lathes when the shortage of men necessitated it. Any number of women operated the small speed lathes. It was merely the emergency that placed Miss Inskeep at the large lathe, and she very quickly proved herself equal in the emergency to any man. She cut the largest metal parts in steel or brass, attained a speed of about 750 pieces a day, with a daily average of not more than two or three "scraps."

She learned to read the difficult micrometer and gauge her planes to the thousandth fraction of an inch, as required.

She is only 21 years old, of small stature, girlish looking in face and form and fair to look upon. And in her "man's job" she has sacrificed no innate feminine attribute, as shall be seen.

And just to prove that her mechanical skill was not a mere adventitious development, but that her brain also acted like a man's, when experienced mechanics began to feel the injustice of the deal by which they were speeded up beyond human endurance within, and taxed beyond the limits of normal wage scales by the increasing cost of living without, and there was no satisfactory adjustment forthcoming from the paymasters and task masters, they went on strike, our woman lathe worker joined the machinists' union and went on strike, too.

Many other women mechanics also joined the union and struck at the time. Months of arbitration have not yet brought an adjustment of all the differences at this plant. Miss Inskeep is still out. She has worked since at one or two organized plants, joining in walkouts at each place. She is now engaged in other than machinist's work. All except herself and one other girl, Elizabeth Smith, a drill presser, who does not attend the meetings, have drifted out of the union. But responsibility for that big lathe seems to have developed a greater all-around sense of responsibility in little Miss Inskeep. She has become more and more impressed with the principles she hears discussed at the meetings of her local. She must have contributed something of value to the counsels, too, for she has been intrusted by the men with several offices. She is a trustee, a member of the Auditing Committee and when a committee was summoned to Washington by the War Labor Board, she was delegated by the Executive Council to present the grievances of the women who had worked beside her.

Today, John Fritschie, business agent of the International Machinists' Union, pronounces Estelle Inskeep one of the most trusted and valued members of the union in St. Louis.

Miss Inskeep's rise in about six months' time to such consideration is a tribute to her own intelligence and to the fairness of the men in admitting her to their organization. Perhaps the men realize the unwisdom of antagonism in dealing with women of proved ability and determination.

Perhaps Miss Inskeep's ideas and purposes expressed to them as she expressed them to me are sufficient assurance that the higher skilled machinest is in no danger of being supplanted permanently by woman labor.

"It is a satisfaction to know that I can handle a lathe as well as a man, and it was fascinating work," she said. "But I have no desire to continue in this line of work. See these burns on my hands from molten steel splinters, and this scar on my eyelid. Now that the war is over I do not care to accumulate any more of them. I can make enough to support myself, if not as much as I made at the lathe, in trades that are not so hard on my nerves and my looks. I don't like to wear overalls, which I had to wear at Wagner's. I like to wear women's clothes, and I do not care to sacrifice my complexion, just yet.

"Certainly, I don't want to take the job of any returned soldier as long as there is plenty of work which women can do and which men cannot do.

"But"—thoughfully—"I shall always remain in the union and work for its just principles. I think all women who work ought to lend what strength and ability they have to the organization of labor. If not for their own individual sakes, and whether they gain any immediate material advantage or not—though the discussions at the meetings are educating in themselves—every working woman owes it to all the other women in industry to organize for the betterment of conditions and wages."

Women are hard to organize. They join the union when there is strike for some particular object but they wont stay organized long enough to get into the spirit of it. If they did they would find a wide field of new interests opening before them. You may always have known of injustices around you, but knowing yourself powerless to change things, you just shut your eyes to them. Feeling yourself even a small part of a great power gives you hope and a desire to find out about so many things. I always intend to belong even when I am old grandmother."

I had asked the woman machinist to lunch with me in the restaurant of a department store where, within the past year, an effort was made to organize the saleswomen and other employes, without result. I had heard the woman manager of this restaurant at the time of the attempted strike express her contempt for those unladylike creatures who were picketing the entrances with their banners and wearily repeated slogans about a living wage. We had to wait for a table, so thick was the crowd of shoppers attracted by bargain sales and matinee day. We were surrounded by prominent club women, war workers and social uplifters, for what woman is not trying to be one of these nowadays? But I doubt if there was any woman present who belonged to a labor union or who would not have viewed with curiosity, if not a little suspicion, a striker in their midst. There was nothing in Miss Inskeep's appearance or manner to mark her as different from the rest. Except for a few almost invisible scars, her complexion unadorned was more like a rose than what many another 21-year-old girl nearby had been able to attain even with artificial aid. Her voice was as low, her smile as ready, her manner as gentle, without any need of insistence upon her allegiance to feminine traditions, as, for example, the unorganized restauranteure's.

MISS ESTELLE INSKEEP.

Neither was the little machinist embarrassed by what might be the unaccustomed surroundings of extravagant gowns and fancy foods. She had been to Washington recently and had argued with learned counsel of the employers' class, you see.

Other women gain confidence from educational accomplishments, from the feeling of being well dressed or the knowledge of birth and position, or from native self-assurance. This young woman had confidence gained in another avenue of discovery.

She had the knowledge of that thing which James M. Barrie, the novelist (who knows women somewhat better than most of us know ourselves), declares to be "what every woman knows," namely, that a woman's resources are equal to and frequently not so very different from, men's, though many do not realize it.

Having proved that knowledge, she is, like Barrie's heroine, unwilling to surrender peculiar feminine attributes of charm. She is going to keep her knowledge, use her "masculine" intelligence and ability toward getting better conditions for both men and women in industry, and she is not going to relinquish any of her womanly prerogatives either.

What a good little propagandist she ought to make among women who fear that by joining a labor organization for the promotion of more equable conditions in the industrial world, they will lose their precious "ladylike"-ness!

Highest Salaried Woman in America

She occupies a leading executive position in the Bush Terminal Administration, New York, and is a more important employe than the president of the concern when it comes to hiring help. :: ::

By Rene Gibbs.

WOMAN in business has become an old story. But there is something refreshingly new and vastly encouraging to those who believe that women are beginning to find their rightful place in the world's work in the fact that one of the three executives of the Bush Terminal Co., New York—one of the biggest and most far-reaching of America's industrial plants—is a woman, Henrietta F. H. Ried; and a woman so feminine that, as she telephones, she admires her own small foot smartly encased in silk stockings and pump.

One of Miss Ried's most important duties is the hiring of all employes of the Bush Company, and I first heard of her through a man who had applied for a position. In spite of his failure to land a job, he spoke enthusiastically, and ended his remarks by saying:

"She's the highest salaried woman in America. They say she gets $31,000 a year."

Later, when I visited the Bush Terminal Building on Forty-second street and talked with various employes there, I was told that her salary was rumored to be anyhere from $25,000 to $50,000 a year, but that no one knew exactly but Miss Ried and the cashier. When I broached the subject to Miss Ried she said she thought in all probability she did receive the highest salary of any woman in business, but it was a difficult thing to prove, and that her salary was not so important as the work she was doing, which proved that women need not necessarily stick to the detail and routine, but could become executives. And we all know, from reading the self-help advertisements, that executives do receive the highest salaries in business.

Miss Henrieta F. H. Ried, responsible head of one of America's most extensive industrial plants. "She has learned what not one woman in thousands learns in business—to delegate detail to others and concern herself with big issues only."

Eager to learn just what Miss Ried did to earn this fabulous salary, I made arrangements to spend a day with her. When I entered her office at 9:30 that eventful morning I found she had been there a half hour, and that often she arrived as early as 8:30. She placed me back of her in a corner by the window, and while she finished reading and sorting her mail I had a chance to study her and the office.

Miss Ried's office is a medium-sized room on the twenty-sixth floor of the Bush Terminal Building, with its broad window facing the south. The walls are dull brown in tone and there are no pictures. A dull-toned rug covers the floor. Three Jacobean chairs, with seats upholstered in tapestry, an overstuffed sofa, also covered with tapestry, a narrow bookcase in a corner, businesslike files at Miss Ried's right hand and a long old English table, which she uses as a desk, complete the furnishings. The table is in the center of the room, and Miss Ried sits in regulation position—that is, with her back to the window, facing the door. The chair for visitors is placed on the opposite side of the table, near the door and facing the window. It is all very simple and workmanlike. There are no frills to distract one's attention, yet it gives one a feeling of comfort and friendliness. Doubtless that is due in part to Miss Ried's personality and presence.

She is one of those exceptional women who have no age. Her keen interest in and sympathy for people keep her perennially young. Her friendly blue eyes miss nothing. She often finds something to amuse her, and when she smiles you notice her even, white teeth. She was born in Kentucky, and she has the soft, cultured voice of the South. Her hair is blonde, but the day I was with her she had it covered with a small black satin hat. Her blue serge gown was embroidered with gray wool and had a band of black fur around the bottom. Though she has been in business 20 years and has worked her way to the top, she has none of the smugness of the self-made man. She is simple and unaffected in her manner, and too much interested in other people to be an egotist.

She buzzed for her stenographer, but before she could begin dictation the telephone interrupted, and in a moment she was off with a hurried apology:

"One of my girls is ill," she explained, as she hastened toward the door. "I must give first aid."

"It is always like that," said her stenographer, with a little smile. "When anything goes wrong here our first thought is Miss Ried, and she is always ready to help. Every one of us comes to her. We are rather like a big family, and she is our mother. I have something to tell her myself."

And the girl glanced down at her left hand and then shyly hid it in her lap.

In 10 minutes Miss Ried was back and I noticed a rare thing in the way she lowered that large heap of correspondence. She did not answer a single letter herself!

"This for Miss Johnston. See that Mr. Atkinson gets this. The regular department can take care of this. Memo for Mr. Kendall."

That is the way it went. And that, I believe, is the secret of her success. She has learned what not one woman in thousands learn in business—to delegate detail and concern herself with the big issues only.

When a piece of work is to be done it is a temptation for a woman to do it herself, for she knows she can do it well and readily. She hates to see it bungled. But a woman in an executive position must learn to co-operate and economize her time by giving detail work to others, even though they do it only half as efficiently as she could do it. She must learn to look at her work as a whole and recognize the fact that her part is to lead, plan and supervise.

This I learned from watching Miss Ried that one day, and my first lesson was in the way she handled her correspondence. Other lessons came when she interviewed heads of departments. Questions of policy were decided by her, but responsibility for each department rested directly on the head, and all plans were worked out in detail by him (or her).

The Bush Terminal Building on Forty-second street has interested New Yorkers not only because of its beauty, but on account of its unique idea of harboring under one roof samples and representatives of hundreds of manufacturers, so that the time and efforts of buyers may be conserved. The first three floors are devoted to a sumptuous Buyers' Club. More than 20 floors are given over to the manufacturers. On the top floors are the offices of administration. The whole building is a surpassing example of service. When you realize that Miss Ried is responsible for all of it, and that that is only part of her job, you begin to realize the significance and scope of her work.

She considers the hiring of employes the most important part of her work. Even when Irving T. Bush, the president, is at home, no person is hired for a position of responsibility without Miss Ried's approval. She seems to have an intuitive faculty for judging people's capabilities and potentialities, which she has developed through study and experience.

Her first words in interviewing each applicant were: "Tell me in detail about your work, please." Her theory is that a person will reveal more about himself in a few minutes' straight talk than in an hour's questioning. Besides, questioning puts her on the defensive, and that is no position for a woman to occupy when she is hiring a $10,000-a-year man.

I had admired the way in which she picked meat out of every argument and dealt only with essentials, keeping the atmosphere of interest and friendliness that endears her to everyone. I was curious, however, to know why every employe of the Bush company that I had seen thus far, with the exception of Miss Ried, had brown eyes. Had she some interesting pet theory on the subject of brown eyes?

When I questioned her, she said, laughingly: "Merely a coincidence, I fear. I really don't notice the color of people's eyes. Eyes tell a lot, but I look at their expression rather than color."

Miss Ried's day was a series of appointments. Outside her door all the day long was a queue reminiscent of Europe's food lines during the war. Appointments were kept on time, and if there were a moment or two between, some of the waiting people were shown in.

All day she sat quietly at her desk, interviewing, discussing, planning, her keen brain ever on the alert.

If she was as tired at the end of that day as I was, I really do not see how she keeps it up day after day. But she does, and says she enjoys it more and more.

That is undoubtedly true. But I am convinced Miss Ried earns all that she is reputed to get, though she is anxious to make it clear that her work is far more important in showing what women can do than any discussion of salary.

Work as Medicine in St. Louis Hospital

was given all the freedom of action she desired, and after awhile she began to take a little interest in the working of the largest loom. The great maze of threads caught her eye and engaged her attention, holding it for as much as an hour at a time. Then the wooden toys, such as doll beds, horses, miniature houses and the like, began to interest her. After a while she was working with the soft white pine, helping to produce these same toys. Her next step was to see that the paint was properly applied to these same creations.

"Most of our cases," said Miss Connerich, "come from the dispensary and clinic of the hospital, and we are proud of the results we have secured. The purpose is to keep their minds and muscles occupied part of the time, and not to teach them trades. That is the function of a trade school. Some of our patients learn very rapidly and might, when they return to employment, make some use of the experience they gather while under the treatment. We had a 17-year-old boy here not long ago who was slowly recovering from a badly injured hip. He was nervous and restless when he came to our workshop, but he had the elements of the mechanic in him, as he showed by the way he took to carpentry. He was busy all the time and there was no reason to restrain his work or enthusiasm. The other day that boy wrote us that he had gotten employment in a railroad shop and that he was going to receive pay at the rate of $4 per day. That boy was cured of his shyness and fired with some real ambition in life from the treatment he received in this shop. Unquestionably the work idea associated with the building up of the handicapped, is an institution that bids fair to do much good."

The movement for the extension of occupational therapy in St. Louis is in charge of an Executive Committee, of which Dr. G. Canby Robinson, acting dean of the medical department of Washington University, is chairman. He has as his associates Dr. Hannau G. Loeb, dean of the St. Louis University Medical School; Dr. Cleveland H. Shutt, who directs the city hospitals; E. H. Wuerpel of the St. Louis School of Fine Arts, and Director Gustafsan of the Ranken Trade School. The Women's Committee of the National Defense Council is also actively enlisted in the work and has several committees at work in raising funds needed to extend the work. The women in charge of these details are Mrs. Elias Michael, chairman of the General Committee; Mrs. Robert A. Holland, president of the Junior League; Mrs. Sam McPheeters and Miss Carlota Glasgow. As soon as arrangements are made, the workshops will be installed in the city hospital and the sanitarium and in time it is hoped to have a similar establishment at the Robert Koch Hospital, where tubercular cases are treated. The plan and scope also contemplate similar shops in the State institutions for all manners and kinds of human afflictions.

Could You Go Forty Days Without Eating Anything?

Nearly forty years ago Dr. Henry S. Tanner did it, and became the most widely known man in the country—Then he was forgotten entirely until the news of his death, the other day, at the age of 88 years—Some facts about his remarkable feat :-: :-: :-:

QUITE recently there came out of San Diego, Cal., a brief news dispatch announcing the death of Dr. Henry Samuel Tanner, in the County Hospital there, at the age of 88 years. Only a line or two was given to his remarkable performance of 39 years ago, when he demonstrated that it was possible to abstain from food for a period of 40 days, and yet survive.

Notwithstanding the brief dismissal given Dr. Tanner at the time of his passing, the fact remains that in his day he was the most talked of person in the United States. The name was on the lips of nearly everybody and was made the subject of many jests on the stage of that time. It was a very poor end-man who could not work off a Tanner joke in the early '80s following the fast, and there were widespread newspaper comments on the theories and practices of the Minneapolis doctor, who, up to that timet was known only in his immediate neighborhood. He rushed into fame with a bound and the caustic jokes of his fellow physicians and the wide latitude in the same character of humor indulged in by the paragraphers of that day did not deter him from delivering his message and offering himself as the subject of his test. And he proved his contention and emerged from the long period of deprivation not much the worse for his self-imposed fast. He was under the closest surveillance throughout the entire period and was given credit for having accomplished just what he started to do.

The scene of the Tanner fast was the old Clarendon Hall in New York, and it began at noon June 28, 1880. The first entry on the record book of his feat was made pretty much in this fashion:

"Dr. Henry S. Tanner, aged 49, appeared in Clarendon Hall this day to begin a 40 days' fast. He declares that he has eaten no solid food today, but took for breakfast a quart of milk and the same quantity for dinner at 11:45 o'clock. His weight with clothing is 157 1-2 pounds; temperature, 99 degrees; average pulse, 88, with a variation from 21 to 24 pulsations per minute; respiration, 18. The doctor was undressed and carefully examined. His clothing was also carefully examined to see that no food was therein concealed." An entry followed for each day throughout the ordeal.

There were many stories afloat at the time of Dr. Tanner's demonstration, as to his purpose in offering himself for such a test. He was a physician of the Eclectic school and was entirely out of harmony with the teachings and practices of the Allopathic school; and besides, having a disputatious turn of mind, he was ready and eager at all times for an argument along professional lines. One story had it that a prominent doctor of the old school ridiculed a newspaper account of the rescue of a number of shipwrecked sailors who, though utterly without food for a period of 13 days, were yet in good health after being taken aboard the rescuing vessel. Some of the medical journals, it seems, scoffed at this narrative, which prompted Tanner to emerge from his seclusion with a defi and a challenge. His claim was that it was the fear of starvation, rather than hunger itself, that worked such havoc among shipwrecked sailors and others deprived of food for any length of time. In other words, it was psychological rather than physical suffering that caused the torture and death of such persons.

Another explanation given at the time was that Tanner, having had a severe attack of rheumatism, attributed it to injudicious eating, and cured himself by a process of starvation quietly conducted. This was the main purpose of his preliminary test, according to a pamphlet that was freely distributed, following his long engagement at the Clarendon. According to this version, Dr. Tanner discovered in the summer of 1877 that his rheumatism was getting pretty close to his heart, and that it was high time to take some drastic steps to save his life. This fast lasted for 42 days and the result, according to his own declaration, was a vindication of his theory. He selected June and July, because in them, food would not be required as fuel to counteract the effect of the cold weather that prevailed a large part of the year in Minneapolis. There was no system of watching maintained at this test, but a Dr. A. Meyer who partly supervised it, said that the Tanner version was correct and that he did actually subsist for 42 days on no diet other than water.

A few years later the New York and Brooklyn newspapers were devoting space liberally to a girl in the latter city named Mollie Fancher, who would go for long periods without tasting food of any kind. There were physicians of note who characterized the achievements of the Brooklyn girl as pure inventions, if not the product of disordered imagination. At the height of the Fancher controversy Dr. William A. Hammond, then a widely known practitioner in New York, said he would give $1000 to any person who would fast for a period of 30 days. It was then that Dr. Tanner's fame, then confined to the neighborhood in which he lived, became national and even international. No pent-up Utica or Promethean chains for the Minneapolis doctor. There was a chance to hurl something at the old school doctors and an opportunity to make a fee that would more than pay expenses. He accepted the challenge and began preparations for the ordeal. He said he could do it easily, and would come out of it as well, if not better, than at the beginning. A number of letters were exchanged, but the Hammond proposition was rejected for the reason that he wanted the fast to take place in a college designated by himself, with a watch of medical students similarly selected. Tanner, in refusing these terms, said that they would place his life and chances wholly in Hammond's hands. He wanted both medical schools represented, and besides, asked the privilege of drinking water if he desired. Dr. Hammond had previously declared that as water constituted a certain amount of food, it should be included in the abstinence.

When the negotiations were broken off, Dr. Tanner went to New York and announced that he was ready to begin a 40 days' fast and invited Dr. Hammond to send representatives of the Neurological Society or any other organization. This invitation was refused, and the last word on the subject from Dr. Hammond was a denunciation of Tanner as a "faker," or some term of the same general import. But this did not stop Tanner. He had come on from Minneapolis to demonstrate his theory, and he found himself in the midst of so much discussion and controversy that he began to like it immensely. The fast was then begun under the auspices of the United States Medical College on the day elsewhere mentioned, with all necessary precautions to prevent the passing of any articles of liquid or solid food, during the period of the test.

WHAT DR. TANNER ATE AFTER 40 DAYS OF FASTING

DR. TANNER broke his long fast with a luscious peach, which he had held in his hand for 10 minutes or more, watching the clock for the official end of his long ordeal. He ignored the advice of the physicians present, who insisted that fatal complications might follow any overindulgence, after his marathon performance, and announced that he would eat as he pleased, whatever might be the consequences.

Within 12 hours after the doctor was free to eat food in any form he liked, he had disposed of three peaches, as many apples, four generous slices of watermelon, a pound and a half of beefsteak and almost a pound of beef tea. He even awakened after midnight and ordered steak, which he ate with a relish and then fell into a restful slumber.

The gastric trouble that was feared by the doctors did not materialize, and in the morning he woke up and began eating again. His fast terminated at noon and during the first 12 hours he scarcely let one pass without taking food, with such beverages as milk, Hungarian wine and one fairly large drink of heavy English ale. He began gaining weight at once and in a very short season had recovered all he had lost during his protracted self-denial.

One of the doctors declared that his stomach would digest cobblestones while another hinted that an anaconda could do no better.

Tanner's intention at the outset was to include water as well as food, but the doctors of his own school, who were on hand, persuaded him to forego this self-denial. He partook of water copiously the first two days, according to the record, and then refused it until the tenth day. At that time he seemed to be suffering severely and kept calling for wet towels to be placed upon his forehead and wet sponges in his hands. But the surface absorption was not sufficient. The last day—the eighth in all of abstinence from water—he was evidently on the verge of delirium, evinced by inarticulate cries and much rolling and tossing about on his cot when he tried to sleep. His loss in weight during these eight days was at the rate of two pounds per day, making 16 of the total of 36 he lost during the entire 40-day period. A Dr. Wark, who was present as a watcher, told Tanner that he would die within 48 hours if he persisted in his refusal of water.

At the end of the twentieth day he was in much better physical condition than he was on the tenth day, and during the next 10 days he lost at the rate of 12 ounces per day, but no serious symptoms appeared until the completion of the thirtieth day, when he began to experience attacks of nausea, accompanied by a slight fever. The fever recurred every third day, the gastric symptoms being much worse at each such recurrence, but never disappearing altogether. In this condition he remained for the last 10 days, growing feebler and feebler as the time dragged on, but maintaining his resolution to knocked at No. 658, with Peterson already dead?"

"Either Kit had a man pal in the hotel on the other side of Peterson's room—in which case the man probably did the killing—or else the explanation's a simple one. Some fellow was in the room next to No. 658, on the right, as you say Kit was on the left. Perhaps he was half asleep or drunk and thought the knock was for him—so he answered."

"That's what I thought of. We shall probably see in the morning papers, if they find the dead man tonight, or in the evening editions if they don't. I've some hope from the memoranda and cards in the bag Miss Riley left for me; but we can't open that here. You'll come to the Dietz, won't you?"

"Yes," said the detective, finishing his cool beer. "I'll come; but I haven't much."

"Much what?"

"Much hope from what may be in the bag. People who have things to hide, hide 'em better than that. However, we'll see."

When Justin had paid for Denham's drink they went, with the bag in the pocket of Clo's brown cloak and the cloak hanging over O'Reilly's arm.

Denham's eyes, behind the convex glasses, had not been idle in Krantz's Keller, but nobody had come in or gone out whose face or whose photograph he had ever seen; and it was after midnight when the two made their move.

CHAPTER XXX.

ROGER did not kiss Beverley before leaving her. He seemed to draw the line at this hypocrisy; or perhaps he feared lest if he touched her he might lose his self-control and fall once more under her witch spell. But though he had no time for the kiss he had time to turn back at the last and remind his wife to "write those invitations as soon as possible."

Roger had talked of nothing but his plan for the Newport housewarming after starting the subject; and he had told Beverley that they ought to be able to move in a week. He trusted Beverley to make everything right.

"Not one of the women will have pearls a patch on yours in value or beauty or historic interest," Roger finished with an unusual tendency to boast.

At last Roger went, without having alluded to Clodagh Riley.

The instant he had gone Beverley seized the paper he had dropped and found what she wanted. "Mysterious murder at Hotel Westmoreland," was the heading at the top of a column on the first page.

A sensational crime had been discovered, it seemed, through the telephone, and in an extraordinary way. The victim had supposedly come to New York on Saturday, registering as "J. Peterson, Chicago." On that day he had had one visitor—a young man who had sent his card up to No. 658 not long after J. Peterson had gone to his room. What the name on the card was no employe of the hotel could say. He was a good-looking, well-dressed young man—better dressed than his friend. He was dark, slender, and spoke with a slight foreign accent. Unfortunately, the clerk and the bellboy who had seen him were not certain whether they could identify him again.

On Saturday evening Peterson had given up his key and gone out, but he had returned soon after 11. On Sunday he had spent the early part of the afternoon away from the hotel, but had come in at tea time. He had then been seen in the dining room with a young lady in white, who in age might have been his daughter. She was described as being thin and small, with dark eyes. This girl had called again, later in the day, toward evening, but had stayed for only a few moments. She had asked for Mr. Peterson.

Still later, perhaps between 9:30 and 10—when Peterson had been out, but had long ago come in and gone to his room—two ladies had inquired for him. They had the appearance of motorists, as they wore automobile cloaks, close-fitting hats and veils. It happened to be a busy time at the hotel, as there were a number of business men arriving and registering. The ladies said they were expected, and were allowed to go to Peterson's room unattended. They must have knocked at his door with no attempt at secrecy, as a gentleman in the adjoining room on the left, a Mr. Lees of Indianapolis, who was sleeping after a long journey, had waked and called:

"Come in!"

Immediately afterward, however, Mr. Lees realized that the knock must have been at his neighbor's door, as no one attempted to open his. He slept again, but not soundly. He was sure that if there had been an outcry in the next room it would have roused him. A telephone bell presently awoke him; and, switching on his light, he saw that he was late for an appointment with a business friend. He hurried out at once.

No suspicion rested upon Mr. Lees. The two ladies had remained for so short a time that they were not seriously suspected; but the police were looking for a young woman who had, for two days before Peterson's arrival, occupied the room adjoining his, on the right-hand side, at the far end of the corridor. She had registered as Miss Kate Mayne of Bridgeport, Conn., and had told a chambermaid that she was a motion-picture actress.

Miss Mayne had brought a huge trunk to the hotel, and as her room was small she had been allowed to keep it outside her door in the hall. The maid had seen her empty it finally on Sunday afternoon, and had helped to carry a pink dress and evening cloak into the room. She imagined that, after this, the trunk had not been locked until late in the evening, when the tragedy must have taken place.

This trunk was to loom large in the evidence against the supposed murderer, for finger marks and faint traces of blood had been found upon it when the police were called in. It was then discovered to be locked and had to be forced open. In the opinion of the police somebody had used it as a hiding place; and because there were blood stains inside it was believed that the person hiding must have been the murderer. The key of the dead man's room was picked up behind this trunk.

All these discoveries had been made because insistent telephone calls for Peterson about 11:30 had remained unanswered, though it was known that he had not left the hotel. When the person desiring to speak with Peterson became a nuisance a boy had been sent to his door. No one had replied. The chambermaid summoned used her pass key, and the man had been found dead, seated in an easy chair by the window, in a peaceful attitude, his face and head covered with blood. He had been struck from behind with the butt of a large, old-fashioned pistol, left in the room by the murderer. He must, it seemed, have been struck several times.

Peterson had been packing to go away, though he had not given notice that he intended to leave the hotel. No papers, no tailors' or laundry marks could be found. The man was unknown to the New York police, but the corpse had been photographed for the police of other cities. There was money in the dead man's pockets, amounting to nearly a hundred dollars; therefore, the crime did not seem to have been committed for the purpose of robbery. As the finger tracing, not only on the trunk in the hall, but on the body and on a nearby table, appeared to be those of women—two different sets of tracings had been taken—the police had formed a theory that revenge for blackmail or a love disappointment would prove to be the motive.

Miss Mayne, the occupant of the room adjoining, had not returned to the hotel after being seen to go out between 9 and 10—about the time of the murder, according to medical evidence. Finger traces identical with those on the trunk and on the body had been taken in the young woman's room, and the police were looking for her. It was believed that she was to be found with a few hours.

When Beverley had read this story to the end, and then glanced through it again, she was relieved of her worst fears. Clo had not been arrested, and little or no importance seemed to be attached to Peterson's girl visitor or to the ladies in automobile coats who had gone to his room between 9 and 10 o'clock.

That afternoon was among the most terrible of Beverley's adventurous young life. She had had several engagements, but she telephoned to put them off. Not for anything would she have left the house, for she hoped to have a message from Clo.

The day passed montonously so far as outside events were concerned. It was almost more than she could do to keep her promise to Roger and write the invitations for the housewarming at Newport. As she wrote a grim sense of punishment hung over her—punishment for having once dared to be happy.

When evening came at last, nothing had happened, yet Beverley's nerves were strained as if by a succession of shocks. As her maid dressed her for dinner a sharp tap at the door made her jump and cry out.

CHAPTER XXXI.

"A SPECIAL delivery letter for me, madame," announced the French woman. "Have I madame's permission? It is strange I do not know the hand. It is but a common yellow envelope, addressed in pencil to Mlle. Leontine Rossignol—perhaps from someone who begs. Never before have I received a letter by special delivery!"

"You'd better open it," said Beverley, relieved that the letter was not for her.

"Rossignol is so odd a name, madame, that every one remembers, because it means 'nightingale,'" said Leontine, gingerly tearing off one end of the flimsy yellow envelope. Pulling out the sheet of paper within she looked more and more puzzled. "But, madame, the letter is from Mlle. Riley! I do not see why she writes to me. I did not suppose she knew my name; and I understand nothing of what she says. Will madame read?"

Hiding her eagerness, Beverley took the half-sheet of commercial paper. There was neither date nor address on the letter, which filled only one page, and ran thus:

> Dear Leontine:
>
> I would write you in French, but I have forgotten most of what the French sister taught in the convent school when I was little. If you do not read English, madame will translate.
>
> I am safe in my new home, and there's no need to worry. I am picking up all that I have lost. I hope to call on you before long and show what good progress I have made. With grateful messages for madame from her devoted little servant, and kind remembrances to you, I am,
>
> Faithfully yours,
> CLODAGH RILEY.
> P. S.—If possible, I should like Mr. R. to hear that I am doing well. I am not strong enough to let him know, and he has been kind since you saw me last.

At first Beverley was more puzzled than Leontine that Clo should have written to her—and in so disjointed a fashion; but her bewilderment passed as she studied the letter. Clo's underlying motives came to the surface with a flash.

"I suppose," she explained quietly, "that mademoiselle fancied it would be a liberty to write to me. A foolish fancy! But she's very young—a child. As the letter is really for me, perhaps I'd better keep it."

"Please do, madame," Leontine urged.

When Leontine had hooked the last hook Beverly went to the boudoir. There she sat down with Clo's cryptic message, praying that Roger might not come in till she had unraveled the mystery.

The meaning of one sentence after another sprang to her eyes. She had realized at once that Clo wrote to Leontine because she dared not use the name of Mrs. Sands.

Clo wished her not to worry. Clo was "picking up all that she had lost." This meant that she expected to get back what she had gone to seek. Clo "hoped to call before long and show what good progress" she had made. All this could have only one meaning.

On the other hand, it was alarming that the girl gave no address. She had doubtless feared that the letter might not only be seen but opened. She had written nothing to arouse suspicion.

But the end of the postcript was amazing. O'Reilly had been kind to Clo since they had met last!

"She went to see him again!" was the thought in Beverley's mind. "Then perhaps she didn't go back to the Westmoreland. What can 'kind' mean, unless he's promised to help instead of hurt us?"

Courage came back.

As for the pearls, their loss would mean little to Beverley, if it were not for Roger; and Clo hadn't given up hope of them, so why should she? There was something to strive for still.

But she must find out what had happened last between O'Reilly and Clo.

She called up O'Reilly's hotel and soon heard his "Hello!"

"I'm Mrs. Sands," she explained. "I've a letter from Clo. She sends you a message."

"What is the news?" O'Reilly asked. "Tell me everything!"

She told him. She read Clo's letter to Leontine slowly, distinctly, that he might miss no word.

"I understand it might be dangerous to give an address, or to write to you or me," Beverley added; "but it's frightful not to know where she is. How was it you met her again last night—and what happened? Tell me quickly, because—I'm expecting someone."

"Peterson stole your pearls," O'Reilly answered. "He phoned Heron and offered to sell them. He must have been hiding in your room. Later I answered for Heron. Miss Riley was in Peterson's room then, and she and I got into touch. She asked through the phone if I would help. I said yes, and she told me to come in a taxi. I picked her up outside the hotel and took her where she wanted to go—a restaurant, Krantz's Keller. When I'd heard what she had to say, I proposed to employ a private detective. Don't worry—he's absolutely loyal, and I'm on your side after all, Mrs. Sands. I may as well confess it's for Miss Riley's sake. She repented stealing the papers from me, you know, and sent them back in the envelope just as they were"——

"Clo sent you the papers! You're mistaken. I know she didn't!" Beverley cried.

She had forgotten her fear of being overheard, forgotten everything except her surprise and consternation. The sound of a door shutting caused her to start.

Beverley dropped the receiver and ran to look into the hall. No one was there. She ran to the door of her bedroom and peeped in. The room was empty. She rang for Johnson, who appeared at once.

"Has Mr. Sands come in?" she asked.

"No, I think not, madame," the butler replied.

"Please go and see. Go to his room and his study—look for him everywhere," Beverley ordered.

She did not move while the man was away. She did not care what Justin O'Reilly might think. He had ceased to exist for her. She cared only for Roger.

"Mr. Sands is not in the house, madame," Johnson solemnly announced.

"Thank you," Bevereley said.

Yet she was not relieved. Something told her who had shut the door.

THE ROMANCE JINX

By ROY L. McCARDELL

"SO MANY people wonder how Puss Montgomery ever came to marry Mr. Maginnis, the merchant prince and hard tightwad of Marietta, O.," said the Chorus Girl.

"Oh, yes, Puss Montgomery and Mr. Maginnis is sure different types, and the last persons in the world you'd think would tie up together in old times when divorces was as troublesome and expensive as amputations, and made one the subject of as much remark afterwards.

"I can tell you, Baby Rose, in them days before Reno was discovered plenty of persons with the artistic temperament worried along with one flag, one country and one wedding, like the artisan classes do now.

"Now that Puss Montgomery thinks she's firmly established as a Broadway favorite, ever since she signed several seasons ago with Elsie Janis to play one of the obese odalisques in the 'Slim Princess,' she forgets when she was touring the tank towns with 'Bessie Bell's Boisterous Blondes.' Not that I should say a word, you know, because my motter is, 'You leave my past alone and I won't tell about yours.'

"Still, Puss Montgomery did play cheap burlesque, where they sign you for width rather than histrionic ability. Besides, the industrial operatives, who are patrons of the dramer in railroad centers and manufacturing towns like Altoona, Pa., and South Bend, Ind.—where the moving pictures hasn't entirely killed the burlesque show business—them strident patrons likes the lines and ladies broad in the plays they patronize.

"Not that Puss Montgomery don't exercise in a way tc make you fatigued just to watch her at it. But the trouble is that Puss, who will do anything in the way of work to reduce her flesh—if it's called something else 'cept work—exercises so much getting off three pounds that she's made hungry and then eats so much she gets back four pounds.

"When you see Puss Montgomery the life of the party and asking for another helping, and hear her merry laughter ringing clear until the head waiter has come over and hints we should restrain, by telling us if we don't stop making so much noise we'll be put out—little do you think what that poor girl's been through and how, many a night, she cries herself to sleep through a broken heart, to think of all the money Mr. Maginnis has and she can't get a cent out of him.

"For Mr. Maginnis may look like a simp, and simp he may be, in a way, but boob catchers regard him with despair. Nothing has ever been put over on Mr. Maginnis of Marietta in his fair young life except he fell prey to the wiles of Puss Montgomery, but that ain't never cost him nothin'.

"Yet Puss Montgomery is more to be pitied than censured. When you has hick stage managers making clicking sounds at you and saying, 'Whoa! Stand over!' and alluding to you as 16 hands high and kind and gentle, and intimating that it was the introduction of motor cars in the trucking trade that had forced you to take up an artistic career, then you know why overgrown girls leave the quiet life of the stage for the temptations of society. More than that, if, after the show, you met with kind hearts that took you out to dine, and when they did no place was open in them brick-yard metropolises them burlesque companies play except the owl lunch wagons, then you'd be eager to be some rich man's darling, too, even if the chances meant you was only to get the plain home cooking of a left-handed hired girl who went in for domestic science because she wasn't strong enough mentally to work as offbearer in the local shirt factory. I should say!

"Mr. Maginnis looks like old Oswald and Aubrey Stonejaw, the cough drop king, having one of them iron faces with Von Tirpitz whiskers to match. And he's one of those moral and upright citizens with a soul as small as a gnat's vermiform appendix. How such an astringent personality could have seen a soul mate in Puss Montgomery is, as George, the wine agent says, the eighth wonder of the world. Of course, so far as Puss Montgomery is concerned, when she heard he had money she was willing to take the dreadful risk. But, then, girlish hearts is always more sentimental, as Mamma de Branscombe says.

"There we was, Mamma de Branscombe giving way so to grief she wasn't conscious what she was doing or saying."

"Mr. Maginnis is so stingy that he'd be afraid to eat a cold potato in the sunlight, for fear his shadow would ask him for a bite. He cuts his own hair and he shines his shoes with stove polish.

"Have you ever patronized the Ritz-Carltons of the average hick burg of our fair land? No? Have you ever dined at the leading hotel in Lockhaven, Pa., which is conducted by the town's most popular undertaker, and where you can always tell if the landlord has had a busy day in his side line when there are flowers on the table?

"Have you ever put up at them entertainment-for-man-and-beast hotels on the kerosene circuit that are rightly called hostelries because the hostler waits on the table? No?

"Well, 'Bessie Bell's Boisterous Blondes' played in towns that the Organ Grinders' Syndicate wouldn't think of booking a No. 2 attraction that carried its own monkey; and by the time Puss Montgomery had done 20 one-night stands out beyond Parkersburg, W. Va., where the B. & O. is double bad because it is single tracked, she was so desperate that she'd a married a chorus man—and then fate threw her into the arms of Mr. Maginnis.

"Somepin' told us that somepin' was going to happen when Puss Montgomery winged it southwest from Hoboken, which was the opening date of 'Bessie Bell's Boisterous Blondes.'

"Puss played a bathing Venus in the first part of the show, which was called 'The Lobster and the Lady,' and was laid at Atlantic City. She had three changes of costume and had to do a dive off a springboard, and it was this dive out in Marietta that made her Mrs. Maginnis, for when she came up she had her marriage license to him, as I'm going to tell you.

"In the afterpiece of the 'Boisterous Blondes', Puss was a high school girl in blue tights and a black mortar board with colored electric lights on her shield. Besides this, she played a French maid with a feather duster and an accent, in a sketch in the olio, called 'The Musical Piano Movers.' Aside from these few appearances she never had a thing to do till the next time.

"As all the costumes in the show were second-hand and given out by guesswork, some of them fit Puss so tight that she had to move slow, and there was a stage wait at every entrance she had in consequence. As the French maid, the skirt was so short for her that when she stood behind the baby grand piano in 'The Musical Piano Movers' it looked as though the baby grand had five good healthy limbs.

"Well, I was sayin', we was all over to Hoboken to see the show and to see Puss off for Wilmington, Del., the next date. As I said, we just felt somepin' was going to happen, and we all cried to see Puss take the train, and not a one of them hams with the show offering as much as to carry her grip.

"Mamma de Branscombe, who we boards with—and a perfect lady when she's watched—had hysterics at the depot, and said she knew she'd never see Puss Montgomery again. No, she said, she was not cryin' just because Puss owed her six weeks' board, either.

"Dopey McKnight, who is the famous Marathon music master, billed as 'The Durable Jazzer,' come over to Hoboken with us to carry Amy de Branscombe's dog, that George, the wine agent, had give her, because Jinksie, that's the dog's name, just won't stay alone in the flat, and Mamma de Branscombe didn't want any complaints, because, anyway, she is two months behind in her rent.

Mamma de Branscombe says to us she had never had such a premonition about anything since the time she was on the road herself with the 'Rose Hill English Folly Company' and the hotel in Waco burned down. It took two firemen to carry her out, and they were so heavy that they broke the ladder and she would have been badly hurt, only, fortunately, she fell on the firemen. No fatality ensued, except with the firemen, and they're paid for them things, and, besides, they get a hero's funeral, which professional people don't.

"Amy de Branscombe and me had hard work to hold back our tears. A lady can't give away to her emotions in public, because it just ruins the complexion, so we made Dopey McKnight cry for us; which was a good thing, because Dopey has a tender heart, and not only did he cry in a way that was a credit to us all, but it washed the dog while he was doing it.

"As for Mamma de Branscombe, after Puss tole her the show was out on a shoestring and she couldn't get a ten-spot in advance from the management so's to slip mamma something on account, mamma just broke down and sobbed something pitiful to hear. I never see her carry on that way since she parted from her last husband and went into mourning for him by letting her hair get dark.

"There we was, Mamma de Branscombe giving way so to grief she wasn't conscious what she was doing or saying, except that while she had her arms around Puss Montgomery she frisked Puss' wrist bag to see if Puss was deceiving her about the advance or not; although she might have known if Puss was holding out anything it was safely sunk in the lisle-thread bank. And all the time mamma was saying: 'Write me soon, deary, and remember, it's $42 you owe me, and I need the money,' while Dopey wept like rainy June on poor little Jinksie, the maltese terrier, and Amy and me just dry sobbed as though we was grieved beyond tears.

"But after Mamma de Branscombe had emitted a piercing shriek when she found nothing in Puss' wrist bag but a powder puff and some chewing gum and hairpins, and shrieked again to hide the sound of snapping the wrist bag shut, she calmed herself with an effort.

"'You'd better leave us now, deary, and get a seat beside some prosperous-looking party,' said she. 'Some good spenders go back to Philadelphia on these late trains, and if you ain't careful one of them bold things with this show will have beat you to it and cop out the best prospect.'

"So Puss kissed us all good-by, even Dopey and the dog, and got on board. Little did we deem that when we seen her again it would be not as our blithesome Puss, but as a broken-hearted bride.

"This is what happened. This is how Puss Montgomery married, and this was how she met with and parted from the man who had sworn to love, cherish and give her his money. And he didn't do anything but love and cherish—his money!

"'Bessie Bell's Boisterous Blondes' played Wilmington, Haver de Gras, Hagerstown, Martinsburg, Cumberland, Grafton—'The Roughing-it Circuit' to Parkersburg, and from there to Marietta on the B. & O. Southwestern. There was no moving-picture house

But she was still in her bedroom, fastening a brooch, when he tapped at her door.

"Come in!" she cried, eager for the meeting, yet sick with fear.

CHAPTER XXVIII.

ROGER came, fully dressed, looking cool and well-groomed. To Beverley's sad heart it seemed that he had never been so handsome—or so hard.

"Good-morning," he said, as he might have spoken to any friend. "I heard you stirring about, so I thought I might knock. Are you going out early?"

His eyes wandered over her dress as if he was surprised at the change in her charming, lazy habits.

"No, I didn't think of it." She tried to speak as steadily as he, but her voice would quiver. "You mean—because I'm dressed? I—I couldn't sleep. The night was hot, and the heat got on my nerves, I suppose, so I got up at 6, and I've been pottering about ever since without calling Leontine. I hope I didn't disturb you, Roger?"

"Not at all," he politely replied. "I've some business which will take me out half an hour sooner than usual. A man has tried to take advantage of me—and I'm going to show him that it isn't a cheap game to play. But why should that interest you? I mentioned it only to explain why I want to get away not much later than 8:30. I suppose they can give us breakfast in time for that? Coffee and toast and grapefruit won't take long to make ready?"

"No, indeed," Beverley assured him. "I'll ring for breakfast. I didn't know whether"——

"Didn't know what?" He caught up her sentence as it broke.

"Oh, nothing—nothing important!" She excused herself; yet she was sure he knew what had stopped her short of saying that she didn't know whether he would breakfast with her in the boudoir.

"Well, I dare say Johnson has put the papers in their usual place by this time," Roger said, ignoring her embarrassment. "He generally does."

He generally did, and Beverley ran to get them and read choice bits to her husband as he brushed his dark hair with two brushes at the same time.

"I'll have a look—to save time," Roger went on. "You'll come when you're ready? I've a suggestion to make that I think you'll like."

He spoke pleasantly, not at all as if he had a grudge against his wife. Many women would have been satisfied with such a manner; but Beverley was not "many women."

"It will always be like this from now on," she told herself. "I hope I shall die! I can't live without his love and go on seeing him every day!"

Roger had not mentioned Clo and Beverley held her peace. She thought it would be best to wait and see what the papers said. It was only too probable that they would contain news of Clo.

Instead of hurrying, Beverley lingered, making a pitiful pretense of polishing her nails, for she wished Roger to have read the first page of his newspaper before she rejoined him. At the end of 10 minutes, as the breakfast tray was being placed on the lace table cover, she strolled in.

Roger hardly looked up, feigning to be deeply interested in his paper.

"Any exciting news?" she asked in a casual tone as she sat down—the sort of tone, perhaps, which other wives use to other husbands.

"Nothing that interests us specially," Roger answered. "A rather sordid murder at a third-rate hotel—crime passionel, as the French say—the police seem to think it so far—but there's a mystery, of course. There has to be a mystery in a murder case, when it's dressed up in the newspapers, or nobody would take the trouble to read about it."

"What hotel?" Beverley ventured to ask, pouring coffee with a hand that would shake.

"One I never heard of before. Let me see—what's the name? Oh, the Westmorland! But it's a commonplace affair—common man and common woman—escaped at present, but sure to be caught. You wouldn't be interested. Neither am I, beyond a glance. Let's get to the thing I wanted to talk about. Can you guess what it is?"

Beverley shook her head.

"You know—from experience—what a bad guesser I am."

"It's partly about your pearls. By the by, was the pearl stringer satisfactory?"

"Oh, quite!" Beverley murmured, sipping her coffee.

"All's well that ends well, then. I'm glad she made a good job. The rope looks as fine as if no accident had happened, I suppose?"

"It's a—a most wonderful rope," his wife managed to reply.

Who was it had told her, when she was small, that prevarication was more cowardly than lying?

"I imagined you'd be wearing your gewgaws for breakfast this morning—to show they were all right."

Roger's eyes smiled coolly into hers.

"A rope of pearls at breakfast on a tailor gown of linen—and a Queen's pearls at that! What bad taste, or what vanity, you must think I have!" Beverley forced herself to laugh. "I shall wear those wonderful pearls," she hastened to add, providing for future pitfalls, "only on the greatest occasions!"

"Well, I've arranged a great occasion," said Roger. "That's principally what I want to talk about. I'd like you to send out invitations for a house party and a big dinner and dance—a sort of housewarming on a grand scale—directly after we're settled in the Newport cottage. And I'd like to move there sooner than we planned. The heat's unseasonable in town."

"Oh, yes!" Beverley agreed.

"And I want you to do a thing to please me. Wear the Queen's pearls—your pearls—on the night of the dinner and dance!"

CHAPTER XXIX.

O'REILLY, in Krantz's Keller, had only just finished reading Clo's note, folded is up, and put it in his pocket, when he was joined by a man at whom, for a second, he stared like a stranger. Then a slight contraction of the newcomer's eyelid and a twinkle in his eye enlightened Justin.

"Well, this is good meeting you!" exploded a jolly voice. "I hoped you hadn't forgotten poor old Dick Jones, though it's a long time since you came out to Peoria. I'm here in little old New York seeing the sights."

"Why, of course, I remember you very well, Mr. Jones," said O'Reilly. "Sit down at my table—do! What'll you have in memory of old times?"

As he spoke he took in the extraordinary changes Mr. William J. Denham had made in his personal appearance. They were too elaborate to be the work of a few moments; and, considering the speed with which the detective had arrived, O'Reilly guessed that the part of Jones of Peoria had been assumed for another job.

Denham was a slender, youngish man, neat and dapper, with light brown hair, a smooth face and pale skin. Jones had reddish, rumpled eyebrows, puffy pink lids and large, roving eyes behind convex glasses. His hair was also red and rumpled, and, though not enormously stout, he was clumsily built, with a decided paunch. His clothes were good, but of provincial cut; his collar was too high, which gave his throat the effect of being short; and he walked as if his large, ready-made boots had given him corns. His complexion was ruddy and not too clear; his teeth were prominent. On his nose was a large mole, which seemed to change the shape of that feature; and all these alterations had been effected without using either a wig or false eyebrows.

A yellow gleam flashed in a fourth-floor room.

"Well, I see from your looks that you're throwing me bouquets," grinned Denham. "But you sent a hurry call. Something up at Krantz's this peaceful Sabbath?"

"There's more up than I want to come out," said O'Reilly. "Things have changed since I phoned, but there's more need for you than ever. A girl that I—that I wanted to help was with me. While I talked to you she disappeared"——

"Disappeared?" echoed Denham with a professional gleam behind the glasses.

"Of her own accord. I couldn't follow, because when I knew what had happened it was too late to get on her track—otherwise you wouldn't have found me here. I'd have sacrificed you for her, if there'd been even a sporting chance; but I didn't see one.

The coming of a waiter broke the conversation; but while O'Reilly gave an order, Denham glanced round the cellar restaurant with the happy innocence of a provincial seeing New York.

"Anybody interesting?" asked Justin when the waiter had gone.

"No familiar faces; but there may be—later."

"It's 11:45. The man or men who made an appointment—not with me, but the girl who's gone—should have turned up at 11:30."

"If they're sure of themselves—sure their faces aren't known—they're probably here," remarked Denham. "But out with your story. A lot may hang on that."

Justin described Kit and Pete as Clo had described them, mentioning that the man who talked through the telephone had the accent of a foreigner. As for Churn, he was already identified as the Lorenz Czerny who occasionally sang at Krantz's Keller. This, O'Reilly thought, should make it simple to bag the gang; but he hardly disguised the fact that the crime and its punishment were of slight importance to him compared with the finding of Clo Riley.

"I don't want her mixed up in this murder business," he finished; "and she doesn't want to be mixed up in it—not for her own sake, but because of the woman she's protecting. You could get the name of that woman, but I ask you not to concern yourself with it."

"Right you are!" Denham reassured him. "I've got enough to do without meddling in other folks' business. The lady is outside the case, and I'll do my best to keep her outside when the police get busy over this murder—as they will tomorrow, if not tonight. But as for Churn being Lorenz Czerny, it doesn't go without saying that we shall spot Chuff and Jake and the rest of the gang—if there is a gang. That will depend on himself and his moll—this Kit; also on your young lady, who, from what you tell me, must be the smartest little skirt this side of anywhere. I wouldn't mind offering her a good place and good pay when this mixup comes to an end."

"I don't believe she'll be looking for work," said O'Reilly. Then, as Denham darted upon him a shrewd glance, he added: "The lady outside the case will have cause to be grateful, even if her friend doesn't get the pearls."

"Yes," agreed the detective. "Well, this Kit must be pretty sharp, too. It looks as if Churn was her steady. If she did the job at the Westmoreland, it may have been to set him and her up in housekeeping away from Chuff & Co. Looks as if Kit had been used for a catspaw, and maybe hadn't got enough chocolates and flowers out of it for herself. Suddenly she saw a whole dazzling lot. I can't make out who this Kit is as yet; but maybe I will. The way you describe her and her methods makes me think she's new to this burg. Sounds like the Golden West. Your little friend will have to shoot quick if she's after Kit—and after the pearls!"

O'Reilly wanted Clo. She was made for him—the demon and darling! He wouldn't know another happy moment till she was safe. For an instant he forgot Denham and the business in hand.

"That couple will hide," Denham was saying. "Our best hope is in your—in this Miss Riley. Say, now I come to think, didn't I read in the papers a few weeks back about a girl called Clorinda, or some other name that begins with a Clo, being taken up by a society swell"——

"Don't come to think!" O'Reilly cut in.

"I forgot. I won't. My thinker's stopped short."

"No—switch it onto another line," said Justin. "What do you make of the man's voice at the Westmorland that answered 'Come in!' when the girls them days to put the show business on the blink, but something was doing it that season, anyway.

"The bookings that 'Bessie Bell's Boisterous Blondes' got would have given the heartache to the Swiss Bell Ringers. There was a moral wave on because times was hard, and when times is hard rural communities wake up to the fact that their notes is going to protest, and it's time for people to stop enjoying themselves, have a moral awakening and save their money.

"Burlesque shows, which is really mild and harmless, is composed of stout but respectable ladies who 'join out with a burlesque'—as they call it—because they are ducking the temptations and pitfalls of a great city. But, just the same, they couldn't get booked in the first-class theaters of them third-class towns and had to play in trolley park band stands, Odd Fellows' halls and such places. Why? Well, burlesque shows bring in the boobs, because they are supposed to be all girls and ginger. Town Councilmen ask, 'Is this show moral?' And when the advance agent says 'Sure' and winks the other eye, the town Councilmen is all there, but they won't let 'em book in the classic shades of the leading opera house in them burgs.

"When 'Bessie Bell's Boisterous Blondes' reached Marietta, O., on the muddy Muskingum, they found their advance man had only been able to secure Halcyon Hall, a lodge room over Maginnis' Palace Dry Goods Emporium and General Store.

"There was a peephole in the outer door and high-backed chairs all around the hall on a little narrow platform against the wall. These chairs is used to work the offices in secret societies—as you get promoted in the lodges you move up to another chair until you get to the main guy's stool at the top of the hall.

"Puss says that when Charley Face, their advance man, booked them at Halcyon Hall, the lodgeroom over Maginnis' Palace Dry Goods Emporium and General Store, he found the Independent Order of Red Men had just had an initiation night, and a curtain and a stage was still in place at the upper end of the hall. He knew that for the first part of 'Bessie Bell's Boisterous Blondes'—'All Girls, but Oh, My!'—there had to be a trap door through which Puss Montgomery, as the diving Venus, was to make a header from the springboard, and she had lines, too. 'Now, girls, to Neptune's realm I go!' So, you see, it was a real part.

"Well, the janitor of the hall told the advance man, Charley Face, that it was a curious coincidence, but that one part of the Independent Order of Red Men's initiation was where the trembling candidate was made to walk a plank and plunge from the place of mystery to the abyss of oblivion. To make an abyss of oblivion they had cut a hole through the temporary stage and through the floor below that, and, under the ceiling, they had fastened a big dry goods box with the bottom full of sawdust. When the blindfolded candidate had been pushed off the plank from the place of mystery and landed some five feet below in the abyss of oblivion in the hanging dry goods box full of sawdust, the workers of the degree squirted seltzer on him from siphons, lit red fire, which he could see through the bandage over his eyes, groaned and beat a bass drum.

"The janitor offered to work the seltzer bottles and burn the red fire and groan if anybody in the show wanted to plunge from the place of mystery into the abyss of oblivion.

"But Charley Face said the business of that strident scream of merriment, 'The Lobster and the Lady,' that opened 'Bessie Bell's Boisterous Blondes'—'All Girls, but Oh, My!'—sensational show of the season, was different. First, the diving Venus, Miss Puss Montgomery, simply made her Brodie, saying, 'Now, girls, to Neptune's realm I go!' and the Yiddish and Irish comedians were to follow, with comedy high dives, saying, 'Now, girls; down to McGinity's yard we go!' And after the crash and a smoke effect (smoke from the ocean is always a scream) the comedians were to climb out with big red lobsters hanging to them.

"The janitor had the advance man, Charley Face, to have it his own way, but it would pack the house if it was thought imitations of the Red Men's initiations would be given, because the Red Men were the elite jounesse doree of the Marietta machine shops. But Charley Face said his was a big Broadway production, and Klaw & Erlanger didn't let 'em gag a line or interpolate a bit of business that might crab the book, which was by Gagger & Shine, who was writing for the Metropolitan Opera House that season.

"Charley Face counted the big lodge officers' chairs. There was eight of them, four on a side, and he said he'd number these as private boxes and have them sold to any local profligate who wanted to get a spendthrift reputation by paying a dollar each for them. The body of the hall could be filled with undertaker's chairs and the place should seat 400.

"But, as Puss Montgomery used to say herself, and Mamma de Branscombe could tell you, too—because I never would play a No. 2 company, let alone the tanks—there's worse circuits than the natural-gas belt. At least in Marietta you had lights, even in the cheapest show shops like Halcyon Hall, and plenty of them, too. But, believe me, it's different some places. Why, look at the soft-coal circuit—Swope Corners, Pa., Seldom Seen, W. Va., and Morantown, Md. Why, in them towns they let the miners coming home late from work in to see all shows, for nothing. They have the front row full of 'em, with the lamps in their caps lit to take the place of footlights.

"But I was tellin' you about Halcyon Hall and the great scenic and mechanical effects prepared for 'Bessie Bell's Boisterous Blondes'—'All Girls; but Oh, My!'

"Well, they had a good house, nobody getting in for nothing except a local celebrity who never paid to see any of the shows that come to town, because he could kick things off his head for the drinks, and would eat a hundred eggs at a time on a two-bits bet, loser to pay for the eggs. The orchestra in Halcyon Hall was a parlor organ and a colored boy who could play tunes with his teeth. He did this by holding his chin with the thumb and first finger of his left hand, with the second finger and the others on that hand clinched around the thumb of his right hand. Then he'd let his jaw hang loose and clatter his teeth together by wagging his right hand. You've saw them human zylaphones?

"The curtain went up, disclosing the beach at Atlantic City, represented by a mildewed back drop, belonging to the house, showing the Ohio River at sunset.

"Now, girls, to Neptune's realms I go." And down she went, kerplunk!

"Puss' entrance was led up to by the lines: 'Here she comes now, boys! A millionaire's only daughter heiress!'

"The orchestra give a chord on the parlor organ and the colored boy clashed his teeth like castanets.

"Puss' lines was, 'No worthy mate I find, though I have walked beside the sad sea waves the summer long!' Puss was in a red silk bathing suit and was a knockout from her entrance on. Seeing the springboard, Puss evinced surprise and exclaimed: 'What have we here? As I live, the million-dollar pier!' Then she walked out on it, struck a pose and said: 'Now, girls, to Neptune's realms I go!' And down she went, kerplunk!

"There was a rattle of tinware heard far down below and a muffled shriek. Then all was still. Someone had taken away the dry goods box full of sawdust at the bottom of the trap, and Puss had plunged clean through the stage of Halcyon Hall down into the exceptional line of domestic tinware kept by Mr. Maginnis in the back of his Palace Dry Goods Emporium and General Store!

"There was cries of 'Fire!' and 'Save the girl!' Puss Montgomery being out of reach, the audience rushed the stage and saved the other girls.

"The cries of fire brought the nearest hose company and Mr. Maginnis. The police force arrived, too, but he wouldn't let anybody in but such city officials as was already on the scene, and Mr. Maginnis, who had the key, because it was reported by them that had peeked down into the gloomy depths beneath the trap that the lady was sticking headfirst out of a large-size wash boiler.

" 'Somebody's got to pay me for the damage to my stock!' cried Mr. Maginnis, keeping a sharp eye on the Mayor and Poundmaster and police force and other high officials, for fear they'd steal anything. But when strong hands pulled Puss out of the wash boiler and it was seen that her hair puffs had saved her life, Mr. Maginnis gave one look at Puss' face and said: 'Lady, if you have any use for that wash boiler you can have it as a souvenir.'

"Seeing that nobody was killed and there wasn't no fire, room was made for the fire department, the Mayor and city officials and Mr. Maginnis, and the show went on.

"Puss got a big reception every entrance after that and threw a faint every time she come on to denote what a strain she was under, crabbing the whole show and taking every scene away from everybody else.

"After the show Mr. Maginnis took her to dine in his store. They had crackers and cheese and he opened a box of sardines. He told her how much he was worth, mentioned how much it cost him to keep a hired girl since his wife died, and threw his heart at her feet. Puss couldn't see how she could lose, and blushed and whispered 'Yes.'

"But it wasn't that she was rushed off her feet by Mr. Maginnis, at that. He told her he was going to New York to buy goods and would take her with him on their honeymoon. There wasn't nothing desperate Puss Montgomery wouldn't have done to get back to Broadway.

"At that, Puss was warned when he said to her, 'It's only a short walk around to the minister's!' Anbody who can think of anything but wheels at such a time as that must sure be regarding matrimony only as a cautious friendship.

"And yet he must have loved her, loved her with an infatuation that might have meant his loosening up with a liberality that would have afterwards driven him to self-destruction in his shuddering awakening to remorse. But Puss waited till he had time to reflect, and then her ever-loving, wifely efforts to get his hand open came too late.

"As Mamma de Branscombe often said: 'Never marry in haste; wait at least till nightfall and see if he can open wine without flinching, and if he cannot, you may know his is but a passing fancy, and that he does not love you with a Florentine frenzy, which, though it may be brief, cares not what the cost may be!'

"What happened from that on we only know as Puss Montgomery, a blighted bride, sobbed it out to us a month later when she got back to the flat and eased herself into Mamma de Branscombe's red-flowered kimona so that her bruised heart might have room to swell ere yet it burst!

"We wept in sympathetic indignation with her, while she sat there telling of all the heartaches that can be felt by a tender woman who has married a man with money stacked so high and long that the bottom layers are blue-moldy, and who yet expected his bride of a few short hours to either do her own manicuring or let it go by default.

"You can't hurt the feelings of the cautious spendthrifts. Mr. Maginnis' only thought was, while his blighted bride sought shelter beneath the roof of loyal friends, that he was, temporarily at least, spared the cost of her maintenance. For, while Puss Montgomery spent her honeymoon at our flat, he was only being set back the price of room and board at Mills Hotel No. 2. A good room for 30 cents!

"Tied for life to a tightwad, at least till some good man and true would advance her her divorce expenses. For, one thing was sure, Mr. Maginnis would never part from one who, seeing him now in his true light, loathed him unspeakably—as Bertha M. Mudd says—if parting from his bride meant also parting from his money.

"And, mind you, Puss can't get it on him for nonsupport. For he says to her: 'You come live in Marietta,' and she says, 'How can anybody live in a dead town?' So, you see, as he offers to support her if she'll bid by-by to Broadway, she can't do nothing ex-

THE LION'S MOUSE

BY C. N. AND A. M. WILLIAMSON

Authors of "The Lightning Conductor," "The Shop Girl," Etc.

Illustrated by Lee Conrey

THE STORY FROM THE START.

Roger Sands, a New York lawyer, married Beverley White, on agreement that her past should remain a secret, as they were traveling eastward on the Santa Fe Limited. Their otherwise happy home life now has one shadow—Roger's vague jealousy of Congressman Justin O'Reilly, who has already figured during the railway journey from California.

Beverley has rescued and adopted a little Irish girl waif named Clodagh Riley, whom she intrusts with a secret errand to meet a man named Peterson sent from Chicago to receive from Mrs. Sands some important papers in a sealed envelope. Clo delivers the envelope to Peterson, but it proves to contain only blank paper, mysteriously substituted for the original contents. Peterson threateningly demands the desired papers by 10 o'clock that night. Clo, who correctly surmises that Justin O'Reilly has the real documents, contrives to steal them for her "angel," Mrs. Sands, from whom they are again strangely spirited away. At the same time, a costly pearl necklace, a present to Beverley from her husband, disappears. Clo and Beverley, seeking Peterson as the thief, find him murdered by his pals of the underworld, who have escaped with the jewels. Clo sends Beverley home and starts out with the now friendly O'Reilly on a clew which leads to Krantz's Keller. While O'Reilly is telephoning for a detective, the suspects, "Kit" and "Churn,' leave the place, closely folowed by Clo.

CHAPTER XXVI (Continued).

CLO had been gone about four minutes when O'Reilly tore downstairs, burning to apologize and explain. He knew just what he was going to say—how he had felt sure of her trust in him to do what was best; how Mrs. Denham had said that her husband was out, but she knew where he was and would phone to him; how she had assured O'Reilly that if he would hold the line she would have the answer in no time Her idea of "no time" was not his; but he had thought it wise to have patience. Presently he had been rewarded by getting Denham, who, on hearing that he was urgently wanted, promised to cut short some work he was doing late at the office and taxi to Krantz's.

He could not believe his eyes when he saw the deserted table. He stood forlornly for a moment, staring round the room. As his eyes searched vainly, the waiter who had served him came hurrying up.

"The young lady's gone, sare. She had to go—very sorry. She left me dis to give you when you come back. She pay de bill, sare, but I keep de table for you. You not finish your supper?"

O'Reilly sat down at the table in the chair where he had sat before. He found the one pocket in the brown coat, and in that pocket Kit's bag of jet and steel beads. There was nothing else there, so he opened the bag—opened it cautiously, in case some of Kit's friends had arrived. As he did so the folded program dropped out.

CHAPTER XXVII.

WHEN Clo had shut the taxi door almost in Beverley's face and ordered the chauffeur to drive on, she had said to herself:

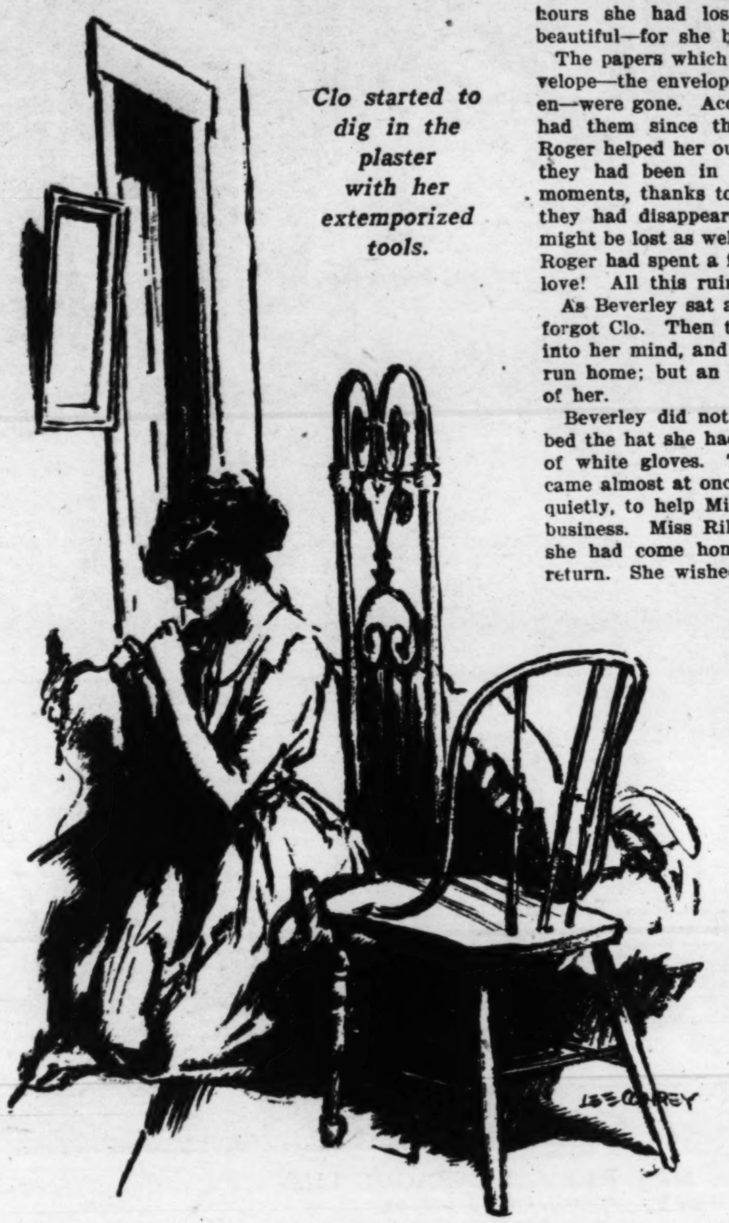
"Angel will be so surprised—she won't know what to do for a minute; and by the time she pulls herself together she'll realize it's too late to stop me."

The girl had judged well. Beverley shrank back from the slammed door with a jump of nerves. Then she guessed what Clo meant to do. Springing up, she tried to lower the window and call the child back; for, of course, it was the wrong window that was open—the one on the off side. The sash stuck. When she had conquered its obstinacy the cab was at least a block away from the Westmorland.

Beverley was in the act of tapping to stop the chauffeur and to tell him to turn, when the question seemed to ask itself aloud in her brain:

"What good will it do to go back?"

Before she could get to Clo, if she returned to the hotel now, the girl would have learned the secret of Peterson's room. She was too devoted, too clearheaded, to give an alarm. When she saw what Beverley had seen, she would say, as Beverley had said: that there was nothing to be done with a dead man. The only thing, Clo would surely conclude, was to slip away and avoid being mixed up in a murder case.



Clo started to dig in the plaster with her extemporized tools.

Beverley was too much overwhelmed by what she had suffered to know whether it was better or worse for her that Peterson should be dead.

Thinking thus, Beverley let the chauffeur drive on. He went to the corner where he had been hailed by his two passengers. There he stopped and Beverley got out. She paid him; and, making a pretense of examining her change in the light of a street lamp, stood still until the taxi had turned and shot out of sight. Then, with the bag of jewels which Clo had tossed in her lap, she walked home.

It was not until her latchkey had opened the door of the apartment and she entered her boudoir that fear sprang at her like a wild animal. She almost fell into a chair, and sat there motionless as the dead Peterson had sat.

It was not much past 10 o'clock. Roger, who had gone out to escape her, would not be back for some time. Perhaps she would not see him again that night.

Only that afternoon she had been happy. She had believed that her past troubles were ended—that one whom she had sacrificed herself to save was now safe. Her mind had been set at ease. The horrible strain was released from a sacred promise, and she could tell her secret to Roger.

Meanwhile, she had often been able to forget, in the happiness he gave her, that she had a secret. She had been living in the sunshine. It was Peterson who had dashed her down into darkness again.

Since the moment when he spoke to her in the street she had lived years. It was incredible that only a few hours had passed—hours which, if she had spent them as usual in shopping, calling, going to play or concert, or receiving Roger's friends and hers, would have drifted away like blowing rose leaves. In those hours she had lost everything that had made life beautiful—for she believed she had lost Roger's love.

The papers which she had supposed safe in their envelope—the envelope whose seals she had never broken—were gone. According to Clo's idea she had never had them since the morning in September when Roger helped her out of the train at Chicago. Perhaps they had been in her possession tonight for a few moments, thanks to Clo; but by her own carelessness they had disappeared. Because they were lost a life might be lost as well. The pearls of a Queen, on which Roger had spent a fortune, were lost, too—and Roger's love! All this ruin in half a dozen hours!

As Beverley sat alone in her boudoir she sometimes forgot Clo. Then the thought of the girl would flash into her mind, and she would long for the "mouse" to run home; but an hour passed and there was no sign of her.

Beverley did not forget to toss carelessly upon her bed the hat she had worn in the afternoon and a pair of white gloves. Then she rang for her maid, who came almost at once. She had gone out, she explained quietly, to help Miss Riley transact a little matter of business. Miss Riley had decided to stop longer, but she had come home early in case Mr. Sands should return. She wished to be put into her dressing gown and to have her hair brushed; then Leontine could go to bed.

It was 11:30 when the maid bade her mistress good-night.

The instant Beverley was left alone she became a different woman. It was only by holding herself in leash that she had been able to sit still, her face calm, her eyes closed, while Leontine brushed her hair. Freed from restraint, she ran to the door and peeped out.

Leontine had disappeared. There was only one light in the hall—the red-shaded lamp that the butler lit to burn all night when the others were extinguished. This meant that Roger would be out late and had instructed Johnson not to wait up.

Ever since she came home Beverley had not ceased to listen for the sound of doors opening or shutting; but it was not her husband that she expected. She had hoped to hear Clo, for the girl had no key—and must ring.

Beverley realized that something serious—perhaps something terrible—had detained the girl.

Beverley was in her own room, though not in bed, when Roger returned about 1 o'clock. Her light being out, he no doubt supposed that she was asleep, and moved quietly, as if to avoid disturbing her; but she heard the cautious closing of his door and afterward a faint sound now and then. Whether she feared that he would, or that he would not, open her door and peep softly in, she did not know. It was well not to have to parry questions, or try to answer them; and yet Beverley felt that she would give all the rest of her life—all save a few happy hours in Roger's love and confidence—to see him, to hear his voice, to have him hold her in his arms.

Beverley did not sleep during what was left of the night. She did not try or wish to sleep. She only lay on her bed, waiting for day.

After 6 o'clock Beverley could lie still no longer. She stole into her bathroom and bathed in cold water.

"Strange I don't show how I feel!" she thought, staring into the mirror.

She forgot that she was young, only 23, and that it is only after 30 that a woman pays for a night of anguish by showing a haggard face the next day.

This morning Beverley had not the heart to try and win Roger back by any trick of coquetry. She did penance by putting on a tailor-made white linen suit of a rather severe cut, and made her toilet without ringing for Leontine. She decided to breakfast at the customary hour and in the customary place, but she did not expect to be joined by Roger. She thought that he would purposely show his displeasure by ordering a solitary meal in the dining room and leaving the house with no more than a formal word of farewell.

MAJ. FRANCESCO BARACCA, Italian, 42 planes.

FROM out the welter of the war, surpassing all others in hideous squalor as well as in dimensions and destructiveness, there emerged two possibilities for those instances of individual glory which have invested all previous wars with a glamour of romance. These lay in the invasion of combat into two entirely new elements, the depths of the sea and the heights of the air. Submarine warfare, as waged by the Germans with abominable savagery to noncombatants, has led the world to look upon its practitioners as infamous villains instead of heroes. The Zeppelins, useless for combat purposes, won the stigma of assassins through their indiscriminate slaughter of civilians, women and children. The same was true of the bombing planes which rained ruin upon open cities.

Public sentiment saw from the first that the chivalry of battle survived in our age only in the warriors of the combat airplanes. Here, in modern times, were paladins as far surpassing Roland and the Cid as these excelled the Hottentot spearman—knights mounted upon dragons of steel which bore them to invisible reaches of the sky with the speed of the enchanted steed of the Arabian Nights, there to find victory or death.

The sense that they were representatives of the age of chivalry at first animated the air fighters on both sides, to a degree that shone like the sun against the somber bitterness of warfare on land and sea. Allied and German aviators exchanged individual challenges and fought single combats; captured foes were treated with honorable courtesy; enemies who were slain were buried with military honors and their graves sympathetically marked.

The United States, France, Italy and Germany gave the greatest publicity to the feats of their airmen; only in England did they remain for the most part anonymous. Thus it results that the names of many airmen have become household words all over the globe, and chief among them are those Richards Coeur de Lion of the sky, the "aces."

The United States, entering the war belatedly, found one "ace" already awaiting its roster of honor in the person of Gervaise Raoul Lufbery of Wallingford, Conn., who was the first American to enlist in the French flying service, and who had long been the premier ace of the Lafayette Escadrille. He had been a soldier in the Spanish-American War and an adventurer in all parts of the world. In Indio-China he became acquainted with an itinerant aviator, Maurice Poupre, who taught him to fly. They were in France when the war broke out and enlisted, Poupre as a flyer and Lufbery as a mechanic. The former was killed and his pupil obtained permission to become an aviator to avenge his friend. He was officially credited with his eighteenth German plane when he was killed in battle on May 18, 1918. He had attained the rank of Major in the American flying force.

Lufbery's good record was surpassed in a much shorter time by Capt. Edward V. Rickenbacker of Columbus, O., who is officially credited with bringing down 26 enemy planes. Prior to the war Rickenbacker was a famous daredevil among drivers of racing automobiles, and for a time was Gen. Pershing's chauffeur in France. He obtained a transfer to the air service because he thought motoring in the war zone was "too slow," and quickly took first place among American flyers. He declares that he had no especial system of air fighting, and that his victories were "60 per cent luck." He recently returned to this country.

France's "ace of aces" is Lieut. Rene Fonck, who, when the war ended, was credited officially with destroying 70 German planes, and whose actual tally was 109. A few weeks before the armistice he brought down four planes in 20 minutes, on the same day. His most amazing exploit occurred in August of last year, when, single-handed, he attacked four German planes and sent three of them down in flames in 20 seconds. In another battle he brought down six planes. Fonck has declared that he relied upon using stronger will power than his opponents. One of his elements of strategy was to dive into the midst of a squadron of enemies, who would be handicapped by their numbers in maneuvering, and in their shooting by fear of hitting one another. Lieut. Fonck plans soon to visit the United States, in company with Lieut. Nungesser.

The most romantic figure in French aviation was the late Capt. Georges Guynemer, who was only 21 years old when he was killed in September, 1917. The story has often been told of how he was rejected five times on attempting to enlist in the army, and how he was told that he was too fragile in physique to make a soldier. The flying corps finally took him on, and he speedily arose to be a national idol. He received a tremendous demonstration on marching at the head of the aviation section in Paris on the French national holiday, the July 14 before he was killed. He wore the Cross of the Legion of Honor, the Military Medal, the War Cross and almost every other honor his country could bestow. One of his spectacular achievements was shooting down three German planes in two minutes and 30 seconds. Guynemer always hunted alone, acting as his own pilot and gunner. He was counted a most deadly marksman with the machine gun. His record was 50 enemy planes destroyed.

England's premier ace was Capt. William A. Bishop

CAPT. JAMES BYFORD McCUDDEN, British, 54 planes.

The late BARON VON RICHTHOFEN, 78 planes.

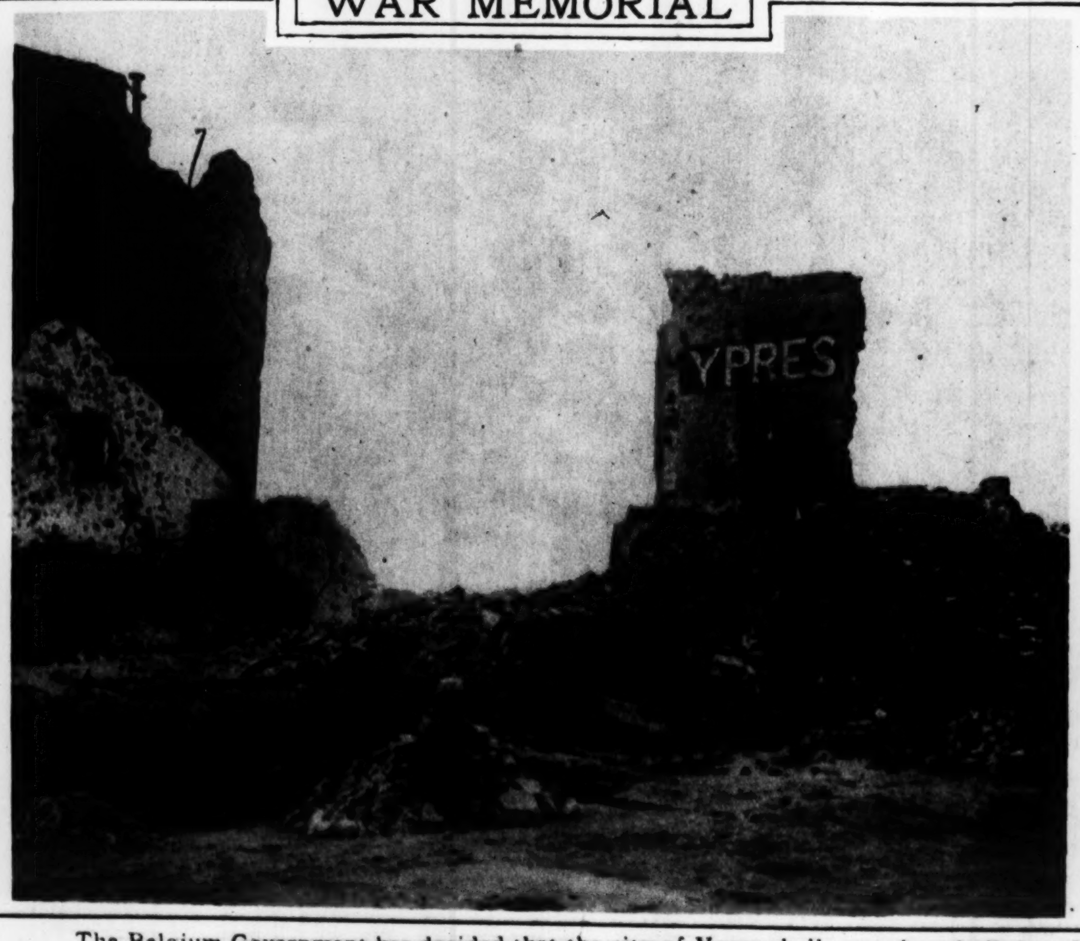
RUINS OF YPRES TO BE PERMANENT WAR MEMORIAL



The Belgium Government has decided that the city of Ypres shall never be rebuilt but that it shall remain as it is today so that future generations can see the destruction wrought in the great world war. At left, all that is left of the celebrated Cloth Hall, once one of Europe's architectural gems; at right, airplane view of the city, showing that nothing stands but battered shells of former homes and public buildings.

THE PHOTO WILL MAKE YOU LOOK LIKE YOU WERE IN A REAL CAR, SIR!
IF THE PHOTO LOOKS LIKE THE REAL THING I'LL TAKE A DOZEN. I WANT TO MAIL ONE TO MY WIFE!
CLICK
QUITE A NOVELTY, EH? YOU CAN SHOW IT TO YOUR FRIENDS AND TELL 'EM IT'S YOU IN YOUR NEW CAR!
THAT'S CERTAINLY GREAT. IT WOULD FOOL ANY ONE!
LISTEN, CICERO! HERE'S A PHOTO-POSTAL FROM THE OLD MAN. HE SAYS:—"Dear Wifey: This is me in my new car. Some class, eh?"
IT LOOKS LIKE A FINE CAR, TOO.
LET ME TAKE A SLANT AT IT
HELLO, DEAR! I'M GLAD TO BE HOME AGAIN!
SWEETHEART! WELL OF ALL SURPRISES! IS YOUR CAR OUTSIDE?
SHAKE, POP!
YOU SAY ONE OF THE TIRES BLEW-OUT? ISN'T THAT A SHAME. HOW SOON WILL IT BE REPAIRED?
IF YOU'LL LET ME HAVE TWENTY DOLLARS OF MY OWN MONEY I'LL BUY A NEW TIRE. IT'S A WASTE OF MONEY TO HAVE A BLOWN-OUT TIRE REPAIRED!
SOME CLASS TO US NOW
TWENTY DOLLARS! FINE!! THIS IS THE FIRST REAL MONEY I'VE HANDLED FOR A MONTH. I WONDER IF A LITTLE GAME'S ON.
I CERTAINLY FOOLED THE OLD GIRL!
SIR. SIDNEY
HOW DO YOU DO, MRS. MUTT! IS MR. MUTT IN? I DROPPED AROUND TO SHOW HIM A PHOTO OF ME IN MY NEW CAR!
HELLO JEFF! I'M SORRY BUT MUTT LEFT JUST A MINUTE AGO. LET ME SEE THE PHOTO, JEFF!
BUT JEFF IT LOOKS LIKE A REAL CAR!
OF COURSE IT DOES BUT IT'S ONLY A "DUMMY" AUTO THE PHOTOGRAPHER HAS IN HIS GALLERY. I WANTED TO FOOL MR. MUTT!
A CLEVER IDEA, I CALLS IT. DON'T TELL MR. MUTT IT'S ONLY A FAKE PICTURE. I WANT TO MAKE HIS HAIR CURL WITH ENVY!
MA, DO YOU WANT THIS?
MAYBE I'M WRONG IN BEING SUSPICIOUS OF MUTT BUT IF HE'S REALLY GOT A CAR I'LL APOLOGIZE TO HIM ON MY KNEES!
YEAH! IT'S ONLY ONE OF THOSE TRICK AUTOS BUT SHE FELL FOR IT GREAT. TOMORROW I'LL TELL HER THE CAR NEEDS PAINTING AND GET SOME MORE OF MY MONEY!
IT'S FROM YOUR WIFE, MUTT. SHE WRITES THAT IT'S A PICTURE OF HER TAKEN IN YOUR NEW CAR.
